Adam Harpold was born May 2, 1757 and died 1806. His father, Nicholas, was born 1735, arrived from Germany at Philadelphia October 28, 1738 on the ship "Belinder Thistle" with his parents John Adam and Anna Barbara Harpold and four brothers: Paul, Jacob, Adam and Henry. This ship sailed from Rotterdam, Holland, and there is a possibility that the Harpold (Harpole) family spent some time in Holland after leaving the Palantinate of the Rhine of Germany. Nicholas was in Pendleton County, Virginia (now West Virginia) in 1763.

PAUL BROWN HARRIS

The Harris family of Ravenswood has a history of contributions to life in Jackson County, with family members who have included educators, businessmen, legal and civic leaders.

Current county residents of the Harris family include Paul Brown Harris and his daughter, Linda Harris Reynolds. Paul Brown, known as P. B., resides on Sycamore Street with his wife, Jo Ann, whom he married in 1977. P. B. graduated from Ravenswood High in 1940, where he played football and basketball. After serving four years in the U.S. Navy, he married Freda Milhoan (1926-1975) in 1946. Their two daughters, Linda and Judith Harris Walker, both graduated from Ravenswood High. Linda lives in Murfreesville and Judy lives in Bedford, Va.

P. B. owned and operated the Western Auto Store in Ravenswood from 1963-73. Before that he was in the wholesale egg business, which was established by his father, Paul Bernard Harris. He was active in the Volunteer Fire Department and the Masons, and he served as an elder in the First Presbyterian Church.

Paul Bernard Harris (1890-1959) married Rachel Brown Harris (1891-1965). In addition to P. B., they had one other child, Nellie Mae. Nell has lived in Tappahannock, Va., since her marriage to Edgar Burrough. Paul was an organizer of Ravenswood's Volunteer Fire Department, and served as chief from the early 1930s until 1957. He was a member of Town Council for 21 years. Rachel served as organist for over 50 years for the Presbyterian Church, and she organized the Ravenswood Navy Mothers Club and was the group's first president. Other Ravenswood HARRISES at this time included Paul's sisters, Selma I. Harris (1888-1969) and Mae Harris (1897-1971). Selma and Mae were both school teachers.

Ancestors of both Paul and Rachel lived in Jackson County. Paul's father, Franklin P. Harris (c. 1862-1902), was an assistant state superintendent of free schools and editor of the West Virginia School Journal. He was the guiding force, possibly the president, of the Ohio Valley College which was moved from Mason City to Ravenswood in 1898. Construction of a new building for the college was underway when F. P. died after falling from scaffolding while inspecting a new residence.

Rachel's family includes her great-grandfather Ephraim Wells, for whom Wells Street was named. Ephraim was a pioneer flat boatman, a justice of the peace and county court member. In 1836 Ephraim bought 1,225 acres of Ravenswood land from George Washington's ancestors. This land stayed in the family until most was sold in 1943 to Boso and Ritchie, Inc. Ephraim's daughter, Anna (1831-1896), married Judge Robert Brown (1827- c. 1891), for whom Brown Street was named. Judge Brown was prosecuting attorney for Wirt, Roane and Jackson Counties for 12 years. He was judge of the circuit court for one term and was state senator in 1881.

Rachel's father, Ephraim Wells Brown (1854-1929), was president of the Board of Education

Rachel (Brown) and Paul B. Harris

when the old Ravenswood Grade School was built. He served on the Board for 17 years.

Elwood Street was named for Rachel's brother, Elwood Emmons Brown (1892-1944). Submitted by Judy Walker and Linda Reynolds

REUBEN HARRISON

As told to me by my mother Jurusha Elizabeth Slater Creel when she was 84:

According to family legends, the Harrisons and other families left the eastern part of Virginia by ox-cart and on horseback and traveled west to the two rivers, the Elk and Kanawha, then by a hand-made barge went down the Kanawha to the forks of the Pocatalico river. They were sick, one died; decided they had traveled far enough, so went up the river Pocatalico to settle Goldtown. Why that name we do not know. Was gold found in the rocks there? The original settlers of Goldtown were the Harrisons, Goodes, Hatchers and DeWeese's, among others.

Great great grandfather Reuben Harrison, from the Harrisons of Rockingham County of Virginia, and his wife Sarah Elizabeth Goode, daughter of John Goode and Miss Gibbs, established a halfway house for travelers between Ripley and Charleston where weary travelers could find peace and rest. Reuben also had a post office at Goldtown after the Civil War.

His son, my great-grandfather, General William Henry Harrison, went into the Civil War at the age of 16. He enlisted in an Ohio company as a Union man, was a prisoner for a short time, but had typhoid fever and was exchanged. General (his given name) Harrison married Jurusha Hatcher, daughter of Uriah Hatcher and Matilda Edens, in 1868. Among other jobs he carried mail for his father and traveled by horseback on his route but used a two-seater "Mail Hack" in good weather.

One of General Harrison's children, my grandmother, called Ida Harrison (named Louisa Lorenda Kathryn), born in 1873, married Elkanah Norris Slater at Fair Plains, WV, after she had graduated from Ripley Teachers College in 1891.

Grandfather Elkanah Slater (called Caney) was a farmer and raised cattle, tobacco and produce. He had a store at Frogs Creek, Putnum County, and later worked at Kellys Ax Factory and a glass factory in Charleston. He and grandmother raised seven children, William, Jurusha, Rome, Opie Vernon, Esta, Zina and Irma. Grandfather Elkanah Slater and his brothers built the first school house at Trace Fork near Goldtown and paid the teacher the big salary of $36 a month for six months of the year. Elkanah Norris Slater was the son of William Elkanah Slater and Elizabeth Fisher, daughter of George Fisher and Frances Lanham. William Elkanah Slater's father was John Slater, and mother, Mary (Polly) Kelley. They are all buried in the Allen's Fork Slater/Fisher cemetery.

Mother, Jurusha Elizabeth Slater, was born in 1900 at Goldtown. She could read at age four and for years spelled down everyone in her classes, even children twice as old as she was. She did not mind walking the long miles to school because it was so much fun for her. Her first job was at the glass factory at the age of 15. She married my father, Samuel Henry Creel (1878-1942) in 1919. He was the son of Edwin Creel and Amy Alice Stephens, daughter of William Stephens, Jr. and Nancy Lockhart, all of Wirt and Wood Counties.

Father had returned from overseas in World War I and was very active in the affairs of veterans and the placing of them in industries, and was hired by the new Veterans Administration in Charleston. He was the first Commander of the "Veterans of Foreign Wars" of West Virginia.

Our family moved to Washington, D.C. during the depression of 1930. Father was in the Veterans Administration and upon his death in 1942, mother went to work for the VA until her retirement. Mother died, Mar. 10, 1990, and was a wonderful example of endurance, survival and courage to her family. I have devoted my retiring years to the research of my remarkable pioneer ancestors of West Virginia. I am proud to be a "West Virginian."

The following poem was recited at school by my Mother, Jurusha Elizabeth Slater, in 1908 at the age of 8 years.

I came to see my Grandma
one cold Thanksgiving Day,
I shook and chattered all along the way.
Grandma had been knitting and so I tried to knit, got hold of the wrong thread and undid it, every bit.

Next day I tried to tackle a piggy for a horse;
I fell into the pigpen,
Phew, wasn't Grandma cross?
I'm sure I wasn't to blame,
'cause my new dress was white
if Mama had made it pink
It wouldn't have showed a mite.

Grandma had a milk house, filled up with pans of milk.
One day I let in Kitty,
she's just as soft as silk.
and Kitty liked the thick cream
the best of everything.

I set her down beside a pan you ought to heard her sing.
She's awfully funny Kitty, along the shelf she ran and with her little nosey made blue holes in every pan.
But Grandma's awfully stingy
she drives us both away and said she'd mind to send me home afore another day.

Sometimes Kitty's naughty
one day she caught a mouse.
She shook and teased and bited it all around the house.

I hit her with the tater masher every time she would turn,
I got away poor mousey and hid him in the churn.
Who ever thought that cream would drown

I thought t'was only rivers but when my Grandma churned next day, that mouse had turned to slivers.
They fed the butter to a pig they putted me to bed and they spanked poor Kitty awful right in her pretty head.

One day I see's a tub of milk
we keeps ours in a dish.
I thought t'was good for nothing and so I'd catch some fish.
I just got settled down my feet were pretty nigh freeze when in came Grandma screaming
"Oh that gal is in my cheese"
She dumped me out, I'll tell you right on the cold stone floor she called my new boots dirty and locked the dairy door.

Now I've been awfully good to Grandma ain't raised a speck of dust.

I'm going home tomorrow
'cause Grandma says I must. Submitted by Alice Creel

EDWARD HARTLEY

Edward Hartley was born in Harrison County, Ohio, the sixth child of Christopher Hartley (1774-1861) and Mary Holden Hartley, (1780-1864) of Otley, Yorkshire, England. His three older sisters, Sarah, Ellen, Margaret Ann and his brother Thomas were born in England. Edward and Elizabeth, are buried at Flatwoods Church Cemetery, Jackson County, WV.

Christopher Hartley traveled to Harrison County, Ohio in 1819 and settled a half-section of land along the Dining Fork Creek near the present town of Scio. In 1820, the family joined him. They traveled in a four-horse-team wagon from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. The mother and older children walked as the luggage and smaller children were all that could be accommodated in the wagon.

Christopher and Mary's children were: Sarah, (1805-1887) married Thomas Fox; Ellen (1806-1853) married Joseph Harrison; Margaret Ann (1814-?) married Jonathan Markley; Thomas (1815-1904) married Lydia Tomlinson; William (1823-?) never married; Edward (1824-1913) married Elizabeth Tomlinson; Jane (1830-1929) never married. Christopher and Mary Hartley are buried at Scio, Ohio — all their children settled near Scio except Edward and Thomas who moved to Jackson County, Virginia, now West Virginia.

Elizabeth Tomlinson was born in Harrison County, Ohio in the same area as the Hartleys lived.

Edward Hartley, (1824-1913)

The children of the valley attended Creal School as did a small blond-haired boy named George Armstrong Custer who grew to fame in the Civil War and died at the Battle of the Little Big Horn.

Elizabeth's parents, Nancy and Thomas Tomlinson, had come to the Dining Fork valley from Maryland and reared five children: Lydia, George, Jane, Elizabeth and Henry. Lydia married Edward's brother, Thomas, so their children were double first cousins.

The Edward Hartleys' settled on a farm south of Ravenswood where they built a beautiful home

Elizabeth (Tomlinson) Hartley, (1834-1902)

with some unusual features. Edward was an expert cabinet maker, carpenter and blacksmith. He had a blacksmith-carpenter shop in Ravenswood on the bank of Sand Creek about where the old iron bridge crossed. His cabinet making and carpentry skills were evident in his home which featured among other things, a mantel in the parlor with a carved grape vine trailing around it. This mantel is now in the home of a great grandson, Dale Hartley, Kingston, Missouri.

The really unusual feature of this three-story home though, was that you could walk out on the ground from each of the three floors. The house was built against a cliff with a large field at the back of the house outside the third story backdoor. Years later, the oldest child, Jane, living in a sod house in the flat state of Kansas and homesick for her West Virginia home, dreamed of building her own home like it. Eventually she did just that. She had a hill constructed and built a large three-story home against it so she could walk out from two floors! But never a blade of grass or tree would grow around her house because the good soil had been dug away to make the hill!

When Jane got too old and arthritic to climb the stairs in her big house, she would go outside and around and up the hill and in the second-story door to have her granddaughter play her favorite record of a steamboat whistling. Then she'd tell stories of her childhood — of steamboats on the Ohio River and of her father swimming the horses across the river and hiding them there when he heard that Morgan's Raiders were in the vicinity.

During the Civil War, Edward Hartley belonged to the Home Guard. Food was scarce and people were afraid to leave their homes. Raiders and renegade soldiers might be anywhere. To obtain meal, he would travel to a mill near Poca River in Kanawha County. Taking pack horses, he would leave at night and go through the woods, avoiding roads. The trip would take two or three days and Elizabeth and the children would hide the farm animals in the woods while he was gone.

The oldest son, Thomas, told of helping his father bring the first flock of Merino sheep to this area. They drove them from Harrison County, Ohio, over 100 miles, and carried them across the rattle on the Ohio River at the Buffington Island ford above Ravenswood. In later years, when Thomas married and had his own farm, he always raised Merino sheep.

The Edward Hartleys' eight children were:

Jane Clementine (1854-1931) married Albert Rowan (1850-1903), moved to Kansas. Their children: Charles Madison (1883-1959); Benjamin Harrison (1885-1888); Nannie Anne (1887-1931); Edith Ellen (1889-); Albert Ross (1892-1967); Chestina Averil (1896-1964) Thomas (1856-1933) married Mary Carr (1860-1934), settled on Cow Run, Jackson County, WV, buried in Antioch Cemetery. Their children: Cora Isabelle (1879-1957); Raymond Edward (1890- 1960); Lena (adopted) (1896-).

John (1858-1930) married Chestina Sherman (1865-1939) settled in Missouri. Their children: Roy (1892-1966); Reuben (1896-); Raymond (1900-); Hazel (1902-).

Philip (1860-1941) married Jennie Sigmund (-1945), settled in Missouri, moved to California in 1904. No children.

Virginia (1862-1932) married Millard Rogers (1857-1937), lived in Kansas and Missouri, moved to Montana in 1918. Children: Olive (1881-1967); Greek (1884-1983); Edward (1886-1968); John (1888-1955); Howard (1890-1960); Pearl (1894-1989); Homer (1900-1963).

Edward (1867-??) disappeared between 1911-1913. He was a civil engineer and traveled in the west and in Mexico. He was reported to have married a Spanish lady and had a son living in Sacramento, California. He visited West Virginia about 1902 and showed off his expertise with his six shooters by shooting walnuts thrown into the air by his nephew, Raymond (Ray) Hartley.

Myrtle (1874-1943) married Hugh McCoy (1871-1950), buried Flatwoods Cemetery. Children Leona (1897-1919); Mary (1906-1983).

Rufus Putnam (1875-1910), never married, drowned. Buried at Flatwoods Cemetery.

Besides being a farmer, our grandfather could be described as being "a man of many trades." He did blacksmith work, tanned hides, wove baskets and was proud of his Shorthorn breed of cattle.

Very early in the 1900s, he built a dam across a small stream near his house. In the rainy seasons he had enough water power to operate the mill he had built. He would grind meal, flour and feed for the people of the community. Here he also had a turning lathe run by water power.

At one time the Huntsville, W.Va. postoffice was in his home.

He helped roof the first Antioch Church, built in 1883, with clapboard shingles made of yellow poplar.

He delighted in wearing his homemade wooden shoes and his fur coat of many colors, that he had made from cat skins he had tanned, to Ripley.

In 1935 he sold the farm to his only son, John, and he and his wife, Laura, moved to Cottageville, W. Va. where they spent their last days. He took with him a school bell and he would get up early in the morning and ring this bell to awaken the people of Cottageville. He gave this bell to his nephew, Charles Hartley, and it is now at Jackson's Mill, near Weston, W.Va.

Our grandparents died 18 days apart and are buried in Blaine Memorial Cemetery near Cottageville, W. Va.

STEPHEN A. HARTLEY

Stephen Hartley (1856-1953) son of Thomas and Lydia Tomlinson Hartley, married August 22, 1883 to Victoria King (1862-1939), daughter of Francis and Ruth Baremore King. They established their home on a 100 acre farm known as the "Harpold Place," situated on the right hand fork of Cow Run, just about half way between the Thomas Hartley and Francis King homesteads. They reared to maturity a family of five boys and two girls. An eight child, a twin boy to the second child, William, died at age of four years.

Responding to the influence of their school teacher mother and the kind and gentle cooperation of their hard working father, five of these seven children graduated from college. This was unusual for a Jackson County farm family in that period from 1901 through 1925.

Charles, the oldest (1884-1961) graduated from W. Va. Wesleyan College in 1908, and was a high school teacher and principal for four years and in 1912 was elected Jackson County's representative to the State Legislature. In 1913 he became associated with West Virginia University College of Agriculture and for the next 45 years was an influential leader in the 4-H program and other rural development programs. He married Ruth Miller of Chambersburg, Pa. in 1914 and to them were born three children: Charles Henry, Jr., Robert and Marjorie. Marjorie died suddenly in 1940 at age 18.

William, (1887-1984), graduated from W. Va. Wesleyan in 1911 and spent the rest of his business life with Robart Mfg. Co., Troy, Ohio. He married Derry Perine of Salem, W. Va., in 1916 and to them were born two children, Richard and Helen.

THOMAS HARTLEY

Our great, great grandfather, Thomas Hartley, born 11 October 1815 in England son of Christopher and Mary (Holden) Hartley came to the United States in 1820 with his family. They settled in Harrison Co. Ohio near Scio.

Because the family was large and the support meager, Thomas, at the age of thirteen, went to live with his sister, Ellen, who had married a Joseph Harrison. To reward Thomas for his help during these eight years, Mr. Harrison offered him a horse, saddle and bridle or the assistance in securing land from the Federal Government in Ohio. He accepted the land gift which was in Mercer County, practically across the state of Ohio.

On the 11th October 1849 in Harrison Co., Ohio, Thomas married Lydia Tomlinson (12 February 1826 — 13 September 1898) a sister to Elizabeth that married his brother, Edward.

It appears that Thomas and Lydia preferred upland to low lying level land as on 9 November 1849 the Ohio land was sold. In 1853-1854 they bought land and moved to the Cow Run section of Jackson County, Virginia, now West Virginia. Here they lived and reared a family of eight in a log house. About 1880 they built a large frame house. (This house was struck by lightning on July 8, 1939 and burned when John Hartley, a grandson, was living there). Lydia was known for her spinning and weaving of wool and flax into cloth. Both were very community minded. In 1881 they deeded land to trustees for the Antioch Church to be built on. From 1872 to 1893, Thomas Hartley was postmaster of the Huntsville postoffice.

Thomas died 12 December 1904 and was buried beside his wife in Cherry Grove Cemetery

They established their home on a farm adjoining both the Kings and Hartleys. Both buried in Cherry Grove Cemetery near the graves of their parents. 7. George (16 May 1861 — 13 October 1864). Buried in Otterbein Cemetery near Evans, W. Va.
8. Henry T. (14 September 1864 — 11 July 1946) married 11 May 1888 Laura Fenimore (5 March 1863 — 11 July 1946) daughter of Thomas and Lelia (Greenlee) Fenimore. They took over the farm of his father, Thomas, and there reared a family of six children: Lucy, Ruth, Edna, Ivy, John and Grace. In 1935 they sold the farm to their only son, John, and moved to Cottageville where they lived until their death 1946. They are buried in Blaine Memorial Cemetery near Cottageville, W. Va.

Our grandfather, John Hartley, (1903-1982) the only son of Henry T. Hartley married 30 October 1926 Josephine Marie Sayre (1905-1957) daughter of Elmer and Mary Jane (Stewart) Sayre. They made their home in Cottageville where he run the Cottageville Mill and had a feed store. In 1935 they moved back to the farm on Cow Run. Here they lived in the farm house built by his grandfather, Thomas, until it was struck by lightning in July of 1939. He rebuilt in the same location and lived here until 1946 when he sold the farm to a Mr. Shinn and bought the adjoining farm from his Uncle Stephen Hartley. (Our Uncle Martin now owns the Stephen Hartley farm). Grandfather served on the Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service of Jackson Co. for several years and was a well known and respected farmer. In 1979 our father, Landon Hartley, acquired the farm and we are now the fifth generation of Hartley's to be farming the land once owned by Thomas Hartley. The barn built by Thomas over 100 years ago is still in use.

After our grandmother passed away our grandfather married in 1960 Eula Coleman. Submitted by Charles Hartley and Jason Hartley

THOMAS E. AND MARY (CARR) HARTLEY

Thomas was the oldest son of Edward and Elizabeth (Tomlinson) Hartley. Thomas and wife, Mary (Carr) Hartley, are buried in Antioch Cemetery, Cow Run, Cottageville, Jackson Co. WV.

Mary's parents were William and Isabella (Burns) Carr. The Carrs were married in Clarion Co., PA, Sept. 10, 1839. The parents of William, John and Sarah (Wilton) Carr came to the United States in 1810. William was born in Lycoming Co., PA., Nov. 14, 1814. His parents are buried in PA as are Isabella's parents, Robert and Sarah (Turner) Burns. Isabella was born in Mifflin Co., PA, March 23, 1821. Isabella's father was related to the poet, Robert Burns, and through her mother, Isabella, was a second cousin of President James K. Polk.

William and Isabella left eight children buried in Jefferson Co. PA and came to Jackson Co. WV in 1868, hoping to find a healthier climate. Their four children who lived to adulthood were Lavina (Rand) 1850-1909; Susan (Bibbee) 1854-1929; Joseph 1855-1928, married Hattie Jones 1852-1918 and Mary.

Thomas and Mary (Carr) Hartley bought a farm on Cow Run from his cousin, Christopher Hartley, and there they lived the rest of their lives. Mary was a main member of the nearby Antioch Church where she played the organ and rarely missed a service. "Tom" was a hard working farmer and carpenter and well thought of in the community. His grandchildren adored him because he always took time to do things with them. This was rare in those days when families had to work long and hard to survive.

Thomas and Mary (Carr) Hartley's three children were: Cora Isabella; Raymond Edward; and

Thomas E. Hartley

Lena.

Cora Isabella 1879-1957 married Wilbur Ball 1872-1926. They are buried in Pleasant View Church Cemetery, Jackson, Co., WV. JOHN WESLEY AND MARGARET (FARLEY) HARTSHORNE

My g-g-g grandparents, John Wesley Hartshorne and Margaret Farley, his wife, were both born about 1813, Margaret in Virginia, but no knowledge as to birthplace of John Wesley, or as to the name of his parents. Margaret was the daughter of Andrew Farley and Sarah Farley (they were first cousins). This couple resided in Monroe County, Ohio, where their children of record were born: Rebecca, Martha, William Wallace, Jacob, Jane, John and Sarah.

John Wesley Hartshorne died in 1845, and Court of Common Pleas records in Monroe County as of June 1845 indicate that Samuel Hartshorne was appointed to administer his estate when Margaret declined to do so. We assume that Samuel may have been a brother of John Wesley.

We are not sure when Margaret moved to Jackson County, but on 3 June 1858, her daughter, Maria Jane Hartshorne, was married to Hezekiah Jackson of Jackson County.

My descent from Hezekiah and Maria Jane is through their daughter, Mary Martha Everetta ("Evie") who on 8 April 1880, was married to Eli Neptune of Sandyville, Jackson County, in the Neptune line down through my father, Everett Brown Neptune, Jr. (See related histories John Neptune, and Hezekiah Jackson). WAYNE E. HATCHER

Wayne Elijah Hatcher, my grandfather, was born June 25, 1923 at Kentuck, Jackson County to Roscoe Napoleon and Icie Belle (Williams) Hatcher. His twin brother, Wallace Napoleon Hatcher, died five years later on January 15, 1928. Wayne and his ten brothers and sisters grew up in the same house that their father, Roscoe, was raised. Wayne was 21 when he married Mabel Maxine Jones in 1945 in Akron, Ohio where they were both working at the time.

Mabel was born September 21, 1923 to George Washington and Bertha (Gandee) Jones in Roane County, WV. She had one brother and three sisters. Her time at home was spent helping her mother with the cooking, cleaning and washing. She remembers walking to the little church and the one-room school. Going to see some of those buildings that still stand is one of her favorite hobbies. She and I sometimes take a picnic lunch and spend the whole day taking pictures in the country.

Wayne is now retired from Kaiser Aluminum in Ravenswood, Jackson County and spends more time on his farm. He takes care of the family cemetery at Kentuck. The cemetery is on the hill above where his boyhood home once stood. The land is overgrown with brush where he once played as are many of the old roads of Kentuck. He can still see how it used to be. What a beautiful sight it would be to see what he sees in his memories.

Wayne and Mabel's children are:

- Vera Mac Hatcher was born December 30, 1945. She married Thornton Earl Smith (b. August 24, 1946) on August 21, 1976. He is the son of Thornton Earl and Dollie Irene (Davis) Smith. Vera and Thornton live and work in Wood County with their children

 - Steven Wayne Hatcher was born September 6, 1951. He married Melissa Dawn Fox (b. August 14, 1957) on November 4, 1978. She is the daughter of Claudette Shaver and Blake Fox. Steve and Melissa reside outside Memphis, Tennessee with their daughters Whitney Dawn and Kendra Dale.

JOSEPH HAYWARD

Joseph Asbury and Ann Hayward came to the Ohio Valley from near Baltimore, Maryland sometime in the 1820s. They lived in Meigs Co. OH across from Ravenswood, in 1827 when their daughter, Julie, was born.

Joseph Hayward entered 150 A. of land in Jackson Co. Va. by virtue of a part of two land offices Treasure Warrants dated March 19, 1830, on Nesselroad Fork near the mouth of Red Brush Creek, then called Isaac's Run. By purchase and patent rights, he acquired 521 acres of land on Nesselroad and Red Brush Creek. Record of these transactions may be found in Patent Book No. 1 in the Jackson County Court House, Ripley, WV.

The names of the parents of Joseph and Ann Hayward are unknown. Media Research Bureau of Washington, D.C. gives the names of John and Francis Hayward, brothers. They came from England to York and James Counties, Virginia in 1635. In 1639 Francis Hayward moved to Maryland and had two sons, Francis and John. Joseph Hayward may be a descendant of this family, but this remains unproven.

Family tradition says that the Haywards traveled with a large group of people when they came west, but that no relatives came with them. They could not sell their old grey horse so it was left in the field near their home. A boy named Thomas Sewell came with them. He was an orphan that was found wandering along the shore of the Chesapeake Bay. Thomas Sewell lived with the Haywards until his marriage to Permelia Braham of Pond Creek, Wood Co. WV.

The Haywards built a cabin home near the mouth of Red Brush Creek, where the home of Jake Morrison now stands. The foundation stones were still there in 1940 and pupils from the Red Brush School carried water from the well. Their daughter, Elizabeth, age 18, died while the Haywards lived here. Her grave was made behind the cabin and marked with sandstones at the head and the foot. wild flowers grew over it and once a picket fence enclosed the grave site. Joseph Hayward was a local preacher and the family attended church services in an old log building on the land of Amos Chevront, near the mouth of Nesselroad Creek. This structure was also used for a school house.

In 1844, Joseph had financial reverses and lost the 150 A. track where his home stood. He built another cabin about one mile on up Red Brush above where the cemetery is now located. Joseph and Ann Hayward lived the remainder of their lives on this farm. Their four daughters married into local families and lived nearby.

Joseph A. Hayward, born 1788 — died 1853; Ann D. Hayward, born 1791 — died 1869. They are buried in the Red Brush Cem. Grant Dist. Jackson Co. In 1940, H. D. Somerville, a great grandson, had a grave stone placed in their memory.

Mary Adeline, dau. of Joseph and Ann, married William Zane Powers. They are buried in the Red Brush Cem.

Julia Ann 2nd dau. married David Somerville. Buried in Odin, ILL.

Eliza Jane 3rd Dau. married John Somerville, brother to David. They are buried Pleasant Ridge Cem. Grant Dist.

Nancy Ann 4th Dau. married Alfred Somerville, 1st cousin to David and John Somerville. They are buried Stallman Cem. Roane Co. WV.

JOSEPH AND ANN HAYWARD

Joseph Asbury Hayward (1778-1853) and Nancy Ann Hayward (1791-1869) moved to the Ohio Valley from Maryland. They lived in Meigs County, Ohio below Ravenswood in 1827. In March of 1830 Joseph Hayward owned land on Red Brush, then called Issac Run, in northern Jackson County, Virginia (now West Virginia). This is where he moved and raised his family.

Joseph and Nancy Ann had five children. They were: Mary Adeline born in Maryland, Julia born in Meigs County, Ohio, Elizabeth who died when young, Eliza Jane born at Red Brush, and the youngest Ann. Ann also had a twin who died at birth and was not named.

DR. A. HERRENKOHL

Dr. Albert Herrenkohl practiced medicine in Mount Alto, Jackson County, around the turn of the century until the late 1940s.

Dr. Herrenkohl's ancestor was Heneretta Helina Emmaretta Herrenkohl, who was born in Bonn, Germany, around 1800. One of her sons, Albert T. Herrenkohl, born in 1829 in Bonn, Germany, came to the United States around 1849. He made three trips back to Germany, and his mother arrived in the U. S. about 1855.

Dr. Albert Herrenkohl, the fourth child of Albert T. Herrenkohl, was born in Cabell County. The family included: Charles Arnold (Jan. 8, 1858—June 8, 1942), Milinka (Feb. 21, 1861—Feb. 20, 1944), Emil (Feb. 8, 1862—Feb. 20, 1921), Albert (Dec. 29, 1865—May 29, 1952), Florentine (June 10, 1870—March 28, 1950), and Laura (Dec. 22, 1875—May 4, 1975).

Dr. A. Herrenkohl, a graduate of a medical school in Louisville, Kentucky, was first married to Etta Blake, who died about 1891 and is buried near Spurlock Creek, Cabell County. They had one son, A. Eugene (known as Gene) (1888—1934). Gene married Esta V. Ridenour (August 23, 1890—April, 1982), and they had one son, Roy. Later, Esta and Roy moved to Huntington, and Esta lived there the remainder of her life. Roy eventually moved to Roanoke, Virginia. He was serving as president of a bank there. He died, suddenly, while on a golf course in 1984. Roy and his wife had two sons, Roy, Jr., (he lives in New York and has three sons), and Karl, a minister (he lives in Pennsylvania and has one son and one daughter).

Dr. Albert Herrenkohl's second wife was Berta Getshel (known as Bird). She was born in 1872, died in 1945, and is buried at Hopewell Baptist Church, Mount Alto. They had no children.

Dr. Albert Herrenkohl and wife, "Bird"

During his career as a country doctor, Dr. Herrenkohl delivered approximately 5,000 babies, setting a record number in those days.

Freda Fauver Burdette, one of the daughters of Fred and Hester Ann (Baker) Fauver recalls that Dr. Herrenkohl delivered all thirteen of the Fauver children and some of the Fauver grandchildren. She remembers him as a friend of the family as well as a devoted doctor who traveled many miles to take care of his patients. Dr. Herrenkohl responded to calls regardless of the time of day or night or weather conditions. Rain, snow, and freezing temperatures were no obstacle to him. Out one cold, snowy night delivering a baby, he almost froze. Sometimes he would return home only to be called again soon afterward.

Occasionally, Dr. Herrenkohl would be gone from his home for almost a week. Freda remembers seeing Dr. Herrenkohl dressed in his usual tan-color overcoat, riding his well-groomed light chestnut mare across many creeks, through the fields, and along the country roads. He kept the horse in a small barn at the back of his house. He took excellent care of the horse, rubbing it down after each trip. Sometimes he bought hay for the horse from Fred Fauver, always asking for "the best clover hay," because a well-kept horse was invaluable to a country doctor.

Near Mount Alto, at a place then known as Schoolhouse Run, a ferryboat crossed the Ohio River to Letart Falls, Ohio. Dr. Herrenkohl would board the ferryboat and doctor the people in Letart Falls, Ohio, and Long Bottom, Ohio. His fee for such a journey to deliver a baby was only $5.00. Sometimes, the following morning, he would be invited to have breakfast with the family, and then he would return by ferryboat across the river.

Dr. Herrenkohl's first home in Mt. Alto was a large, two-story frame house. The house burned around the mid 1920s. The Fauvers, who lived on Little Mill Creek, remember the night that they kept hearing their telephone making short, ringing sounds. When some family members looked into the night sky, they saw a red glow in the direction of Mt. Alto. The next morning they learned, with sadness, about the tragic fire. A victim of the fire was a pet parrot, simply call "Polly," that repeated the words "Phone, Doc." whenever the telephone rang at Dr. Herrenkohl's house.

Later, a smaller frame house was built on the same place with an office added in a small building beside the new structure. Here another pet was kept that entertained young patients. Some can still remember the antics of a pet squirrel kept in a cage there.

Dr. Albert Herrenkohl's home at Mt. Alto

Usually dressed in a gray suit, Dr. Herrenkohl is remembered as a soft-spoken doctor. He was gentle with children and usually gave them store-bought candy, a real treat in those days, for being good patients. One of this former patients, Beulah (Gerlach) Knapp recalls that he had beautiful, easy-to-read handwriting. No one had trouble deciphering what his directions were for taking medication. He kept medicine in large bottles in his office and would pour the medicine into smaller bottles as he said to his patients, "I'll fix you up."

Sometimes Dr. Herrenkohl accepted farm produce when his patients could not pay with cash. Probably some fees were never collected, but he was always willing to treat those who could not pay as well as those who could.

Dr. Albert Herrenkohl, affectionately called "Uncle Doc" by many of his relatives, died on May 29, 1952, and was laid to rest in the Hopewell Baptist Church cemetery near Mt. Alto, beside his son, Gene, and his wife, Bird. The people of the small farming community of Mt. Alto (known to many as "Mudsock") remember Dr. Herrenkohl as a caring, country doctor whose kind of dedication is a part of the past. They are very active members of the Sandyville Church and have always emphasized Christian principals in raising their family and in their dealings with others. They are never too busy to lend a helping hand. Their grandchildren include Roger Coffman of Marietta, Sheryl Epling Knox of St. Albans, Brenda Epling Bunner of Taylors, S. C., Ronald Epling of Greenville, S. C., Kim Hill of Salisbury, N. C., Kevin Hill of Sandyville, Karen Hill of Richmond, VA, Andy Hill and Kathryn Hill, both of Chester, Maryland. Estel Wade Hill was born April 29, 1905, at Given, the fourth child (oldest son) of Ira Ward and Alwilda Katherine Harrison Hill. His early years were spent helping in his parents country store, barbering, doing carpenter and farm work. Samantha Lurlean Harpold was born December 29, 1909, at Fairplain, the youngest of ten children of John Oley and Susan Rathaeter Fisher Harpold. Their marriage took place September 15, 1928, at Kenna, W.Va. Their early years of marriage were spent operating the Delbert Cole farm near Duncan. They moved to the farm where they now live, in the late 1930s, and operated it as a dairy farm until they retired. The son, Keith, now operates it as a stock farm and works at Ravenswood Aluminum.

The ten great grandchildren of Estel and Lurlean also bring a gleam to their eye when they come to visit. The kitchen table always seems to be filled with goodies.

The Hill children and grandchildren are very proud of their heritage and truly believe that Families are Forever! Submitted by Hugh and Betty Coffman

LABEN HILL

Laben Hill (1809-1886) was the ancestor of many Jackson countians. Laben's father, Jonathan Hill, was born in Connecticut. Jonathan married Roxey Ann Warner and they were in Rhode Island with one child in 1802. Later they moved to New York state where our Laben Hill was born 4 July 1809. Prior to 1813 with children: Nancy, Alice, William, Laben, and Thomas they moved to what is now West Virginia. They came by flatboat down the Ohio River and up the Kanawha to the mouth of Eighteen Mile then up this creek fifteen miles to where they settled. Our Laben Hill married 29 September 1831, Rebecca Woodruff (1813-1872) and settled in the Rockcastle area of what is now Jackson County on land known as Chestnut Orchard. On one occasion after getting aggravated with his family and being an eccentric type person, Laben left home and attempted to cut a home in a rock cliff jutting over Thirteen Mile Creek near Rockcastle. JEAN CASTO HILTON

The legendary Azariah Casto arrived in America from Brittany about 1685. Legend has it that he and his brother, ages 5 and 7, were stowaways on Captain Kidd's pirate ship, and he was put ashore in Rhode Island. Later Azariah went to Cape May, New Jersey, and settled there.

Azariah's son, William (March 10, 1717-1778), first married Purthenia and then Sarah.

William's son, David, Sr., married Phebe Gandy, August 17, 1752, at Cape May, New Jersey. David left New Jersey in a two-wheeled wagon, crossed the Delaware River, Pennsylvania, the Potomac River, and settled in Hampshire County (Berkely) Virginia. In 1773, they left with what they could pack on their horses, traveled Indian war paths, and settled on the Monongahela River (now Fairmont) in a log cabin. Because of Indian troubles, they went to Pennsylvania. Many reunited in Jackson County, Virginia, in the early 1800s.

David and Phebe's son, William, Sr. (pre 1765-1836), born in New Jersey, married Hannah Bonnett about 1783 in Pennsylvania and moved to Randolph County (Upshur) Virginia. After Hannah's death, William married Margaret in 1816 and settled in the future Cedar Lakes area of Jackson County, Virginia. On July 1, 1820, he was granted 100 acres of land. The West Virginia Arts and Crafts Center is located between his old home and his burial site.

Benjamin Casto, Sr., was born 1800 (1799-1802) to William Sr., and Hannah on the Buckhannon River at French Creek, Randolph County, Virginia. Benjamin married Sarah (Sallie) Shinn (1804-1852) and Mary Catherine Jeffers, August 31, 1856.

Benjamin's son, Joseph (1826-1912) married Mariah Morrison (1829-1919) on July 28, 1848, in Jackson County.

Joseph's son, Benjamin Grant Casto (June 18, 1868 - January 14, 1958), married Sarah Naomi (December 22, 1869 - January 28, 1945) and then Bertha. Benjamin moved his family to Vinton, Ohio, area. The family had a dairy farm and Benjamin and his son, William Granville, were both mayors of Vinton.

Benjamin's son, William Granville (1888-1975) married Alice Smith (1892-1981) and had ten children: Victor, John, Leon, Raymond, Naomi, Edward, Stanley, Betty, James, and William.

My father, Stanley, was born in Ewington, Ohio, June 28, 1922. He married Betty Jean Dunfee and I was born December 11, 1944. He was killed in Germany on April 13, 1945.

I was born and raised near Pomeroy, Ohio. My mother remarried and I have one brother, William Biggs, who lives in Pomeroy and works at Ravenswood Aluminum and one sister, Sharon, who lives in Richmond, Virginia. I attended Pomeroy High School and Columbus Business University. I have been married three times: first to Tilford Bowling, then Robert Chapman, and now to Jim Hilton. I have one son, Randy Bowling, (October 25, 1966) and two daughters, Angela (October 18, 1971) and Amanda Chapman (April 18, 1975). Angela attends Parkersburg South and Amanda goes to Edison Jr. High. My husband, Jim, is an Air Traffic Controller with DOT-FAA. I am a secretary in the maternity Department at Camden Clark Memorial Hospital. We like to travel and I find it very interesting doing genealogy. I have been a member of West Augusta, Jackson County, Wood County, and Washington County Historical Societies. Submitted by Jean Casto Hilton

HINZMAN

The Hinzman family in Jackson County has its origin in the state of Hesse, Germany. Henry Hinzman was one of many Hessian soldiers used by the British government to fight the colonists in the American Revolution. However, during the war, he deserted the British cause and joined the Continental army of George Washington at Philadelphia in 1780. He served until the war's end and was discharged in May, 1785. After the war he remained in this country and married Charity Koon of Harrison County in 1794. Most of their married life was spent on a farm near Berlin in Lewis County where they raised six sons and six daughters. Henry Hinzman died here in 1827 and was buried on "Hinzman Hill" near the location of his cabin home.

Charity Coon Hinzman was born on the Isle of Jersey in the English Channel. According to family accounts, after the Revolutionary War, Indians still lurked in the Hackers Creek area of Lewis County. One day when Henry Hinzman was away, Indians were seen near the family cabin. The mother (Charity Koon Hinzman) hid her children under the floor of the cabin. When the Indians entered the cabin, they seized the mother and took part of her scalp. After being treated by an herb doctor, she always wore a dust cap to cover the injured area of her scalp. Charity Koon Hinzman died in Roane County at the age of 112 years and was buried on Pocatolico Creek.

Among a few of Henry Hinzman's children who moved to Harper District in Roane County, was the youngest son, John, who married Margaret Bonnett. They lived for a few years near Jane Lew in Lewis County before moving to Roane County on Cox's Fork. They had four sons and two daughters: Samuel, Jake, Lafe, James Madison (Mat), Manerva, and Rebecca. Most of these children moved to Jackson County. James (Mat) lived most of his life near Gay. He was married twice — first to Martha Jane Reed and later to Loma Ayers Parsons. To his first wife were born four sons and two daughters: Cyrus, Darius, Leonard, Orvie, Deema, and Corda. Cyrus married Lizzie Parsons, Orvie married Pearl Tolley, Deema married William Whited, and Corda married Elihu Tuttle. Leonard and Darius died when young. To his second wife was born one son, Arthur, who married Virgie Williams.

The descendants of James (Mat) that bear the name Hinzman are from James' (Mat) son Orvie Hinzman (Raymond, Earl, Bernard, and Mary) and from his youngest son Arthur (Phyllis, Christine, Evelyn, and Wayne).

Numerous other descendants are scattered throughout West Virginia and other states. Submitted by W.E. Hinzman

HITE

Our Hite line is descended from the English, originally Norman-French, family of that and various other spellings, Hiatt, Hyett, Hight, Huett, etc. It is believed that our first ancestor here was John Huett, who was brought to Virginia as a bond-servant to Richard Cocke, in 1639. John settled in Henrico (now New Kent) County, where he or a son was listed as a landowner in 1689. In 1704 a John Hight, probably a grandson, was entered on the Quit Rent rolls for New Kent County.

John and Mary Hight were living in King and Queen County, adjacent to New Kent, in 1755, when their oldest son, George, was born. They were in Hanover County by 1763, when Matthew, our ancestor, was born. They had removed to Albemarle County by 1765 and to Amherst (now Nelson) County by December 7, 1772, when John purchased 248 acres of land from James Brown of Bedford County, on Stonyrun, a branch of Tye River.

Four of John's sons were Revolutionary soldiers — George, John, Matthew and Patrick. Matthew served three hitches in the Virginia Militia, the longest being with General Horatio Gates army in the Camden, South Carolina, campaign in 1780. At the rout of the American army there, grandfather escaped by hiding in a swamp and then making his way back to Hillsborough, North Carolina, mostly by night. As a result, he was sick for several weeks, probably from malaria fever, the swamps being infested with mosquitoes.

Matthew and Nancy's second son, William Andrew, married Susanna, a daughter of Henry Campbell, also a Revolutionary soldier, in Nelson County, February 1, 1824. In 1850, they were in Augusta County, thence to Greenbrier before 1855, Kanawha, and to the Flat Fork section of Roane County by 1857, where he settled down at last. He was a master carpenter by trade and had been a stagecoach driver as a young man. His children were: Samuel L.; Robert H. (1826-1901), married Mary Jane Andrews, January 8, 1856; Richard Lewis (1832-1909), married Jemima (Westfall) Tenney, widow of Chester S. Tenney, a Union soldier, in Roane County, February 26, 1865; Patrick Henry, married Ellen M. Tincher, December 27, 1857; Virginia, married George Andrews; Sarah M., married John J. Burdette, January 10, 1860; William L., married Maria F. Thomas, February 4, 1868; Mary, married John C. Starcher, September 17, 1872; and Benjamin T. married Elizabeth Green, February 7, 1868. Robert H. and Richard Lewis Hite are buried in the Eakins Cemetery at Red Knob, Roane County.

Children of Richard Lewis and Jemima Hite were: Nancy; Vernisha Catherine, (1867-1934), married Peter Hatcher, February 26, 1899; Sarah Anne; Susan Belle, married William D. Thomas; William Stevens (1872-1957), married Louisa Jane, (1879-1956) daughter of William Henry and Ruhama (Casto) Fisher, October 21, 1897; Thomas Voliver, (1875-1957), married Nellie Kelbaugh, May 6, 1925; Emmazetta, married Hiram D. Casto, September 18, 1898; and Lawson B.

HOFFMAN

Robert Frederick Hoffman is descended from families that began in Salsburg, Austria, and Ireland.

His father, Frederick Raymond Hoffman (11/27/1903-7/26/1985) was the son of Perry Leonidas Hoffman (1866 Mason County) and Bertha Elizabeth Zirkle (1870) daughter of William Zirkle, Mason County (later of Middleport, Ohio), married (5/26/1927) Frances Louise McClure (8/04/1909), daughter of Henry Sardine McClure (1882 Middleport, Ohio) son of Henry McClure and Lydia Ann Brown, Meigs county, Ohio, and Aluvia A. John Francey and his family moved to Pocahontas County, Virginia in 1837. Asher and family along with Oldham, Scott, Rankin, Hickels and Morrison families moved to Jackson County early 1860s. Spelling of the surname was changed by most families in mid 1800s. Asher was known as Asher F. Hogsett after moved to Jackson County. Asher lived in area of Millcreek community and was a farmer and millwright. He at one time (approximately 1871) was part owner and operator of a steam driven sawmill on headwater of Big Millcreek. Asher and Eleanor Hogsett are the progenitors of all the Hogsetts and related families that have lived in Jackson County. They are buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery off US Routes 33 and Gay Road. ASHER FREDERICK HOGSETT

Asher Frederick "Fred" Hogsett (1880-1960) named for his two grandfathers Asher Frances Hogsett and Frederick Stone, was born and lived near his birthplace, except for a few years when he was employed in Beaver County, Pennsylvania area. He married Lolito Marie Frey (1884-1908) with Paca Kennedy officiating. Her parents were Beat and Mary Kathryn Frey, emigrants from Switzerland. Lolito died when their only child, Lolito Marie Hogsett, was born. Fred's second marriage to Minnie Jones (1885-1975) daughter of John Paul and Caroline Sayre Jones took place on Easter Sunday April 7, 1912 with Reverend Curtis Robinson officiating. Easter Sunday has never occurred on that date since. They were parents of Veta Faye, Leora Fern, Melba and John Paul.

The first home was an old three room house. There was an historic old barn nearby, formerly Professor Hughes homes. A new barn was built in 1921.

In 1920 a new house was built, much of the material came from trees that grew on the farm. Fred cut the logs, hauled them to a sawmill and planing mill near Ripley where they were made into framing lumber, then hauled them back to the house site. Neighbors helped build the house as was the custom then. Carpenters were hired for finishing work and the house was soon ready to occupy. Fred had gone by train to the Harpold Hardware in Ravenswood for nails, locks, windows, and roofing to finish the house.

After Fred and Minnie's deaths, the farm was sold. This was the first non-Hogsett owner since the late 1800s. Most of the livelihood came from the farm's cows, chickens, hogs, garden, and fruit trees. Some of these products were traded at King's Grocery in Ripley for groceries. Wheat and corn were taken to a grain mill each fall and ground into flour and meal. Farm life was busy life, little recreation time. Minnie was ingenious, creating recipes, sewing garments with only basic patterns and a picture, building stools, shelves, and lawn chairs. She was a widely known quilter often earning two cents per yard of thread for all those tiny stitches.

Fred was a neighbor's neighbor helping everyone with farming, hauling groceries, harvesting, wood cutting, or any other needed chores. He lived by the philosophy that he would rather wear out than rust out.

Fred and Minnie were active members of Mt. Moriah United Brethren Church. They traveled the miles with horses and two-seated buggy.

Fred and Minnie (Jones) Hogsett

Parents usually want children to advance beyond any chances they had, such was our case. We had attended the nearby one-room, eight grades, Echo School. We couldn't afford to leave the farm to attend high school in Ripley so we walked four miles daily, rain, snow or sunshine, carrying loads of books. Veta graduated as co-valedictorian from Ripley High, graduated from Mt. State Business College, Parkersburg, worked two years as a secretary. I married Ayward C. "Dutch" Hart. We are the parents of Ronald Lee, David Asher, Richard Arley, Nancy Caroline.

Leora married Claude E. Sayre (1880-1947), no children. She was an honor graduate of Ripley High, a graduate of East Central Teachers College, Ada Oklahoma, M. E. degree from Ohio University. Until her retirement she used her talents in the education field. She now resides at Circleville, Ohio.

Melba, unmarried, handicapped by polio and related illnesses since age three, lives with Leora since Fred's death. She was able to do Swedish embroidery and quilts until confined to a wheelchair.

John Paul (1928-1930).

Fred and Minnie are buried at Otterbein Cemetery, Evans. Lolito is buried at Pine Hill, Ripley. Submitted by Veta Hogsett Hart-Richard Hart

JOHN WILSON HOGSETT

John Wilson Hogsett (1848-1920) known as John, the son and third child of Asher Frances (1822-1891) and Eleanor Cohorn Cochran (1822-1880) was born in Pocahontas County, Virginia. The address was Little Levels. It is thought his elementary, and only education, was there at Dunlap's Academy, a school with some degree of fame in that area. He was thirteen years old when he came to Jackson County with his parents and eight brothers and sisters. Five other families also escaped the fury of the most important Civil War battle in West Virginia at Droop Mountain near Hillsboro, Pocahontas County.

John married Malinda Stone (1851-1928) daughter of Fred and Elizabeth Harpold Stone.

John Wilson and Malinda (Stone) Hogsett

They are buried in Otterbein Cemetery, Evans. Parents of Nettie Elizabeth, an expert seamstress who never married. Benjamin Franklin married Frances Blanche Sayre. Their children: Carl Glenmer, Marion Eugene, John Franklin, Mary Malinda, Ralph Sayre. Emma Ellen married Claude Enoch Sayre. Their children: Ray Emerson, Don Castle, Wade Otterbein. Asher Frederick married Lolito Marie Frey, one child Lolito Marie Hogsett; second marriage to Minnie Jones. Children: Veta Faye, Leora Fern, Melba, and John Paul. Margaret Lula married Arley Esley Hart, no children. Homer Holland Hogsett married Mary Alexander Foster, children Emma Florence, Isabelle Irene, Homer Lafollette, Lawrence Melvin.

John and his family were always active in the Mt. Moriah United Brethren Church, their home being the haven for ministers and families. He loved to sing. Fellow neighbor men would gather at someone's home and sing for hours — it was hmmm until the tune was found. Relatives and friends visited often. The Hogsett families living out-of-state reserved August to come home — it was reunion time. Malinda, with staunch ideals and principles, presided at the head of the table after John's death. Mornings were busy with cooking, baking, canning, washboard washings, and sad iron ironing.

We remember nasturiums growing by the garden gate, the hop vine growing on garden fence to be used to make "starter" in bread making, and the smell of fresh baked bread, shelf rack on front porch for potted flowers, the wood fueled cook stove, the platform swing, board walks to the house, the chest of drawers filled with pies, smoked hams hanging in the smoke house. There were no cars, electricity, radios, phones. Some families were fortunate enough to have Delco lights or gasoline lamps with mantles and globes. Farming was with hand tools, sleds and horses. Hay was stacked in the fields, fodder was shocked near fences to feed livestock, ear corn stored in some type of crib. Most livestock had no shelter from cold or storms. Those days were different and modern youth cannot understand.

John Wilson and Malinda Hogsett are both buried at Otterbein Cemetery, Evans. Submitted by Marie Hogsett Corns

HOOD-GREER-TILLEY

James Kinsey Hood, called "Cap," was the third generation owner of the Valley Mill, for many years Ripley's leading industry. He also owned a general store and bakery which sold light bread for five cents a loaf. With his son, Clare E. (1896-1966), he built the town's first electric light plant, which operated from dusk to eleven p.m. Persons not in bed at that time had to use oil lamps.

James K. "Cap" Hood's father, D. K. Hood (1834-1907), who owned the mill before him, was a charter stockholder of the town's first bank, the Bank of Ripley. He served on the discount committee, also on the committee to secure suitable quarters for the new institution, and was chosen as the first vice-president. The mill, which had been bought from his father-in-law, John McGrew, whose daughter, Rebecca M. McGrew, he married, was largely a barter business. It ran 18 hours a day in its busy season to supply its customers.

The Hood home, close to the mill, was one of the handsomest in the town. When the player piano was invented, one was installed in the parlor and shared with invited guests.

James K. "Cap" Hood married Ida Greer (1872-1936), a daughter of Daniel Webster (1836-1874) and Elizabeth Thomas Greer (1839-1900). Mr. Greer died tragically at age 38 while carrying cash and valuable papers in saddle bags on horseback between Ripley and Spencer. It is said that a robbery occurred when he sat down by a tree to have lunch, and was shot, presumably, by a robber who knew of the valuables he was carrying. The young widow, left with three young children: James, Charles, and Ida Lee, who was only 21 months old at the time, married Quinn (or Edwin) Ward Jones.

Daniel Webster Greer was the son of James (1806-1866) and Elizabeth Turner Greer. James Greer was County Clerk of Jackson County. James Greer married Elizabeth Turner on June 10, 1833.

Daniel Webster Greer was a cousin of William T. Greer (1835-1924), a prominent business man, and John M. Greer (b. December 15, 1823, d. May 9, 1900), a popular sheriff and landholder, whose home was known for its hospitality. Most likely John M. Greer named his son, Daniel Webster Greer (1863-1938) after his murdered cousin. The second Daniel Webster Greer married Julia Progler (1865-1932), daughter of Charles H. and Elizabeth J. Smith Progler.

James K. "Cap" and Ida Greer Hood had the following children: Clyde K. (1892-1968), Clare E. (1896-1966), Irene (b. April 23, 1894, d. March 2, 1980), Isabelle, Marian (b. April 14, 1901, d. November 30, 1989), Helen, and Virginia.

Marian Hood married Oscar W. Tilley (b. May 15, 1904, d. March 10, 1936). They had one son, Douglas J. Tilley, who now resides in Wilmington, Delaware. Marian Hood Tilley, her husband, her parents, and several members of her family are buried in the Pine Hill Cemetery at Ripley. D. K. Hood and his wife, Rebecca M. McGrew Hood, and other members of the Hood family are buried in the Early Settlers Cemetery at Ripley. Submitted by Douglas J. Tilley

DAVIS KENNA HOOD

Davis Kenna Hood was born in 1835, at Hardy County, Virginia. His parents were Clydas and Rebecca Wayne Hood. Davis and his brother John F. Hood came to Jackson County in 1856. Shortly thereafter he met Rebecca Marion McGrew. They were married September 17, 1857. Children born to this marriage were Lillie B., John C., James K., Haskel, Laura and Della K. Haskel and Laura were stricken with a fatal childhood disease and died at an early age.

In 1859, Davis assumed operation of the grist mill in Angerona for Jacob Ong. Later in 1864 he purchased the mill from Mr. Ong, and the Ripley Mill from his father-in-law, John McGrew. Davis and his son, James Kenna, converted the mill in 1900 to a full roller mill with a daily capacity of 159 barrels. He also purchased an interest in the Cottageville Mill about this time. Mr. Hood was a progressive minded person and did much to improve the community in which he lived. His son, James, carried on the tradition after the death his father in January 27, 1907. In addition James owned a general store, bakery, restaurant and ice plant, among other businesses.

James K. Hood married Ida Lee Greer April 19, 1891. Children born to this marriage were, Irene, Isabel, Clyde, Clair, Helen and Virginia. There are many living descendants of these children in Jackson County and other states. James K. was truly a civic-minded person. He was an active participant in the growth of the community during his lifetime. Submitted by Frederic H. Rhodes

They had seven children: John Peter, Heinrich, Anna Barbara, Cattarine, Margretha, Elizabeth and Friedrich. Records shows that Peter, Henry and Friedrich took the Oath of Allegiance in Berk County, served in the Revolution Militia in Pennsylvania.

My line comes from Friedrich. He was born March 6, 1753; died September 17, 1823; he married Christina Kreinert November 19, 1775. They had six children, one of whom was Andrew born about 1776, in Berk County Pennsylvania. He married Susanna (no last name could be found). They lived in Harrison County, Virginia, in 1826. They made a will in Mason County, Virginia, August 18, 1860, having named six children: Fredrick S. T., John Peter, Andrew Kranier, Alphias G., Alexander Blair, Katharine.

JOHN HOUSTON

Sam and John A. Houston, sons of John W. and Sarah E. Houston, married Emma and Jemima Guiler, daughters of William and Florence S. Guiler. They along with the Robert L. Thompsons and the Ezra Johnsons all migrated from Noble and Monroe Counties of Ohio down to Jackson County, West Virginia about 1872. The assumption for this migration being the low cost of land, most of which was uncleared and hilly.

Sam Houston built and operated a sawmill at the mouth of Sand Creek in Ravenswood which proved to be a flourishing business until the great flood of 1913 washed everything away. He had built a beautiful home in Ravenswood at the corner of Sand and Henrietta streets which is still standing. Sam and Emma later moved to Charleston, West Virginia and are interred in the Spring Hill Cemetery.

The other brother, John A. Houston, bought a farm on Beaty's Run about 1872. He married Jemima Guiler in 1866 at Whigville, Ohio. John had fought in the Civil War and stood guard over President Lincoln's body in Washington, D. C. John was born February 11, 1843, and died August 18, 1901 after suffering a heart attack while trying to get a cow out of a field of corn. Jemima was born April 26, 1847, and died February 18, 1934. J. J. AND HANNAH (MOUNT) HOWELL

Hannah Cansada, the fourteenth child of Ezekiel and Catherine (Bell/Weaver) Mount, was born in 1833 West of White Oak (now Volcano) in Wood County (W) Virginia on the Mount farm along the road to Eaton. Pretty and petite as a child, she grew to be a handsome, shy young woman. In 1856, she married Jacob Jasper Howell, born in 1835, the son of Paschal Walker and Eliza (Marple) Howell. Jacob had probably been born in Lewis County (W) Virginia, but at the time of his father's death in 1843, the family was living in Barbour County. After Eliza (Marple) Howell remarried to William Thrash, the family moved to Wood County (W) Virginia and through the years as a boy and young man, Jacob often lived and worked on the neighboring Mount farm. It is said that Hannah and Jacob's mothers were kinfolk through the Weaver family.

Taking all their housekeeping possessions on a sled, Jacob and Hannah moved over the ridge to a log home Jacob had built just north of the Mount home. It stood near White Oak Fork of Walker Creek in Wood County (W) Virginia, on the road to Walker, west of White Oak (now Volcano). Jacob built all their furniture and Hannah cooked at a stone fireplace. Jacob farmed some of their hilly land, raised livestock for their own use and to sell and hired out his team for extra income to support his and Hannah's family that eventually numbered twelve children. Of these, Olive Virginia ("Ollie") (m. James Bramble); Emmaline ("Emma") (m. Charles Lewis Lambert); Leaneore Clarisa ("Nora") (m. Samuel Ball); Eliza Ellen (unmd); and Jacob Jasper Howell, Jr. (m. first Mary L. T. Paxton and second Clarissa Pribble) were born while Jacob and Hannah lived in the farm west of Volcano. Oil and gas were found on the 114 acre Howell farm in the early 1860's and during the next few years they sold parcels of their property and leased portions to the Longmoor Oil Company who had the farm platted.

Jacob Jasper and Hannah (Mount) Howell, 1860

About 1866 the Howells moved their family to the Muses Bottom area of Jackson County, (W) Virginia near where Jacob's brother, William Marple Howell, lived with his family. Here their other children, Mary H. (unmd); Paschal Walker II, (unmd); Ida May ("Addie") (m. Oth Cline); Willie Maud ("Wid") (unmd); and Waneta Mount (m. Thomas DeWitt) were born.

In the mid-1800s, after their home along the river had been inundated with flood water, the Howells built a new, larger home back from the Ohio River where it still stands today, alongside the road that leads into old Murraysville, West Virginia where the Howells attended church and the children went to school. Oil and gas were found on this property too. Jacob farmed the rich, flat river bottom land and at one time had a truck farm, shipping vegetables and fruit up and down the river on the barges and paddleboats that stopped at Howell's Landing. By 1888, six of Jacob and

Home of Jacob and Hannah Howell, 1890

Hannah's children had died: Leaneore Clarisa (Ball), Eliza Ellen, Florence A., Mary H., Paschal Walker II and Willie Maude. They are all buried in a long row in the little cemetery on the hill overlooking old Murraysville.

In the 1880s, Jacob would travel from time to time to Sullivan County, Missouri to visit his old friend, Henry Sherman DeWitt, who had left West Virginia some years before. On these visits, Jacob would purchase parcels of land in Sullivan County and by 1894, Jacob and Hannah, along with their six surviving children and the husbands and children of two of their daughters who had married, had moved to Missouri where they all settled on farms near the little towns of Mystic and Owasco. Jacob and Hannah lived their remaining years in Missouri. Jacob died in 1907 and Hannah in 1899. They are buried at the Pleasantview Cemetery on a hill west of Mystic in Sullivan County, Missouri. HAZEL C. HUGHES

Hazel Elva Casto was born to G. W. and Myrtle Casto at Rockcastle in Jackson County. She had two older brothers (also born at Rockcastle) — Harlan and Willard. A younger brother, Raymond, was born at Evans.

Elva Battrell, who later married Oak Casto, stayed in the Casto home at Rockcastle helping with the children and housework. Hazel was given the middle name of Elva after this lady.

As a small girl, she moved with her family to Evans, West Virginia, where she spent her childhood. At age ten she joined the Evans 4-H Club and completed many projects during the years she was a member. First county camp she attended (got very homesick) was at Enoch Staats' farm near Salt Hill. In addition to county camps, she attended girls state camps. Other 4-H activities included teaching music or recreation at county camps, judging livestock, attending a leadership camp at Jackson's Mill. There she was presented a Leadership Pin along with two others — first time given. In 1930 she became a member of Jackson County 4-H Alumni.

Childhood home of Hazel Hughes

Hazel attended the Evans Methodist Church each Sunday and young people's meeting that night under the direction of C. A. Hill. Mabel King and she would walk a mile to church and ring the bell each Sunday. In her teens she taught the primary and junior class.

She attended grade school in one room at Evans. First teacher was Susie Pinnell; second grade, Sattis Simmons; and other years, Lloyd Stone. She graduated from Ripley High School in 1931. Principals were Virgil L. Flinn and R. L. Custer. After graduation she worked one year for The Jackson Herald as a news reporter. About 1933 she began writing the Evans news and submitted it to the Herald.

In 1935 she became a member of the Order of Eastern Star with her mother, Myrtle Casto. Eugenia Kerwood was Worthy Matron.

In 1939, she graduated from Martz Beauty School in Huntington, West Virginia, with 2,000 hours of beauty culture. She then came to Ripley and operated Hazel's Beauty Shop on Court Street.

In 1934, she joined Millcreek Valley Farm Woman's Club and served on various committees.

In 1940, she married Blaine Y. Hughes, son of Phillip S. and Margaret Belle Hughes of Flatwoods. They bought the Dave Raines dairy farm near Ravenswood.

Blaine graduated from Ravenswood High, served with the Army's Quartermasters in Cheyenne, Wyoming, worked at Harpold Hardware, Pinnell and Pfoest construction, and Boso and Ritchie construction.

Both became members of Cedar Run Methodist Church. Blaine was secretary-treasurer and Hazel teacher of primary and junior class. She also was a member of the Ladies Aid.

Blaine had a fall and died November 18, 1978. He is buried at Otterbein Cemetery near Evans.

Rosalie H. Howell Craft, H. D. A. and Hazel organized the Ohio Valley Farm Woman's Club November 29, 1943, with six members joining. She has served as president and also held other offices.

In 1958 the Hughes family were winners of the "Farming for Better Living" for Jackson County.

Blaine and Hazel had two children born at the Priddy Hospital in Ravenswood — Gloria Sue and Gary Lee.

On September 18, 1962, County Extension 4-H Agent, Marcella Sparks, with Hazel as leader, organized the Ohio Valley Go-Getters 4-H Club with 18 members. She continued as leader for nine years. "This Is Your Life" and an appreciation banquet given by the 4-H Club and leaders on May 18, 1975, honoring Hazel for her many years of faithful service to the club, members and parents, was held in the Jackson County Bank room.

Hazel was County President of Farm Woman's Club in Jackson County 1960-62. Also served as a member of the Board of Directors to get a county hospital.

She joined the Ravenswood Woman's Club in 1959 and served on several committees. She was a member of the Flatwoods Ladies Aid Society.

In 1982 she was selected to represent Jackson Extension Homemakers Clubs as County Belle to the Folk Festival at Glenville.

Hazel remembers that she and her brother Raymond walked a mile to grade school at Evans, carrying a dinner bucket. When a hard rain came, it flooded the road and they would ride the working horses — called Pearl and George — down the road, through the water, then tie their reins up and send them back up the road to the barn.

Her hobbies are family history, collecting U. S. and foreign stamps and dated seals, scrapbooks total fifty.

Hazel C. Hughes

Gary has three children: Jason, Jared, Amanda. Jason, currently a sophomore at West Virginia University, is State President for FFA.

JESSE HUGHES

The Thomas Hughes family was Welsh, emigrating to Virginia and eventually to Hacker's Creek in Harrison County. In 1778 when Indians ambushed and killed Thomas Hughes, tradition says that Jesse, his son, vowed "to kill injuns as long as he lived and could see to kill them." Jesse married Grace Tanner (1755-1842), daughter of Edward Tanner, in 1770 or 1771. In that same year, they built a cabin on a tributary of Hacker's Creek forever afterwards known as "Jesse's Run."

Some of Thomas Hughes other children were: Sudna, married Col. Michael Stump; Thomas, born 1754, died in Jackson County 1837; Jonathan, married Sarah Abigail Jackson 1785; Elias, married Jane Sleeth, moved to Ohio in 1797; Mary, married Benjamin Cox 1795; Job (Jacob), married Mary Hamm 1791. There were three other sons; William was killed by Indians, James and Charles immigrated elsewhere.

Jesse Hughes, greatest pathfinder of Western Virginia, was slender with light hair and piercing gray-blue eyes "like those of a mountain panther." He could see at night about as well as one too, and like a panther he could slip up on a deer or an Indian. He could outrun anyone and his endurance was proven when he ran nine miles with three Indians in hot pursuit! He had extraordinary hearing and was so familiar with the sounds of the forest that any deviation he viewed as a warning and would investigate until he found the cause.

As a scout he had no peer, patrolling hundreds of miles of wilderness all over the Virginia border and Western Pennsylvania, down the Ohio River to the Little Kanawha, then the Kanawha, and on. His name was a terror to the Indians and a comfort to the scattered settlers who depended on him for protection.

After the treaty of Greenville, Jesse sold his land on Jesse's Run and moved to Indiana. He soon returned to Virginia, settling in Jackson County. After improving his land and living there for years, like Daniel Boone, he found his land belonged to a previous claimant and this pioneer who had helped so many settlers in their quest for land, died landless. His very grave is lost.

Jesse's children were: Martha, born 1773, captured by Indians December 1787, returned from captivity December 1790. Married Jacob Bonnett 1792, lived and died in Harrison County; Jesse Jr., born 1775, married Susanna Mock 1800; Thomas lived and died in Jackson County; Massie (Mercy), born 1779, married Uriah Gandee 1806; Susana (Sudna), born 1780, married Elijah Runner 1800; Rachel, born 1777, married William Cottrill 1794; Elizabeth, born 1782, married James Stanley 1800; William, born 1785, married Rebecca Staats 1807; Lourania, born 1803, married Uriah Sayre, 1825; Nancy Agnes, born 1810, married George Hanshaw (Henshaw).

Deborah Hughes married William Bibbee 1795. Some historians say she was Jesse's daughter, some say she was his sister. Joseph Bibbee, brother of William also married a Hughes daughter, probably Jesse's sister. Submitted by Audrey Sayre Hartley

ABIJAH HUNT

The first record of the Hunt Family which settled on Cow Run in what is now Union District of Jackson County is the marriage of Abijah Hunt to Mary Jane Hughes (1806-1891) on June 15, 1828. They established their home on Cow Run. Census records state Abijah was born in Pennsylvania.

Abijah enlisted with the Confederate Army at Charleston, West Virginia, September 22, 1862, and served as a Private with Company B of the 22nd Virginia Infantry. He was captured at Ripley, West Virginia, by the 7th West Virginia Cavalry, January 4, 1865, and was a prisoner of war at Wheeling, West Virginia, Cumberland, Maryland and Camp Chase, Ohio. He took Oath of Allegiance at Camp Chase on May 16, 1865.

No authentic records of the parents of Mary Jane Hughes have been found but indications are that she was the daughter of Job Hughes who married Mary Hamm in Harrison County, Virginia on August 29, 1791. Tradition has it that she was a niece of Jessie Hughes, the famous Indian fighter. She was an outstanding woman of her day and an accomplished mid-wife. She was always ready to go at a moment's notice when her services were needed. Everyone knew her as Aunt "Pop" Hunt.

Mary Jane (Hughes) Hunt

Abijah and Mary Jane died only three days apart and are buried in the cemetery across the road from Antioch Church.

Children who lived to adulthood were: Mary Jane (1828-1923) married Elijah Sayre, Sr., about 1844. (See Elijah Sayre 2705-8.) Mazilla (1829-1913) married September 22, 1845, Ephraim Sayre (See Ephraim Sayre 2708-8.) Benjamin (1832-1920) married (1) Mary Campbell, (2) Martha Sayre; and (3) Rebecca Conrad. Isabelle (1834) married William H. Roseberry. Job Lewellyn (1837-1899) married (1) Sarah "Sallie" Barnett, and (2) Emaline Zearley. Mariam Nancy (1840-1917) married (1) John Barr, (2) William Cain, and (3) Carl Morris. Henry Fisher (1843-1865), never married. He enlisted with the Confederate Army on June 1, 1861 at Ripley, West Virginia, and was a Private in Company B of the 22nd Virginia Infantry. He was captured in 1864, and became a prisoner of war at Camp Chase, Ohio, where he died of pneumonia on January 28, 1865. His burial grave is #936 just south of Camp Chase, Ohio. Ruamy (1845-1949), married Daniel Sayre (See David Sayre 2710-8)

JACOB L. HUNT

Jacob L. Hunt (1837-1898) was a son of Abijah Hunt and Mary Jane Hughes. Sarah Barnette (1833-1893) married Jacob, September 1, 1858, daughter of John Barnette and Nancy Carter. They lived on land deeded by his parents to him, located on Left Hand Cow Run Creek. Their children were: Charles Fisher, William Robert, Benjamin W., John, Frank, Mary Louise, Nancy Darl and Lydia.

Jacob and Sarah (Barnette) Hunt

He, together with his father and his brother-in-law, John Barr, joined Company B, 22nd Virginia Infantry (C. S. A.) September 22, 1862, in Charleston, Commonwealth of Virginia. His brother Henry Fisher was already a member of Company B.

Jacob was known as "Job" and J. L. After Sarah died, he deeded his Left Hand Cow Run lands to his children, then remarried the widow, Emaline

Zearley (1845-1899), on November 15, 1895. Jacob and Sarah were buried in Antioch Cemetery. Emaline was buried in Stephens Cemetery, Mason County. AVERY NED HUTCHINSON

In Great Britain, the Hutchinson family was of nobility and landed gentry. The surname Hutchinson is of ancient origin. Comes from Gaelic word "Huches," signifying "House." First records date 1282, in York County, England.

Earliest American records begin late 1600s with Andrew Hutchinson (born 1687) of Loudoun County, Virginia. Andrew's son Joseph Hutchinson (1725-1817) was a Sergeant, Virginia Infantry Continental Establishment. Joseph's eldest son, Oliver (1777-1848), filed claim to land on Little Kanawha River (now in Wood County). Oliver's fifth child, Nathan (1811-1885), made his home in Wood County. Nathan's third child, Kenner (1848-1936), settled in Jackson County. Kenner and his wife Sarah had eleven children. They built the house now standing on Liverpool Road. 4.1 miles from Sandyville (remodeled three times). Kenner's second son, Forest Loring Hutchinson (1876-1964), and wife Nellie Blanche Johnson, had a son, Avery Ned Hutchinson (1916-1981). Upon graduation from high school, Avery constructed houses, farmed, worked at United Fuel Gasoline Plant sixteen years, and finally spent his last twenty years of public work at Kaiser Aluminum Ravenswood Works as a set-up and repair man.

Married his loving wife, Sara Lenora Staats, June 23, 1941. His early married life included a two and one-half year term of service in World War II in Seabees Division of U. S. Navy. He was stationed in Virginia and in the South Pacific, primarily in the Philippines. When he completed his service in the Navy, Sara and Avery began to remodel Grandpa Kenner's house.

On July 23, 1947, their only child, Margaret Mae, was born. She was married on October 10, 1966, to Jack Pursley. Of that marriage, two sons, Jason, born January 17, 1973, and Tracy, born August 28, 1974. They divorced August 19, 1985. Margaret remarried May 28, 1987, to Robert E. Mellon, Sr., and gained three step-sons, Robert Jr., (28), Michael (26) and Paul (24).

Avery Ned Hutchinson with daughter, Margaret, and grandsons, Jason and Tracy Pursley

In 1975, Sara developed terminal cancer and in January, 1976, while Sara was hospitalized taking cobalt treatments, Avery suffered a severe stroke. The stroke paralyzed his entire right side and took away his speech. With much effort, therapy and family urging, he recovered all his strength and most of his speaking ability. He was left with a slight speech impairment. Due to the stroke, he took a medical retirement June, 1977. Cancer finally claimed Sara on September 20, 1977.

During his retirement, he busied himself with light farm work, keeping up his house and yard. He was a member and took an active part in the Meadowdale Baptist Church and helped extensively in the fund raising, remodeling sketches, and finally the actual remodeling of the church. He had a thirty year membership in the V. F. W. During the winter months of 1979, he compiled the complete up-to-date family history and distributed to his cousins xerox copies for them and their families. At that time he had the opportunity to become interested and join the West Augusta Genealogical and Historical Society. A heart attack claimed Avery February 18, 1981. Submitted by Margaret Mellon

HARRY L. HUTCHINSON

The Hutchinsons migrated from England settling in Loudoun County, VA in the early 1700s. In 1852, Nathan Hutchinson (Harry's great-grandfather) laid claim to land on both sides of Sand Creek from Sandyville to Leroy in Jackson County. Nathan's son, Seldon, (Harry's grandfather) settled at Meadowdale and later moved to Washburn Run near Leroy. A successful farmer, he became one of the largest landowners in Jackson County and donated land for the Meadowdale Baptist Church and cemetery. It was said at the time of his death in 1901, "Everyone in Jackson County owed money to Seldon Hutchinson." His son, Kenner, followed in his fathers footsteps and was a successful farmer, merchant and large landowner living at Sarvis Fork, Liverpool, Meadowdale and Ravenswood. Seldon and Kenner both served as president of the Jackson County Bank and their portraits still hang in the Board Room.

Harry, eldest son of Kenner Hutchison, was born in 1892 at Sarvis Fork. After serving in World War I, he married Velma Mason, daughter of Charles and Della Mason. Charles Mason was also a successful merchant and influential businessman in Jackson County having helped reorganize the First National Bank in Ravenswood. Harry, like his father, was a merchant by choice and operated stores in Charleston, WV and Stackhouse, NC before returning to Jackson County in 1924 to operate the store at Duncan. He was also Postmaster and being mechanically inclined operated an automobile repair shop and did general hauling. His was one of a few rural homes enjoying home generated electric lighting. When rural electrification came to Jackson County, Harry was one of a few qualified to wire homes for electricity. In 1946, Harry and Velma moved to Ravenswood where he worked at the municipal power plant until his death in 1951. Velma became active in the Jackson County Library and served as librarian at Ravenswood from 1954 until her retirement in 1968. Velma passed away in 1979.

Harry and Velma Hutchinson

Harry and Velma had two sons. Kenneth (1920-1968), born in Stackhouse, NC, graduated from Glenville State College and taught school until entering the service in World War II. Following his discharge, he and a partner operated an automobile dealership in Ravenswood. Later he returned to teaching and worked for the State Highway Department. He married Wilma Westfall of Liverpool in 1947 and they have one son, Kenneth Craig, and three daughters; Stephanie Day, Melanie Radecke, and Denise Starcher, all of whom still reside in West Virginia. Ronald, born 1925 in Ravenswood, attended Marshall University and graduated from Duke University with a degree in Civil Engineering. Employed by the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers in Cincinnati, OH and Vicksburg, MS he has been involved in pavement research applicable throughout the world. Ronald married Ila Palmer of Ravenswood in 1946 and they currently reside in Vicksburg, MS. They have three daughters, Linda Nitzschke in Huntington, WV (Her husband is president of Marshall University), Kathy Christy in Mariemont, OH and Susan Hutchinson in Las Vegas, NV. *Submitted by Ronald L. HUTTON

Far back in the beginnings of history, English people were named for the work they did or the place from where they came. Of course, after that the children were named after the father.

Hutten or Hutton was a name given because of the place they came from. Hutton then meant a kind of level plateau running along the side of a mountain range. Hutton: one who came from Hutton (village on the spur of a hill).

Documentation for the Hutton Coat of Arms design can be found in Burke's General Armory.

Joseph Hutton, came from Long Bottom, Ohio to Red House, Putnam County, then, Virginia. He was a farmer and a school teacher. He married Anne Parkins.

One of several children of this marriage as listed in the family Bible as: Oliver Hutton-April 18, 1847-died June 6, 1917.

Oliver Hutton married Julia Ellen Harmon, daughter of Thomas and Segious (Collins) Harmon near Red House, Putnam County, which was then West Virginia. To this marriage were born: Columbus E., Minerva F., Segious A., Thomas W., Mary E., Oliver F., Joseph G., Robert E., Lillie B., Louella M.

Oliver Hutton, son of Joseph Hutton, went into the timbering business for an Englishman, Courtney, at Leatherwood which was close to Clendenin, Kanawha County, West Virginia.

Oliver Hutton and all his family moved to Bear Fork, Jackson County, West Virginia. Here he and his family, relatives and hired help operated a "band mill" for Courtney. All the surrounding country was "timbered" and thousands of "staves" and "ties" were floated down Bear Fork, Tug Fork and Mill Creek to Ripley.

Staves were used in the manufacture of barrels and kegs.

Here on the waters of Bear Fork, Oliver built a nice home and also went into the store business.

This location of Hutton's business was within about a mile of the Roane County line. Oliver Hutton and his sons were so well established here on the waters of Bear Fork that this little community was known as Huttonville. He was also a farmer.

Oliver Hutton died in 1917. Julia died in 1930. Both are buried in the Casto Cemetery on the hill opposite the site of the old White Pine School.

All the Huttons moved away from Bear Fork by the time of the death of Julia except Robert Emory Hutton and Franklin Hutton.

Emory Hutton married Annie Laurie Carpenter. To them were born: Robert Hermon, a retired school teacher now living in Ravenswood. Marion Delmer Hutton: retired, teacher, machinist, delegate and insurance agent. Now living in Evans. Sennit Basil Hutton, disabled WW II veteran, living in Ripley.

Robert, Annie Carpenter, Emory, Basil and Delmer Hutton

Franklin Hutton married Linda Westfall. To them were born Ernest, Golden, Herschel, Dewey and Edna. None now reside in Jackson County.

Oliver Franklin Hutton, born May 7, 1880, Confidence, Putnam Co., West Virginia, was the son of Oliver 1847-1917, and Juliana Ellen Harmon Hutton, 1849-1930. He was of Scotch-Irish and Indian descent.

He was the grandson of Joseph Hutton 1825-1898, and Ann Parkins Hutton, part Indian, 1821-1852. Records indicate Joseph may have been born in York County, Pennsylvania. Joseph Hutton came from Long Bottom, near Pomeroy, Ohio, riding a "Big White Horse" to "woo" the heart of Ann Parkins, who lived on the left-hand fork of Poca River, Kanawha County, now Putnam County, West Virginia. They moved by horse and wagons as far as Pocatalico, leaving the wagon and driver with their furnishings, at the beginning of the hard road, and had an "exciting" ride to Charleston, by what is called a "Jitney"-1917 Ford Model touring. They soon found that was a "delightful" life-style, and were now introduced to the "fast lane".

They returned in 1920 to Jackson County, West Virginia, to live on a farm they had purchased, about five miles east of Ripley. This occasion

HYDE

The earliest records of the Hyde family of Jackson County are found in Harrison and Mason Counties, (West) Virginia. James Hyde, Sr. and his wife, Sarah, and family were in a part of Mason County that is now Jackson County when Mason County was formed in 1804. James, Sr., was born before 1840, probably in England. James owned several plots of land in Harrison and Mason Counties. Sara Hyde (maiden name unknown) died between 1803 and 1810, and James Hyde, Sr. died in early 1810. His will was probated in Mason County on 30 April 1810.

James Hyde, Sr. lists two grandchildren, Betsy and Joseph Stout, in his will. This grandson is believed to be the Joseph M. Stout who married Merrey Carney and is the progenitor of the early Stout family in Jackson County.

James and Sarah Hyde were the parents of at least the following children: (1) James Hyde, Jr. who married Catherine Hardman on 20 March 1801 in Harrison County, and died 1810/11 in Harrison County; (2) Isaac Hyde, who married Nancy Sims on 20 October 1800; (3) George Hyde, who married Nancy Turner on 13 December 1796 in Harrison County; (4) Catherine (Kathy) who probably married Mr Stout by 1800; (5) Sarah Ann who was born about 1775. Sarah died between 1850 and 1860 in Jackson County; (6) William, married Martha Tanner on 18 March 1805 in Gallia County, Ohio; and (7) Charity Hyde, who married Nicholas Harpole on 3 March 1804 in Harrison County.

Daniel Hyde, son of James and Catherine (Hardman) Hyde, Jr., was born about 1805, and married Mary Richards, daughter of William and Margaret (Matthews) Richards, on 12 November 1824. Peter Hyde, son of Daniel and Mary, was born 28 June 1834 in Harrison County and married Margaret Ann Stout, daughter of Joseph B. Stout and Martha (Patsy) Childers, on 21 February 1856 in Harrison County. Amos Sylvester Hyde, this writer's great-grandfather, son of Peter and Margaret, was born 5 April 1859 in Harrison County. Amos married Levoila Davis, daughter of William E. and Anna (Willis) Davis on 22 November 1880 in Doddridge County.

The above Hyde families are mentioned in Pioneer's of Jackson County History by John A. House in the Hardesty's Jackson County History. Most of the Hyde family had moved from Jackson County by 1840, but many descendants of the Hyde-Stout, Hyde-Harpole and Hyde-Shinn families still live in the Jackson County area. DAVID FRANKLIN HYDE

David Franklin Hyde was the grandson of the Jackson County pioneer, Jacob Hyre, and the son of Jonathan Hyre and Elizabeth Wright Hyre. He was born on the family farm on July 31, 1849. He was the youngest of five children of Jonathan and Elizabeth.

He had little formal education but was an avid reader in his later years. He was a highly opinionated and outspoken person for those that were not acquainted with him.

Being young and wanting to expand his horizons, he spent several years in Mason County. Returning home, to help his aging father, he purchased a tract of land owned by his father. This tract contained the stone house contracted by Jonathan with local stone masons. The Civil War interrupted the construction, but was resumed afterwards. Plagued with labor troubles, sentiment against him because of his stand during the war, and the lack of funds, Jonathan abandoned the project. This left the house an incomplete shell.

David spent some time in trying to complete the construction with the skills that he had learned from the stone masons. But time being of the essence, David contracted with local carpenters to finish the construction of the exterior and interior of the house. This was to be the new home of David and his bride, Sarah.

David married his brother-in-law's sister, Sarah Roush, at Cottageville on December 22, 1874. According to family history, they were married on horseback in front of the church.

David And Sara Ann Hyde

David had a friend in town and agreed to always greet each other. One spring day, David was in town when his friend saw him from a distance and hailed a greeting. David was on the opposite side of the street and pretended not to hear him. Being persistent, his friend forced the situation and both met in the middle of the street, shaking hands and laughing about being up to their shoe tops in the mud.

He was a self sufficient and progressive farmer. Over the years the farm had been cleared, orchards and a vineyard were planted near the house. In 1904, David won a bronze medal and certificate for his grapes at the Worlds Fair in St. Louis.

The medal had its place on the family organ in the parlor. The certificate was kept out of sight and only brought out on special occasions. The certificate was bordered by nude Greek goddesses which was the reason for its banishment to the closet.

The family was blessed with five children. Lellia Hyre (1876-1961) married Omer Parsons, Elida George Hyre (1880-1931) married Mae Parsons, Hester Elizabeth Hyre (1884-1886), Eunie Hyre (1887-1913) married James Spears, and Opie Franklin Hyre (1889-1981) married Fredda Mae Stewart.

The old stone house on Shatto Road, east of Ripley, was the home of David and Sarah until their deaths. David died March 11, 1940, six days after his wife; both are buried in the Mt. Olive Cemetery. Submitted by Gene Hyre

JACOB HYRE

Jacob Hyre was a pioneer of Jackson County migrating from the Jane Lew- Buckhannon area of Virginia. His grandparents immigrated from Switzerland to the western frontier of Virginia near what is now Petersburg, West Virginia.

He was born in Harrison County, Virginia, on January 10, 1784. His parents were Jacob Hyre and Elizabeth Powers Hyre and were from early pioneer families of now West Virginia.

Jacob arrived in Jackson County in the year of 1815 with his wife Mary Beath Hyre, sons Jonathan Hyre and John Allen Hyre, and daughter Rebecca Hyre. He settled on the south side of Mill Creek, about a mile above the forks with Tug Fork. This site is opposite the Shatto residence on Shatto Road east of Ripley on Route 33.

The area was a wilderness at that time and a hardship on the young man and his family. There were times when it would have been easier to return to their former home in the Buckhannon area. With the persistence of his wife and a growing family, it was imperative that he make this move a success. Over the years, his dreams and aspirations became a reality.

His family grew with the additions of another daughter, Mary Elizabeth Hyre, and a son, Jacob Beath Hyre. These were the only children that were born in Jackson County.

Family history indicates that Jacob came upon a buffalo at a nearby spring. Jacob shot and wounded the buffalo. Following with his hounds, it was soon brought to bay. The buffalo was dispatched and the robe was taken as a trophy of the encounter. The bones of the buffalo were later found by his son, Jonathan, while clearing a beech grove, verifying the encounter.

Over the years a farm was carved out of the wilderness. This took years of hard work by Jacob and his eldest son, Jonathan. The farm grew with the additional purchases of adjoining lands up Mill Creek. The farm extended from ridge to ridge and included good bottom lands and hillsides for meadows.

The children of Jacob married and became prominent members of the community. Jonathan Hyre (1812-1880) married Elizabeth Wright and farmed lands adjacent to those of Jacob's. John Allen Hyre (1812-) married Miriam Rader; Rebecca Hyre (1813-1882) married Michael Rader; Mary Elizabeth Hyre (1816-1903) married David Harpold; and Jacob Beath Hyre (1818-1851) married Catherine Aultz and after her death married Arrilla Casto.

Jacob died on December 19, 1858, and was buried in the Board Cemetery at the mouth of Joe's Run with his daughter, Rebecca Hyre Rader.

In the census of 1860 and a few years after the death of Jacob, the combination of the estate of Jacob and the lands of his son, Jonathan, totaled over 2,000 acres. The family had prospered, purchased and expanded the family holdings but they were land rich with little money reserves. Submitted by Gene Hyre

OPIE FRANKLIN HYRE

Opie Franklin Hyre was the eldest son of David Franklin Hyre and Sara Ann Roush Hyre. He was born on the family farm on December 22, 1889. He was the youngest of five children.

After his formal education, Opie went into joint business ventures with his brother, Elida. They timbered in the spring and fall and thrashed wheat in the late summer. On one venture, they covered a wagon with metal roofing and went into the local communities selling patent medicines and remedies.

With little success in his business ventures, he decided to further his education. He attended Lee's Academy at Fairplain. He continued his education during the summers and through extension courses from Marshall, New River State, and Glenville State Colleges. After several years, Opie completed the requirements for a teaching certificate.

One of his first teaching assignments was a one room school in Logan county. The majority of his 35 years of teaching were at one room schools in the rural areas of Jackson County.

During this time, Opie married Fredda Mae Stewart at her home in Parchment Valley on March 16, 1912. The couple had their differences, Opie was six feet and two inches tall, Fredda was about five feet tall; he was a Democrat, and she a Republican. These contrasts along with their good nature, provided many an enjoyable hour at family reunions and at election times.

Opie and Fredda Mae Hyre

The family grew with the birth of three boys. They were Herbert Franklin Hyre (1918) married Dolly Patton; Kermit Stewart Hyre (1921) married Ruth Starr; and Ephriam Guy Hyre (1924-1985) married Ruth Waybright.

In 1931, Opie moved back to the family farm to help his aging father. Opie's sons left the farm during World War II. After the war they sought jobs in industry. Opie and Fredda remained and worked the farm until the late 1970s. He was a self sufficient and progressive farmer and took great pride in his garden and his Hereford cattle.

The day the banks closed as a result of the depression, the Jackson County sheriff met Opie at the mouth of Joe's Run to relay the message of the banks closure. The sheriff asked if he could help in any way. Opie said that he had 75 cents and a few checks in his pocket. The checks were not of any use at that time, but that he was in better financial condition than most. He indicated that he had plenty of food from the farm and that he could provide most of his needs.

Opie was an avid reader of books, poetry, newspapers, and news magazines. He loved to read and memorize poetry in his spare time. He had a special friend in town, Walter Tolley, and when they met each would take a turn in reciting the latest verses that they had memorized. Both men took great delight in their feats and would part with kind words and laughter.

The old stone house on Shatto Road, east of Ripley, was the home of Opie and Fredda. Opie died on June 12, 1981 and is buried with his wife in the cemetery at Fairplain. Submitted by Kermit S. Hyre

HEZEKIAH JACKSON

My father has always told me that I have a Jackson line but until recently I knew little of them. Through the effort of my maternal grandmother, Mary R. Pinckney, I have learned that this family was probably early settlers in Jackson County since my g-g-g-grandfather, Hezekiah Jackson, was born there about 1838/39, the son of Daniel Jackson and his wife, Mary (maiden name unknown). On 3 June 1858 at Sand Creek, Jackson County, he was married to Maria Jane Hartshorne, daughter of John Wesley Hartshorne (deceased) and his wife, Margaret Farley Hartshorne, then a resident of Jackson County. Maria Jane was born in Monroe County, Ohio, 31 August 1840. The children of this marriage, all born in Jackson County, were: 1. John N. born about 1861; 2. Daniel K. born about 1862, died before July 1890 leaving widow, Mattie, but no issue; 3. Mary Martha Everetta, born about 1864, married 8 April 1880 in Jackson County to Eli Neptune; 4. Simon W. born about 1866; 5. Ezra C. born about 1868; 6. Sebastian C. born 16 Sept 1872; 7. Della died in infancy; 8. Nannie M. born 31 Aug 1875; 9. Samantha C. died in infancy; 10. Samuel Wilbert born 28 Sept 1881; 11. Alonzo Jefferson born 18 January 1883; two sons: Jacob A. and Cato died in infancy (dates of births unknown).

Hezekiah Jackson applied for a pension on 11 Feb 1882, while a resident of Ravenswood, Jackson County, and stated that he enlisted in Company I, 11th Regiment, West Virginia Infantry of the U. S. Army, and that he was honorably discharged at Richmond, Virginia, on 17 June 1865. He stated that his disability was the result of severe exposure and starvation while confined in Libby Prison at Richmond during the winter of 1864-65 where he contracted "catarrh in the head" and rheumatism, from which he had never recovered; the pension was granted, and he received it until his death 23 January 1890 in Minneapolis, Ottawa County, Kansas, where they had moved from Jackson County. After his death, his wife, Maria Jane, received a pension until she died 13 May 1917.

Number 3 in the list of children of this couple, Mary Martha Everetta Jackson, was married to Eli Neptune on 8 April 1880 in Jackson County, and my descent from Hezekiah and Maria Jane Hartshorne is through them, down to my father, Everett Brown Neptune, Jr. (see the John Neptune Family in this volume).

Some Jackson County names from the pension applications of Hezekiah and Maria Jane may be of interest to descendants of early families there. These person signed affidavits or witnessed papers concerning the pensions: Charlotte Wood, age 64 in 1890, stated that she was a neighbor of Maria Jane Jackson and Hezekiah and that she was present when their son, Alonzo Jefferson Jackson, was born 18 January 1883; J.L. McLaughlin, R.T. Wetzel, Elia6s D. Conger, Sebastian Hartshorne, Louis H. Hughes, and Eli Neptune, son-in-law of Hezekiah. Submitted by Rebecca Ann Neptune Gibson

ARNOLD JONES

On December 27, 1908 Arnold Jones was born to Doc Lewis Jones and Nancy Davis Jones on Middle Fork, Advent, WV in southern Jackson County. When Arnold was three and his brother, Orville, was eight months old, their mother died. Doc didn't stay in one place very long after Nancy died; he worked in logging camps and traveled a lot. He was in New York when he died in 1948. Their grandparents, Alex and Susanna, took them in and raised them. They went to school at White Oak or Second Creek, according to which they thought had the best teacher.

Arnold enjoyed working on the farm with his grandfather and loved animals. When he was 14 he had a spotted horse named "Rex" which he taught to do tricks and wouldn't have anything to do with anybody but Arnold. He would lie down so Arnold could get on his back; then he would stretch out.

Many times Arnold would go with his grandfather to Charleston on a wagon with potatoes, apples, chickens, turkeys, and bring back supplies — middling meat, sugar, coffee, etc. They would have to go through mud and creek beds, which was the road. At Rt. 21 the mud would be up to the horses' bellies; they would hitch several items together in order to get through the deep mud. They would stay all night at Slip Hill and camp. If it got dark they stayed at Aunt Louisa's.

Arnold helped veterinarian, Jim Blackshire, with sick animals when they got foundered on food, with castration, and with dehorning. He would work in the store, and helped Uncle Asp Jordan cut grass and wood to get money to buy shoes and clothes. He and his brother, "Coon", hunted opossums, rabbits, and polecats; the dog would bay them and Arnold would hold them up by the tail; they got good money for the hides.

Arnold married Charlotte Fowlkes September 1966. We have two sons, Marshall and Lewis. We moved on the old home place in 1974 in a mobile home. In 1983 we built a house on the land. Marshall graduated from Ripley in 1985 and joined the marines. Lewis graduated from Ripley in 1989 and is going to Marshall University. Submitted by Charlotte Fowlkes Jones

OLLIE G. AND WILLIAM C. JONES

In 1920 Ollie Gertrude (Jones) 1895-1955 and William Clayton Jones 1892-1943 settled in Jackson County when they purchased one half of the Mangus farm on the Middle Fork of the Poca River on land adjoining his mother Geneva (Atkisson) 1869-1925 and father Squire Jenkins Jones 1866-1972. Ollie was the daughter of Margaret Belle (Jarvis) 1874-c. 1897 and William Marshall Jones 1869-1948 of Roane County, Wva.

Ollie G. Jones, who retained the same last name all through life (she from a Northern branch and Clayton from a Southern branch of Jones) gave birth to nine children. Aristotle 1914, Dessell 1916, Mildred 1918, Clifford 1920, Virginia 1924, William, Jr. 1926, Delores 1932, Rebecca 1935 and Markle 1936. But Delores and Rebecca died in their childhood. The family home, was built above the original log house on the property. Locust poles were a cash crop and hauled down from the hills behind the log house. Hardwood timber was cut for market; it also supplied some lumber for the homestead, cellar house, and out buildings. A suspension (swinging) bridge was erected across the Middle Fork for foot traffic. It served not only the Jones and Mangus families; but all travelers using the footpaths crossing the country to and from their destination. This swinging bridge was especially enjoyed by the youngsters — as a swimming hole was underneath it.

Ollie G. and William Clayton Jones

Clayton farmed, carted coal, etc. and worked in the gas/oil fields. In 1929, after being low bidder ($129.99) he was awarded the Star Route mail route. With the help of his son, he delivered mail by horseback in winter and in foul weather and by automobile in summer and good weather. Clayton kept this route until 1933 when he was underbid.

In 1934 Ollie was awarded the ADVENT Post Office, which she ran from the home until c. 1946. Bossie, her youngest son's dog became a banc to the postal inspector — after patrons complained of being chased or bitten by this dog, the inspector ordered Ollie to get rid of the dog or control him better. But being an independent sort, she refused, saying she would neither send the dog away or tie him up since Bossie belonged to her son.

During the early 1940s, the Jones family had a gas well drilled on their property and gas lights installed in their home. The Jones home remained a haven to the family and was frequented by many visitors and many happy times were spent at this home by the grandchildren — especially this granddaughter.

In time some of the children moved away: Aristotle and his family to Delaware, Mildred (Shaffer) and her daughters to Florida, William Clayton, Jr. and his family to southern West Virginia.

But Dessel (Ray), Clifford, Virginia (Shamblin) and Markle remained in the area. Markle is presently erecting another home on the old family farm.

William died at home from cancer in 1943. Ollie was killed in a tragic automobile accident in 1955 in Kanawha County. Submitted by Betty Shaffer Evans

ORVILLE R. JONES

My Mom and Dad;

Orville Ray Jones sixth generation of Moses Wheeler Jones, married Beulah Burdette. They have four children: Rebeca, Tammy, Barbara, and BJ. We moved to a farm at Advent, Jackson County, from Vermillion, Ohio, in 1975. The farm has been in Dad's family for several generations. The land was nothing but pine trees, and grass was growing in the middle of the main road not much traffic at all; but it has changed some. The ride to school on the bus was very long and very bumpy. The bus didn't run past our house. We got on the bus at 6:50 a.m. and got home around 5 p.m. We really enjoyed living on the farm; we had horses, cows, and other animals. We started showing a couple of our horses at shows, and we went riding every weekend in the summer time. We raised our own

Barbara, Paul Hilbert, Beulah and Orville Jones

beef and vegetables so we always had a lot of work to do. The roads were so bad we always had a four wheel drive vehicle. We all graduated from Ripley High School. Rebecca lives in Sissonville. Tammy lives on part of the farm. I went into the Air Force and was living in Oklahoma. I met Paul Hilbert there; we came back to Jackson Co. to get married; we had a yard wedding. Upon discharge, I moved back to Jackson Co. Paul my husband is in Japan. My brother, BJ is in the Air Force stationed at Alconbury Base in England. My Dad and Mom have four grandchildren: Jeremy, Randy, Sarah, and Nichole. Submitted by Barbara Jones Hilbert

KALT

Charles Ernst Kalt (5/27/1824-8/16/1881) was born Ernst Carl Ludwig Kaldt in Frankenburg, Hesse, Germany. He immigrated to America and married Maria Keziah Fuhrman of Lititz, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. They moved to Columbiana County, Ohio, and became the parents of nine children: George Julius (who died as an infant), Julius Augusta, Henry Andreas Josiah, John Stuart, Alice Josephina, Charles Lewis, Maria Justina Emilie, William Franklin, and Walter Paul Cornelius.

Charles Ernst Kalt came to Jackson County and purchased a farm between Sandyville and Liverpool on December 18, 1877. He then returned to Columbiana County, built a raft large enough to hold the whole family, their possessions, and, with stalls for livestock, put it on the Ohio River at East Liverpool. They started out for West Virginia, floating down the river by day and pulling into shore at night. Finally they reached their destination after having traveled some 200 miles on the river to an area near Ravenswood where they continued on land to their farm near Sandyville.

Eventually Alice Josephine Kalt Rogers and William Franklin Kalt settled in Athens County, Ohio. Julius Augusta, Henry Andreas Josiah, and John Stuart Kalt settled in Tuscarawas County, Ohio. Maria Justina Emilie Kalt Hutchinson settled in Harrisville, West Virginia. Charles Lewis and Walter Paul Cornelius Kalt remained in Jackson County.

Charles Lewis Kalt (3/14/1854-1960) was married to Lucy Haynes. They were the parents of Letitia (Letty) Kalt Robinson, Henry Lewis Kalt, Doris Kalt Curry, and Hazel Maxine Kalt Stanley, all deceased. Charles Lewis operated a store and the post office at Crow Summit.

Walter Paul Cornelius Kalt (9/17/1873-4/22/1952) was married to Luella Williams (1878-1906). Their children, William Jennings Kalt and Inez Kalt Kirby, are both deceased. After the death of his first wife, Walter married Lora Jane Mullinex (7/7/1890-10/27/1982). They were the parents of Ruby Mae Kalt Badgett (3/12/1911-6/24/1988). Glen Darrell Kalt, who presently lives in Ripley, and Gerald Lynn Kalt of Havelock, North Carolina. The Kalts operated a store at Frozen Camp for many years. They came to Ripley in 1947 and operated their store on Main Street until 1949 when they moved to Parkersburg and opened a store at Mineralwells for a short time before they retired.

Glen Darrell and his wife, Edna Hainline Kalt, have three children: Barbara Kalt Knight, Cleveland, Ohio, William Darrell Kalt of Aiken, South Carolina, Deborah Kalt Sisson of Ripley, and four grandchildren. Deborah, her husband, Stephen, and son, Jay Kalt Sisson, live on Midway Acres. She is an art teacher at Ripley Middle School.

Much of the above information was furnished by Barbara Kalt Exley, New Philadelphia, Ohio, a great-granddaughter of John Stuart Kalt, and Bill Currey, Pocatalico, West Virginia, grandson of Charles Lewis Kalt. Submitted by Glen D. Kalt

KARR (KERR, CARR)

The first of our Karr line to come to Jackson County was David D. Karr (b. 1846, Wheeling, WV; d. 1898).

He moved there in 1866 ahead of his parents who came in 1871.

His father, (?John) Henry Kerr (b. ca 1812, Ireland; d. 1890), came to America from Ireland sometime between 1820-1839).

Family history says he came with two brothers who were weavers. Henry spent most of his life in Wheeling where he was a drayman. On 29 August 1839 Henry married Anna Agnes Fulton (b. 1822; d. 1892).

Their children in addition to David were: John (?Henry), Elizabeth, Katherine, Margaret, and James.

The family must have valued education since two of their sons, David and John, were school teachers. David was also the editor of the paper, and Justice of the Peace (1876). He started the Ripley Academy.

David and Louisa Francis Van Horn (b. 1851, Jackson City; d. 1941) were married 1 April 1869. She was the daughter of Brice Selby Van Horn (b. 1830, Baltimore, MD; d. 1889) and Sarah Jane Mills (b. 1828, Belmont, OH; d. after 1880).

Her paternal grandparents were Samuel Abraham Van Horn (b. 1790-1800; d. 1831) and Marie Louisa Messer (Mercer) (b. 1801-2 d. 1880) whose second husband was Miles A. Jacoby. Her maternal grandparents were William Mills and Martha E. Brooks.

Children of David and Louisa Francis were: Annie, Sally, Louise, Marie, William Morrison, Charles and Edgar.

Maguire Hotel (Corner of Court & Main Streets)

Louisa Francis in addition to her seven children reared 21 other children, some of whom were not blood related and one of whom was a black male, said to have become a judge in Wheeling. The large number of children was probably because of her hotel business interests. One such hotel was the Hotel Maguire which was located in downtown Ripley. A second one was the Hassler house also across from the courthouse in Ripley. Her son, William Morrison (b. 1878, Pond Creek, Pleasant View, WV; d. 1953) and his wife, Ida Jane Wendell (b. 1885 Staats Mills, WV; d. 1965) managed the second hotel in the 1930s.

Will and Ida met at the O.J. Morrison store where he was a clerk. Later he was a garageman, contractor, and policeman. Ida was a seamstress and milliner. One time they went all the way to Charleston by horse and buggy to get a pecan pie which was a secret recipe!

Ida's father was George Nestor Wendel (b. 1856 Staats Mills, WV; d. 1926) with a family line of Morris, Young, McWhorter, Glass, Smith, Hurst, Sims, Fields. Her mother was Hannah Margaret Staats (b. 1854; d. 1890) with a family line of Tolley, Carney, Hill, King, Parsons, Chestnut.

Children and grandchildren of Will and Ida were: Lillian m. "Happy" Fryberger (Shirley, Linda, Cindy). William Jr. m. Jeanne Flemming (David, Debbie, Bill, Jane Ann) Evelyn m. Charles Kessel, son (C.V.)

HOLLIE KAY, JR.

This is in tribute to my youngest brother, Hollie Kay, Jr., who was born in Jackson County on Round Knob Run on June 12, 1924 and died in Italy during World War II on January 16, 1944. Like so many young men from our area, he sacrificed his life so that loved ones back home could live in peace and freedom.

Part of our family, the Sayres and the Stewarts, came to the Jackson County area from Pennsylvania and their ancestors came to this country from Wales. The Kays had been in Jackson County for many years before that. Our parents were Hollie Kay and Beatrice Parsons Kay and we were a farming family, living on Round Knob Run which is near Evans. Children of Hollie and Beatrice, besides Hollie, Jr., are Olive Kay Parsons, Monroe Kay, Adelaide Kay Duff and Virginia Kay Brooks. Paternal grandparents were Dick Kay and Alice Stewart Kay who were also farmers. Maternal grandparents were George Parsons and Adelaide Casto Parsons. He was a teacher and general storekeeper, with one store at his home on Parchment and one in Rock Castle, West Virginia.

Hollie, as did the rest of his brothers and sisters, received his education to the eighth grade from Round Knob Run school. He attended part of one semester at Ripley High School but didn't like it so he quit. He was 18 years old and working in a steel mill in Pittsburgh when he decided to enlist in the army. He figured he would be drafted anyway so he went ahead and enlisted. Hollie knew several young men from the area that were in the army with him. We would receive letters from him and he told us that he did not like being in the army and he talked about the award he won for sharpshooting during his training.

While serving with General Clark's army in Italy, where he was shipped after his enlistment and training, we received a letter from Hollie six days after he was wounded. He said that he wasn't injured too badly. He told us about riding mules up into the mountains of Italy before he was injured. Ernie Pyle, a famous newspaper war correspondent, would also later write in his column about riding the mules into the mountains of Italy.

We never heard from Hollie after that last letter when he was in the hospital in Italy. The Germans bombed that hospital and the Red Cross believed that Hollie was there when the bombing occurred. We never received his personal belongings. Hollie's remains are buried at Pine Hill Cemetery. He was 19 years old. Submitted by Olive Kay Parsons

GEORGE WILLIAM KELBAUGH

George William Kelbaugh, noted Jackson, Wirt and Roane County educator, was born February 10, 1876, in Jackson County to John and Mary (VanFosson) Kelbaugh. Mr. Kelbaugh was educated and lived most of his early years in the Wiseburg area of Jackson County.

On August 7, 1898, Mr. Kelbaugh married Minnie Isadora Dennis in Wirt County. Minnie, first child of Lemuel and Hannah Loretta (Winland) Dennis, was born June 28, 1876, in Monroe County, Ohio. The young couple purchased a 100-acre farm near Wiseburg where Mr. Kelbaugh built his first home, an attractive two-story wood-frame home. Modified to one floor several years ago, the house still overlooks Highway 21. About 1923 the Kelbaughs moved to North Ravenswood where George built a two-floor home on Washington Street.

Mr. Kelbaugh first taught at the Emma School in Wirt County about 1920. He also taught in Roane County, then in Jackson County where he retired about 1934. Mr. Kelbaugh's love for education continued beyond retirement when he often read stories to his grandchildren. One tangible result of all this sharing of love of learning and lore is that all three children taught school for a period, two grandchildren became career teachers and two great-grandchildren are in the ministry.

On June 1, 1936, the Kelbaughs opened a grocery/service station in Ravenswood on the corner of Sand and Race Streets in partnership with their daughter, Georgia, and son-in-law, Harry Gorrell. About six years later, the Kelbaughs sold their business interests to the Gorrells.

Noram Estel, first child of George and Minnie, was born June 16, 1899. Norma married James Ross Hare and lives in Carlsbad, California. Otmer John, born July 29, 1901, married Ovice Marie Wheaton on December 28, 1925. Otmer died December 5, 1987 in Geneva, Ohio. Georgia Minnie was born June 10, 1903. She married Harry David Gorrell on September 2, 1930. Georgia died August 14, 1965, and is buried in the Ravenswood Cemetery. The Kelbaugh's last child, Ina, was born August 7, 1914. Just five years later, "Little Ina" died from polio on August 17, 1919.

Norma, George, Georgia, and Otmer Kelbaugh, Minnie (standing in rear), ca. 1907

Grandchildren of George and Minnie include children of Norma: William Hare and Glenn Franklin Hare both living in Southern California; of Otmer: Irene Normal Stoll, living in Madison, Ohio; and of Georgia: Otmer Ronald Gorrell of Colorado Springs, Colorado, Arnold Dayton Gorrell of Austin, Texas, and Dolores Vallee Smith of Washington, WV.

On June 19, 1942, George lost his wife in an accident during an air raid drill. George died three years later at his daughter's (Georgia) home on August 29, 1945. Both are buried in Pleasant Ridge Cemetery, Jackson County.

The Kelbaugh family has its roots in the Upper Rhine Valley of Germany where Christophel Calebach was born about 1726, Christophel emigrated to the United States and married Elizabeth about 1756. In 1769 he bought a farm in Maryland which he called Spring Garden. Children of Christophel and Elizabeth include Henry (born November 6, 1757, died about 1837), Christian (died about May 1835), and Apollonia (October 25, 1766-about 1822).

Christian Kailbaugh married Elizabeth Noll about 1781. Their children were Conrad (September 16, 1782-April 11, 1863), Johannes (born 1784), Catherina (born 1788), Christian Jr. (1793-about 1828), John, Jacob, and Mary.

Conrad Kelbaugh, married Mary Dunham in Maryland on March 17, 1807. Their children included Elizabeth (October 17, 1809-September 12, 1882), Joshua (March 29, 1811-February 26, 1887), John (January 8, 1808-November 2, 1862), Jehu (1813-September 5, 1863), Christian (1820-1903), and Sarah.

Though most of Conrad's children remained in Maryland, Joshua moved westward in the early 19th century on a national construction project. Settling in Monroe County, Ohio, he married Mary Hatcher McLaughlin on August 1, 1844. Children of Joshua and Mary were Joseph (April 3, 1845-May 17, 1920), Nancy, John (January 12, 1848-September 3, 1906), Phoebe Jane, Basil (March 1851- December 31, 1927), Sarah Ann, James William (February 1, 1857-1934), and Margaret.

George's father, John, married Mary VanFosson in Noble County on September 29, 1867. John and Mary moved to Jackson County, WV, about 1875. Their children were Willis (born July 1867), Mariah Isophene (September 20, 1870-March 30, 1893), Huldah (December 10, 1872-October 8, 1878), George William, Criswell Thurman (November 15, 1878-July 8, 1918), Ida (1882-1950), and Charles (May 1884-1969). JOHN R. KELLER

John (1869-1949), was the son of Anthony and Ruth S. Boland Keller of Beaver County, Pennsylvania.

Anthony Keller, his wife (Ruth S.), a small son (John), Anthony's brother (John), and John's wife (Lizzie) made their way down the Ohio River by raft or flatboat to the vicinity of Hemlock. It has been said John adopted the initial "R" at an early age for his identity.

John R.'s first marriage was to Mathilda Jane Ball (1869-1900), who's home was in the area of Cedar Run or Pleasant View. Two daughters were born to this union, Ruby Clare and Mary Elizabeth. After the death of Mathilda Jane, Dad married her sister, Sarah Eva Ball (1874-1920). Two daughters were born of this marriage, Ruth Mathilda and myself, Margaret Helen. After the death of my mother, Sara Evaline, he married a third time to Ella DeBussey Cline (1879- 1962) bringing her two children (Zelma Ruth and Clarence Cline) into the home.

Dad served in the following positions: Mayor of Ravenswood, Postmaster, Justice of the Peace, Deputy Sheriff, Committeeman, and was on the Election Board of Jackson County. Dad was, at one time, a schoolteacher before going into the brickmaking business with his father. He later owned a broom factory. After this venture, he owned and operated an insurance agency in Ravenswood.

He was active in the Christian Church; and he served Superintendent, Deacon, and Elder for a period of approximately 55 years. Dad also served as Custodian and Bell-ringer until his health denied him this privilege.

When the church was without a minister, Dad would hold Sunday School and administer communion. The young people used our home for weekly meetings.

A.J. Joyce, (of Myersdale, Pennsylvania) a student of Bethany College, went to Ravenswood and launched the local congregation into a building program in March of 1895.

Fifty years later, Reverend Joyce recalled how he and John R. rode horse-back through the country soliciting donations for the church.

The Keller brick factory made the bricks, and donated half the bricks for the church construction.

John R. was a member of the Woodsman and IOOF Lodge for approximately 50 years.

He is survived by three daughters: Mary Elizabeth (1897 widow of Charles O. Batton (1892-1972) of Ritchie County), living in New Martinsville, West Virginia; Ruth Mathilda (1903 widow of Wendell Jones, living in Newark, Ohio; and Margaret Helen (1914 widow of Justus L. "Jud" James (1905-1982) of Gilmer County).

Deceased are: Ruby Clare (widow of George Wilson of Necomerstown, Ohio), Clarence Cline and Zelma Ruth Cline Herron. Submitted by Helen Keller James and Mary E. Batton

KELLY

When Charles and his father, Charley, traveled to Parkersburg to look up "Aunt Blanche", he was unaware that he was walking in the footsteps of his ancestors. The following Kelly history was written by Charley's father's sister, Ava Blanche Kelly Cooper, at the age of 83.

John Kelly I (May 23, 1691-1779) Donegal, Ireland; came to America in 1772; settled near Philadelphia, organized in Westmoreland County a township, which he called Donegal; settled a township which he named Argyle; married Jane Auld. John Kelly II (1732-1804) Lancaster County, PA; married Margaret Hand. John Kelly III (circa February 14, 1786) married Ann Davis.

Archibald Kelly (1808) Marion County, VA, son of John and Ann, married Christina Sharp May 20, 1828; acquired a large tract of virgin land on Stover Fork in Roane County, (W)VA; purchased a flatboat near Morgantown, loaded family, household belongings, livestock; started down the Ohio, landing below Ravenswood, where the boat was traded for oxen and wagon. Their landing place was called "Kelly's Landing" and was so named in 1873.

William Wesley Kelly (October 26, 1838-May 10, 1910) Marion County, son of Archibald and Christina, married Savana McCoy March 10, 1867. Injured at an early age, William had the opportunity to pursue the education he wanted. Although Archibald needed his boys to whip the land into production, Bill built a one-room school. His mother provided the necessities; a torch was used for night study. He earned money for one textbook at a time, mastered it and worked to earn money for the next. A young preacher often visited Bill; they became friends. Bill subsequently became a circuit rider and served areas which included Ravenswood where his great-grandson, Charles, made his home. Bill built a home near Parkersburg, which has since been subdivided. The road is now known as Camden Avenue.

Virgil Leonidas Kelly (May 10, 1868-November 16, 1931) Gilmer County, WV, son of Bill and Savana, married Allie McGraw; invested in the lumber business; established a general store and hotel in Wyoming County; organized a bank in Pineville. The year Lon died, his grandson, Charles, was only one year old.

Charles Abney Kelly (July 8, 1901-October 19, 1963, Oceana, WV, son of Lon and Allie, married Bess Trent November 11, 1929. The following was taken from "In Memoriam," a tribute to Charley when Charles Kelly Field was dedicated to his memory.

"It matters little where a man is born or when he died. The acts of one's life give or create the importance of their being. Charley attended Oce-ana schools, the University of Virginia, graduated from Emory & Henry. He started teaching and coaching in Baileysville in 1927, where he coached not only boys but girls in basketball and tennis. To keep the program solvent, Charley and his team often walked ten miles to catch a train. Bess washed their uniforms and fed the team before games. In 1935 Charley was appointed principal of Baileysville High School and organized Baileysville's first football team and coached it for many years. He helped organize the First Baptist Church in Baileysville. Charlie became an institution in Baileysville, and his daily jaunts to the post office shall be missed by many."

Charles Virgil Kelly (September 19, 1930) Baileysville, WV, son of Charley and Bess, married Angela Montalvo of Little Rock, August 31, 1956; attended Baileysville schools, Marshall University; U. S. Navy, graduated from Southern College of Optometry. It was after passing the State Board Examinations of West Virginia and Virginia that Charles and Charley visited Aunt Blanche. Ravenswood was just beginning its growing pains because of the location of the Kaiser Plant. Charles was advised to settle in Ravenswood and "grow up with it". Their children are Herlinda Susan, Michael Abney and Dolores Ann. Linda (January 31, 1958) married Jeffrey Dale Stephens (children: Jeffrey Charles (August 29, 1978) and Michael Allen (March 16, 1982.)) Mike (February 25, 1960) married Gloria Staats; attended Ravenswood schools, Marshall University. Mike and Charles enjoy riding motorcycles and learned the mechanics quickly. Subsequently, Mike established MAK Repair and acquired Shinn Service Station. (His child: Michael Andrew (September 12, 1989). Lori (February 13, 1963) works in Charles' office.

Virgil Leonidas Kelly, (February 15, 1935) Baileysville, WV, second son of Charley and Bess, married Naney Neal August 30, 1959; attended Baileysville schools, Marshall University. U. S. Navy, North Carolina State; Marshall (A.B. education), Wittenberg University (M.A. administration and supervision), Fresno State (M.A. mathematics. Lonnie worked at Courtaulds in Alabama, Vandalia-Butler City Schools, OH; moved to Ravenswood and worked for his brother, Charles; Jackson County Schools, September, 1986. Their children are Garriek and Kimberly. Garrick (October 8, 1960), married Martha (Shelly) Renick December 17, 1983. (children: Joshua (July 31, 1985) and Megan (June, 1989); and Kimberly (December 29, 1969) in school at Marshall.

Sue Marie Kerns 1949-1949.

Kenneth C. Kerns, my father was a big man, 6 ft. and 2 1/2 in. tall and weighed 235 lbs. To look at him you would think he was mean and tough, but everyone that knew him would tell you he was a gentle and loving man, very strict and very religious. Most of the Kerns were big men but they had the heart to match.

When I was a child growing up at home I remember how Dad would take us on walks through the woods, pick me flowers and teach us the names of trees and birds. Dad built a big bob sled so about six children could ride on it when winter came. There was always lots of children around, not just my brothers and sisters but neighbors too. As many as possible would climb on the sled, including my dad (he was a kid at heart). We would all take turns riding down the big hill. Dad and the bigger boys would pull the sled to the top so we could ride again. It was a lot of fun and we did this often each winter. While we were out having fun my mother, Delie Southall Kerns, would be in the kitchen baking sugar cookies and making hot cocoa for us all and making sure we had more warm mittens when we were ready to ride again.

Delie (Southall) and Kenneth C. Kerns

We never had many worldly things, but there was always plenty of love to go around, and it was shared with everyone. When bedtime came there always seem to be an extra kid to be tucked in and always room for one more. My uncle Alvin was an ambitious one; as a young man he was anxious to be out on his own and settle down. He rode a train west to Oregon, was there for a time and realized he left the most important part of his life behind. In the meantime Jessi Lanham couldn't figure out why he left without her; she knew he couldn't live or be happy without her so what did he think he was doing; he was nothing without her. Finally Uncle Alvin came back to WV and married Aunt Jessie Lanham and took her back to Oregon. I'm glad he finally saw things her way.

Uncle Dale served in World War II, received a Purple Heart for risking his life in the line of duty. While wounded he carried a comrade on his back 200 feet to safety.

Uncle Guy received an award as Sharp Shooter in World War II, Navy and Marines.

Most of our Kerns ancestors are buried in the Kerns-Skeen Cemetery, just off Kentuck road at Kenna, W.Va. Submitted by Sherry J. (Kerns) Myers and Richard Myers

GEMALIEL AND RACHEL KERNS

Gemaliel Pendelton Kerns was born July 29, 1848, the fourth child of David and Rebecca Washington Kerns, near Bellaire, Ohio.

At the age of 13 Gemaliel ran away from home and joined the Union Army. His mother, by then a widow, forced him to return home, but at the age of 14 he again ran off and rejoined the Union Army. This time his mother did not attempt to interfere with his desire.

Gemaliel was too small to carry a gun, so he was made a drummer boy. He was wounded in the battle of New Market, Virginia and was taken prisoner when the Southern Army captured the hospital.

He was discharged from the Army just before his 16th birthday. Family history tells of the 13 long black curls down his back when he returned home. He was blue eyed and had a fair complexion.

Rachel Ellen Boston was the daughter of George Boston of California and Jane Smith Boston of Lower Salem, Ohio. She grew up on a large plantation owned by the family near St. Lewis, Missouri. Each fall George and his oldest sons, John and Charles, would build a large raft out of logs and take their crops down the Mississippi River to sell in New Orleans. After the crops were sold the logs were used for lumber and they would catch a steamboat back home.

Around 1858, George sold the plantation. He put his wife and children on a boat and sent them up the Ohio River to Marietta, Ohio. George and his brother-in-law, Will Smith, joined a wagon train and headed for California to look for gold. Will died enroute.

In 1880 George wrote his daughter, Rachel, and son-in-law, Gemaliel Kerns, and asked them to come to California. He reported he had struck it rich and had enough money to support his children and grandchildren without them having to worry about working for a living. Later, after not hearing from George for several months and Rachel's letters returned, she wrote the Postmaster in the town George lived. The Postmaster wrote back advising that George was dead. The family always felt that he was killed for his money.

On November 20, 1869 Gemaliel Pendelton Kerns (1848-1928) and Rachel Ellen Boston (1851-1918) were married at Marietta, Ohio.

Around 1875, Gemaliel had an agreement to buy a track of land on Grass Lick in Jackson County, West Virginia. He and his wife loaded their three children and household furniture into a wagon and moved. When they arrived at Grass Lick the seller backed out of the deal. Winter was coming and Rachel was expecting their fourth baby. Gemaliel built a one-room pole and sod home on the hillside of Stone Lick. By spring, they had purchased a track of land at Kentuck with a log house on it. They lived in this house for several years before building a new house nearby.

Gemaliel and his two daughters played music and would often play on the telephone for their neighbors. Different exchanges would open up their lines so they could be heard in different communities.

Gemaliel and Rachel Kerns

Rachel died of measles at the age of 67. On the Sunday before she died, Rachel and Gemaliel were visiting their daughter, Alice, and her husband, Virgil Skeen, who were living at Mt. Tell, Jackson County. Rachel told Alice, "you know that I have had the measles. I think I am catching them again." By the following Sunday she was dead and buried.

Gemaliel married a second time to Heddy Fields. This was not a happy marriage and was dissolved shortly afterward.

Gemaliel, Rachel and all of their children, and their spouses, are buried in the Kerns Cemetery, with the exception of Azubah and her husband, Albert Landers. They are buried at Center Point Cemetery, Liberty, West Virginia.

Gemaliel and Rachel were the parents of nine children:

- (1) David O. (1870-1927) m. (1) Rachel Barton
- (2) Annie Skeen. He was the father of 11 children.
- (2) Bianca Edwinia (Eddie) (1872-1947) m. James Parsons. They had five children.
- (3) Rebecca Jane (Jinny) (1874-1929) m. A.W. (Jake) Skeen. They had ten children.
- (4) Gemaliel Justus (Maley) (1874-1943) m. Lucretia Good. They had 12 children.
- (5) George Walter (1879-1949) m. (1) Della Boggess, four boys, and (2) Esta Snodgrass, no children.
- (6) Ella Maye (1882-1946) m. Wesley Barnette. They had four children.
- (7) Azubah Agnus (1888-1969) m. Albert Landers. They had three boys.
- (8) Amanda Belle (1888-1889).

(9) Alice Pearl (1890-1968) m. Virgil (Doc) Skeen. They had seven children. Submitted by Dicie Casto and Eurada Landis

CHARLES ROYAL KESSEL

Born on Parchment Creek near Given on December 16, 1893 to Charles Riley and Louisa French Kessel, was a son, Charles Royal (Roy) Kessel. Roy's two siblings were Ray Kessel and Russel Kessel. These three brothers decided quite early in life they were geared for something other than barn cleaning. They became doctors and lived to see several sons, grandsons, and cousins become doctors. Roy graduated from medical school in Chicago. Roy and Russel both graduated from Jefferson Medical School in Philadelphia.

Roy finished eighth grade, taught on a state certificate in one-room schools before attending Fairmont Normal School from which he graduated in 1914. He then received Pre-Med credits at West Virginia University and went on to Philadelphia and received a Medical Degree in 1921. On August 11, 1917 he married Ruby Staats, the second of three daughters born to Enoch Staats and Zona Wendell Staats. Their other daughters were Nelle Staats (Shinn) and Marie Staats (Vance). Enoch first married Louisa Casto on January 14, 1862. She died. Mr. Staats operated a mill at Staats Mill, furnished the timber for the Covered Bridge that now stands at Cedar Lakes, and was a founder of The Bank of Ripley. Ruby Staats Kessel attended school in Virginia, Otterbien College in Ohio, and after her marriage furthered her education in music at West Virginia University. Roy and Ruby's three children and four of their grandsons also attended WVU.

Betty Louise, Charles Enoch, and James Staats

Charles Enoch (C.E.) Kessel, son of Roy and Ruby Kessel, was born August 4, 1920 and on January 28, 1955 married Jackson County 4-H Club Agent, Martena Patterson, who was born in Brooke County. To this union were born two children: Loretta Marie Kessel (Mason), mother of Dana, Eva, Felicia, Dwayne and Danelle Mason, and Daniel Wesley Kessel, father of Daniel Scott, Jessica, and Charles Rory Kessel. C.E. Kessel served as Clerk of the Jackson County Court for four six-year terms beginning January 1957. Daniel Wesley Kessel is a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine in Alto, Texas. He graduated from West Virginia University and Tuskegee Institute in Alabama.

Betty Louise Kessel (McLaughlin), Roy and Ruby's only daughter, was born February 17, 1922. On November 2, 1945 she married Hugh Price McLaughlin, now deceased. Their two sons are Vance McLaughlin and Dr. Hugh P. McLaughlin, father of Jamie and Kelly Louise McLaughlin. Dr. McLaughlin received his Doctorate at the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine at Lewisburg, West Virginia.

James Staats Kessel, second son of Roy and Ruby, was born June 21, 1924. He married (1) Elizabeth Mae White April 12, 1946 and (2) Mona Smith Kittle March 14, 1973. To his first marriage were born James White Kessel, father of James Mick Kessel, Steven Royal Kessel, father of Lauren and Jason Kessel, Diane Kessel (Rhodes), mother of Trevor and Cara Rhodes, and Deidre Kessel (Smith), mother of Curtis and Carl Smith.

Dr. James Staats Kessel graduated from WVU and Jefferson Medical School, served with the United States Army in Germany 1951-1953, then joined his father, Dr. Roy Kessel, at Kessel Clinic on Church Street where he still practices family medicine. Sons: James White Kessel is a Doctor of Surgery in Charleston, WV and Steven Royal Kessel is a Doctor of Family Medicine in Charlotte, North Carolina.

After graduation from Jefferson, Dr. Roy Kessel was appointed the first health service director at West Virginia University. Later he and wife, Ruby, purchased a small farm of 20 acres with a log home in the Evansdale area near the present football stadium. Roy, like many others, fell into "bad times" when the Great Depression engulfed the world. He gathered his wife and three children and headed for home, Ripley, to live with his parents for awhile. Roy's father had a secure position at The Bank of Ripley at this time.

Dr. Roy's ambitions were soon evidenced. He rented the Greer home where Ripley Post Office now stands and named it "Kessel Emergency Hospital." His brothers often drove from Charleston to assist with surgery and for consultation. When the government optioned the Greer property the hospital was moved to a back lot and work continued. The building later became headquarters for The Board of Education. At this time Dr. Roy bought the beautiful Schwender home and property on the knoll at the east edge of town and created a new hospital. The Kessel family raised and canned food for themselves and hospital staff and patients. A large garden, a cow or two, and ten or twelve hogs a year kept three children and Ruby plenty busy. In 1946 Edison Parsons made an offer for the hospital property. Patients were moved to the late Nelle Shinn home on Church Street and Dr. Roy planned for a new clinic using the old Methodist Church property next door. Allen Shinn returned from Florida the spring of 1950 to construct the present-day Kessel Clinic and the following spring a new family residence on Highlawn Drive. Every piece of wood in both structures Dr. Roy prided as coming from farms on Parchment. The clinic is now owned by Dr. James S. Kessel and the residence is the home of C.E. and Martena Kessel.

Dr. Roy through the years, furthered his abilities in many ways. He gave 25 years of uncompensated service as a member of the Selective Service System, served many years as County Health Director, was often called to attend Mental Hygiene Commission hearings at the Court House, and served a term as Ripley City Mayor. One of his last civic duties was to serve as a member of the first State Committee for the Aging.

Dr. Roy Kessel underwent surgery at West Virginia University Hospital in 1963. He died suddenly on Labor Day of September, 1965 while attending a patient at his clinic. Ruby Kessel died suddenly January 26, 1968 in her home. Both are interred in Pine Hill Cemetery, Ripley, West Virginia. Submitted by C. E. Kessel and James S. Kessel, M.D.

C.R. AND FRANCES (FRENCH) KESSEL

The C.R. (Charles Riley) Kessel and Leander Miller families (see elsewhere) were closely entwined because two of the Kessel sons married two of the Miller daughters.

Charley Kessel was the eldest son, born Aug. 7, 1870 to James Mason (1836-1916) and Flora Jane Parsons Kessel (1850-1932). He and Louisa French of Harrisville, Ohio, born June 27, 1869, were married Aug. 2, 1888 on horseback. They established their home in Parchment Valley, near where C.R. was born, and farmed there until moving to Ripley, where he became a deputy sheriff and then cashier of the Bank of Ripley. "Aunt Louisa" as she became known, lived more than 100 years, her death being in September of 1969. Charley and Louisa had three sons, all of whom became doctors. They are:

Dr. Ray Kessel (1889-1966) was educated at Fairmont College and Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery, graduating as valedictorian of his class. Before entering medical school he taught school in the Parchment area. In 1920 he married Katherine (Kate) Miller and established a practice in Charleston, having previously practiced medicine riding horseback to make house calls in Jackson County. He served with the medical corps in France during World War I and again served during World War II.

Ray and Kate Kessel returned to Ripley after his retirement from active practice and lived there until their deaths. Kate assisted in the Ripley Library for years, and also worked in the office of the county clerk. Their elder daughter, Katherine, and her husband, Willis Burdette, formerly of Logan, now live in the house on North Street where Leander and Jessie Miller (Kate's parents) lived in their later years and then where Ray and Kate lived.

Their son, Dr. Ray Miller Kessel of Logan and Huntington, is in family practice in Logan and formerly headed the family practice division of Marshall Medical School, being its first coordinator. He is married to the former Jean Woodruff of Wheeling.

Geraldine (Jerry) Kessel of Morgantown is a graduate of Ripley High School and WVU College of Journalism. After working on several newspapers, she is coordinator of publications of the WVU extension service.

Dr. C. Royal Kessel (see elsewhere)

Dr. Russel Kessel (1900-1977) was the third of the three brothers to enter the field of medicine. After his graduation from Morgantown High School (a feat which occurred after he became a freshman at WVU), Russel earned his degree from WVU and finished his first two years of medical school there. He received his Medical Degree from Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia in 1925, and spent two years at Jefferson Hospital as an intern and resident in surgery. He set up his practice as a surgeon in Charleston in the summer of 1927 and on November 22 of that year he married Pauline (Pete) Miller of Ripley. (see elsewhere) From this union were born two daughters, Jenny Lee Melton Cross of Atlanta, GA, and Paulina Beth (Polly) Hughes of Ripley. (see elsewhere)

Russel was active in community and professional activities having served as President of the West Virginia Medical Society. He served in the Medical Corps of the United States Naval Reserve and was stationed on Okinawa during WW II. He retired from the Reserve with the rank of Captain. He remembered his roots as a Jackson Countian for many of his patients came from this area.

Not only did Charley and Louisa Kessel have three sons who were doctors, the tradition was carried on with two grandsons and five great-grandsons becoming doctors. Submitted by Miss Jerry Kessel and Ms. Jenny K. Cross

D.E. AND ELIZABETH KESSEL

Delmer E. Kessel and Laura Elizabeth Corbin were married on horseback on the Charleston pike about six miles south of Ripley, March 23, 1890. They immediately made their home on a farm on a small branch of Parchment Creek about nine miles southwest of Ripley. There they engaged in

JAMES MASON KESSEL

The Kessel family is of German origin. Numerous people of that name may be found in Germany today. From colonial times many Kessels emigrated to America and are found in almost every state. We do not know the name of our immigrant ancestor. It may have been one George Kessel, who came to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania soon after the Revolution. Neither do we know the name of George's wife. They may have had as many as six children — George Jr. (1804-?), Job (1807-1884), Sydney, Jemima, Jonathan, and Joshua. The family apparently came to Jackson County by way of Hampshire and Harrison Counties. George Jr. married Delila Casto. Among their children were Elizabeth, Levi, Margaret, Jacob, Elmore, Abraham and George T. George Jr. and Job were the ancestors of most of the Kessels living in Jackson and surrounding counties today.

Job Kessel was married in 1830 to Frances Bowles, daughter of Jabel and Nancy Mason Bowles. The Bowles and Mason families are of English descent and came to the Parchment section of Jackson County from Franklin County, Virginia, about 1818. Job and Frances were the parents of nine children: George emigrated to Indiana, married and reared his family there. Jemima married Abraham Wolfe but left no issue. Nancy never married. Jabel married first Catherine Davis, then Lorraine Casto Bailey, a widow. Joseph Brooks married Eliza Straley. Sydney married David L. Sayre. The youngest daughter, Elizabeth (Betsy), married Gus Tabor and lived in Wayne County, West Virginia.

James Mason Kessel, the fourth child and second son of Job and Frances Bowles Kessel, was born October 1, 1836. At an early age he set himself to work and earned enough money to prepare for teaching school. He was the first native of his community to become a teacher. Although his main occupation throughout his life was that of a farmer, he found time to serve the public in various ways. He was the first president of the board of education of Ripley District and served with distinction on that board for many years. He was deputy assessor at various times. He was the first notary in the southern end of Jackson County and many of his writings are recorded in the county clerk's office.

In 1860 James Mason Kessel married Mazilla Harpold, daughter of Solomon and Malinda Shinn Harpold. Three children were born to this union: Dora, who married Alcander Pinnell; Ida May, who married Frank R. Parsons; and Delmer E. "Della", who married Laura Elizabeth Corbin. Mazilla died January 16, 1869 in childbirth. A few months after her death James married Flora Jane Parsons, eldest daughter of Alexis F. and Phoebe Casto Parsons. To this union were born eleven children: Charles R. who married Louisa French; Clara who married S.B. Sayre; Laura who married M.H. French; Dennis who married Ella Corbin; Myrtle who married G. Wallace Casto; James Everett who married Winifred Conlon; Orville who married Belva Bonnett; Belle who married John M. Bibbee; Bessie who married Julius Frey; Adelia who married Holly Lewis; and Delsie who married Perry Davis.

James M. Kessel stood unmistakably on the side of honesty, sobriety and industry. He was a life-long member of the Pleasant Hill Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and gave freely of his means to support the church. He lived to see all 14 of his children married and established in homes of their own. He died July 26, 1916 after a long bout with cancer. He was survived by his wife, all his children, seventy-six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Submitted by D. Wade Kessel

JOHN W. KESSEL

Job Kessel was born September 12, 1807 in Hampshire County, Virginia, probably the son of Jonathan Kessel, and came to the Parchment area at an early age as an apprentice tanner for Solomon Harpold. He married Frances Bowles March 11, 1830 and later received a land grant from the Commonwealth of Virginia containing 94 acres on Parchment Fork as an assignee of Mason Bowles for one moiety and in his right for the other moiety. This tract was covered by Treasury Warrant No. 10570 dated April 6, 1840. Another grant was made for 50 acres on Kessel's run and covered by Treasury Warrant No. 105237 dated September 29, 1845. This tract still remains in the Kessel family.

Job and Fannie reared nine children and all remained in the area except George, who went to Indiana. They were excellent farmers, great educators, spiritual and civic leaders in their community and county. Through self training they performed many professional services.

Job Kessel

Artifacts found in the area indicate that prehistoric people were occupants here at least ten thousand years ago. These cultures represent time periods of the Paleo Indian, Archaic, Woodland and Late Prehistoric people.

Thus begins the descendants of the seventh of nine children — William Amos Kessel (1843-1900) married Ruth Parsons (sister of Alexis F. Parsons) (1848-1920). They resided at the confluence of McDade run and Licksillet of Kessel run and reared eight children. They all remained in the vicinity except Albert who went to Texas. All were very successful in their professions.

John Walter Kessel, the fourth child of William and Ruth (1876-1961), married Mary Brooks (1894-1936) and reared six children as follows: Estel Gay Kessel (1912) married Wanda Gillenwater, two children, Thomas Wayne 1945 and Alfred Gay 1947-

Samuel Dalton Kessel 1913, married Irene See (descendant of Michael See who was killed in the battle of Point Pleasant), two children, Mary Sue Jaffee (1944) and Samuel Neal (1946).

Irene Kessel (1915-1974) married Lawrence Taylor, five children, Adrian Lee (1940), William Ronnie (1942), Royal Carl (1944), Walter Kessel (1950-1972) and Barbara Jean (1954-).

Floyd Ray Kessel (1918) married Frances Hessom, three children, Floyd Ray Jr. (1949-1980), Gwendolyn Dolby (1950), Kelly Scott (1965-).

John Walter Kessel Jr. (1923-1988), married Eva Harper, one child, Judy Kessel (1966-). This concludes the descendants of John Walter Kessel to and including the great-great grandchildren of Job and Frances Bowles Kessel.

In conclusion, no better description can be made than that furnished by Fay French Bowles to Elaine Rowley, correspondent for the Ravenswood News and was published on August 8, 1979. This article was truly a masterpiece in journalism and titled — Parchment Creek Pioneers Were Not Ordinary People. An excerpt from the article is as follows: "Parchment Creek has sent forth many illustrious citizens — doctors, lawyers, ministers, editors, writers, and teachers. They are unique and go an extra mile attitude." Submitted by Samuel D. Kessel

OLIVER D. KESSEL

Oliver D. Kessel, born January 12, 1901, in Ripley, Jackson County, the son of Edward Dennis and Ella Corbin Kessel, being the third of nine children of this family unit, was educated in Jackson County Schools, and graduated from West Virginia University in 1924 with an LLB Degree and in 1928 with a J.D. Degree. He came back to Ripley, Jackson County, in 1928 to practice law and to begin a life of active involvement in politics, church, community and fraternal organizations. One of his greatest accomplishments was to convince Katharyn Hartman, born March 4, 1904, in Elkins, WV, to leave her native Randolph County and come to Jackson County, on September 8, 1930, as his bride and life companion.

Katharyn, who was always called "Katie", was a graduate of Davis and Elkins College, taught school a few years and was active in 4-H Club work, Red Cross work, and similar activities. Katie's father was Jacob Gates Hartman who fought for the Union in the Civil War. Her mother was Mary Catherine Kensinger. Both were from Uniontown, Pennsylvania.

Oliver and Katie Kessel

The Kessels raised three daughters. The first, Elaine, born November 22, 1932, whose first marriage to J. Robert Murphy gave them three children; Ross David born October 18, 1954, who married Diane Doty. They have three children; Lauren Elizabeth born January 3, 1986; Conor Ian born November 26, 1987; and Sean Patrick born July 12, 1989. Terah, their first daughter, born March 3, 1956, who was married to William Lee Lauf and has one daughter, Morgane Lee, born February 11, 1986, and Roberta Kathryn, their third child, born August 22, 1957, who married Michael Richard Gilhousen and they have two children: James Michael born May 1, 1984; and Anna Jane born February 16, 1987. Elaine's second marriage was to Tom O. Stone who was born June 29, 1929, in Belpre, Ohio. They now live in Ripley, WV.

The second daughter, Sandra, born February 3, 1935, married Dr. Kenneth C. Rowley, born December 25, 1933, in Ravenswood, and they have three daughters: the first, Catherine Hartman born June 7, 1959, and is married to Alex Zelner and they have twin sons: Gregory Michael and David Alexander born December 19, 1989. The second, Margaret King, born January 31, 1961; and the third, Anna Bassett, born June 7, 1963. Sandra and Ken reside in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The third daughter, Ella Dee, born February 26, 1943, was married to Gaston Caperton III of Charleston, WV, and they have two sons; W. Gaston IV born August 17, 1967; and John Ambler born April 18, 1969. Ella Dee resides in Charleston, WV.

For over fifty years the Kessel family home on Charleston Drive was the social center of the community for the young and old. Their spacious lawn accommodated many youngsters who came there to play, ride the ponies, chat a while or rest under the spreading ash and maple trees. The older folk were always made comfortable and felt restful by the kind and gracious hostess of the house and mother of the family. Submitted by Oliver D. Kessel

DR. RUFUS KESSEL

This was Dr. Rufus Kessel's office and farm back in 1905-1915. The office had two rooms. The back room had a lot of shelves where he kept his medicine. He operated on a man for appendicitis in this office.

The horse block is in front of the office where he mounted his riding horse to make house calls. He had a man to take care of all his riding horses, and a large barn with double wall stalls in it.

Rockcastle Post Office

Samuel and Lucy Simmons bought the farm in 1918, then sold it to J.C. "Ceph" Casto and wife Minnie, April 1919. She had the Rockcastle Post Office in the same building from August 26, 1936 until August 1958. The farm is still owned by the heirs of J.C. "Ceph" Casto. His son Marshall and Julia Casto live there today. Submitted by Donald Casto

REV. B.F. KING

The Reverend Benjamin Francis King, only child of six children born to George Washington and Julia Douglass King to live to adulthood, was born August 17, 1878, at the King farm one mile west of Ripley Courthouse. At an early age, he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and attended Lee Normal School in Ripley.

On June 20, 1901, "Benny" married Grace McKown, eldest daughter of Perry and Emma King McKown. Grace (born April 8, 1882) grew up on a neighboring farm. She attended elementary school at the Star School located on her father's farm, and spring school at Evans. Later, she attended some summer terms at Ripley. They were united in marriage by Reverend Sam Robinson in the newly built Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which was on the site of the present Epworth United Methodist Church. "Benny" drove a handsome buggy drawn by beautiful horses furnished by his father and it was said they made a handsome couple. To this union were born two sons: Milford Francis and Paul Marvin.

During the early years of marriage, "Benny" decided to become a Southern Methodist Minister. He preached at Sandyville and then at Newton (Roane County). From there they moved to Barboursville where he went to Morris Harvey College in order to comply with church regulations for ministers. In that era, all Methodist ministers were required to move every four years. When they moved, all furniture, books and belongings had to be crated, boxed and shipped by train, boat or wagon. Churches served in addition to the above were Marshes (Raleigh County), Lubeck, Grantsville, Ravenswood, Kentucky Charge, Winding Gulf, Dunbar, Poca and Paden City. While in Ravenswood, the boys attended high school, and at Barboursville they went to Morris Harvey College from where Rev. King served the Kentucky charge.

Rev. Benny and Grace King

After retiring from active ministry in 1929, Rev. and Mrs. King moved back to the farm near Ripley, where they lived many happy years. On June 20, 1951, they celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home place for the occasion. Rev. King had circulation and heart problems and died on April 29, 1956 at home. After his death, a local newspaper editorial stated: "We feel impelled . . . to mention briefly the great value, the high esteem, and the sterling qualities of B.F. King. HE WAS GOOD. What more can be said of any man?"

In 1957, Grace bought property on Maple Street, Ripley, where she made her home. She was active in United Methodist Women and Millcreek Valley Homemaker's Club, representing the Jackson County Homemakers at the West Virginia Folk Festival, Glenville, as a "Belle" in 1968. Grace died April 15, 1981, at Jackson General Hospital from a series of strokes (age 99). Reverend and Mrs. King are interred in Pine Hill Cemetery.

DIXON KING

The immigrants of our King family first came to the colonies with Cecilius Calvert (Second Lord Baltimore). They were among a group of 200 people, gentlemen of wealth and position, who boarded the ship "The Ark and the Dove." Those who set sail for the British Colonies were required to take an oath of allegiance to the King of England and these passengers had refused to do so. Despite orders not to sail, they sailed from Gravesend in November 1633 and arrived in March 1634, settling on a peninsula which they named Saint Mary's.

Walter King lived in the same settlement until he died October 1653. His son Albert King married Sophia Burgess. Their grandson, Joseph King, married Draden Johnson in 1754. Joseph's son, Basil King, married Sarah Brookbank in Trinity Parish of St. Mary's Co., Maryland. These Kings still resided in Maryland during the Revolutionary War, but then moved to Ohio.

Two brothers, John and Andrew King, were born in Belmont County, Ohio. It's uncertain whether they were the sons or the grandsons of the Maryland Kings.

One brother, Andrew King, spent his entire life on his Belmont County farm. He married Elizabeth Blackwood in 1827 and had six children: Mary, Elizabeth, Nancy, Jemima, Sarah Jane, and Thomas James. FRANCIS KING I

In 1938, Edith King Luyken (daughter of Clero J. and Bertha Kapphan King of California) and husband Heinrich Luyken, visited Paul and Ocie King. Edith worked in Hamburg, Germany, and Heinrich was a German citizen. Hitler's government asked them to prove her lineage in order that their children might be admitted to a university, hence their research of the King family. She shared the following: Francis King I came to America circa 1653, brought by Guiles Brent, who received land in Northampton County, Virginia, for bringing settlers from England to the colonies. It is through his son Robert that we claim our lineage. Robert, Stafford County, Virginia, married Elizabeth Brooke, daughter of Robert Brooke of Maryland. It is said that Robert was killed by Indians. He had a son, William, who married Judith Peyton Brent. We are descendants of their son William Alfred, who married Sophie Burgess. Our ancestral branch comes to us through their son Walter, who married Elizabeth Pratt. Their son Leonard was our ancestor. He married Katherine — and moved to Charles County, Maryland. From there he served in the Revolutionary War. To them was born a son, Francis II, who moved to what is now Jackson County, WV.

William H. Hartley, grandson of Francis III, published a genealogy in 1937. He states "In 1818, Francis King II . . . and a Jacob Starcher purchased a tract of land from John Swan of Baltimore, MD. This tract consisted of about 565 acres located along Big Mill Creek . . . The deed describing the boundary refers to maple and oak trees, and stones as location points." On April 17, 1820, these men divided this land in two equal parts. We are told that King took the land west of Mill Creek and Starcher took that on the eastern side. Francis II (1780-1853) married Mary Richards (1780-1871) in 1800, a daughter of Paul and Katherine Richards, of Scotch-Irish descent. Their home was near where the junction of I-77 and U.S. 33 is now. The King cemetery is on a knoll overlooking this area, where many of the early King families are buried. Francis II and Mary had seven children: Elijah, William, Leonord, Samuel, Katherine, Bridget and Betsy Elizabeth.

Elijah and Samuel King's families

Elijah was our ancestor — (1801-1881). He married Susanah Cruzan (or Kruzan) (1801-1878) of French descent, in 1822. They were the parents of eleven children: Samuel, born 1823, and David, born 1827, were drowned while small in Mill Creek. Isaac, born 1825, married Eliza Baremore in 1847 and lived in Mason County. Their children included Henderson and Minnie. Francis III (history is in this volume). Catherine, born 1831, married Elias Kerwood in 1851. Children were Ella (m. George Greenlee), Kelly, William Perry, attorney (m. Martha Jane Lewis), John (m. Olic Rhodes), Martha (m. Cunningham), Margaret (m. Wingett), Charlie (m. Ora Unrue) and Annie (m. Isadore Casto). John R., born 1832, married Julia Ann Carter in 1862, and had two children — Susan A., a photographer, and Charles T. (m. Amanda Zerkle). Mary Jane, born 1834 (m. first Coulter, second John Wolfe). George Washington (history in this book). Sarah A., born 1838, married James Kerwood (brother of Elias). Eight children — Myrtle, William, R.E., Rosa, Mary, Holly, Elijah and Early. William H., born 1840. Served in Confederate Army (m. first Emma Frances Greenlee, second Kate Warden). Children were — Wavie (m. John Starcher), Oran, Clero J. (m. Bertha Kapphan), Oma (m. John Smith), and Carl. Elijah, born 1843, died at Camp Chase during Civil War. JOHN RILEY KING

Shortly before the war of 1812, Elijah King (1801) was born near Ripley, West Virginia. Elijah's father, Francis King II, had migrated from Stafford County, Virginia and with Jacob Starcher purchased 500 acres of land west of Ripley (Interstate 77 and U.S. Route 33 bisect the site).

This was to become the home of one of the early settlers of Jackson County and our King ancestors. The sixth child of Francis and Katherine (Richards) King II was to become our next generation of ancestors.

Elijah King married Susannah Kruzan. They had eleven children whose descendants number in the hundreds and continue to live in the Mill Creek Valley and adjacent areas.

John Riley King (1832), son of Elijah, married Julia Carter (1828) of Cottageville, West Virginia in 1862. They settled on the Carter Farm at the mouth of Cow Run on Mill Creek. They had two children, Susan Alice (1863) and Charles Taylor (1866). The farm continued to be identified as the Carter Farm as late as 1990, even though four generations of Kings continued to live there between 1850 and 1943.

Susan, a well-known photographer and artist in Ripley in the late 1800s, died in 1936. She never married. Her brother, Charles Taylor King, married Amanda Matilda Zerkle in 1888. Their children were Wade Wilson (1889), Cecil Carl (1891), and Charles Howard (1896).

Wade married Lillie Staats of Evans, West Virginia, and had a son, Charles Donald, who married Viola Oldham also of Evans. To this union was born a son, Donald, and a daughter, Darlene.

Howard moved to Missouri where he married, and later moved to Mobile, Alabama where his widow still lives.

Cecil married Clara Eunice Mahon, a descendant of Reese Mahon (see Reese Mahon Family), in 1917. Cecil and Eunice reared five children, Carroll Deane, Clara Virginia, Carl Wayman, Edwin Clair and Anna Louise.

Carroll has two sons, Robert and Donald, and one daughter, Julia Lea. Edwin has a son, Ronald, and a daughter, Karen, all who live in California. Wayman has six sons, Terry, Charles Gerald, Patrick, Michael, David and Richard, and one daughter, Sandra. Clara Virginia has no children. Louise married Charles Haydon Murray of Ripley, West Virginia (see Jesse Murray family) and lives in Cottageville, West Virginia. They have a son, Richard Keith, and two daughters, Patricia Lynn and Pamela Ann. Richard is married to Cathy Lyons of Ravenswood, West Virginia and lives in Ravenswood with his son, Todd Richard, and daughter, Richelle Lynn. Patricia is married to Gregg Kuhl and lives in Lawrenceville, Georgia — no children. Pamela married Julian T. Hatcher of Kenna, West Virginia. They have a son, Jeremy Daniel, and a daughter, Juli Ann, and presently live in Cottageville, West Virginia.

There are at least 35 descendants of Charles Taylor King, of whom 17 have the King name, living today. Eight descendants are living in Jackson County. Submitted by Louise King Murray

PAUL AND OCIE KING

Paul Marvin King, son of Reverend and Mrs. B.F. King, was born August 21, 1903, near Ripley. Paul graduated from Ravenswood High School, and was on their first football team. He attended Morris Harvey College, majoring in public speaking and drama. In the middle twenties, he worked as floor manager for Wanamaker's Department Store in New York City. He then tutored a class in public speaking at Paden City, where his father was minister. After his family moved back to Jackson County, Paul came in 1930 to help make repairs on their farm. The Great Depression hit. Paul worked several years for Pinnell & Pfof Construction.

On December 27, 1934, he married Ocie Marie Tune, who came to Jackson County in 1929 as the first Home Demonstration Agent. Ocie was born August 27, 1905, in Summers County, the daughter of S.T. and Jane Mann Tune. Her father was killed by a train before she was born, and her mother lived with an unmarried brother, R.P. Mann. After the death of her grandfather, Grandmother Lucinda Chandler Mann came to live with them. They moved to Peterstown in 1918 in order that Ocie could attend high school. In 4-H Club work she won trips to the state fair and to Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, MA. In 1924, she went to Jackson's Mill State 4-H camp and became the first camp secretary for W.H. ("Teepi") Kendrick, founder of the camp. She was chosen as a 4-H All Star. In the fall of 1925, she enrolled in West Virginia University. She moved with her mother and uncle to Morgantown, where she worked her way through college doing stenographic work. She was a member of Matrix, Rhododendron, and Mortar Board. In 1929, when Ocie came to Jackson County as HDA, her mother and uncle lived with her until her mother's death in 1931. At that time the Extension Service did not allow married women to work as HDAs, so she worked for the Farm and Home Administration two years.

Paul and Ocie King, 1976

In 1935, Paul and Ocie built a home on the upper part of his father's farm, her uncle continuing to live with them until his death in 1963. Their children, Phillip and Peggy, were born. Paul was employed by the Department of Public Assistance 1941-1943, when they bought and managed the Greyhound Bus Station and Restaurant. In 1946, after a family trip to California, Paul and Ocie operated the King's Photo Shoppe in Ripley. In 1948, Paul and his father built the Jackson Motel, the first motel in Jackson County. Paul and Ocie took over the management of the motel located one mile north of Ripley on U.S. Route 21 in 1950. An active Rotarian, Paul was chosen as a District Governor of Rotary International, and attended the International Rotary conference in Lucerne, Switzerland. KISER

The Kisers that came to settle in Jackson County are descended from a Charles Keyser (Carl Kayser) who was believed to have come to America from Germany in 1749 as a mercenary in the service of Great Britain during the French and Indian War. This Charles Keyser moved to the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia where he and his wife raised ten children. One of Charles' sons, Andrew, served in the Revolutionary War, was promoted to the rank of major, and served in the Virginia legislature.

Another of Charles' sons, Joseph, and his wife, Susannah Stacey, moved to southwestern Virginia around 1780. Joseph and his descendants spelled their surname Kiser. Joseph and Susannah raised nine children: Joseph, Jr. (1782-1769), Abednego (1784-1814), John (1786-1852), Nimrod (1788-1828), Ephriam (1790-1855), Susannah (1792-1860), Mary "Polly" (1794-??), Charles (1796-1880), and Elizabeth (1798-??).

Several of old Charles' great-grandchildren and their families moved to Jackson County in the 1840s and 1850s. Among those first Kisers in the area were: Joseph K. (III) (1823-1906) and Margaret (Mrs. John Hamon) (1810-??), children of Joseph Kiser, Jr.; Joseph "Poka Joe" (1823-??), Martin (1824-??), and Charles, Jr. (1830-??), sons of Charles Kiser, Sr.; and Rev. Abednego Kiser (1817-1889), son of Ephriam Kiser. Joseph K., "Poka Joe" and Abednego received land grants along Middle Fork near Kentuck in the Washington District. Martin and Charles, Jr. settled in part of Jackson County that later became a part of Roane County. Other cousins, including Meredith Kiser, a nephew of Abednego, came to settle in the late 1800s and early 1900s.

The Valentine Kiser family (relationship not established) and other Kiser families were in Jackson County for a few years in the mid-1800s before moving out of the county.

The children of Joseph K. Kiser (III) and his first wife, Elizabeth Smith, were: Mary, Obed Edom, M.J., Martha M., John Perry, Joseph K. (IV) and America. After Elizabeth Smith's death, Joseph K. (III) married Louisa Smith (no relation to his first wife) and fathered two more children: Florence and Viola.

The children of Joseph "Poka Joe" Kiser and his wife, Martha "Mattie" Hamon, were: John, Leah, Charles, Mary Frances, Joseph T., Joshua Anderville, Margaret, Thomas Jefferson, James S., Catherine, Rachel (Melvina), and Robert Harlow.

The children of Abednego Kiser and his wife, Rebecca Counts, were: Bethany, Elijah, Rachel, John Henry, Elihu, Phoebe, Ephriam, Mary, Nancy Ann and Rebecca Virginia.

Many of these Kiser descendants remained, married and raised families in Jackson County. In fact, several sixth and seventh generation descendants of these Jackson County settlers still live in the county. Although much Kiser land was displaced by the Woodrum Dam and watershed and even though many surnames have changed through marriage, the Kisers have remained one of the stalwart families in the county. Submitted by Steve Christo

DENNIS KISER

This line begins only as far back as I have researched, starting with my great-great-great-grandfather, Joseph Kiser, Sr., who married a Mary —. Their son was Joseph K. She loves to work outdoors, and her manicured lawn and abundant flower beds are daily proof. Her vegetable garden is a picture worthy of Burpees. She is a member of the Order of Eastern Star, Cottageville Chapter #16, and she and Roger made their home in Millwood. Roger served in the U.S. Navy during World War II with the Seabees, the heavy equipment construction battalion. He was stationed in the Philippine Islands, and was aboard two supply ships that were destroyed beneath him during Japanese attacks in Leyte Gulf. In civilian life, he worked in road construction, and took great pride in farming extensive acres of corn and hay. He will long be remembered by many for his love of country and bluegrass music. He played the harmonica, and in the summertime and early fall, he and Gail hosted hundreds of friends and neighbors, country bands, singers, and dancers, in their back yard for evenings of pure entertainment. CARL HERBERT KNAPP

Carl Herbert Knapp was born April 22, 1900. He married Beulah Vesta Gerlach, born Oct. 24, 1900. They are the parents of Arrietta, Zelda, and Imogene.

In 1929 and 1930 they lived in Mt. Alto, Jackson County, W. Va. Their first daughter, Arrietta, attended Mt. Alto Elementary School during those years, and Zelda, their second daughter, attended Union High School in Cottageville from 1939-1942.

The family values their many friends in Jackson County. Many of their relatives are laid to rest in the cemeteries of Mt. Alto, Jackson Chapel, and Cottageville.

In September of 1930 Herbert and Beulah and their three girls moved to Chestnut Ridge in Mason County. They would live here for the next twelve years. It was here they survived the depression years as they could grow their own vegetable garden, raise their own cow, chickens, and pigs, pick their apples, cherries, peaches, and blackberries, grind wheat into flour at Mt. Alto, and make syrup from sugar cane.

Herbert walked the few miles to buy on credit the sugar and staples they needed from Ray Wheeler's grocery store. The bill grew to about $100.00 before it could be paid. Ray Wheeler and his wife, Vada, were good people whose friendship the family still treasures, though they are no longer with us.

In 1942 Herbert moved his family to Rt. 87 near the junction of Chestnut Ridge and Rt. 2 where he built a four-bedroom home. They lived here until 1962 when Herbert and Beulah bought their retirement home in Pt. Pleasant, Mason County. It was here that Herbert suffered a heart attack and died in January of 1967. He was 66 years old. He is buried in the Suncrest Cemetery in Pt. Pleasant. Beulah (now 88) lived alone until 1987. She lives with her daughter Zelda in Pt. Pleasant. She still owns their retirement home and hopes some day to return there.

Their oldest daughter, Agnes Arrietta Knapp, was born June 11, 1919. In 1938 she graduated from Point Pleasant High School and soon after married Harry Woodrow Click. They started their married life on Chestnut Ridge, where they still live. In 1988 they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

Herbert, Beulah, Zelda, Arrietta Click, and Imogene Herdman

Harry and Arrietta had three boys, Nelson, Karl, and Keith.

They bought the farm where Nelson's grandparents, Herbert and Beulah Knapp, lived on Chestnut Ridge, making four generations who lived there. This marriage ended in divorce in 1977. Besides farming, Nelson has worked at Kaiser Aluminum in Jackson County for 25 years.

Nelson and Dixie had four boys, two of whom died. Bruce Wayne Click, their first born son (Sept. 13, 1958-Dec. 28, 1976), died when he was 18 years old. Their second son, Dale Lee (Jan. 5, 1960-Aug. 5, 1960), died at seven months. Both are buried in the Suncrest Cemetery near their great-grandfather, Herbert Knapp, and their uncle, Keith Click.

REV. JAMES S. AND ROSA (HART) KNOWLES

Absolom Knowles died 1884, married to Susan J. Taylor, born June 19, 1832, died Nov. 30, 1898, daughter of John H. Taylor, quarter-master under Ashby and born in Waynesboro, Va. Was a first cousin to President Zachary Taylor. To this union were born ten children, seven listed: J.H.T., William R., A. Lee, George A.B., James S., Miss Marvin, and Mrs. O.M. Ramsey.

James Samuel Knowles was born in Churchville, Va., June 28, 1869. He moved to W. Va. after graduating from high school. Later moved to Newport News, Va. and took an active part in the temperance movement. He returned to Charleston, W. Va. and in 1900 became an ordained Methodist minister and was appointed to the Quinmont Circuit. Two years later he was sent to the Fairplain Circuit, preaching in and around Ripley. While preaching one night at the Methodist church in Fairplain, Marshall Hart introduced Rev. Knowles to his sister, Rosa Belle Hart.

Rosa was born in Gilmer County, W. Va., Sept. 18, 1883, daughter of James and Nancy Payne Hart. James was born Jan. 5, 1843, died May 5, 1934. He was a son of John Hart. Nancy was born 1847, died 1927, daughter of Levi Payne, born 1813, and Mary Ellen Stansburt, born 1817.

Levi and Mary Payne were wealthy and did not want Nancy to marry poor Jim Hart. Levi had some sick sheep that died and he offered Nancy money to get married on from the sale of the wool if she would shear them. She developed rheumatism from kneeling on the wet ground to shear the sheep and from age 18 she walked with a limp. After only three meetings she married Jim Hart. He took her to live in a log cabin with a log bed and straw tick.

James S. and Rosa Belle were married Jan. 7, 1903 at Gay, W. Va. by Elder W.I. Canter. To this union were born 10 children: Georgia Marvin, 1-30-1904, Alma Mae, 3-28-1906, Charles Standifer, 3-28-1908, Arlie Lee, 7-28-1910, Josephine Inez, 10-29-1912, Robert Darlington, 6-15-1915, Ruby Burnise, 3-14-1918, Marjorie Virginia, 8-15-1920, James Samuel, Jr., 3-6-1922, and William Marsellis, 2-18-1924.

While preaching in Jackson Co., Rev. and Mrs. Knowles also had a bakery which was located on the corner of Main and Straight streets in Ripley.

Several times during his ministerial career, which took him to many sections of W. Va. and Tennessee, he built churches in which he conducted services. On many occasions Rev. Knowles worked as a carpenter as well as a minister to help make a living for his family, but he always did more than his bit in advancing Christianity in the communities where he resided. Often times he would say "that all he had was a gift from God. I never owned anything but a treasure stored up in my heart." Rev. Knowles died March 24, 1939 and was buried in Springhill Cemetery at Charleston, W. Va.

Rosa Belle Hart Knowles was a very active woman, raised 10 children and had time to help her neighbors. During World War II she lived close to a war plant in Charleston and she cooked dinner for the employees everyday for three or four years. She was also very active in her Christian life. She was busy visiting the sick and shut-ins and also helping Rev. Earl Hissom with his radio ministry and Thanksgiving dinners for the poor. She was never too busy to lend a helping hand to those who needed her. In her later life she spent part of the winter months with her brother, Myron Hart, at his home in Tampa, Fla. Rosa died a peaceful death June 9, 1965, and is buried in the Spring Hill Cemetery, Charleston, W. Va. Submitted by Alma Mae Knowles Withrow

BEULAH (BENNETT) KOSTER

1. Beulah Bennett Koster, daughter of Holly Henry and Ella Cline Bennett, was born on my grandfather Aaron Bennett's farm near Silverton. My parents were Holly Henry and Ella Cline Bennett and I have three sisters: Beatrice (Bea) Fisher Hite, Phnelma (Pam) Evans Gorrell and Pauline Vickers. My father worked and retired from the U.S. Locks at Ravenswood. He also purchased and managed my grandfather's farm which has been in the family for over 200 years.

We moved to Ravenswood to Wilson Street in the fall of 1920 so we girls could attend school. My father always stressed the importance of an education. Being in town and exposed to all the childhood diseases, we girls got the whooping cough. Pauline, my youngest sister, was only a few weeks old. My mother wished she had never seen Ravenswood, as we had never been ill. My youngest sister nearly died, but my mother was especially good at "doctoring" her family and we always had the best of care throughout our childhood.

I attended grade school in Ravenswood and a neighbor boarded school teachers. We girls often watched for Mr. Hess and Mr. Thompson to walk to school with them. They were both tall men, so their stride was long and it hurried a 12 year old to keep up with them. We would gather children along the way to school as it was about six or eight blocks. I was quite active in school activities. I was a member of the 4-H club, while in Junior and Senior High School, I played a clarinet in the band, and the "star" player on the girls' basketball team. So good, in fact, that the coach asked permission from the high school principal if I could practice with the high school team when I was in the ninth grade.

I graduated from Ravenswood High School and attended Mt. State Business College in Parkersburg. My experience as a student in the Ravenswood schools was very happy. We had a happy Christian home and many friends to enjoy. My mother and father were loving and supporting parents and lived to see us all married and to enjoy their grandchildren.

After college, I worked as secretary at the Soil Conservation Office and the Jackson County Board of Education in Ripley. I am a charter member of the Junior Women's Club of Ripley, organized and federated in 1939 and was the club's second president.

In 1945, I married Ernest C. Koster of Brewster, Minnesota, who was a Chief Petty Officer in the Navy at the time. We were married at the Methodist Church in Ravenswood (my home church).

We moved to Dunbar in 1947 when my husband received a teaching position at South Charleston Junior High School, teaching Industrial Arts.

E. C. and Beulah (Bennett) Koster

We have three children, Ronald, John and Barbara. Ronald is a comptroller for Standard Laboratories of Charleston, coal testing lab with offices in 15 states, John is a missionary in Australia and Barbara is a nurse and works as a clinic coordinator of Health Right, Inc. in Charleston. We have four grandchildren. Submitted by Beulah Bennett Koster

He married Clementine Panza, born 15 March 1889 and died 13 March 1975 in Sharpsburg, Pennsylvania. They were married in 1904 in Italy and came to the United States in 1906. Rocco and Clementine had 12 children: Samuel and Rachel, born in Italy, Louis, Peter (killed at the Battle of the Bulge in WW II in 1945), Philip Paul (POW for six months in WW II), Rocco Frank, Joseph, Mary Louise, Florence, Constance, Philamena and another child named Florence, who had died in infancy.

Philip Paul LaCava, Sr., born 7 November 1925. On 26 June 1946, he married Dorothy Pearl Schafer, born 18 December 1926. She was the daughter of Mrs. Marie Henrietta Spect Schafer who was born 24 September 1904 and died 25

November 1986. Philip and Dorothy had two children: Noreen Gay LaCava, born 9 September 1951 and married to Regis Dinger. Their two children are: Natalie, born 29 August 1981 and Gregory, born 15 October 1984. Philip and Dorothy's other child, a son, is Philip Paul LaCava, Jr., born 15 October 1955. On 21 November 1981, he married Barbara Sue Taylor, born 28 December 1956. They have four children: Danielle Christina, born 28 November 1982, Megan Elizabeth, born 16 December 1983, Adam Taylor, born 14 March 1986, and Chad Taylor, born 7 April 1987. PHILIP PAUL LACAVA, JR.

As many families made the long journey across the Atlantic, they looked at their children and surveyed the conditions of travel and wondered if they would ever make it. This, I'm sure, echoed from ship to ship. They were transported like cattle or bananas, with barely enough to eat and sanitation was minimum.

This is how Rocco LaCava and Clementine Panza felt in 1906 when they booked passage with their two tiny babies, Samuel and Rachel, who were under two years old. This shows the strength and determination that the immigrants had as they were determined to reach the new land. These people added to the United States of America the same courage as the early pioneers. The English, Irish, Scots and Italians seem to come in greater numbers as immigrants.

The LaCava family settled in Sharpsburg, Pennsylvania, which is just outside the city of Pittsburgh alongside the Allegheny River. Sharpsburg is now included as a suburb of Pittsburgh. It is predominately Italian and has been restored to the beautiful setting that its ancestors built. Ten more children were born after the LaCavas came to America.

Rocco's grandson, Philip Paul LaCava, Jr., attended West Virginia University and as his ancestors had assumed their own responsibilities, young Philip worked and supported himself as he pursued his BS degree in Accounting.

As a member of Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity, he enjoyed a social life. There is where he met Barbara Sue Taylor from Cottageville, Jackson County. He graduated 1978, but he remained an additional year to work on his Masters degree.

When Barbara was graduated in 1979, she returned to Cottageville after earning a BA degree in Psychology and a BS degree in Business Administration.

Since she had already begun work in St. Albans at the Appalachian Power Company's John Amos Plant as Personnel Assistant, Barbara and Philip made their home in St. Albans following their wedding 21 November 1981.

Philip found that his interests were in marketing and sales. He acquired experience in a small company before going to Motorola Communications and Electronics. He has remained with them and has advanced due to his abilities and dedication to this field.

While in St. Albans, they were blessed with four lovely children: Danielle, Megan, Adam and Chad. Desiring to rear their children in a small town, they chose Ravenswood, Jackson County, where they purchased the landmark property, called the "Nellie Hughes House," a Victorian brick home built in 1907, just one year after Grandfather Rocco and Grandmother Clementine came to America.

There were other reasons for coming to Jackson County; Barbara's parents, Howard and Artist Taylor, still lived in Cottageville, where Barbara was reared; and Philip, "Chip" as he is known, was an avid hunter and fisherman. Jackson County is well known for these sports.

LAFLIN AND LAUGHLIN

William Alexander Laflen and Phebe Jane Rush, born 1805 and 1809, respectively, in Pennsylvania, married in Ohio in 1830. William was the oldest son of Matthew and Mary (Alexander) Laflen, and Phebe was a daughter of Peter and Elizabeth (Stull) Rush who settled in Tyler County, Virginia in 1830. Phebe's brother was Paul Rush.

William and Phebe Laflen first lived in Belmont County, Ohio, but moved in 1838 to that part of Tyler County which became Wetzel County in 1846. William was a petitioner involved in the formation of the new county of Wetzel. He was a justice of the peace for twenty years and taught school for fifteen years. William and Phebe later moved to Cloud County, Kansas, where they died about 1890.

Loranza D. Laflen was the oldest son of William and Phebe Laflen's nine children. He was born in Belmont County, Ohio in 1831 and after residing in Wetzel and Wood counties, died in Jackson County where he was buried in 1900. His brothers and sisters were Mary (died in infancy), Elizabeth (Hostettler), Hannah (Cooper), Rachel (Siers), Jemima Jane (Yoho), Emily S. (Robinson), John Morgan, and Susan A. (Bland).

Loranza Laflen, after working on the Ohio River, married Eliza Ann Buckley in 1858 and became a farmer in Wood County and later in Jackson County near Sherman. Eliza Ann, born 1841, was the daughter of Harrison Wade Hampton Buckley and his wife Eliza Jane Burns, residents of Wood County. Loranza was reinterred at Lubeck Cemetery in Wood County and rests beside his wife Eliza Ann who died October 15, 1923. His head stone bears testament to the change in spelling of the family surname as it reads "Laflen" on one side and "Laughlin" on the other.

Loranza and Eliza Ann Laflen's thirteen children were Hannah Virginia (Swain), Mary Catherine (Henthorn), Phebe Jane (died as child), Alcinda (Swain), Emily Etta, William Alexander, Almyra, America "Mecki" (Rowley), Hattie Irene (King), Mabel Cline, Harrison W.H. "Harry," Lorenzo Dow, and Okey Johnson.

Hannah Virginia Laflen, born July 17, 1859 in Wood County, married William Tecumseh Swain, born January 15, 1860 in Manganeese, Wood County. Their son, Lewis Delbert Swain, married Marie Boso and lived on a farm in Jackson County bordering on Wood County from 1921 to 1943. Their only child, Roselyn, was born there June 24, 1922 and now lives in Wood County.

Hattie Virginia Laflen, born October 12, 1873, married Charles C. King, son of William "Billy"

King of Sherman, Jackson County. They had two children. Upon the early death of her husband, Charles, Hattie and her children moved to the farm of her father-in-law, Billy King, near Sherman. The farm was known for the mill that operated there for many years. Hattie's two daughters, Regina (Keefer) and Elizabeth (Solato), both now reside in Wood County. Submitted by James Harold Laughlin, Jr., great-grandson of Loranza D. Laflen

C.L. AND EMALINE (HOWELL) LAMBERT

Charles Lewis Lambert was born to John Lewis and Nancy Stowers Lambert in 1854 while the family was living in a portion of Gilmer County that later became a part of Calhoun County, (W) Virginia. In the early 1860s the Lambert family moved to Jackson County where they lived in the Washington Run area of Grant District. When his parents moved to Meigs County, Ohio, Charles remained in Jackson County where he worked for and lived with different families.

In 1880, on Christmas Eve, Charles, standing well over six feet tall, married a daughter of Jacob Jasper and Hannah C. Mount Howell of Murraysville. Emaline Howell, petite and, like her mother, barely five feet tall, had been born in Wood County, (W) Virginia in 1859. Their first child, Edna Gertrude, b. 1881 (m. Marques D. Ames), was born while Charles and Emaline were living in Muses Bottom and then in the following eight years while they lived in Lone Cedar, then Pond Creek, then Sandy(ville), wherever Charles could find work, four more children were born to them: Wiley Austin, b. 1882 (m. Nora Hufford); Lenna Wanita, b. 1884 (m. first Oscar Hagan and second Walter Beck); Roy Eldon, b. 1886 (m. Nora Standley); and Charles Clyde, b. 1889 (m. Flora Aitken).

During the 1800s, Emaline's father, Jacob J. Howell, had been traveling from West Virginia to Missouri from time to time, purchasing small farms, and in late 1890, Charles and Emaline, together with her sister and brother-in-law, James and Olive V. Howell Bramble, moved with their families to Sullivan County, Missouri, where they were to prepare the Howell farms and plant a spring crop in anticipation of the move from West Virginia to Missouri in the fall by the Howell family.

In 1891, shortly after the arrival of the Lambert family in Missouri, a daughter was born to them. She was named Virginia Missouri (m. Littleton Burr Hagerman) because she was "conceived in Virginia and born in Missouri." In 1893 their last child, Ira J. Lambert (m. Luria Mabel Peterson) was born.

Charles Lewis and Emaline (Howell) Lambert, Ira (son)

During the early years in Missouri, the Lamberts had moved into an old, small, log home on one of the farms. It was so sparse and primitive that when they were visited by a brother of Charles and his family, his wife would later write in her diary that "if the hard, back-breaking work required of the tiny, frail Emaline didn't kill her, the constant childbearing would!" A year or so later Charles built a new home for his wife and family, but Emaline did not live to enjoy it, dying in 1896. She is buried in Pleasantview Cemetery, west of Mystic, in Sullivan County, Missouri, near her parents, Jacob J. and Hannah C. Mount Howell.

In 1897 Charles Lewis Lambert remarried to Henrietta Beck. A daughter, Ellavede, was born to them in 1898 and in late 1900 the Lambert family emigrated from Missouri to Woodward County, Oklahoma where they farmed and where Charles and John F. Dail settled the town of Mooreland. In 1906 the Lamberts separated and in 1907 Charles married Ella Blaine, a widow who was also from Sullivan County, Missouri. Three children were born to them: Evelyn in 1908, Walter in 1910 and Lola in 1912. This marriage also ended in divorce and in 1923 Charles was married a fourth and last time to Ella Killion McDowell Archibald. One child, Charles Lewis Lambert, Jr., was born to them in 1924.

Charles farmed and raised cattle. In time he became a prominent citizen and businessman in Mooreland. He owned the first wheat threshing machine in Woodward County, the first of several business buildings in town, owned the first sorghum mill, the first moving picture show, was the first Justice of the Peace, the first mortician and, as he would dryly comment on occasion probably the first man in Woodward County to have four marriages.

In 1926 Charles sold all his holdings in Mooreland and Woodward County and he and Ella and their family moved to a farm near Raymondsville, Texas where they became involved in growing onions — a venture that failed because of continued rain on their fields at harvest time in a usually arid part of the state. Charles retired to a home in Raymondsville where he died in 1938. He and Ella are buried at the Raymondsville Cemetery.

J.L. AND NANCY (STOWERS) LAMBERT

John Lewis Lambert was born in 1818 in Tazewell County, Virginia, the son of Joseph (son of John) and Susannah Hutsell (daughter of Lewis) Lambert who had married in Wythe County, Virginia. John married Nancy Stowers, born 1818 in Tazewell County, Virginia to Mordica (son of William) and Polly (Powers, parents unknown) Stowers.

While John and Nancy lived and farmed in Tazewell County, five children were born to them: Mary Ann, b. 1839 (m. first Samuel D. Boone and second Alfred Huffman); Rebecca Jane, b. 1840 (m. Doodridge Bailey); Charlotte, b. 1842 (m. William Henry Sheets); Joseph H., b. 1843 (m. Mary C. Ward); and John William, b. 1845 (m. Harriet Rawson).

John and Nancy then moved their family to Boone County where they lived for a few years, during which time two sons were born to them: George F., b. 1848 (name of wife unknown if married); and Floyd S., b. 1850 (m. Martha L.).

The Lambert family then moved to a part of Gilmer County which in later years became a part of Calhoun County. While there, the following children were born to them: Louisa, b. 1852 (m. William Henry Harrison Cook); Charles Lewis, b. 1854 (m. first Emmaline Howell, m. second, third and fourth times after leaving Jackson County); Isaac Rufus, b. 1856 (unmarried); James Buchanan, b. 1859 (m. Huldie S. Smith); and Barbara Ellen, b. 1861 (unmarried).

At some time in the early or mid-1860s John and Nancy and their unmarried children moved to the Washington Run area of Grant District in Jackson County, West Virginia where they made their home for a number of years. Several of their children married during this time and made their homes in Wood, Jackson and Cabell counties.

In the 1800s John and Nancy Lambert, together with their three youngest children who were unmarried, moved across the Ohio River to a farm near Lebanon in Meigs County, Ohio. James married while the family lived here. Isaac and Barbara Ellen died, as did Nancy Lambert who died in 1887. Nancy, Isaac and Barbara Ellen are buried in the Middleswart Cemetery near Portland, Ohio.

After the death of Nancy and their two children, John sold his property in Meigs County, Ohio and moved to Sullivan County, Missouri where his sons, Charles Lewis and James B., lived with their families. John Lewis Lambert died there on March 5, 1896 and is buried at the Pleasantview Cemetery, west of Mystic, Sullivan County, Missouri.

LANDFRIED — RAINES

My grandfather, George McCellen Landfried (1864-1918) married Anna Parsons (1877-1935) on September 7, 1896.

My father, Guy Burton Landfried, was born August 9, 1913 and married Sada Faith Koontz on June 1, 1937. Sada was born on March 13, 1917. They began their married life in the Landfried home at Kenna and lived there for four years. In 1941 they purchased land above the Grass Lick Church on Pleasant Valley Road, and started construction on the house they still reside in. Lumber was cut from the Mance Casto farm with the help of Sada's father, John S. Koontz, and her brother, Dennie Koontz, they were able to move into the house in 1941.

Guy was drafted in the Army in 1944 and spent most of his service time in Alaska. He is now retired having worked for Brown and Floyd Construction for thirty years. He is an avid fisherman and has enjoyed spending time in Melbourne, Florida the last 25 years in January and February, fishing each day. Sada enjoys weaving and making crafts. She had quite a responsibility raising my brother, sister and I since Dad was boarding away from home with his construction job.

My sister, Mary Sue, married Robert A. Casto, son of T. Ray and Lillian Casto, June 10, 1964. She is Assistant Cashier at The Bank of Ripley and has been employed there since attending Charleston School of Commerce after graduating from Ripley High School. Bob is with the Department of Highways and is looking forward to retirement in the near future. They have one son, Tommy, a freshman at Ripley High School, who loves to hunt, play baseball, and ride his four-wheeler. Tommy is the only grandson Guy has that loves to fish.

I, Jo Ann, married Paul Raines, son of Hobert and Belle Raines, April 14, 1960. After being a full-time mom and wife for several years, I am now employed at the Housing Authority of Jackson County. Paul is a driver education instructor at Ripley High School and is a WVAC basketball official.

ADAM LANDFRIED

Adam Landfried, son of Phillip, and grandson of Adam, was born in Sycamore Valley, near Ripley (Jackson Court House) in 1875. He was the youngest of nine children born to Phillip and Sarah Abels Landfried in the house re-built by the family soon after emigrating from Germany.

Adam attended school (the building made of logs) on the farm close to his home. He did well in classes and later became a successful farmer, a trustee for the community school, Jackson County Deputy Assessor and was elected to the County Court of Jackson County, serving as its President at the time Cedar Lakes Center was formed. Homeplace of Adam and Anna Landfried

All six children were born and raised at the Landfried family nine-room farm home built by Adam prior to his marriage which is now owned by Mrs. Everett Kay. This family was one of the last of a nearly self-sufficient generation, growing most all their food, selling the surplus in order to purchase what they wore. It was a way of life of which they were proud, and it was with mixed emotions they experienced its passing. Submitted by Rilla Landfried Skeen

KEMP AND EURADA (SKEEN) LANDIS

Kemp Sylvester Landis (1923-), married Eurada Lee Skeen (1926-) in 1942. Son of Ola (Jesse and Miranda Jane Gandee Landis) and Lessie (Ralph and Medora Johnson Walker). Ripley High School Institute of Applied Science, vet. WW II.

Kemp and Eurada both spent their pre-school years in Charleston. During the Depression of the 1930s both families moved back to their farms in Jackson County located between Kenna and Kentuck. The families raised most of their food and sold eggs and chickens to get money to buy the other necessary foods at the Kentuck Store. They usually had lambs and calves to sell to buy winter clothing. Trapping for small game was another way for the boys to make extra money.

Both walked 1¼ miles to Kentuck Star's one-room school, with grades one through eight. At age thirteen, Kemp started to Ripley High. Along with five other boys, he walked five miles to Rt. 21 to catch the bus. After school and football practice, he hitched a ride back to Kenna and walked home. In the winter Kemp boarded with Brian (County Clerk) and Fay Duff Mays, formerly of Kentuck.

The following year, 1938, a canvas covered truck with wooden benches, driven by Beecher Poling, hauled nineteen boys and girls to Ripley. On pretty days, they rolled the canvas back. On cold days, they huddled together for warmth. The next year, 1939, the county sent a school bus filled with children from Pleasant Run, Goshen Valley, Kentuck Star, First Creek, Second Creek Schools. Some of these children walked five or six miles to catch the bus at the Kentuck bridge. During WW II, when gasoline and cars were in such shortage, the school bus also hauled citizens to Ripley to do business or go to doctor.

Like other men and boys of the county, Kemp was happy when the gas fields opened up in Jackson County. Then boys could dig pipeline ditches if they were sixteen years old. They had to dig three sections or 45 feet of ditch, two to three feet deep daily, and received 35 cents per hour.

At age 17 with a dime in his pocket, Kemp walked five miles to Kenna, hitched a ride to Charleston's West Side — commonly known as Jackson County corner. From there he walked eight miles along Kanawha Street (now the Boulevard) to the Libbey-Owen-Ford Glass Co., in Kanawha City where the Kanawha Mall is now located. He was one of eighteen hired from over a hundred men who stood outside seeking a job. He went to work that day on the 3-11 shift. He located an uncle, Foy Skeen, and spent the next few weeks with him and his family in Charleston so that he would have a way to get to work.

The Charleston branch of LOF in the 1930s and '40s was the world's largest flat glass factory, with over 30 acres under roof. Many, many men from Jackson County found work there because of their reputation as good workers. The men rode to work in the back of covered trucks with only a lantern for heat and light. The travel time on U.S. 21 took four to eight hours. In the winter, they shoveled snow or pushed when necessary. As the economy improved, cars and gas became available after WW II. Then men shared rides in cars for safety and economy. (It's no wonder Dad's knees had to be replaced).

Kemp was employed with LOF 42 years, moving from laborer to general factory superintendent and consultant associated with the Toledo Ohio home office at retirement.

Kemp and Eurada (Skeen) Landis

Purchasing the Kentuck General Store, they operated it thirteen years during the '50s and '60s. At the same time, Kemp was building roads and farm ponds throughout the county.

Active in community affairs, Kemp and Eurada led the drive to get the Kenna-Kentuck Road paved and the road toward Belgrove rocked. Together they now operate a 400-acre cattle farm at Kenna.

Eurada attended Ripley High, received her B.S. at Morris Harvey College and attended University of West Virginia College of Graduate Studies. She taught twenty-three years and retired in 1987 from Kenna Elementary. Her parents, Virgil and Alice Kern Skeen, are listed in this book.

They are the parents of five children: Zelma Doris (1943-), BA Morris Harvey, attended UWVCOGS. Executive Director Jackson County Housing Authority and Vice President of Southeastern U.S. Regional Council of Housing Directors. Married William Franklin Boggess (James and Gertrude White Boggess). STANLEY D. LATHEY

Stanley was born Feb. 22, 1936 in Ripley, WV, at the home of Oliver D. Kessel, his uncle, the son of Clyde and Jane Kessel Lathey. His grandparents were George and Cora Casto Lathey and Dennis and Ella Corbin Kessel also from Ripley, WV.

He met Mary Warner at one of Ripley's 4th of July celebrations. They were married Dec. 27, 1957 at Epworth Methodist Church in Ripley, WV. Mary's parents were James Clarence and Grace Allen Warner of Leon, WV. Her grandparents were James T. and Sarah Ann Waugh Warner of Tribble, WV, in Mason Co. and Alexander and Bessie Russel Allen of Buffalo, WV, in Putnam Co.

Stanley and Mary have two children: Cynthia Jane, born Oct. 10, 1958, and Richard Dennis, born Sept. 3, 1961.

Stanley and Mary purchased the Oldham farm from Manford Casto in March of 1960. The house they occupied until 1972 was built by Jephtha Mason around 1817. Mr. Mason was one of the three men who first settled on Parchment Creek. In 1974 Foy Fisher dismantled the logs and rebuilt a beautiful cabin on his farm located on Rt. 34. The logs were still perfect and looked almost petrified. Mary and Stanley's mantel is made from one of the hewed yellow poplar beams. Both Cindy and Rick graduated from Ripley High School. On Jan. 16, 1981, Cindy married Richard Mark Sansbury. They have one child, Amanda Jane, born June 19, 1983. Rick married Nancy Dee Ranson Nov. 29, 1980. Three children, Ashli Richelle, born Oct. 8, 1982, Ambra Dee, born April 3, 1985, and Derek Richard, Jan. 18, 1987.

Both Cindy and Rich built on plots of the farm in Parchment Valley.

Stanley works for Ravenswood Aluminum and with the help of his father and the children operates the farm. Mary worked at Jackson General Hospital in Ripley from 1972 until retiring in July of 1989.

We enjoy the tranquil, peaceful setting of our home in Parchment Valley and we are proud of our inheritance. Our thanks to Jephtha Mason for getting it all started. Submitted by Mary Lathey

LEE — BATTRELL

The earliest ancestor of the Battrell family known to this writer was Columbus Chauncy Battrell, who was born about 1780 in Jersey, near Athens, Ohio. He was first married to Mary Coon and to this union were born two sons, John William (1830-1909) and Francis Everett (1836-1908) and one daughter, Lucinda. After the death of Mary Coon, Chauncy married Lucinda Smith and to them was born a son, George Everett, who removed to the far west in later life. Little is known about George but it is thought that he had a son named either Claude or Clyde Minor Battrell. Lucinda Battrell married John Kerwood; John William married Mary Burnside; and Francis Everett married Chloe Ann McDermitt (1843-1902).

At the time of her marriage to C.C. Battrell, Mary Coon was a widow. She had two children by a previous marriage: Sarah Christine and Elizabeth. Both daughters married Stewarts. Sarah married Elisha Stewart and Elizabeth married John Stewart.

It is not known when or for what reason C.C. Battrell moved from Ohio to Jackson County, nor whom his parents were, but it is noted that his son, Francis Everett Battrell and Chloe Ann McDermitt had ten children, one of whom was Valentine Albert ("Turp") Battrell (1866-1898), who married Barbara Ellen Hill (1866-1945). To this union were born five children, all of whom were born in Jackson County: John Minor (1887-1920), Della A. (1889-1919), Georgetta (Georgia) (1891-1948), Okey Otmer (1893-1968), and Harvey Raymond (1897-1987). Georgia married Maurice Clyde Lee, Sr. (1889-1937) and in this marriage, nine children were born: Maurice Clyde Lee, Jr. (1914-1980), Raymond Battrell (1916-1988), Robert Eugene (1918-), William Edward (1920-), Donald Henry (1923-), Nancy Ellen (1928-), George Burton (1930-), Franklin Delano (1933-), and Richard Kenneth (1936-).

Both Georgia and Clyde were graduated from the Lee Normal School at Ripley which was established and conducted by Albert Sherman Lee, Sr., the father of Maurice Clyde Lee, Sr. The father of Albert Sherman Lee was Henry Adam Lee (1818-1899) who married Sarah Elizabeth Enochs (1823-1893). They had twelve children. The father and mother of Henry Adam Lee were John Lee, Sr. (1788-1871) and Martha Ann Braham (Graham?) (1769-1852) who had seven children: Henry Adam m. Sarah Elizabeth Enochs; John m. Drusilla Hasteed; Christian m. —; Barbara m. Sebastian Schafer; Benjamin m. Rosetta Enochs; Martha m. Charles Huffman and William m. Jane Crum. Submitted by Richard Kenneth Lee

"Matt" Lee was kind, honest, and loved and respected by all. He taught his family good values and morals. I am very proud of my Lee family heritage. I share the sentiments of my great-uncle Ray, one of "Matt's" grandsons (son of Robert Edward Lee), and from whom much of this information was obtained. From Ray's book The Lee Family Genealogy:

"Some folks say that it does not matter who your ancestors were; all that matters is what we are. To a certain extent that is true, but we are what we are partly because they were what they were, (emphasis added) and it seems to me that we, who are descended from the hardy pioneers who pushed into the West, have a special obligation to the country they helped to establish . . . You . . . have a right to be proud of your heritage and the obligation to be worthy of it." Submitted by Wayne F. Lee

MAURICE CLYDE SR. AND GEORGIA (BATTRELL) LEE

The following announcement appeared in the Jackson County news January 1914 -

The Blushing Bride

"Last Friday after the 12 o'clock edition had been mailed, receipt of news of the marriage of a well known and popular couple spending the winter in Kanawha as a clerk in a store and teacher, respectively, resulted in the following brief announcement, without taking time to look up the half-tone of the bonny bride, procured for the auspicious occasion, therefore today the pretty portrait above:

We stop the press to say that Mr. M.C. Lee and Miss Georgia Battrell were married at Hinton, Sunday.

This beautiful rite resulted in our branch of the family.

Georgia was the daughter of Valentine A. and Barbara Ellen Hill Battrell, born on June 17, 1891 at Ripley, Jackson County, West Virginia.

M.C. Lee was the son of Albert Sherman and Mary Louise Pryor Lee born at Harriettsville, Noble County, Ohio on March 18, 1889.

To this union nine children were born: Maurice Clyde, July 19, 1914; Raymond Battrell, May 30, 1916; Robert Eugene, April 19, 1918; William Edward, May 20, 1920; Donald Henry, April 27, 1923; Nancy Ellen, April 21, 1928; George Burton, November 29, 1930; Franklin Delano, March 9, 1933; and Richard Kenneth, February 10, 1936.

M.C. Lee was educated in West Virginia schools and the family resided in Ripley for many years. He attended Teachers Normal School at Ripley, passed the state examination and made a First Grade Certificate. He taught school for many years then finally decided he could do better for coal company stores. He then went to work in their stores. After some time he and his brother, Ray, moved to Harriettsville, Ohio, thinking they could do better financially. Clyde, as M.C. was known, excelled in mathematics and was Township Clerk and Clerk of the Board of Education in Noble County, Ohio at the time of his death, March 18, 1937.

Georgia also was a Jackson County lady living at Ripley. She was educated there and received her Teachers Certificate, teaching at Ripley and surrounding communities. This is where she met and married M.C. Lee. Georgia was very popular and a good student. While attending school she played many parts in school productions. One was the "Statue of Liberty" in a play. She also attended A.S. Lee's Ripley Normal School in 1911. She passed away March 18, 1937.

M.C. Lee was the son of Albert Sherman and Mary Pryor Lee. A.S., as Albert Sherman was known, operated the most celebrated subscription school in the times. It was Ripley (West Virginia) Normal School. He was assisted in this adventure by C.W. Lee. One writer says "That A.S. Lee came more nearly being a walking encyclopedia than any man he had ever met on the face of the earth. He just seemed to know everything and his learning was colossal." The Lees taught two different summer terms every year for years and years. Usually they had students from 40 or more West Virginia counties every summer. The classes numbered 150 to 200 students. A.S. wrote a set of books called "Lee's Condensed Textbook for Teachers" which was very popular in that day.

A.S. Lee was principal of schools in West Virginia until his retirement. He married Mary Louise Pryor Lee in 1888 and to them were born Maurice Clyde; Elsie Maude; and Roy Raymond. Elsie Maude married William Keener and to them were born Virginia; Margaret; Mary Jane; Charles William; and Francis Ann. Roy Raymond married Blanche Light and to them were born Mary Katherine and Roy Raymond, Jr.

Mary died 22 May 1893 and A.S. married Hester Ann Merrill. Their children were Blanch Virginia; Bernard; A.S. Lee, Jr.; and Dorothy Sharlene.

Georgia was the daughter of Valentine A. and Barbara Ellen Hill Battrell.

To Valentine and Barbara were born John Minor; Della A.; Georgia; Okey Ottmer; and Harvey Raymond.

Valentine died in 1898 and Barbara married William H. Staats. They resided in Ripley until their deaths. Barbara passed away 27 August 1945.

Harvey married Lucille Southard — no children.

John Minor married Alberla — two sons, John Everett and Merl Clifford were born. Both died in 1916 of infantile paralysis.

Okey Ottmer married Marie Andoga. To them were born Harvey Raymond; Robert Franklin; and Andrew Valentine.

Della A. was never married.

Georgia Battrell Lee was the progenitor of William Parsons and Susannah Bonnett Parsons through their daughter, Lydia Ann Parsons, and Harrison Hill. I'm sure there will be more on these people in another chapter.

M.C. and Georgia Lee's children are scattered throughout the good old U.S.A.

Maurice Clyde, Jr. married Esther Jane Butcher in 1935. No children were born to them. Esther died 19 December 1935. Maurice then married Helen Brinson — no children. Maurice passed away October 31, 1980.

Raymond Battrell married Alice Koralewski on 16 February 1946 — no children. He passed away 14 June 1988.

Robert Eugene married Doris Brown 10 September 1939. To them were born Donnie Rae; James Michael; Robert Brown and William Eugene.

William Edward married Betty Bowler 10 May 1941. To them were born Betty Ann; Billie Lou and Georgia Marie.

William Edward and Betty (Bowles) Lee,
Georgia Marie, Billie Lou, Betty Ann

Donald Henry married Doris Roberta Cyfers on 18 February 1945. To them was born David George.

Nancy Ellen married Charles Eugene Shumaker on 3 January 1946. To them were born Charles Eugene, Jr., who passed away 4 April 1969, and Thomas Lee. Nancy married Clyde Edward Brown October 23, 1959 — no children. Clyde passed away 11 May 1983.

George Burton married Donna Jane Lee on 23 August 1953. To them were born Linda Diane; Steven George; Margaret Ilene; John Arthur; and Georgia Blanche.

Franklin Delano married Merry Marilyn Fleming 8 October 1955. To them were born Sherry Kay and Philip Wayne.

Richard Kenneth married Ethel on January 9, 1965 — no children.

Our family has played a large part in Ripley, Jackson County, West Virginia history and many are buried there. Submitted by Nancy Lee Brown and Betty Bowler Lee

LEWIS

The Lewis Family in Jackson County begins with the "Louis" Family in France in the 17th Century. The name was changed due to dislike of Louis XIV because of his persecution of Protestant Huguenots. Jean Louis, Esq., of a Protestant family of Castres, fled from France about the time of the Revolution of the Edict of Nantes (1685) and bought an estate in Wales. He had three sons, all lawyers. William, the eldest, shortly moved to Ireland and married a Miss McClelland. He left one son, Andrew, who married a Miss Calhoun and left two sons, John (our ancestor) and Samuel. John (1678-1762) married Margaret Lynn (1693-1773), daughter of the Laird of Loch Lynn, Scotland. They had six children born in Ireland: Samuel, Thomas, Andrew, William, Margaret and Anne. Another son, Charles, was born in Virginia.

John left Ireland for America in 1728, landing in Philadelphia where he remained until he came to the Valley of Virginia in 1732. He is said to have been the "founder" of Augusta County, Virginia. He built a fort-like home called "Bellevue" near Port Republic.

Both his daughters died unmarried. His sons were in uniform most of the time during those early and challenging days of the Pre-Revolutionary War Period. Samuel (1718-1755), William (1724-1811) and Charles (1736-1774) served in the War between the English and French Colonists and were present at the Battle of Braddock's defeat (1755). William and Charles were wounded and Samuel was killed. William was a Doctor of Medicine but twice abandoned his profession to take up arms for his country. During the Revolutionary War he was a Major with the 10th Virginia Regiment and taken prisoner at Charleston in 1780. He was released and returned to his family in 1781. After recovering from his wounds, Col. Charles Lewis participated in many skirmishes with the Indians and on one occasion was captured by them, later effecting his own escape. He was killed at the Battle of Point Pleasant. Lewis County in West Virginia is named for him. General Andrew Lewis (1720-1781), "the hero of Point Pleasant," was Colonel of Militia for his County. Upon the outbreak of hostilities with the French (1754) he enrolled a company and joined Major George Washington and was wounded at Fort Necessity. At the Assembly in 1774 the danger of an Indian War was apparent and measures were concerted which led to the campaign resulting in victory at Point Pleasant. At the solicitation of Washington, he accepted the commission of Brigadier General and commanded the Virginia Troops when Lord Dunmore was driven from Gwynn's Island in 1776. General Washington and Andrew Lewis first located and owned the noted Burning Spring near Kanawha River. He died from the effects of a fever while on his way home from the Army in 1781.

Thomas Lewis (1718-1790), my fourth great-grandfather, by reason of defective eyesight, was prevented from joining his brothers as a warrior. He was a man of much learning and dedicated his life to public civil service during the Colonial Period and Revolutionary War. He was appointed Colonial Surveyor of Augusta County in 1745 and, in partnership with General George Washington, surveyed the Lord Fairfax lands. He represented his county in the House of Burgesses from 1745 to 1767. In 1755 he was chosen a delegate to the Colonial Congress and was one of the first to join the Society known as the "Sons of Liberty." He served on the committee in the Convention of 1788 which framed the Virginia Bill of Rights and Virginia's first State Constitution. He married Jane Strother (1732-1820), a schoolmate of George Washington, and they brought up 13 children.

The sons of Thomas Lewis also served their time in the military. John (1749-1788), Andrew (1751-1810) and Thomas, Jr. (1760-1847) were with Washington at Valley Forge. John and Thomas, Jr. were also present at the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown. Charles (1772-1832), my direct ancestor, rebuilt the family home in 1813 on the family plantation near Port Republic, Virginia. He married Anne Hance in 1792 and reared five children. Charles, Jr. (1796-1877), son of Charles, married Nancy Allen and reared six children.

My great-grandfather, William Strother Lewis (1834-1863), son of Charles, Jr., married Susan V. Sirk in 1853. On April 2, 1860, a Land Office Treasury Warrant, signed by John Letcher, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, granted to Strother Lewis 100 acres lying in Jackson County on the waters of the Middle Fork of Pocahontas. In the tradition of his ancestors, William Strother Lewis volunteered for duty in the Civil War on November 1, 1861 and was assigned to Company "K" at Charleston in the 7th Virginia Cavalry Volunteers. He was killed in action at the Battle of Droop Mountain, Pocahontas County, on November 6, 1863. He left his wife and two children; Mary Jane, born March 6, 1858, and Charles Wesley, my grandfather, born February 12, 1860.

Charles Wesley "Wes" (1860-1947) married Eliza Ellender Pringle (1865-1946) December 2, 1882. They built a log cabin on Angel Ridge Road, Fairplain/Ripley, and reared seven children: Minnie Elizabeth (1883-1971) married Charles E. Hanning, seven children; Holly Everett (1885-1977) married Adelia Kessel, six children; Eva Mae (1891-1976) married Howard Casto, four children; Rosa Belle (1894-) married Homer S. Hanning, two children; Ruby Jane (1896-1978) married Leal French, two children; William Frederick (1899-1981) married Irene Chancey, four children; Velma Fae (1908-) married (1) Clair McCloud, (2) Woodrow McKown, one child.

Lewis family

In 1966 the seven children of Wes and Eliza, together with grandchildren and great-grandchildren, held the first family reunion. The reunion is still held annually although all but two of the children and some grandchildren have passed on. It now includes some members of the fifth generation. LEWIS — FRIEDLAENDER

Rebecca Elizabeth (Becca) Lewis, daughter of Glenva May Starcher (Cottageville) and the late Benjamin Franklin Lewis (Ravenswood), is descended from early settlers Jacob Starcher, Abraham Staats and Ephriam Evans of Jackson County. She was born in Exeter, New Hampshire, January 15, 1952. At this time her father was the minister of the Congregational Church in Rye, New Hampshire, having just completed studies at Harvard University Divinity School in Cambridge, Massachusetts. The coastline at Rye remains a favorite vacation spot.

At the age of two and one-half, she moved to Lexington, Kentucky when her father returned to chair the Department of Philosophy and Religion at his undergraduate alma mater, Transylvania University. Growing up in "horse country" was wonderful for Becca as she loved horseback riding, showing and riding her horse, "Spaghetti Sauce," for many years. Her second love was ballet. Both activities have continued to play an important part in her life.

She attended the Sayre School, University of Kentucky Training School and Fayette County Public Schools before attending the University of Georgia. A Political Science and Journalism major and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, she graduated in 1974 and returned to Kentucky to teach History and English. After three years of teaching she began undergraduate studies at Transylvania University in 1979 to pursue a life-long dream of going to medical school. In 1981 she entered the University of Kentucky College of Medicine, graduating in 1985.

During her internship at Chestnut Hill Hospital in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, she met and married (in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania) Jonathan

Scott Friedlaender, an Anthropologist who studies health changes of the Natives of the Solomon Islands. Following her internship, they left for a field season in the South Pacific — a grand and romantic adventure that took them to tiny atolls of the Solomon Islands, to Fiji, and to Hawaii.

Exploration was not new to Becca, who loves to travel. She attributes much of this to her father's love of travel (Europe, the Near East, Japan, India, Africa, all fifty states, Canada and Mexico). Besides traveling extensively with her family while growing up, Becca has managed her own trips; four times to the Navajo Reservation where she has taught and taken dance at the Navajo Community College, and practiced medicine at the Chinle Indian Hospital. In 1985 she spent two months at the Sino Japanese Friendship Hospital in Beijing, China, studying acupuncture and moxibustion.

Becca and Jonathan live in Center City, Philadelphia, in an historical townhouse. They have a son, Benjamin Lewis Friedlaender, born January 7, 1988. Becca is a physician at Drexel University Student Health Center. Jonathan is Chair of the Anthropology Department at Temple University.

Rebecca (Lewis) and Jonathan Friedlaender and Jonathan

Becca enjoys returning to Ripley to visit her cousin, Genevieve Starcher, whose knowledge of and love for the area and its history gives her a sense of belonging and a pride in her own Jackson County heritage.

Becca has an older brother, Stephen Starcher Lewis, living in Lexington, Kentucky; and a younger brother, Benjamin Franklin Lewis, Jr., living in Greenwood, South Carolina. Submitted by Dr. Rebecca E. Lewis

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN LEWIS, JR.

Benjamin Franklin Lewis, Jr. was born to Benjamin Franklin and Glenva May Starcher Lewis on July 21, 1954 at Exeter, New Hampshire. He moved to Lexington, Kentucky at six weeks of age where his father took the position of Chairman of the Department of Philosophy and Religion at Transylvania University.

Benji was a notable high school athlete, being all state in basketball, all city in baseball, and attending Transylvania on a basketball scholarship. He graduated from there with distinction and honors in biology in 1976. He then attended medical school at the University of Kentucky, graduating in 1980.

In June of 1980, Benji married Nancy Lancaster Kidd and was divorced within two years. He did his residency in Family Practice at the Self Memorial Hospital in Greenwood, South Carolina from 1980-1983, and since that time has remained in the Emergency Department of that hospital as a full-time emergency physician. As of this writing (1989) he is in the process of completing his board certification in that specialty as well.

Benji has visited Jackson County in recent years to see relatives and to visit the gravesites of five generations of ancestors at Evans, Ravenswood and Cottageville cemeteries as well as the Settlers and Pine Hill cemeteries in Ripley. He feels a warmth in his heart for the area and its people. He has one older brother, Stephen Starcher Lewis, living in Lexington, Kentucky and one older sister, Rebecca Elizabeth Lewis-Friedlaender, living in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

In the accompanying photograph, Benji is in the Starcher cabin at Cedar Lakes, sitting in the rocking chair in which his great-great-grandmother, Prudence Emily Harker Starcher, died.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AND GLENVA (STARCHER) LEWIS

Benjamin Franklin Lewis was born at Hogsett in Mason County, West Virginia on March 25, 1918, the son of Frederick and Ola Mae Broyles Lewis. When he was six months old the family moved to Ravenswood in Jackson County. Ben was an enthusiastic participant in school affairs, being particularly outstanding in athletics and drama. A favorite story of his children and grandchildren is of the Christmas tree and the backwater. In the fifth grade, he and Claymore Rowley were sent by their teacher to get a Christmas tree. They went farther and farther hoping to find just the right one. Finally they discovered they did not know their way home. The familiar route was cut off by backwater. It was getting much colder and as it grew dark they were no longer concerned about a tree. They were very cold, very hungry, and very, very much afraid. Finally they heard the voices of their older brothers calling them. The brothers put them on their backs and carried them home.

After graduating from high school in 1935, Ben worked at the Fisher grocery store for five years.

Glenva May Starcher was born at Cottageville in Jackson County on April 4, 1918, the daughter of William Paul and Golda Laurina Hill Starcher and a direct descendant of early settlers Abraham Staats, Ephriam Evans, and Jacob Starcher. She attended the Cottageville schools, graduating from Union High School in 1935. She enrolled in Marshall College in Huntington, West Virginia in January 1936 and graduated (Magna Cum Laude) in May 1939. One lasting memory of college days was of the 1937 flood and her trek (Marshall dismissed classes) from Cabell County to Jackson County with Virginia Pinnell Hogsett. Traveling via Charleston by taxi, by boat, and by walking, they moved over and around great stretches of backwater. The trip took two days.

Glenva began teaching at Ravenswood High School in September 1939. There she met Ben. They were married at Cottageville, August 17, 1940. Ben attended Morris Harvey College in Charleston in 1940-41 while Glenva continued teaching in Ravenswood.

In the summer of 1941, they moved to Lexington, Kentucky where Ben enrolled in Transylvania University. Glenva taught for a year, then did secretarial work at the United States Public Health Service. When Ben received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1943, they both enrolled in the Lexington Theological Seminary. On weekends Ben ministered to rural Kentucky churches. They graduated from the Seminary in 1946 — Glenva with a Masters in Religious Education and Ben with a Masters in Theology.

Ben was then accepted for graduate study in the Divinity School at Harvard University in Cambridge, Massachusetts. During his studies there they lived in Everett, Massachusetts where Ben served the Disciples of Christ Church. Glenva was secretary to the General Council of the Boston Legal Aid Society.

In 1949, Ben, having practically finished his work at Harvard, (he received his Masters in Theological Sciences in 1950), the Lewises moved to the seaside village of Rye, New Hampshire. There Ben served the Congregational Church which had been organized in 1720. Their three children were born while they lived there: Stephen Starcher, born in Melrose, Massachusetts, November 11, 1949; Rebecca Elizabeth, born in Exeter, New Hampshire, January 15, 1952; and Benjamin Franklin, Jr., born in Exeter, July 21, 1954.

Ben and Glenva Lewis, Steve, Becca, and Benji

In 1954 Transylvania called Ben to become Chairman of the Department of Philosophy and Religion. They moved to Lexington in September. In 1960-61 Ben, on sabbatical leave from Transylvania, completed studies for a Doctor of Philosophy degree in Philosophy at the University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Ben's work at Transylvania was highlighted by his development of a program in Intercultural Studies, an area for which he had been an advocate years ahead of its time. His teaching may be summed up by the following episode. Seeing a student with an armload of books struggling to get through a door, he rushed to help her and said, "Here, let me open that door for you." She replied, "Dr. Lewis, you've been opening doors for me ever since I came to Transylvania." During these years he also served churches in Kentucky — first at Ewing and then for 28 years, the New Union Christian Church in Woodford County. In 1961 Glenva began teaching in the Fayette County Public Schools. In 1983 they both retired. In 1985 Ben received the prestigious Morrison Medallion — the highest honor accorded a Transylvania alumnus.

While teaching, both Ben and Glenva traveled extensively abroad with students — Ben predominately to India, Japan, and Europe; Glenva to Europe and Israel. In retirement their outstanding trip was to the Harvard 350th Anniversary Celebration in the fall of 1986. In March 1988 Ben resigned from his church but the congregation would not accept his resignation, so he continued until his death.

Benjamin Franklin Lewis died July 20, 1988 in Lexington, Kentucky. He is buried in the Lexington Cemetery. Glenva is living where she has lived for thirty-five years. She has enjoyed accompanying her children to Jackson County to expose them to their heritage there. Submitted by Mrs. Benjamin Lewis

JOHN LEWIS

John Lewis, son of Andrew and Mary Calhoun Lewis, was born in Denegal County, Ireland in 1678. He died near Staunton, Va. on Feb. 1, 1762. In Ireland, John Lewis was a well-to-do and respected esquire, but an unfortunate incident occurred in which he killed Sir Mingo Campbell of Campbell's Manor in self defense. The altercation grew out of difficulties over an attempted ejection from a freeholder's lease. He fled from Ireland and reached Portugal in 1729. We next find John Lewis in Pennsylvania in 1732. The following year, it is said he was pardoned by the king and granted an immense tract of land near the headwaters of the Shenandoah River.

John Lewis became the first settler of what was later Augusta County, Virginia. His first home was erected one mile east of the present city of Staunton. He was the first magistrate in this section of Virginia.

Before coming to America, John Lewis married Margaret Lynn of Scotland. Margaret was the daughter of a Scottish lord and was known as Lady Lynn. She was born July 3, 1693 and died near Staunton in 1773.

Their children, except the last, were born in Ireland. They were: Samuel, Thomas, Andrew, William, Margaret, and Charles.

Our Jackson County connection comes from John Lewis' great-great-grandson, Samuel Lewis. A quick run down of the family tree goes like this: John (1678-1762) begat Andrew (1720-1781) who begat Thomas (1752-1800) who begat Andrew (1780-1850) who begat Samuel (1820-1874).

Samuel Lewis married Mary Greer, the daughter of William and Martha J. Monroe Greer. The names of their children were: Marquis deLafayette Lewis, Samuel Jackson Lewis, James Madison Lewis, Almyra Lewis Taylor, Laura Lewis Parsons, and Martha J. Lewis Kerwood.

Almyra Lewis married Joseph Taylor and resided near Ripley before moving to Charleston.

Laura Lewis married "Nim" Parsons, brother to Judge W.A. Parsons. Their children were Richard, Mary, Dan, Howard, Paul, and Pearl.

Samuel Jackson Lewis married Cora Kay. Their children were: Bonnie Lee, Eva Demond who married Layton Bradley, Georgia who married Lloyd Stone, Johnny, Mary Katherine who married Rolla Raymond Parsons, William E. and a baby who died at birth.

James Madison Lewis married Nannie Elizabeth Taylor. Their children were: Adda who married Edward Casto, Edna who married David F. Sayre, Ellen who married R.S. Algee, Pearl who married Emmett Reder, Charles who married Nellie Donohew, Taylor who married Luella Sayre, Mary who married Walter Stewart, and Mollie.

Marquis deLafayette Lewis married Hannah Casto. Their children were: Lelia who married Abram J. Neat, Romeo, Leon, Tennie, and Samuel who all died unmarried, and Carl Allenmore who married first Louie C. Parsons. They had one daughter, Thelma who married Troy E. Kessel. Carl's second marriage was to Lillie May Pinnell.

They had two children. Ronald Pinnell Lewis who married Pauline Anderson and Mary Louise Lewis who married Edwin P. Fisher. Ronald has two daughters, Claudia who married Steve Chancey, and Mary Beth Lewis. Claudia and Steve have two children, John Wesley and Mary Susan.

Mary Louise has two children, Jennifer Lynn and Jon Edwin. Jon is married to Andrew Battit.

STEPHEN STARCHER LEWIS

Stephen Starcher Lewis was born November 11, 1949 in Melrose, Massachusetts. He is the oldest son of Benjamin Franklin Lewis (1918-1988) and Glenva May Starcher Lewis (b. 1918). He resided in Rye, New Hampshire until the age of five. The family moved to Lexington, Kentucky where his father became head of the Department of Philosophy and Religion at Transylvania College (now Transylvania University). He has one brother, Benjamin Franklin Lewis, Jr. (b. 1954), and one sister, Rebecca Elizabeth Lewis-Friedlaender (b. 1952).

Steve received his Bachelor of Science degree from Eastern Kentucky University in 1971. After spending a short time as recreation director for the government-funded Model Cities Program in Pike County, Kentucky, he returned to Lexington and began a 14-year career with the now defunct Bank of Commerce and Trust Co. During this time he married Ann Sharon Makle (b. 1946), daughter of Kyle Herman Makle (b. 1918) and Georgia Foster Makle (b. 1919). Steve and Sharon Lewis and children, Kris, Kyle, Kent Steve left banking in 1986 to fulfill a long-time dream of operating his own business. He started Heritage Golf Co., Inc., a wholesale component distribution and custom club building business.

Steve's roots go deep into the history of Jackson County. His family tree will show direct lines back to the early settlers of Ripley and Evans. Abraham Staats (1750-1826) and Anna King Staats (1755-1811) (fifth great-grandparents), Jacob Starcher (1768-1838) and Ann Staats Starcher (1777-1847) (fourth great-grandparents), and Ephriam Evans (1800-1878) and Rhumai Wright Evans (1806-1882) (fourth great-grandparents): all were prominent in the early history of Ripley and Evans. Paternal grandparents Frederick Lewis (1881-1957) and his wife Ola Mae Broyles Lewis (1886-1966) moved to Ravenswood in 1918.

Steve Lewis

Frederick and his son Frederick, Jr. (Ted) (1910-1970) had careers with the Ravenswood Police Department.

LLOYD

The Lloyd family came to Virginia in 1623 and were descendants of Elystan Glodryodd (Welsh spelling of Lloyd), Prince of Ferlys, the territory of Wales. This area lies between the Wye and the Severn rivers near Plynlimmon mountains. 17 years after the family landed in Virginia, Edward Lloyd set out for Maryland, and in 1640 became one of the first settlers of Maryland. He established himself on the bay north of the Talbot County line, at a spot called Lloyd. Maps published as late as 1960 showed the location about five miles northeast of the Wye Oak (a landmark tree more than 20 feet in diameter), which was about a mile from Wye Mills. This information was researched from the Library of Congress and Archives, from Lee Lloyd's manuscript "Dear Don and Dave."

Great-grandfather William Henry Lloyd (1813-), son of Thomas and Anna Lloyd, and brother to William, married Nancy Hite (11/13/1836) Wood County. He served in the Civil War as Pvt. in Co. F, 9th West Virginia Infantry, Tyler County. He received an honorable discharge from the army, reenlisted, and received another honorable discharge. Listed in the 1850 census as living in William Henry and Anna's household were son *Henry, five years old, (10/10/1844-12/03/1882, Hopewell); brother William, who married (11/17/1859) Elizabeth, daughter of Martin and Nancy Jane Ridenour, and his son William, Jr., seven years old (1843).

*Henry Charles Lloyd married (6/16/1868) Czrena Alwilda Williamson (8/27/1851-12/25/1936, Blaine Memorial). Their only son, Owen Roseberry, was born 11/30/1870 and died 12/1953, Blaine Memorial.

Grandmother Czrena was one of eight daughters of John W. Williamson (11/10/1810-12/14/1893, Hopewell) and Isabella I. Ankrom (or Ankrum) (2/09/1820-1/24/1920, Hopewell). The sisters were born in Sistersville and came with their family to Jackson County at an early age. Two sisters, Elizabeth Anne (7/08/1840-8/03/1854) and Josephine Amanda (7/10/1840-8/19/1854) died at an early age, the same month and year, and we assume that they died of a prevalent ailment of the times. The other sisters were long-lived, and Great-grandmother Isabella lived her last years with Czrena, and died 16 days short of her 100th birthday. Great-grandfather Williamson was a physician in the Civil War, and practiced medicine in civilian life before he became a steamboat pilot. He was well-respected and known in the community, and through personal knowledge, King George V granted him fifty-thousand acres in the Charleston vicinity. Unfortunately, Grandmother Czrena had these papers, but they were spirited away by a neighbor and were never seen again. In the 1880 census, Henry and Czrena are listed as caretaker and matron of the County Poor Farm. Owen was nine years old, and Isabella, a widow, was living with them.

Owen Roseberry Lloyd and son, Charles Henry

Owen married (3/03/1898) Anna Ernestine Karr (1870-3/1938), daughter of David Karr and Frances VanHorn. Their union produced Marie Louise (7/14/1897-8/10/1974, New Orleans); Charles Henry (8/27/1901); and Alwilda Karr (5/12/1905). Owen and Anna lived in Ripley for a time and managed the McGuire Hotel (House) owned by Anna's mother. They moved to a log house on the Cow Run Road, just outside Cottageville, about 1910, and built a two-story house with a wrap-around porch just across the road. Owen engaged in general farming, and had enough milk cows to furnish cream to the creamery. He operated the milk and cream separator in the milk house just off the kitchen, poured the contents into cans, stored them in the cellar until ready to ship off by rail from Cottageville to market. Anna was a homemaker, and was known for her beautiful flower gardens. Owen was a devout Christian and a member of the Cottageville Methodist Church. He taught the men's Bible class for 35 years, and often played cornet solos at Sunday school and church. He originated and directed the Cottageville band which played at functions around the county, and was a Master Mason AF&AM, Cottageville Lodge #54.

Marie Louise graduated from Ravenswood High School, the only high school in the county at that time, and became a teacher. She married (3/24/1924) George Meredith, who died in 1939. Charles Henry graduated Ravenswood High School, received his AB in Geology from Marietta College, where he remained as an assistant instructor for several years before accepting employment with the federal government. He married (2/14/1935) Freda Evans, daughter of William Lewis Evans and Nita Waybright. Freda (Petie) taught in Jackson County schools before their marriage, and they now reside in Augusta, Georgia. Alwilda Karr graduated Ravenswood High and Marshall College, and taught in Jackson County, southern states, and New Orleans, where she resides. (See Pinnell-Williamson) Owen Roseberry Lloyd is half-brother to William Lloyd Pinnell. Submitted by Charles Henry Lloyd and Alwilda Lloyd

NEHEMIAH LLOYD

Nehemiah Lloyd, born May 3, 1832, died July 3, 1896, was the son of Joseph Lloyd and Malinda (Hughes) Lloyd. She was the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Hughes.

Contrary to popular belief, not quite all the land in the Ravenswood area was owned by George Washington, though Washington did obtain a Patent of 2,448 acres of land from Lord Dunmore in 1772. One example was the Lloyd farm. In 1852 brothers Joseph and William Lloyd came from England and purchased 90 acres of land from the Virginia government. The land which they obtained for $100.00, bordered on the Washington tract. (Article printed in the Parkersburg Sentinel dated July 1, 1952, when Ravenswood had their Centennial). William Lloyd and his wife Elizabeth deeded their share of the property to Nehemiah S. and Harriet Lloyd May 29, 1886, Deed Book 29, Page 284 for the 90 acres.

Nehemiah married Harriet Mullinex, born July 11, 1841, died April 10, 1910. They were the parents of Amanda A. (Allie), born May 15, 1865, died February 5, 1929. Allie married George Washington Coe, March 31, 1903. George was the son of John Adams Coe, Sr. and Susan (Bibbee) Coe. Allie and George had a daughter, Edith Coe, who married Philip Sheridan Hughes, Jr. Nehemiah's second daughter was Flora Estella, born October 18, 1867, died 1954. The third daughter was Georgia Rosanna, born September 22, 1871, died 1966. She was a school teacher. The fourth child was John Henry Wetzel, born March 20, 1874, died 1947. The fifth child was Robert Leonard, born December 8, 1877, died 1940. He was a school teacher. Robert and his wife, Lula Anna, had three children, Robert, Jr., Mary Gathel and Muriel Jean. Flora, Georgia, John, Robert and Lula are all buried in the Ravenswood Cemetery.

Nehemiah Lloyd

On February 18, 1986, Gwendolyn (Hughes) and Howard C. Robinson, Aloise (Hughes) and Charles J. Bosworth, Howard D. and Sandra S. Hughes, heirs of Edith Coe Hughes, deeded the balance of the Lloyd farm to Stanley W. and Betty L. Nuzum, on the waters of Sand Creek and the Ravenswood Pike public road.

LOCKHART — VAN FOSSON

Charles Squire Lockhart was born of a family long prominent in Jackson and Wood counties. Charles Squire Lockhart, eldest son of Kenneth and Dora Josephine Somerville Lockhart, was born November 17, 1897 in Lynn Valley, Jackson County, near Wiseburg, and died March 13, 1964.

Kenneth Lockhart, the eldest son of Squire Lockhart, was born January 26, 1876 and died January 4, 1964; his first wife, Dora Josephine Somerville Lockhart (her parents were Robert R. Somerville and Elizabeth McCann), was born June 29, 1874 at Sandyville, W. Va. and died July 11, 1936. To this union were born: Morris, an unnamed infant, Charles, Harley, Rexford, Nelle and Lillian. Dora had always taken an active part in church work and was always willing to lend a helping hand to the sick. She was a very active member of the Sheppard Chapel Ladies Aid Society at Wiseburg, W. Va. Dora and Kenneth spent their lives on their farm, which adjoined his father Squire's farm, raising hogs, chickens, cows, and vegetables and fruits. After Dora died, Kenneth married Minnie M. Callaghan who was born August 13, 1873 and died October 17, 1951.

Charles Squire Lockhart was born and raised in Jackson County on his father's farm. He taught in the public schools for four terms; served as a rural carrier in Sandyville during the absence of his cousin, T.A. Lockhart, during World War I, and in 1920 was census enumerator in Jackson County. He then served as rural and city carrier in the Parkersburg Post Office as well as clerk until his appointment as superintendent of the North End Post Office, Parkersburg, W. Va. He also served for some time as a deputy assessor in Wood County.

Charles Squire Lockhart married Della Alice Van Fosson (born 11-17-1899) on October 7, 1916. They were blessed with four children: Lloyd Derward Lockhart who married Ruth Glenna Moore. Their children were Charles Michael and Robert George Lockhart; Cleona Onalee Lockhart; Dora Eithel Lockhart; and Emma Jean Lockhart who married Lawrence Edwin Davis. Their children are Richard Lee Davis and Barbara Ann Davis. Richard Lee Davis married Jane Mary Kull and their children are Sean Christopher Davis and Sara Kathleen Davis. Barbara Ann Davis married Robert Wren Smith and their children are Christina Jean Smith and Lauren Ann Smith.

Charles Squire Lockhart's wife, Della Alice Van Fosson, was the daughter of Dan Van Fosson and Emma Francis Powell Van Fosson. Della was born November 17, 1899 at Garfield, West Virginia and wrote the following notation about her parents a few days before her 90th birthday: "My parents lived on a farm at Pleasant Ridge, W. Va. and were both very hard workers in tending the animals and growing our food. We had lots of fruit, rows and rows of fruit trees; therefore, we did a lot of canning. My mother was the most gracious, pleasant, understanding woman I have ever known. Mother was very active in the church and since she had a beautiful voice was called upon to sing quite frequently for different activities. My father never went anywhere much if he could get out of it as he would rather stay on the farm. He was a pleasant man to meet and my father never drank. We raised sheep on the farm and I always had a pet lamb around, so I didn't mind that my father didn't have any use for dogs."

Dan Van Fosson was born in 1871 and died 1951. Dan's parents were Silas M. Van Fosson and Nancy Jean Forchey. Silas' parents were John and Mariah Van Fosson. They are all buried at Pleasant Ridge Cemetery.

Dan Van Fosson's wife, Emma Francis Powell Van Fosson, was born 1874 and died in 1914. Her parents were Adonager Powell and Elizabeth Neptune Powell. Dan and Emma Van Fosson had two children: Leonard who was born April 14, 1898 and died April 16, 1898; and Della Alice Van Fosson who was born November 17, 1899.

ALBERT LOCKHART

Albert Lockhart, 1840-1905, born Lockhart homestead, Jackson Co., WV, to John and Mary Jane Cheuvront Lockhart, married 3 May 1860, Annetta Derenberger, 1840-1921, born Jackson Co. to John Peter, Jr. and Christina Staats Derenberger. Albert was the grandson of Isaac Lockhart and Amos Cheuvront. Annetta was the granddaughter of Elijah Staats and John Peter Derenberger, Sr., all early settlers in what is now Jackson Co., WV.

The village of Lockhart was named for Albert Lockhart, who built the first store and established the first post office in 1866. At that time Lockhart was located where Nesselroad Creek empties into Sand Creek. There was a mill and several houses, including the home of Albert Lockhart. The store was on the creek bank, almost in front of the house, with a footbridge leading into it. A short distance up the road was another small village called "Buttermilk." (See John Somerville Family for origin of name). It also had a store and several houses.

The 1889 flood destroyed Albert Lockhart's store, many homes and business places, and caused several people to lose their lives. Now only the large house and a smaller one once occupied by the Curracy family remain at the former site of Lockhart. The road sign was moved farther up the road to where the village of Buttermilk was located.

Albert Lockhart was an early school teacher and built the first school house in the village in 1870. He was also a farmer and engaged in the timber and saw mill business. His daughter, Lillie, wrote in her diary, "Father rode old Golden Standard to the lumber camps. He would have a house built of the sweet smelling lumber and move the family to the camp until the job was finished." Albert owned many acres of land in Wirt and Jackson counties. His three sons were school teachers and also in the timber business.

An account book, dated Feb. 1877, written in old fashion script, lists daily sales and expenses for the store. It also lists 150 apple trees by name, including 95 Rome Beauties, along with other fruit trees and grape vines. The women of the family must have been very busy during preserving season! On 20 May 1877 is the brief notation, "Annetta born today."

Albert Lockhart died 1905 from injuries received while lifting on a saw mill. Annetta, a semi-invalid for several years, died in 1921. She was cared for by her daughter, Annetta Vannoy and family. They are buried in Independence Cemetery, Sandyville, WV. Children: Catherine, 1861-1935, married William Cain, Albert Dawkins. Franklin, 1863-1931, married Ida Lee, Celestine Enoch. Neave, 1865-1949, married Linna Enoch, Ella Anderson. John, 1867-1942, married Hattie Archer, Mary Yates. Lucy, 1869-1928, married Dr. Yancy Currey. Christena, 1872-1973, married Ben Somerville. Sarah, 1874-1961, married Willard Archer. Annetta, 1877-1955, married John Vannoy. Ida, 1881-1964 married Henry Warfield, Neal Vannoy, James Dickson. Lillie, 1883-1966, married Frank Leep.

Kate, Lucy, Tena, Sarah, Nettie, Lillie, Celestine Enoch, and Mary (Yates) Lockhart, 1922

John and Patricia Kent now own the Lockhart property. John is grandson of "Nettie" and "Dock" Vannoy, great-grandson of Albert Lockhart. Submitted by Margaret Vannoy Kent

ISAAC LOCKHART

The Lockhart families of Wirt, Wood, and Jackson counties, trace their ancestry to John and Christeny Lockhart who came to Wood Co. before 1800. They built a cabin home on a creek near Mineral Wells which is still known as Lockhart's Run. A short time later they moved to lower Right Reedy section near now Lynn Camp. By patent right and purchase they acquired large tracts of land. John, born 1766, died 1832, said to be a son of Jacob Lockhart of Greenbrier Co., WV. Christeny, born 1768, died 1836. They are buried in the Palestine Cemetery, Wirt Co., WV. His tombstone says that he was from Hampshire Co.

Children of John and Christeny Lockhart: Nancy married George Lott; Elizabeth married George Owens; Sarah married Josiah Hindman; Amy married Enoch Steed; Mary married George Stephens; Margaret married James Sheppard (first marriage in Reedy Dist.); John married Nancy King; William married Louise Rochambaugh; Isaac married Sarah Sheppard, daughter of Jonathan and Martha Wilson Sheppard. Jonathan was a Revolutionary War soldier and early settler in now Wirt Co.

Isaac (1791-1845) and Sarah (1792-1863) lived near the present location of the Pisgah Church in Wirt Co. They gave the land for the church lot and cemetery. Isaac is listed on the 1812 tax roll of Mason Co. as that county then extended to that area. In 1826 Isaac purchased in now Jackson Co. on Slab Camp Run, so named for a camp probably used by early hunters. This is now known as Lockhart's Fork. This land was divided among his descendants and some of it is still owned today by great-great-grandsons. Isaac and Sarah lived the remainder of their lives on Lockhart's Fork. They are buried in the deserted cemetery at Sheppard Chapel Church near Wiseburg, Grant Dist., Jackson Co., WV. Children of Isaac and Sarah: Nancy married William Stephens; John married Mary Jane Chevront; Henry married Rebecca Trickett; Amy married George Steel; Samuel married Jane Osborne; Sarah married Fidellus Woodyard; Julia married Joseph Full; James died young at Ravenswood of cholera, buried there, and Susannah died single.

The name of Lockhart probably originated from Sir Simon de Loc Ard whose estates were adjacent to the beautiful lake in Scotland, called Loc Ard. When Robert Bruce, King of Scotland died, he had chosen Lord James Douglas and Sir Simon de Loc Ard to take his heart to the Holy Land. Lord James was slain on the way by Spanish Moors. Sir Simon, with a few followers, returned to Scotland. The heart of Bruce was placed in Melrose Abby. After his return, Sir Simon used the emblem of a heart within a letterlock on his shield and became known as Lockhart instead of Loc Ard. Some historians say that the name of Lockhart was in use at least two centuries before Robert the Bruce became king. Lockhart Castle is today an ancient ruin near Lanark, the county seat of Lanarkshire. It is nearly surrounded by two streams that flow into a third which flows into the River Clyde. JOHN LOCKHART

John Lockhart (1815-1882), son of Isaac, born Pisgah area, now Wirt Co., WV, married 5 March 1840, Mary Jane Chevront (1820-1905), born Harrison Co. to Amos and Sarah Joseph Chevront. She was a granddaughter of Rev. Joseph Chevront, pioneer minister of the Methodist Church, school teacher and Revolutionary soldier. Amos Chevront came to Jackson Co. in 1838. John and Mary Jane lived on the farm on Lockhart's Fork his father purchased in 1826. They are buried in Sheppard's Chapel Cemetery. Their children: Albert, married Annetta Derenberger; Samuel, killed in Civil War; Sarah married John Nicholson; Susan, twin to Sarah, married Thomas Bing and went west; Jonathan married Jennie Full; Squire married Elizabeth McFee, second Florence Burton Province; Amos and Lemuel went to the Dakotas; Margaret and Addison died young; Nancy married Gershon Conger.

During the Civil War, Jackson, Wirt and Roane counties were hot-beds of activity for the Home Guard and Moccasin Rangers. Feelings ran high and families were divided in their loyalty to the North and the South. In the Lockhart family, Samuel, brother of John, joined the Union Army. Samuel, son of John, joined the Confederate Army. In the spring of 1865, while on his way home, Samuel, son of John, stopped at the Roach farm on Middle Fork of Reedy, to leave a message from their son, Jesse. Samuel and Jesse were tent mates in Lee's Army.

Two weeks later as Samuel was returning to Lee's Army, he stopped at the Roach farm to get some clothing that Jesse had requested. As described in William Bishop's History of Roane Co., "A musket report was heard from the woods back of the orchard. Men were rushing about shouting that a Confederate had been shot." Samuel Lockhart, badly wounded, was taken into the Roach home where he soon died. The next day his relatives came with a wagon to take Samuel home to Lockhart's Fork. They were given a safe conduct pass so that the Home Guards would not bother them. Samuel Lockhart was killed 11 March 1865, age 22 years. He is buried in Sheppard Chapel Cemetery.

Samuel's brother, Albert, wrote this poem in his memory.

Dear brother, fare thee well,
The anguish, oh, who can tell?
Before we part, once more adieu,
We hope at last in Heaven to meet with you.
Yes, heaven is a better place than this,
A happier home and endless bliss.

Death! What a solemn call to all,
And sudden judgement to us fall.
Death takes the young, as well as old,
And in the wintry sheet doth fold.
Rest-brother-rest; thy foot steps wake thee not,
Thy grave is a consecrated spot.

I now own several acres of the original Lockhart homestead on Lockhart's Fork. The building now used for a barn, was once the Lockhart house and still has some of the original logs in it. This land has been owned by members of the Lockhart family since 1826. John Lockhart was my great-great-grandfather. Submitted by Paul D. Somerville

JONATHAN LOCKHART

The Jonathan Lockhart Family traces its origin to John Lockhart (1766-1833) who settled on Lockhart's Run near Mineral Wells in Wood County about 1790. His oldest son, Isaac (1792-1845), was one of the early settlers in Grant District. He moved there in 1826 and the stream where he lived was later renamed Lockhart's Fork. His marriage to Sarah Sheppard (1791-1863) united the Lockhart and Sheppard families. The eldest son of Isaac was John Lockhart (1815-1882). John's marriage in 1840 to Mary Jane Chevront (1820-1905) gave his descendants three lines back to Revolutionary War soldiers: John Lockhart, Jonathan Sheppard and Joseph Chevront. John Lockhart was one of the original trustees of Sheppard's Chapel Church when the site was deeded to the Methodist Church on 22 Dec. 1851. Both Isaac and John Lockhart and their wives are buried in Sheppard's Chapel Cemetery.

John Lockhart (1815-1882) fathered 11 children: Albert (1840-1905) married Anetta Derenberger 1860 and for whom the village of Lockhart is named; Samuel (1842-1865) killed in the Confederate Army; Sarah (1844-1922) married John Nicholson 1884; Susan (1844-1895) married Thomas Bing 1870; Jonathan (1847-1932) married Virginia Full 1871; Margaret (1850-1850); Amos (1852-1935) married Emma Somerville 1871; Squire (1854-?) married Elizabeth McFee 1875; Nancy (1857?) married Gersham Conger 1882; Addison (1860-1860); and Lemuel (1861-1934) married Elizabeth Myers 1881.

Jonathan Lockhart, like his father, was born and lived his entire life on Lockhart's Fork. He was the third generation of successful farmers and land owners on this small stream in Grant District. In addition to his farming, he operated a small general store for a number of years. He was also the designated Postmaster at Pee Wee, Wirt County, 13 October 1892 to 2 December 1895. On 4 December 1871, he was married to Virginia Full, daughter of Reuben and Elizabeth Somerville Full. Reuben was the son of Lewis and Emma Jane Collins Full. Emma Collins' mother was a full blooded Shawnee Indian named Tecumopease, a niece of Chief Tecumseh.

Jonathan Lockhart acquired his first farm land

by deed from Joseph Full and Juliana Lockhart Full in 1865 (at age 18), 240 acres for $1,000. A part of the land was Juliana's share of her father's estate (Isaac Lockhart). Before his marriage in 1871, he had built a beautiful house for his new bride. [Some of the author's earliest memories are of visits to Grandfather Jonathan's house.]

There were eight children born to Jonathan and his wife, Virginia. The eldest was Frederick (1872-1918). He and two of his six children were killed in a house fire on their farm near Huntington, WV. His widow, Rilla Barlow Lockhart, moved her remaining family back to Lockhart's Fork where they grew to maturity. Belva was married to Roscoe Lockhart and their son, Bernard, is the only descendant of Jonathan Lockhart still living in Jackson County. There are three surviving children: Vernon of Long Bottom, OH, Vernice Reeves of Walker, WV, and Grace Emerick of Parkersburg, WV, as well as 13 grandchildren.

Lisette, the second child (1874-1963), was married to Ira B. Currey who grew up near Lockhart. They lived on a farm adjoining her parents. They had four children: Bradley (1904-1982), Vesta Currey Palmer (1906 -) Virgie Currey Lockhart (1908-1984) and Gordon (1915 -) and 12 grandchildren. Jonathan Lockhart's farm is now owned by his great-grandson, Herbert Palmer of Parkersburg. Almost all of their descendants live in the Parkersburg area.

The third child, Frannie (1874-1970), was married to Alva Preston Archer and lived in the Huntington, WV area. They had three children: Holley (1899-1962), Rexford (1903-1932) and Genevieve (1913-1927). They are survived by one granddaughter, Maxine Archer Justice of Jacksonville, NC and two great-grandsons. Herbert Lockhart (1879-1907) was the fourth child. He was never married.

The fifth child was Flora (1882-1956), married to William F. McVey. They lived on Full's Fork in Wirt County and had four children: Doyle Franklin (1910-1976), Edith McVey Carder (1912-), Freddie Wilber (1915-1986) and Bernice McVey Corbitt (1918-). There are 11 grandchildren. Both Edith and Bernice live in Mineral Wells, WV.

The sixth child was Mary (1884-1923) married to Jonathan Morehead. They had two children, Douglas (1916-1979) and Beulah and are survived by two grandchildren, Kerry Douglas Morehead and Peggy Morehead Baadte of Hanover, PA.

Therman Allen Lockhart (1887-1968) was the seventh child in the family. He became a school teacher in 1905 and in 1912 was appointed a rural mail carrier at Sandyville, where he served for over 36 years. There was a break in his service in 1917-18 while he was in the Army in World War I. He was a notary public for many years and was active in promoting the creation of Gilmore High School in the 1920s. His wife, Erna, was the secretary of the School Board during this time and later was a local correspondent for the Jackson Herald, the Mountaineer and the Ravenswood News until her death in 1963. Therman is best known to local historians for his long-running series of articles in Jackson and Wirt county newspapers on families of the area written under the pen name, Tommy Sewell. He had three sons: Eugene (1914-1914), Brooks (1920-) and Bruce (1923-). Brooks, who is a retired college professor and dean, lives in Carmel, CA. He has three children and three grandchildren. Bruce is disabled and lives in a nursing home in Chicago, IL.

Jonathan and Virginia Lockhart had an eighth child, stillborn in 1892. At about this time they started a family cemetery about 300 yards from their home. This was made official by deed dated 4 May 1907 naming as trustees Gresham Conger, Kenneth Lockhart and Therman Lockhart. Among the headstones in the cemetery is that of Tony

Lockhart, Jonathan's nephew, who was killed in France in World War I. Submitted by Brooks J. Lockhart

MYRTLE (BOSWELL) LONG

It is a known fact that in Jackson County the Boswell Family were some of the first settlers. They came from old Virginia, and settled around Rockcastle Community in the early 17th Century. Their ancestors were from England and Germany. Myrtle was born April 27, 1907 near Rockcastle. Out of thirteen, she was the 8th child of Thomas Gilbert Boswell (1860-1923) and Susane Parsons (1870-1937) of Fairplain, W. Va.

Grandparents were Gilbert Boswell Jr. (1814-1887) and Mary Good (1824-1906), married June 5, 1845, and Nicholas Parsons and Mary Madalene Casto.

Great-grandparents were Gilbert Boswell Sr. (1779-1854) of Franklin County, Va., and Elizabeth Mason (1792-1860), married 1809. The only good jobs back then were as slave overseer, so they migrated west over the Blue Ridge Mountains in a covered wagon in the early 1800s with young Gilbert Jr. for some inexpensive land. On the way to Ripley, Myrtle's grandmother climbed out of the wagon at a place called Polka and said she wanted to be the first white woman to put her feet on the ground there. It upset Elizabeth's dad so badly, he only left her a dollar in his will to make it legal.

They had a big plantation.

Other great-grandparents were William Parsons and Susanna Bonnett. Great-great-grandparents were Captain Wm. Parsons, born eastern shore of Maryland July 1769-1839. He was a captain in the War of 1812. He was married two times, first to Susan Fink in 1786, second time to Elizabeth Walker.

Myrtle was raised on a farm with her brothers and sisters, Garfield, Mary, Homer, Floyd, Marion, Bernice and Mabel. Myrtle's oldest brother, Gilbert N., died Dec. 11, 1896 when he was just 13 months old.

Myrtle had a lot of fun as a kid growing up, and sad times too. Some times they would all get up before sunrise, milk the cows, and go to town in an old road wagon. It would be dark before they got home. At night, sometimes, they would hear panthers screaming. They all had their own jobs to do. Myrtle would help her mother around the house and in the garden. Sometimes when she was little, those big chicken hawks scared her flying overhead. Her mom would wave a stick at them if they came too close. They had a hen house and would take the eggs down to the Rockcastle grocery to trade. Myrtle went to Lone Oak school. All eight grades were in one room. She became a really good speller, and would help her kids spell later in life.

There were weddings to go to, and when the couple would go home to settle down for the night, friends and relatives would come over and shoot guns, and bang on cans and hoot and holler.

On Sunday the whole family would go to church. After church they sometimes would have dinner with the Smiths, or they would come over to their house. Once in a while Myrtle and her sister, Marion, would walk over to Fairplain United Brethren Church.

Myrtle's brother, Garfield, passed away on his 16th birthday, May 21, 1912, of TB. Then her dad in 1923 of unknown cause. It was one year later that her sister, Bernice, died of TB, Jan. 14, 1924. Myrtle's father had said before he passed away that they had all better get off the farm. He thought the TB was in the water. They were all devastated by it.

Myrtle's sister, Mary, wanted them to come to Akron, Ohio to live. Their dad's sister, Marion Gillespie, came with them on the train, leaving their home, relatives and friends. Myrtle was 17 at the time (1924). One year later she and her sister, Mable, both came down with the TB. Myrtle said they probably both had the TB before they left home. Myrtle went into a TB sanitarium for treatment for two years, and ended up with scars on her lungs. Mable's spread to her bones and they were not able to cure it. Mable passed away at the age of 21, April 3, 1930. The doctors said that if they would have stayed on the farm, they would probably all have died of it. The doctors figure that maybe TB came from infected cows. That's why we have pasteurization of milk today. That's how they put an end to the TB epidemic.

Myrtle worked at some of the rubber companies and restaurants. In 1926 she met her future husband, John F. Long, Jan. 4, 1905-Feb. 18, 1970, of Jefferson, NC. After a long courtship, they got married Aug. 7, 1937. From this marriage they have two sons and one daughter.

Oldest son, John Marvin Long, b. 6-27-1938, m. 12-19-1959, married to Cordia Jean (Wilborn) of Tenn., b. 9-19-1942.

Grandchildren: 1. Deanna Long, born 4-3-1960. 2. Martha Ann Long, 6-27-1961, married to John W. Long, 5-3-1960. 3. Tina Magaret Long, 10-26-1964.

Great-grandchildren: 1. Daughter, Mclissa Jean Long, born 11-4-85, died Christmas Eve 1985; Eric Michael (Sunday) Long, 9-23-1988. 2. Laura Beth Long (Long), 7-26-1984. Daniel William Long (Long), 5-31-1989. 3. Sara Magaret (Sis-

Long (Long), 5-31-1989. 3. Sara Magaret (Sisson) Long, 3-5-85.

Youngest son, Edgar Alvin Long, born 8-31-1949.

Grandchild: Adam Jason Roscoe (Cooper) Long, 4-7-1973.

Daughter: Imogene Carol (Long) Bennett, born 8-6-1941.

Grandchildren: 1. Kathy Lynn (Bennett) Stamper, 12-16-1962, married to Dave Stamper. 2. Debra Ann (Bennett) Snyder, 2-14-1965, m. James Lee Snyder, 6-25-1967. 3. Christina Marie Carrol, born 12-16-1982.

Great-grandchildren: 1. Daughter, Cassandra Holly Younkin, born 8-17-1983. 2. Daughter, Holly Krista Snyder, born 12-30-1988.

Myrtle lived with and helped take care of her ailing mother until she passed away Nov. 1, 1937. Myrtle's husband was a structural ironworker and she was a housewife. She always enjoyed visiting back home.

My mother passed away May 6, 1988 from complications of brain stem stroke. When she was younger, I can remember her singing that old hymn "How Beautiful Heaven Must Be." The day after she had the stroke, she went on the ventilator. A double rainbow appeared over the hospital. I know you're in Heaven and I hope I have written this article the way you would have wanted it written.

Myrtle (Boswell) Long

GRANVILLE LOWTHER

My grandfather, Granville Lowther, was a very handy man to have around. He made the shoes for my mother, Lora Hardman, and her sister, Letha. The shoes were not made for left and right feet. Consequently, they were just alike. At night when they removed their shoes, he would have them switch sides so that the shoe they wore on their left foot that day would be worn on the right foot the next day. That would keep them from being misshapen and "run over." Submitted by Phyllis McComas

WILLIAM LOWTHER

When my family moved from Harrison County to Jackson County, I was four years old. I am Mark McComas.

Thinking all my roots were left behind me, imagine my surprise when my grandmother told me that my great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfather, Colonel William Lowther, was sent to Jackson County by Governor John Floyd in March 1831 as the first sheriff when the county was organized from Wood, Mason, and Kanawha counties. At the time he was sheriff of Wood County.

In those days the sheriff had a lot more to do than they have now. Colonel Lowther, who had fought in the Revolutionary War, had to appoint all court officers and organize records, from a county seat and various other responsibilities.

While living here his sister visited and married Jesse Hughes, the noted Indian fighter.

Colonel Lowther's grandson, Robert, was the first postmaster in Ripley.

The family lived in the Frozen Camp area. Colonel Lowther returned to Harrison County but Robert stayed here in Jackson County.

There is a Lowther graveyard on Joe's Run where Lowther descendants were buried. Submitted by Mark McComas

LYNCH — PARSONS

A BRIGHT DAY — In the Life Calendar of Two Popular Young People. Miss Lola B. Parsons, Became the Happy Bride of Mr. William L. Lynch, of Charleston, West Virginia.

High twelve Wednesday of this week, there occurred a pretty, quiet home wedding, when Miss Lola B. Parsons, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T.I.C. Parsons, of this city, became the happy bride of Mr. William Lynch, of Charleston, West Virginia, the Rev. H.T. Watts, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, officiating. Only the family witnessed the ceremony which was short and impressive. A wedding dinner followed, the bride and groom leaving on the afternoon train for a short honeymoon trip — visiting Cincinnati and other western cities. They will return here Christmas Eve for a short stay after which they will take up their residence at Charleston, W.Va.

The bride is, as before stated, the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T.I.C. Parsons, and has always been a general favorite with a large circle of young friends in Ripley. She is a lady of culture and refinement, who by her modest, quiet, unassuming and easy grace of manner has endeared herself in the hearts of a legion of friends. She has been taught in one of the brightest and best homes of Jackson County, not only every housewifely duty and virtue, but every noble quality of head and heart.

The groom is a splendid young man, holding a lucrative and responsible position with the Kanawha Drug Company of Charleston, W.Va. He is sober, honest, straight forward and industrious, and is in every manner of man fully worthy of the fair lady whom he has chosen for a companion through life.

The Mountaineer joins their many friends in heartiest congratulations and hope that the joys and sorrows of a long and useful life may be mutually shared, and "when the silver threads shall fall among the gold," may this happy influence of domestic bliss sit hand in hand with clustering honors upon their brow — throwing a halo of youth around their sunset of life.

A five stanza poem followed — not printed here. (From a wedding announcement in a Jackson Co. Newspaper, December 1908.) Submitted by Frances Lynch Vencill

W.L. LYNCH

On December 16, 1908, William Lonis Lynch (1875-1948) married Lola Burton Parsons (1883-1964) in the home of her parents, Dr. T.I.C. Parsons and Mrs. Parsons, in Ripley.

William Lonis Lynch was born at Countsville, Roane County, the son of Wesley Lonis Lynch and

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lynch

Talitha Loventia Allen-Lynch; traveled as a salesman for Patton Brothers, a wholesale drug company of Kentucky; in 1905 resigned to accept a similar position with The Kanawha Drug Company, Charleston, WV.

Prior to marriage, Lola Parsons-Lynch attended Ripley Normal School and was a teacher in Jackson, Logan, and Putnam counties. After marriage, Mrs. Lynch as a "role model" was a dedicated homemaker.

The Lynches moved into their new home in St. Albans in 1909-10. In 1914 Mr. Lynch opened his own business, the St. Albans Furniture Company.

Previous members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, they became active members of St. Andrew United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Lynch was a member of the St. Albans Chapter OES, having transferred membership from the Ripley Chapter; was active in many civic activities; and was recognized by the American Red Cross in WW I and WW II for volunteer services.

Mr. Lynch was a member of the St. Albans Board of Trade; member of the City Council for many years from 1916; interested in providing cultural advantages for the community, he participated actively in such projects as the Lyceum and Chautauqua; member and a President of the Parent-Teacher Association, he witnessed improvements, changes and an increase in enrollment in the school system. A member of the Masonic Lodge #58 AF&AM, St. Albans; also a long-time member and a director of the St. Albans Business Men's Association, he had served as President.

The St. Albans-Nitro Bridge, built in 1934, "... was the first self-liquidating government project to be constructed in West Virginia." The bridge-opening ceremonies sponsored by the Business Men's Association, November 12, 1934, listed on the program a most impressive agenda.

For many years, the Business Men's Association had concentrated on and hoped for a bridge connecting "St. Albans with the North Side of Kanawha River and with its sister cities of Nitro, Sattes, Institute and Dunbar . . ."

On the program, W.L. Lynch's name was listed as one of the five members of City Council. Among the introductions, and following his name on the program he was introduced as "Father of the Bridge."

A member of St. Andrew United Methodist Church, he served in many areas: Church Treasurer, member and Treasurer of the Board of Stewards, and others. At the time of his death, August 3, 1948, he was President of the Trustees and a member of the Board of Stewards. "In August, 1948, the first building project of the united church was undertaken."

LYTTON

The names Litton and Lytton are used here for members of the same family. Family tradition has it that long ago the family name was spelled L-Y-T-T-O-N. Somewhere along the line, a school teacher changed the name to L-I-T-T-O-N to make it easier for the children to spell. In the 1920s, certain members of the family changed the name back to the original spelling.

The General Historie of Virginia by Captaine John Smith (Vol. 1, page 262) lists Sir William Litton as an adventurer for Virginia in 1620. The oral history of the family states that the Lyttons of Jackson County all came from him. However, we have been unable to link our family to him. He arrived with two or three sons, one of whom was killed in 1622 in an Indian uprising.

David Litton was born in Berkeley County, Virginia, in August 1793. He married Barbara Rhodes who was born in 1799. She was the daughter of George Rhodes. David Litton and a group of other settlers moved from the upper James River in Botetourt and Rockbridge counties, Virginia, to the current location of Mill Creek in Jackson County in the early 1830s. At the time of David's arrival in the present location of Jackson County, there were only five families living on Elk Fork. As you can surmise, the area was still quite a wilderness with all types of wild animals, game, and Indians living there.

When David came to Mill Creek, he first lived in one end of a double log house on Charles Carney's farm while he and Fox, the other occupant, built on a lease they had taken from James Rader on Spruce Run. He had completed a cabin at the mouth of that stream when Steven Westfall, who had a title bond from Watson, took possession of his house. This man Watson was said to have been agent for a large tract of land belonging to J.D.D. Rosset, a Swiss, who was an extensive land holder in Mill Creek Valley. Westfall, however helped Litton build another cabin into which he moved in February 1833, before it had a door or window, floor or chimney. It is thought by some that the second cabin built by David Litton is the one which has been restored and now stands at Cedar Lakes.

David and Barbara Litton's children were: Abraham, Alfred, Alexander, John D., Cynthia, Susannah, and Emily. All of these children and their families settled in the vicinity.

Abraham Litton and Margaret Westfall were married on April 16, 1846. They had the following children: Jonathan, Allen, Henry, David, Elizabeth J.

Abraham's first wife, Margaret, died in 1863. Abraham married Louiza Harner on July 3, 1864, and had 13 children by her. Abraham died on February 25, 1912, and is buried with his two wives in the Litton No. 2 Cemetery in Gay, West Virginia.

Henry Litton was born on June 13, 1852, in Gay, Jackson County, Virginia. He married Lenora Thomas on November 29, 1874, in Gay. They had the following children: Clara Jane, Hollis, Walter, Ellis Bertie, Herbert, Okey Nelson, Eva Florence, William Floyd, Alva Lloyd, Effa Blanche, and Olaf Clair. Henry Litton owned and operated the farm known as "Sand Hill" in Washington District of Jackson County. This operation was well rounded and adequate and the farm remained in the hands of his heirs for several decades after his death. His heirs donated land to the Jackson County Board of Education for construction of a school on Aplin Ridge. Henry died of Bright's disease on April 6, 1919, and is buried in the Litton No. 2 Cemetery in Gay, West Virginia.

Ellis Bertie Lytton was born on April 17, 1881, at Gay, West Virginia. He married Nancy Ernestine

Henry (Litton) Lytton family

Price on April 1, 1901, at Staats Mills, West Virginia. They had the following children: Brady Wallace, Monnie May, Mamie Blondis, Carroll Mayford, Bertha Nell, and Dorothy Lenora. Ellis Bertie Lytton was a well-known person in the Ripley area. He was a photographer and a watch maker. He and Oshel C. Staats were associated in a jewelry, watch repair and photography business in Ripley for many years. In his later years he moved to Nitro, West Virginia, where he also opened a jewelry and watch repair business. He died on March 28, 1952, in Charleston, West Virginia, and is buried at Sunset Memorial Park, in South Charleston, West Virginia.

Dorothy Lenora Lytton was born on September 24, 1919, in Ripley, West Virginia. In 1945, she married George Elliott Tabb of Jefferson County, West Virginia. They had the following children:

George Elliott, Jr. and Richard Carroll. Dorothy is an artist and a homemaker. She is active in her church (Presbyterian) and in several civic organizations. She currently lives with her husband near Charles Town, in Jefferson County, West Virginia.

Much of the above information was contained in a historical sketch written by John A. House and published in the Jackson County Herald on April 12, 1912. Submitted by George E. Tabb, Jr. and Dorothy Lytton Tabb

WILLIAM MADDUX

William Oscar Maddox purchased a marriage bond of $150.00 for Elizabeth Chevrunt, daughter of Aaron Chevrunt, on March 31, 1832. To this union were born four children in Harrison County, Virginia: William Jr., George, Elizabeth, and Sarah.

Aaron Chevrunt and family purchased 2,000 acres of land north of what is now Sandyville, West Virginia, at the confluence of Nesselroad and Big Sandy. The family traveled by boat from Harrison County up the Monongahela River to Pittsburg then down the mighty Ohio River to Ravenswood. The men of the family herded the cattle, horses, and other animals across the rugged mountains to Jackson County. Upon reaching their wild hermitage, the woods were full of wolves, bears, turkeys, and deer. No public roads on Sandy above Sandyville leading to their domain, also no schools or churches to encourage them along. But they had bought land of the highest quality on which they built their future and the future of generations that followed them in Jackson County. Forty-nine acres of this original property still belongs to descendants of William Oscar Maddox.

William moved with his family to their new home in Jackson County in 1839. Three more children: Rebecca, Mary, and Amos Aaron were born.

William died August 21, 1841 at the age of 33 and is buried in the Maddox Family Cemetery. Elizabeth and her parents raised the children. Elizabeth died November 7, 1886, at the age of 62 and is also buried in the Maddox Cemetery.

George Maddox, son of William, married Mahala Lockhart, daughter of John M. Lockhart. To this union were born 15 children: Anne, James William, John Amos, George, Albert G., Franklin, Elizabeth, Matilda Sarah, Katherine, Margaret, May, Annette, Almeda, Nora, and Oscar.

At this time we have no information on the birth or death of George Maddox nor the birth of Mahala. Mahala died May 10, 1913 in Wirt County, West Virginia.

John Amos, son of George, was born September 14, 1863, and died December 31, 1945. He married Hannah "Sis" Conger on December 23, 1885. She was born May 5, 1866, and died May 5, 1905. To this union were born nine children: Katie (b. 1886, m. Willie J. Griffith, d. 1929), George William, Flora Mae (b. 8/25/1892, m. Charles McCauley, d. 11/8/1970), Harry O'Dell (b. 10/28/1894, d. 3/24/1980, never married), Pearl Ora (b. 8/27/1892, m. Ola Wilson, d. 12/3/1979), Martha Ruthena (b. 8/27/1896, m. James Robinson/Anthony Casperson, d. ?), John L.C. (b. 9/29/1900, d. 10/7/1900), Ada B. (b. 10/27/1902, d. 1/1/1903), and Marie L. (b. 4/14/1905, m. Gilbert Treadway, d. 12/22/1976).

John married Bertha Angeline Smith on June 18, 1907 (b. 8/5/1887, d. 2/25/1973). To this union were born: Holly Alfie (b. 2/4/1908, m. Lucille Angus, d. 12/23/1986) and Clellie Vesta (b. 7/25/1910, m. Roy Enoch/Gussie Pickens — only living member of this family). John, Hannah and Bertha are all buried in the Drift Run Cemetery.

George William (b. 10/13/1888) married Laura Estella Robbins (b. 11/20/1895, daughter of William Alexander and Rachel Malinda Thompson Robbins of Parsons Run, Grant District) on July 30, 1920. They had two sons, Carl Owen and James Ray. George died 5/7/1976. Laura died 1/6/1977. Both are buried at Rockland Cemetery in Belpre, Ohio.

Descendants of the Maddox family still reside in Jackson County. Submitted by Patricia Maddox Graham and James R. Maddox

REESE MAHON (MAHAN)

About the time that George Washington's brother, Charles, was founding Charles Town, Virginia (WV) in the northern part of the Shenandoah Valley, educators were founding the University of South Carolina and Napoleon was in his heyday. Reese Mahon located and purchased 2,800 acres of land near Cottageville, WV (Jackson County Court records in Ripley, WV). The land occupied a good portion of what is now Union District, Jackson County. It apparently included a tract owned by George Washington in his early years. Reese and his family, and their friends the Bates, immediately settled in what became the Flatwoods area.

Reese had been born in 1784, in Cecil County, Maryland. Both the Mahons and their friends, the Bates, had arrived in Jackson County via Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania and Steubenville, Ohio. It is assumed that they moved their household goods, clothing and tools down the Ohio River on "keelboats." Livestock probably was driven over a primitive trail known as the "Zane Trace" along the western bank of the Ohio River.

Jackson County, founded in 1831, had gained one of its important assets.

Writer Stan Steiner describes the early settlers as . . . robust and lusty men and women . . . they could not have been timid souls. (excerpt from "Waning of the West" by Stan Steiner).

They were not concerned that steamboats and railroads were in their experimental stages or that the Louisiana territory had been purchased from Napoleon. They had their pioneering spirit, craftsman's skills and religious beliefs and did not feel deprived. They were often saddened by sickness and death of children and young adults but believed that such was the "will of God."

The 1840 census lists two sons and five grandchildren living in Jackson County. It appears that at least one son and four daughters came to the Flatwoods area later. One of them, William Reese, served as a lay preacher and became the first minister of the Ravenswood Methodist Episcopal Church.

Thomas became a doctor and along with his sister, Margaret, moved to Iowa. Margaret married a De Sellem. Another brother, Edward S., became a delegate to a constitutional convention and assisted in developing a constitution for the proposed new state of West Virginia.

Henry Spence, son of Reese, served as a member of the County Court from 1856 to 1860. He married three times and was the father of at least 13 children.

About 1890 James Mahon and a nephew, Clair Mahon, built the Flatwoods church on land donated by James.

In 1858 the site now known as Cottageville acquired a new grist mill and the Mahons and other settlers were able to obtain flour for their household use. It was not until 1886 that the area was modernized by a railroad along Mill Creek to

Clair D. Mahon family: Lucy, Georgia, Eunice, Bradie, Freda, George and Elizabeth Stanley, Clair, Adrian, Cora and Harrison

Ripley. The town, Ripley, was established in 1832. It already had a grist mill, a coopers shop, and a tannery which supplied the settlers with milled grain, leather and barrels.

Descendants of Reese are not easy to identify. However, if your name is Mahon or Kneff it is likely that you are a descendant of Henry Spence and Elizabeth (Grey) Mahon. If your name is Boyd, De Sellen, Coe or Rawling (Rowling), Latham or Sianley, you are probably descended from Henry Spence's second marriage to Elizabeth's sister, Margaret Grey.

Richard Grey Mahon, son of Henry Spence and Elizabeth, had descendants by the name of Rollins and McKowen.

Other Mahons served in the U.S. Army and as public officials such as road commissioners and deputy sheriffs. Mahon craftsmen became building contractors, general store keepers, hotel operators and farmers.

The second generation of Mahons (Mahans) in Jackson numbered at least 25 grandchildren. We are not able to name all the succeeding descendants due to the space limitations and lack of knowledge of the descendant's names. Submitted by Carroll King

FRANK J. MARINO

Frank Joseph Marino was born June 6, 1937 in Shinnston, WV, the son of Joe Anthony Marino and Anne Belcastro Marino.

He attended grade school in Meadowbrook. His parents divorced in 1944. In 1948 he moved to Welch to make his home with his father and step-mother, Rose Rucci Marino.

In 1955 he graduated from Welch High School where he made All-Area, All-Southern and All-State teams in football and basketball and All-County teams two years. He played baseball with Welch business leagues.

In high school he was a member of the Lettermans Club, National Honor Society, A Cappella Choir, Junior Class Play and May Court.

In 1955 he played quarterback at Camden Academy, Camden, SC and led his team to a perfect 12-0 season. He was granted a four-year scholarship to Clemson College, Clemson, SC, where he played all three sports his freshman year.

In 1956 he transferred and played basketball at Marshall College, Huntington, and in 1957 at Beckley College, Beckley.

March 27, 1958 he married Patricia Mahaffey. She was born October 18, 1940 in Welch and was a 1958 graduate of Welch High School. She was a majorette, charter member of the Keyettes and in 1957 secretary of the Spanish Club.

She was employed part time at G.C. Murphy in Welch while attending school and following their marriage as secretary-bookkeeper for Marino Insurance Agency. Daughter, Lori, was born August 11, 1959.

In June 1960 Frank received his degree in geography and physical education at Concord College, Athens, and began his coaching career at Davy Jr. High School, Davy. In 1962 he transferred to Welch Junior High School where he served as coach. In 1963 he became assistant coach at Welch High School. Joseph Michael "Mickey" Marino was born December 22, 1962 in Welch.

December 2, 1964 a Welch Daily News sports story read: "One of the best basketball players ever produced at Welch High made his coaching debut last night with a rousing success." Welch beat Gary 65-56.

In 1966 he was manager of Post 8 American Legion baseball team. In 1967 he started a ten-year period as summer city recreation director for Welch in charge of playgrounds and the swimming pool. In 1969 he became head football coach at Welch High School and began with a 7-3 season.

Pat served as president of the Welch Elementary PTA for 1970-71. She was the first president of the Gamma Psi Sorority when it formed in Welch. In 1972 she became Executive Director of the March of Dimes and in 1973 became Executive Director of the McDowell County Unit of the American Cancer Society. She continued both positions for five years.

In 1973 Frank was the only coach in the county for both basketball and football. His basketball career was highlighted by Maurice "Tree" Robinson, an All-Stater who later played for and was captain of the WVU team.

In 1974 a new school regulation made it necessary for him to drop one sport. After a 185-85 basketball record he chose football. From 1969 to 1976 his football teams won 46, lost 29 and tied four.

Son, Mickey, followed in his father's footsteps. He was a member of the Lions Midget League football team, Rotary Little League baseball, Citizens Drug Little League and the Welch Elementary School basketball teams. He made Little League All-Stars every year he played and in 1976 Welch Senior League All-Stars. Every All-Star team that he played on went to the State Playoffs.

June 1977 Lori Ann graduated from Welch High School. Through the years she was Little League, Junior High, Junior Varsity and Varsity cheerleader. She was a member of the Pep Club and Tri-Hi-Y. Her senior year she was voted "Most Popular" and "Most School Spirited."

In 1977 Frank resigned at Welch High School to become coach at Ripley High School, Ripley. This school in 1976 had an 0-10 record and had lost sixteen games in a row. His first year record was 7-3. The 1977 team produced one first team All-Stater and nine other players receiving honors on the Triple A team. The Ripley Vikings made the AAA State Playoffs for the first time in the school's history in 1986. They returned again in 1987 and following the school's first ever 10-0 season in 1989, they were back in the state playoffs.

Pat continued her work with the March of Dimes and the American Cancer Society until she moved to Ripley in 1977. She then resigned from the March of Dimes and became Senior District Representative with the American Cancer Society and traveled in 13 counties to promote their programs of Research, Education, Service to Patients and Fund raising.

In 1978 Frank once again became a two-sport coach when he took over the basketball team at Ripley High until 1981 when he resigned the basketball position.

At Ripley High, Mickey played all three sports his freshman, sophomore and junior years. He played quarterback for his father's team three years. He played shortstop in baseball and his junior year had hits in 22 straight games with a batting average of .423. He led the team in runs batted in. That year the team went to the State Playoffs where Mickey was named to the All Tournament team. In basketball, Mickey was named to the All Tournament team of the first Keith Simmons Memorial Tournament in 1979. He chose to only play football his senior year and was named the outstanding senior player.

In 1980 Mickey, a 6 foot 2 inch, 180 pounder, made All-Southern in football and First Team Triple A All-State as quarterback. He was the recipient of the first Mountaineer grid grant to any in state player. July 1981 he played in the North-South game at Laidley Field in Charleston.

Mickey played for West Virginia University his freshman year and attended the Peach Bowl in Atlanta as a player but surrendered his scholarship because of a high school knee injury that was reinjured in JV action. He ran for class president his senior year and graduated from the university in 1988.

In 1982 Lori received her degree in Elementary Education with a specialization in Special Education K-12 at West Virginia University. She accepted a position as L.D. Specialist teacher at Ripley Elementary and soon added sponsorship of the Viking Varsity Cheerleading squad. She is working on her masters.

Following graduation Mickey moved to Ripley and became employed by National Safety Association. July 7, 1988, Mickey met a tragic death in Morgantown when he fell from an apartment window. A scholarship fund was started and continues to grow in his memory to assist deserving students to further their education.

Pat, who had been promoted to State Director of Organization and Training with the American Cancer Society, resigned in November 1988 to join the staff at The Traders Bank.

Pat and Frank reside at 204 Edgewood Circle in Ripley with their pet dog, Chala, a 1987 Christmas gift from Mickey. September 1989, Lori purchased a home at 114 Walnut Street in Evans. Submitted by Frank J. Marino and Lori Marino

ROBERT MATE

Robert Mate, a prominent citizen of Ripley throughout the last half of the 19th century, came to Ripley by accident. Born in Poynton, Lincolnshire, England on January 14, 1821, he migrated to America in 1844, where he found work in Genesio, New York, as head of one of the largest blacksmith shops in the state, where guns and articles made of iron were necessary to America. In England he had become a master iron worker after seven years as an apprentice. That he quickly became a public citizen in Genesio is shown by an official certificate from the town in 1846. Even so, he decided that better opportunities might be in St. Louis, Missouri, gateway to the West.

In England the family of James and Mary

Pierson Mate, Robert's parents, and the family of William Harker were close friends. Together they planned that some day they would go to America together and locate near each other. Their plans faded with the death of Robert's father, James, in 1834, and his being apprenticed, at age 13, for a trade. When Robert completed his training in 1844, the families renewed their old plans. Robert, with his mother, Mary Pierson Mate, and brother, James, would go to America, and the William Harker family would follow when feasible. Tragedy again fell. William Harker died crossing the Atlantic, and was buried at sea. His wife, Eliza, landed in New York with five daughters and little money to provide for them.

On July 4, 1850, Robert Mate and Eliza Harker, the eldest daughter, were married, and left the next day for St. Louis. Traveling by boat on the Ohio River, they learned that cholera had spread in St. Louis and it was not safe to go there. They got off the boat at Ripley Landing and found shelter with the Cunningham family at Evans, where they learned that the young town of Ripley had no one with Robert Mate's skills. They decided to settle here on July 22, 1850, where they lived their remaining life except for the years of the Civil War, when he and his wife moved farther south in Virginia for Robert to make guns for the Confederacy.

On his return after the war, he reestablished his business, setting up apprenticeships for young men to learn his trade. Those from out of town lived in the Mates' home. They made farm implements, such as plows, rakes, wagons, horse shoes, guns, locks, hinges, nails, and lanterns. Some of the boys learned the trade and went into business for themselves. Some of these were James McKown, Robert Conley, John and Frank Vail, John Rhodes, Nathan Ong, and Henry and Charles Landfried. Robert Mate also taught them much about the care of domestic animals, which he had learned from his father, James Mate, a veterinary surgeon, in England.

Robert Mate negotiated for the land on which St. John's Episcopal Church was built in 1872 and was a member of its first vestry. Records in Ripley's IOOF Lodge show him as a member in 1859. Apparently, he also was a Mason as the obituary of his death, April 26, 1902, states his funeral was conducted by Reverend Hyatt of Parkersburg and the Masonic Lodge of Ripley. The pallbearers were distinguished men: Judge Virgil S. Armstrong, V.F. Armstrong, W.T. Greer, C.H. Proglar, G.B. Crow, William Crow, J.A. McIntosh, and F.H. Greene. Submitted by Grace Brownlee and Emily Starcher Pace

MILHOAN

A genealogy study of the Pennsylvania Archives found that a Peter and Andrew Milhoan (spelled differently) lived in York Co., Pa. in 1777. Andrew had served in the York County Militia in 1777 and 1778. No other information was indicated about him. However, Peter Milhoan moved his family (number not indicated) to Winchester, Frederick Co., Va. after the Revolutionary War. Peter's family grew up and were married there. In 1798 three of Peter's sons, Henry, Peter Jr., John and seven of their neighbors moved to Belmont Co., Ohio, Wayne Twp. (Later became Monroe Co.) Travel was by covered wagon. Milhoan Ridge Christian Church, est. 1880

The Milhoan Ridge Christian Church was established by the descendants of John and Elizabeth Milhoan in 1880. The church was active until the early 1930s, then from 1947 to the early 1980s, it was used for the Milhoan Ridge Reunion.

The present Milhoan Ridge Elementary School was built in the early 1900s. The church and school are located approximately one and a half miles from S.R. 68.

Milhoan Ridge School

The Milhoan Ridge Baptist Church was built in the early 1980s and is located on S.R. 68, near the junction of the Milhoan Ridge Road. The church is attended by many of the local residents.

The descendants of John and Elizabeth Milhoan are very fortunate to have ancestors who, without any doubt, had a deep concern of the necessity for religious and scholastic training. This is reflected in the establishment of the Milhoan Ridge Christian Church and by their effort in obtaining the Milhoan Ridge Elementary School.

HARLEY MILHOAN

Descendants of Harley and Artie Reed Milhoan, who lived on Washington Run Road near Murraysville in northern Jackson County, can trace their ancestry to County Fermanagh, Ireland, where the name Milhoan originated from Mulholland. The first record of a Mulholland, Mulhorn or Milhorn in America begins with Peter Milhorn, a native of York County, Pennsylvania, in 1777, who is thought to have been a sergeant in the Revolutionary War. After the war Peter moved his family to near Winchester, Frederick County, Virginia. Peter's children grew up and were married there. Among his children were Henry, Peter (Jr.) and John.

Henry married his second wife, Mary Williams (nee Greene), in 1793. Mary seems to be the one who changed the spelling from Milhorn to Milhoan after the family moved to Ohio. All her offspring followed suit. Henry and his family, along with his brothers, Peter (Jr.) and John, plus seven neighbors and their families started their trek from Virginia to Wayne Township, Ohio, sometime after harvest in 1798 and arrived at their destination the later part of the year, when the temperature was ten degrees below zero. The women and children had to stay in the covered wagons for three days and nights until the men could erect a common cabin to shelter them until they could get the family cabins built. Henry and Mary had two children, Jacob and John, who made the journey with their parents.

John grew up in Wayne Township and married Elizabeth Starkey (Starke). He built and ran a grist mill on Captina Creek, near Mt. Hereb, for a number of years. John was also a follower of Alexander Campbell and for several years preached in the Christian Church. In 1846 John purchased a tract of 1,300 acres in Jackson County, (West) Virginia, now known as Milhoan Ridge. After inspecting his purchase he came back to Ohio to make preparations to move, but died in 1847 before he could make the move. His wife, Elizabeth, and most of her children made the move in 1849. Elizabeth died in 1853 and is buried in the Milhoan Ridge Cemetery. She and John had 13 children: George, Henry, Samuel, John, Peter, Lemuel, Joshua, William, Jesse, Mary, Elizabeth, Phoebe and Minerva.

Peter M. Milhoan (1830-1917) married Margaret Hoselton (1838-1893) and had 11 children: Charles, Thomas, Arthur, Peter Jr., Kansas, Frances, Alma, Elizabeth, Rhoda Ann, Molly and Ada. Peter married for his second wife, Martha Belle Ward, and had five more children: Hod, Clyde, Dale, Howard and Homer.

Peter Milhoan, Jr. married Jennie Swiger (1863-1943) and had one child, Harley Charles.

Artie (Reed) Milhoan, 1964

Harley Milhoan (1893-1950) married Artie Reed (1894-1975). Artie was the daughter of Joseph and Josephine Staats Reed who had seven children: Rose, Belle, Artie, Molly, Edward, Clyde and Russell. Harley and Artie made their home on

Freda Harris, Orville, Artie Reed (mother), Gerald and Carl Milhoan, 1965

He and Ruth had three children: Gerry Allen, Charles Kenneth and Phillip Lore. In 1962 Gerald married his present wife, Francis Burgess Cottrill, of Spencer, West Virginia. They are retired and living in Florida.

Gerry Milhoan (1939-), son of Gerald, married Judith Faye Johnson and they had two children, Gregory Allen and Jeffery Scott (1967-). Gerry presently lives in Ravenswood. Greg Milhoan (1963-) is married and has one child, Eric Scott (1989-).

MILHOAN/MELHORN

George Simon Melhorn and sons, George and Simon, came to America on 23 Oct. 1754 aboard the ship, Recovery. They were from Germany. There were only four Melhorns listed in Passenger and Immigration book by Gale. An Otto came in 1875, much too late to be our ancestor.

Peter Milhorn, born ca. 1765-70, son or grandson of the immigrant, George, married Catherine Lamp 21 July 1789 at Winchester, VA. They had at least seven children, one of whom was John B., born ca. 1800 in VA.

John B. Milhorn married Mary Shull 21 Jan. 1823 at Winchester, VA. They moved to Belmont Co., OH about 1835. Their daughter, Sarah Jane, born ca. 1833, married John Wesley Milhoan 20 Aug. 1848 in OH. Wesley was born 1825 in OH, son of George and Jane (Luke) Milhoan. George may have been son of Henry and Mary (Greene) Williams-Milhoan.

James William Milhoan

Wesley and Sarah Milhoan had ten children. Their son, James William, born 26 Feb. 1858, married Eva Swan in Meigs Co., OH. Eva, born 18 Aug. 1858, daughter of Dr. Alexander W. and Anna (Caldwell) Swan, was a school teacher in Meigs Co. and for a time in Roane Co., WV.

In the early 1900s, James and Eva moved to Washington District of Jackson Co. James was a farmer, but at one time owned and ran a sawmill in Roane Co. His brother, Albert, and two other men were killed when the steam engine blew up in 1896. Another brother, John, was crippled for the rest of his life. At still another time, James ran a riverboat on the Ohio River.

Eva Swan Milhoan

James and Eva had seven children: Anne Frances, born 20 March 1885 was a good photographer. She took pictures of family and friends and developed them herself. She worked her way through Bethany College, working as a private tutor. She married Elbert Hensley 15 June 1915. They moved to Illinois and had three children and one adopted son; Mary Kansas, born 5 Sept. 1886, was a school teacher in Pocahontas Co., before marrying Edward Shields 25 Dec. 1906. They lived in Washington District and had seven children;

Wesley Alexander, born 5 July 1889, married Annie Pursley in 1914 and they moved to Akron, OH. They had no children; James Emmett, born 24 Dec. 1891, married Delia Mitchell in 1914. He was a farmer in Washington District until his death in a home accident in 1936. They raised eight children; Jimna Joshua, born 24 Nov. 1893 married Phyllis Landfried. They moved to Parkersburg and had three children. J.J. worked for the railroad, first as a fireman and then an engineer until he retired; Robert Udell, born 17 April 1896, married Georgia Brown in 1925. They lived near Elizabeth in Wirt Co. and had two sons; Harriett Elizabeth, born 21 March 1899, married Rance B. Pursley in 1920 and moved out west.

J.J. and Robert were gunsmiths at an early age, managing to build a shotgun when only 10 and 7 years of age. They both continued making and rebuilding guns the rest of their lives.

Robert was a sort of rebel. At the age of 14 he ran away from home and joined the Army, saying he was much older. He found he didn't like the Army but, in order to teach him a lesson, his parents refused to try to get him out. When he finally did get out, he was still so angry at them he wouldn't come home. He went out west where he hunted big game. At one time he was a Texas Ranger. During that time he came home to visit his mother. In her basement he discovered a jar containing what he thought was moonshine, so he broke the jar. She had been making her own vinegar.

James W. Milhoan died in 1917 in Jackson Co. Eva then lived alone at her home atop a hill situated between Little Creek and Marshall. She was well known as "Aunt Evy." She traveled many miles visiting various friends and relatives, almost always on foot. And often she took her "carpet bags" with her to work on. She had a ball of twine string which she added to each time she went to the store. I have part of a mantle scarf which she made from the string — sort of like fine macrame. She made her own house paint of sweet milk, lime and another, now unknown ingredient. She loved to sing, mostly what people called "ditties," but she didn't have a very musical voice. However, when a man came by lugging large, bulky recording equipment, looking for people to sing WV folk songs, she gave it her best efforts. Her voice is now on record at WV University Museum in Morgantown.

Eva continued to live alone and visit as much as far as she wished until about 1945 when she was 86 or 87 years old. For many years she had refused to stay with anyone for more than a few days at a time. A son and daughter, who worried about her living alone, finally had her committed to the state hospital at Spencer. She was saner than most people I know today but it was a way to see she was taken care of. Being such a free spirited person, she didn't last too long being confined. She died 24 March 1946 and was laid to rest in Mt. Zion Cemetery in Roane Co. She was truly a unique person and many, many years ahead of her time. What a wealth of information she could have provided if anyone had thought to ask for it and write it down. I could not, for unfortunately I was only nine years old when she died. JASPER MILSTEAD

Jasper Milstead was born July 18, 1886 at Zanesville, Ohio. He was the son of William Fernando and Eveline Dobbins Milstead.

Jasper's mother died when he was nine years old. His father was unable to care for the children so he gave them to relatives to raise.

While staying with an uncle near Sandyville, West Virginia, he visited a neighboring farm and there he met his future wife, Laura Leota Hornbeck. She was the daughter of Jacob and Mary Isabelle Powers Hornbeck and was born August 30, 1890 at Reedy, Roane County, West Virginia.

Leota and Jasper were married October 4, 1904 in Ripley.

Eventually they had ten children. They were named Frances Elizabeth, born September 3, 1905; Lottie Omega, born October 10, 1907; Bertha Fostora, born September 5, 1910; William Larry, born April 8, 1916; Mary Addaline, born June 14, 1918; Clarence Fernando, born September 11, 1921; Malcolm George, born August 1, 1922; Sarah Ruth, born September 25, 1924; Florence Mahala, born October 21, 1926 and Ernest Eugene, born May 21, 1931. Bertha, Clarence and Eugene died in childhood.

Jasper and Leota lived in many towns, mostly along the Ohio River.

Jasper worked as a laborer, glass worker and carpenter. Leota took in washing and ironing and worked as a seamstress in the sewing room in Parkersburg during the Depression. She later worked as a ward attendant on the T.B. ward at Cambridge Ohio State Hospital.

Jasper died on January 7, 1957 at Center, Guernsey County, Ohio and is buried in Center Cemetery.

Leota married Willie Nutter on March 28, 1958 at Parkersburg, West Virginia. Willie died at Dexter City, Noble county, Ohio and is buried at Macksburg, Ohio.

Leota is my grandmother. She lives with her daughter, Florence, at Nashport, Ohio. She loves to recount stories about her childhood spent in Jackson County.

She tells of a time when she was about seven or eight. It was dusk and she and her older brother, Don, were playing in their yard. Suddenly they heard horses galloping towards them. Moments later men in white hoods galloped past them. Terrified at what they thought were ghosts, the children ran to their father who was standing on the cabin porch. He explained that the riders were "night riders" (vigilantes) and they were after someone.

She tells of going to school in Sandyville. One of her favorite teachers was a man named Rader (pronounced raider) Thompson.

She remembers playing tag, red rover, and other games with the other students and Mr. Thompson.

She vividly remembers smallpox and scarlet fever epidemics and a host of other maladies that struck their community. Grandma worked all her life. She remembers when she was a child, she hoed corn for a neighbor lady for 25 cents a day.

Several years ago, my sister, Grandma, and I visited Independence and Sandyville. While touring the cemetery at Independence, Grandma would pause at a tombstone and tell us about the friend or relative buried beneath it.

One grave we failed to locate. It was of a man who had killed his wife and son. Grandma had been a small child when this happened but she remembered the trial and the day the man was hung.

She told us about the various relatives who had lived in the area. She remembers traveling by horse drawn wagon to Silverton to visit an uncle and his family.

Although our family has moved from Jackson County, it still holds a wonderful place in our family's history. Submitted by Sarah Ruth McConkey and Carol McConkey Skeen

L.M. MONROE

The family of Dr. L.M. Monroe moved to Jackson County in 1947. "Doc" was born in Grove City, Pennsylvania, November 29, 1907. His father was George Camden Monroe born in 1865, in Grove City, Pennsylvania. George married Loretta Mae McCandless born December 12, 1867, in Grove City, June 6, 1903. They had three children, Bernice, L.M. (Doc) and Margaret.

March 13, 1930, "Doc" married Thelma Mae Robson, born November 22, 1910. Her parents were Charlotte Ann Dye Robson (February 20, 1882) and John Robson (November 27, 1876) of Grove City, Pennsylvania.

The L.M. Monroes had two daughters, Margaret Joan (January 18, 1934) and Charlotte Ann (April 9, 1938). Charlotte became well-known for her one and two baton twirling, winning the State, National and International competitions in NTBA. She married Forris Edmond McCoy (December 7, 1958) and had five children: Debora Lynn (January 14, 1959), Louanne (March 3, 1961), Nancy Elizabeth (December 26, 1963), Forris Edmond II (July 22, 1968) and Margaret Joan (December 11, 1970). At the time (1947) the Monroes came to Ravenswood, the only industry was the Trendle Blake China Company and dairying, with the main dairies being the Hughes, Sucks and McCoys. North Ravenswood's streets were unpaved.

"Doc" delivered over 1,000 babies in and around Ravenswood, many in Ohio and quite often having to cross the Ohio River in a row boat. One night the water was over the Sandyville road, and he had to row about a mile and delivered the baby in the smokehouse, as the house was under water.

One of the most harrowing experiences was delivering a baby during a heavy snowstorm in a car, parked in front of Carl Smith's service station, out at the Y. The mother and daughter got along fine, with no complications. The mother had been coming to her mother's in Ravenswood, but the baby just couldn't wait.

"Doc" retired from his medical practice on Walnut Street in Ravenswood in December 1969. He and his wife, Thelma, moved to Cape Coral, Florida and stayed until September 1977, then moved back to Ravenswood. Submitted by Margaret Monroe Ritchie

David and Harriett began housekeeping in an old log cabin on the Moore farm. They later built a frame house down from his parents house on Moore Hill. About 1908 they bought from A.K. Moore the farm known as the "Hartley Place." Harold Moore, grandson of David now owns this farm. David and Harriett lived there until 1930 when they moved to Ravenswood, West Virginia. David died June 1931 and Harriett moved back to the farm. The children and grandchildren always came to see Harriett on her birthday, July 31, and it was like a family reunion. The Moore Family Reunion is held at Medina Church each year on the Sunday that is nearest to July 31, in her memory. David and Harriett Moore are buried Simpson Church Cemetery near their farm home.

ELIZABETH MOORE

Elizabeth was born September 19, 1823 in Maryland. She died in 1906, and is buried in the

Elizabeth (Sovil) Moore

Chapel Hill Cemetery on Dutch Ridge, Jackson County.

We believe she was the daughter of John Sovil (born November 16, 1789, died April 21, 1846). She is listed as one of his heirs in a court case.

Elizabeth had three children who were Sovils, Lewis (born 1842), Charles (born 1845) and Catharin. Lewis went by the name of Moore and told his relatives that Moore was really his last name. Lewis was married twice, first to Lavina Bates in 1868 and later to Lucinda Woodyard in 1886. Lewis died July 26, 1900 and is buried in the Mt. Ephraim Cemetery near Caldwell, Ohio. Charles married Isabella Givens. Charles served with the O.V.I. 129th Company during the Civil War. He was run over by a train in Parkersburg, West Virginia, in 1912 and is buried in the Core Road Cemetery in Wood County, West Virginia. Catharin moved away from the family and we know nothing more about her.

Elizabeth married Henry Moore (born 1801). They lived in Belmont County, Ohio, and were the parents of five children. Louisa Jane (born June 3, 1856), Abigail (born February 4, 1859), Mirza (born October 22, 1861), Minerva (born July 2, 1863) and William Henry (born April 6, 1867). Louisa and Mirza died in August, 1862, within ten days of each other. They are buried in the Moore Family Cemetery, Belmont County, Ohio.

Henry Moore died April 9, 1871. He is buried in the Belmont Ridge Christian Cemetery. After Henry's estate was settled June 2, 1871, Elizabeth brought her children to West Virginia and settled on Dutch Ridge, Jackson County. Elizabeth and her children lived and worked on their farm to support themselves. Elizabeth was known for being able to split rails for rail fences. We know Elizabeth could speak German and she had a Bible written in the German language. She gave the Bible to her daughter, Minerva.

Abigail married Lemuel Postlewait December 20, 1875. They had two sons Okey and George. Later she married Charles Burton and Edward Leasure. Abigail died in Washington County, Ohio and is buried in the River Hill Cemetery.

Minerva moved back to Ohio and lived with her brother, Lewis until she got a job as a maid with the Simeon Bates family. She later married one of their sons, Sheridan Bates, December, 1886, near Caldwell, Ohio. They had ten children, Lulu Cleo (born November 20, 1887), Lewis Stanley (born October 10, 1889), Roy (born December 20, 1891), Simeon (born June 6, 1894), Glen (born November 19, 1898), Ralph (born August 28, 1902), Myron (born August 14, 1905), Clyde Okey (born February 15, 1910), Mary (born December 11, 1900). They also had an infant child who died at birth January 8, 1897. Minerva and Sheridan lived their lives in the Caldwell, Ohio area. She died in 1930 and he died in 1947. Both are buried at Bates Hill Cemetery next to the Bates Hill Church of Christ.

William Henry married Mary Alice Atkinson, December 20, 1889. They had 11 children, William Edward (born May 1888, before their marriage), Hattie Bell (born April 16, 1892), Charles (born February 18, 1891), Sylvester (born September 14, 1894), Seldon (born January 1897), Emma Louise (born April 12, 1900), Opal (born April 9, 1903), Richard (born March 10, 1906), Mae Retta (born June 8, 1907), Mary Leota (born October 23, 1912), and Gay Henry (born July 13, 1914). William and Mary lived on Dutch Ridge and raised their family. Mary Alice died January 1940 and William Henry died April 1943. Both are buried in the Moore Family Cemetery, Jackson County, West Virginia. Submitted by Mary Leota (Moore) Swain and Darlene (Milhoan) Bosworth

PEARL (P.L.) MOORE

Born September 4, 1890 in Grant District, the second son of the ten children of Robert Lonzo and Ettie Tumblin Moore. He married Velma Williams, daughter of James and Sarah Brown Williams October 15, 1912. They began their married life in a home owned by Harry Williams at what was then called Beatysville. Two children were born to them while living there, James Robert who died in infancy and Beulah. While living in Beatysville, he operated a general store, joint ownership with his cousin, Kerman Moore, for a couple of years. He was forced to close due to poor health and under doctor's orders to return to farming where he could be out in the fresh air and sunshine.

It was then that he bought a farm nearby in the community of Sherman, where he returned to farming the land and also worked as a mail carrier, riding horseback across the countryside. While living at Sherman, three more children were born, Myrtle, Bernice, and Calvin. According to his daughter, Beulah, her best memories of the old homeplace were of her dad taking the family for rides in a horse drawn sleigh, visiting grandparents, neighbors and going to the store and church, and of lighting candles on the tree at Christmas. She said he would light the candles for a few minutes on Christmas Eve and because of danger of fire would then blow them out. She remembers helping him build fences, hoe corn and tobacco. She said that one time when they went out to pick berries, she told him that she was afraid to go in among the berry vines for fear of snakes. He said; "If you don't look for snakes you won't see them." He was right, she said, "they never saw a snake."

After his health returned, he again went back into the store business at the same location for a few more years. He then returned to farming until he bought the general store at Medina from C.L. Boso in 1931 and moved his family into the home adjacent to the Medina store. They remained there for the next 28 years.

His store at Medina became a meeting place for many of the local people. In the wintertime on most any night you could find a group of men gathered around the pot bellied stove in the middle of the floor, spinning many a "tall tale."

On February 25, 1942, his partner in life, his wife, Velma, passed away. On November 13, 1943, he married Norene Beymer Waggoner, a widow, with one son, Lowe Waggoner. Norene was the daughter of Logan and Louella Wilson Beymer from Lockhart. They then purchased the Willard Archer farm on Medina Road and built a new home. The old home place was sold to Carroll and Lois Moore. A daughter, Connie Sue, was stillborn.

Mr. Moore closed the store in 1959 and retired to farming. He died on October 19, 1980 after spending his entire 90 years within three to four miles of his birthplace.

As of this date, his daughter, Myrtle Naylor, lives in Lowell, Ohio; his daughter Beulah Beymer and son, Calvin, live in Parkersburg. His daughter, Bernice Rolston, died in November 1988 in California and shortly before Christmas that same year the old home place at Medina burned to the ground.

He has 55 living grandchildren, great and great grandchildren, 35 of whom he lived to see. Unlike their grandfather, they are many miles from the old homestead in Jackson County. They are found in California, Georgia, Virginia, Louisiana, Florida, Ohio, West Virginia, Switzerland and Africa. His memory lives in the hearts of each of them. He was a beloved husband, father and grandfather and held the respect of all who knew him, and there were many. Submitted by granddaughters, Nina Bever Affolter and Donna Beymer Hewitt

My father built a new house on the farm when I was a girl and we did all of our traveling by horse and buggy. We went to the Beech Grove Church. I remember going to visit the doctor when we were sick at Dr. Pickering's at Lone Cedar. Sometimes in the summer we went to Belleville to meet other families for an all-day picnic. I attended the Mountain Flower School which was not far from our home.

My oldest sister, Eunice, began teaching school when she was about 18 years old. One year I was in her class. She taught at Mountain Flower and Willow Dale. Later she taught at Tavenerville, Rayon and Roosevelt Schools before she retired in

We do not claim to give an authentic record of all the children of Nathaniel Morehead I. There may have been more than one family of Moreheads who settled in Jackson County. We do know, however, by court records, old time histories, and early settlers' versions of family relations that the following are children of Nathaniel Morehead I: 1. Armstead Morehead, 2. Thomas Morehead, 3. Nathaniel Morehead II, 4. Owen J. Morehead, Sr.,

5. Mary Morehead, 6. Prestey Morehead, 7. Matilda Morehead.

The early settlers, Moreheads and others, lived in true pioneer style making nearly all their family needs from the materials at hand. They spun their own yarn, weaving it into cloth, dyeing it from walnut bark. They obtained much of their living from the wild animals, etc., in the forests and gardens, as did men of the earlier days. Salt was one commodity which they often had to go a long way to obtain. Mills and stores were often a great distance away. The county seat at Parkersburg was 30 miles away until 1848.

Three sons of Nathaniel Morehead I wed Richard sisters. Thomas and Uree Humphrey Drake's daughter, Deborah, wed Isaac Richard and their children were: 1. Payton, born 1794, died 1886, wed Lydia Wright in 1819; 2. Tacy, born 1799, died 1872, wed Armstead Morehead in 1814; 3. Uree, born 1798, wed Thomas Morehead; 4. Mary, born 1800, wed Nathaniel Morehead II; 5. Hannah, born 1812, wed David Stanley; 6. William D., born 1814, died 1893, wed Nancy Roberts, born 1820, died 1888.

We do not know the date that Armstead Morehead settled at Sandyville, but it was probably shortly after his marriage to Tacy Richard in 1814. Their cabin home stood near the mouth of Copper Fork, just below the old cemetery. Armstead Morehead owned several 100 acres of land there.

Among the neighbors of Armstead Morehead, when he first settled at Sandyville, West Virginia, was Jesse Hughes, the great Indian fighter, who was the first settler of the Sandyville locality. Hughes came there in 1800 and erected a cabin about half mile (on what is now the Parkersburg Road) above where Mr. Morehead later settled. He lived there for more than 20 years, and old settlers of that locality claim he is buried in the old cemetery on the farm where he lived.

Armstead Morehead was a great hunter, and after others moved nearby and game became scarce near his home, he sold his land at Sandyville and purchased 640 acres of land up near the headwaters of Copper Fork in the forest primeval. It was said he would often go out in his front yard and shoot a deer. Mr. Morehead and his wife remained on their farm the remainder of their lives. Armstead and Tacy Richard Morehead are both buried at the McGee's Chapel Cemetery, Sandyville, West Virginia.

The following are the children of Armstead and Tacy Richard Morehead: 1. William Oliver, 2. Kansada, 3. Harrison, 4. Lucina, 5. Elizabeth, 6. Susan, 7. Sarah Margaret, 8. Charley, 9. Deborah.

William Oliver Morehead, Uree Reeder

Oliver first wed Uree Reader of Wood County and their children were: 1. Thomas wed Tredway, 2. Richard wed Letha Sawyer, 3. Emma V. wed Elmore Richard, 4. William wed Urea Marshall, 5. Mary wed Donahue, 6. Armstrong 1st wed Tillie Carpenter, 2nd wed Louisa Guinn, 3rd wed Ura Watson, 7. Ellen, 8. Viola wed Charley Marshall, 9. Charley wed Margaret Gorrell, 10. John wed 1st Josie Johnson, 2nd wed Russia Cumpton.

William Oliver Morehead, for a second wife,

OLIVER MOREHEAD

Thomas D. Morehead (November 8, 1815) married Sarah Eaton (August 23, 1816) in Jackson County, West Virginia. At some point after marriage, they moved to Iowa. Thomas D. and Sarah had six children: James William (December 15, 1842); Alexander Eaton (November 4, 1844); Winfield Scott (April 4, 1847); Oscar F. (June 1, 1850); Charley Henry (December 9, 1853); and Anna Maria (June 1, 1855). After Sarah died July 18, 1855, Thomas married Rachel Vandevort September 15, 1857. Their children were: twins, Nathaniel Atwood and Samuel Elwood (November 6, 1858); Emma Bell (September 7, 1860); Rosella E. (July 4, 1862); William Grant (June 15, 1864); Nettie Cansada (February 20, 1866); Addelpha (February 8, 1868); George Sherman (March 13, 1870); and Oliver Elmer (August 22, 1871).

This last child, Oliver, was my grandfather and he was born in Nebraska where the family moved to a homestead. Oliver lived with his sister, Rose, after both parents died in 1881. He held many jobs throughout his life even though he had little formal schooling. When he went to work for Gaylord Childs, he ended up marrying the boss's daughter. Clara Louise (October 13, 1873) and Oliver were married December 21, 1893 at her parents' home. Thus were united two of Republic County Kansas' pioneer families.

several years and took care of her wheelchair bound mother and worked with her father. After several years they bought a homestead in Washington County, Kansas and moved there. This land is still owned by one of their sons today. Five children were born while they lived in Kansas: Gracie Edith (January 24, 1895); Carrie Margaret (December 1, 1896); Elmer Grant (December 23, 1898); Agnes Marie (May 30, 1901); and Ruth Louise (November 12, 1903) (my mother). After moving to Tabor, Iowa in order to provide religious education for their children, four more children were born: Ralph Lowell (April 18, 1907); Lois Esther (October 4, 1909); Eunice Evelyn (October 31, 1911); and Warren Oliver (July 23, 1913). Of these nine children, three were involved with farming or ranching, two were homemakers, one was a missionary, two married ministers, and one was a mathematician. There were 23 grandchildren and they have a variety of jobs from ministers to college professors. Education has always been important to Oliver and Clara's descendants.

My mother, Ruth Louise Morehead, was married to Howard Philip Buck on June 28, 1933. (Howard's parents came from the Athens and Meigs County areas in Ohio). They had two girls: Marlene (April 24, 1937) and Bonny (February 19, 1940). Both girls were college educated as teachers and both still teach today. They have five children between them and two grandchildren.

There is a question as to who were Thomas D. Morehead's parents. Bonny has been in contact with two other Morehead descendants whose ancestors lived in Jackson or Wood Counties in the early 1800s. Armstead and Tacy (Lucy) Richards Morehead (married July 21, 1814) owned land and lived on Copper Fork. They are both buried at McGee's Chapel, Independence Cemetery, Sandyville, West Virginia along with an unmarried daughter, Kansadi. Armstead's brother, Thomas, married Ura Richards and their brother, Nathaniel, married Mary Richards. Their parents were Nathaniel and Margaret Jett Morehead.

Thomas and Ura moved to Iowa and according to their grandson Orra Morehead, my Thomas D. came along with his first cousin, Isaac (Thomas and Ura's son). This story of Thomas and Ura moving to Iowa was also verified by a direct descendant of Armstead and Tacy's son, William Oliver Morehead, who is still living near Parkersburg, West Virginia today — Robert Morehead. My theory is that Thomas D. was Armstead and Tacy's oldest child, due to the same story being passed down through two separate branches of Moreheads. Thomas D.'s children's names are the same as others in the early branches of Armstead, Nathaniel, and Thomas's children. The names Nathaniel, Samuel, Thomas, Kansada, Oliver, and William all appear.

Morehead, Eaton, Richards, Drake, and Jett are all listed as early Virginia immigrants (1600s). Any one having information on these names is invited to contact Bonny L. Smith, 134 West Homestead St., Medina, Ohio 44256. Submitted by Bonny L. Smith

MOREHOUSE

William Morehouse was born in New York in 1808. His forefathers had left England and had gone in search of a new homeland in America. William married Elizabeth Ives from Vermont. Their first child, David, was born in 1830, when they were 22 years old.

I found at the time of the 1850 census, that William Morehouse, his wife Elizabeth and their ten children, all born in New York, had moved to their home in Jackson County, Virginia at Toppins Grove.

After they settled in Jackson County, Virginia, they had a new daughter and named her Caroline. She was born July 1850 and was two months old at the time of the 1850 census.

William Morehouse and Elizabeth Ives Morehouse were our great grandparents. They were the parents of William Henry Morehouse who was born May 1840. He was our grandfather. The children listed in the 1850 census were David 20, Harriet 19, Mary 17, Josiah 15, Eliza 13, William Henry 10, Warren 9, Sarah 7, Francis 5, John Cassius 2, and baby Caroline, two months old. At this time, all school age children were attending school.

This William Henry Morehouse married May 6, 1867 Elizabeth Roliff who was born February 1847. She was the daughter of Andrew Jackson Roliff and Lucretia Bogard Roliff. Andrew Jackson Roliff was the son of Fredrick Roliff and Mary Nesselroade Roliff. Mary Nesselroade's father was John Nesselroade, who was our great great grandfather, and a soldier in the Revolutionary War. This John Nesselroade was the first settler at a place that is known today as Ravenswood. He owned a large tract of land extending from Turkey Run to the mouth of Little Sand Creek. Nesselroade Fork is named for the family. John's parents were Ellis and Elizabeth Nesselroade. Elizabeth was born in 1718 and lived to be 105 years old. The Nesselroades came to America from Russia. Our grandmother, Elizabeth Roliff's family was of German descent. The Morehouse family was of English descent.

We think of the courage of our ancestors. They moved to their new homeland on barges on the river. If there were no rivers where they were moving, they moved by covered wagons. Our family came to Jackson County on a barge on the Ohio River.

William Henry Morehouse and Elizabeth Roliff Morehouse had their first child in 1869. Their children were Jackson Dexter Morehouse 1869, Ellena "Ella" Morehouse 1872, George Morehouse 1875, James Arthur Morehouse 1881, William Henry Morehouse 1883, Robert R. Morehouse 1885, and Lillie E. Morehouse 1888.

Jackson Dexter Morehouse married Etta King, June 20, 1891. She was born 1870. Their children were Lucy, Charles, Hattie, Marshal, and Delma. Jackson Dexter Morehouse died in 1955.

Ellena "Ella" Morehouse was born June 2, 1872. She married William Washington Kimes December 24, 1899. He was born in 1871. Their children were Grace, Orpha and Garnet. Ella Kimes died in 1949. She is buried at Willowdale.

George Morehouse was born in 1875. He married Carol Alexander August 12, 1895. She was born in 1877. Their children were Golda, Glen, Inez, Kinnes and Howard. George Morehouse died in 1950 and is buried at Willowdale Cemetery.

James Arthur Morehouse was born September 29, 1881. He married Ethel King. Their children were Richard, Elicia, Denzil, Lonnie, Ilene and Arine. James Arthur Morehouse died in 1964. He is buried in Akron, Ohio.

Robert R. Morehouse was born April 27, 1885. He married Anna Swain. She was born in 1879. Their children were Dale, Oakland, Jackson Verle and Ina. Robert R. Morehouse died in 1948. He is buried at Mt. Zion Cemetery.

Lillie E. Morehouse was born April 14, 1888. She married Harry Lester Boso May 10, 1905. He was born in 1884. Their children were Velma, Virgie, Opal, Jessie, Claristine, Rachel and Howard. Lillie Morehouse Boso died in 1925 and is buried at Willowdale.

William Henry Morehouse was born February 3, 1883. He married first Rosie Smith born July 1890. She died in 1911 at 21 years of age and is buried at Willowdale. There were no children born to this marriage. They lived on Little Pond Creek at the time of their marriage.

Our father, William Henry Morehouse born 1883, taught school at Toppins Grove before deciding on a new career. He then went to school at Cincinnati, Ohio and learned to be a telegraph operator and station agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He was moved from Apple Grove, West Virginia to a village seven miles north of Huntington known as Lesage. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Depot was at Cox's Landing.

Here at Lesage, he met and married our mother, Lillie Callicoat Herrenkohl Morehouse in 1917. They became parents of seven children. Their children were Gretchen, Ruth, Mary Elizabeth, Joseph, Margaret, William Jackson, and Paul "Nukey."

They are the parents of Randall Lee Cook and Freddie Joe Cook. Freddie Joe Cook married Karen Adkins. Their children are Jason Lee Cook and Jennifer Ann Cook.

Their children are Elizabeth McBrayer and Mary Johanna McBrayer. Elizabeth McBrayer married Ricky Martin. They have a son, Kevin McBrayer Martin and are expecting another child. Mary Johanna McBrayer married Jeff Jones. Ruth Morehouse married second Davis Smith. They are the parents of Emma Beth Smith.

Paul Aaron Morehouse was born 1929. He served in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict. Submitted by Mary Elizabeth Morehouse Carson and Joseph Morehouse

MOREHOUSE

William Morehouse was born some time between 1809 and 1814 in the state of New York. Before 1831 he married Elizabeth Ives, who was born in Vermont. William and Elizabeth parented a large family (see below) and many members of that family became prominent early residents of Jackson County.

Research into the Morehouse family history has not provided conclusive proof, but circumstantial evidence indicates that William was the son of David Morehouse and Jane Belding Morehouse. David and Jane were married on November 1, 1781 in New York. If they indeed were the parents of William, then the ancestry can be traced back to one Thomas Morehouse, who immigrated to America about 1640. He was probably the first Morehouse in America, and was one of the original 29 settlers of the town of Stanford, Connecticut in 1641. Those early settlers had purchased the land from the Indians for 100 bushels of corn.

William and Elizabeth Ives Morehouse immigrated to Jackson County with their family in about 1849. Their last child was born in the county. Their family included: David born 1831; Harriet born ca 1832; Mary Jane born 1833 (4); Josiah Parish born 1836 (7); Elizabeth Jane born 1838; William Henry born 1840 (1); Warren born ca 1841; Sarah M. born 1844 (7); Frances H. born 1846; Corsium (Cash) born 1848; Caroline C. born 1849; H.C. (son) born 1857.

Jackson County marriage records reveal considerable information on the Morehouse family and the descendants of William and Elizabeth. Their first son, David, who was born in Washington County, New York married Mary Staats on July 27(8), 1858 (see article: The Staats-Early Settlers in Jackson County).

The second son, Josiah Parish Morehouse, was born in Allegheny County, New York in 1836 (7). He married Sarah Ellen Saftred (see article: The Saftreds-Jackson County Pioneers), and they had five children. They were: Robert Floyd, William, Cassius M., Cora Alice, and Elizabeth. Josiah Parish was a Civil War veteran. He served in the 4th West Virginia Regiment, Company "F" of the Union Army (as did his brother William, see below). He died on March 8, 1926 in Wood County. His obituary indicated that: "The death of Mr. Morehouse removed the last member of one of the oldest families in Jackson County."

Mary Jane Morehouse, the second daughter, married Henry Baker on June 3, 1867, and Elizabeth (Eliza) Jane, the third daughter, married Ezra Bowen on July 29, 1870. William Henry, the third son married Elizabeth Roloff on May 6, 1867 and they had four sons and two daughters, namely: Robert, George, Dexter, Jackson D., Ella (or Eblena), and Lille E. Sarah M. Morehouse, William and Elizabeth's fourth daughter, married Henry C. Rowley on September 10 (15), 1864 in Jackson County. Corsium M. (Cash) Morehouse, their fifth son, married Elizabeth Saftred (see Saftred article) on December 3, 1869 or January 2, 1870 in the county. Caroline C. Morehouse their sixth daughter, married Ancelum Staats (see Staats article) on December 26, 1874. They had: Evert, Sarah, and Minnie M.

Frances H. (probably Helen), the fifth daughter, was born on July 10, 1846 in Allegheny County, New York. She married John Lewis Barnhart on February 25, 1864 at Skull Run, Jackson County (see article: The Barnhart Family). John Lewis and Frances became the ancestors of many Jackson County residents. Frances Morehouse Barnhart died on March 12, 1904 and is buried in the Saftred Cemetery near Sherman in Grant District. She was the great great grandmother of the spouse of the author of this article. Submitted by Larayne Cunningham

CHARLES MORGAN

Ezra "Jerome" Morgan (1852-1928), was the son of Jesse and Elizabeth (Dragoo) Morgan. Jesse and Elizabeth had lived in Marion County, West Virginia before moving to the Burning Springs area of Wirt County, West Virginia in the 1850s. They came to Jackson County in the 1860s and bought several tracts of land in the Sandyville area. Jerome had two brothers, Phares and Bazaris, who also lived in Jackson County. On January 6, 1876, Jerome married Louisa Dilsworth (1853-1930), daughter of Nelson and Mary (Peck) Dilsworth. Jerome and Louisa lived on Copperfork, near Sandyville. They had no children, but raised a son born to Ike Lynch and Mary Matlack. Charles Edward Morgan was born in 1877. Jerome and Louisa are buried in the Independence Cemetery at Sandyville, West Virginia.

Charles Morgan married Sylvia "Grace" Morgan, on September 9, 1897, in Jackson County. She was born September 18, 1881, the daughter of Felix and Margaret (Owens) Morgan. This union produced four children: Lillian Ruth (Morgan) Morris (1898-1975), Bernice Morgan (1900-1910), Dollie (Morgan) Bowen (1904-1986) and Ada (Morgan) Bennet (1912-1978).

Lillian Ruth married Lawrence Morris on November 23, 1918. In 1926, the home place was divided between Charles and Grace Morgan, and Lawrence and Lillian Morris. Charles and Grace sold their land to Delbert Lawson and moved to Ravenswood in 1947. Charles died January 21, 1954 and Grace died January 27, 1970. They are buried in the Independence Cemetery at Sandyville, West Virginia.

Lawrence and Lillian Morris were the parents of six children: Imogene (Morris) Smith (1919), Robert A. Morris (1924), Carroll R. Morris (1927), Corrine (Morris) Neeley (1927), Elizabeth Grace (Morris) Long Angle (1934) and Charles Clemon Morris (1937). The portion of land deeded to Lawrence and Lillian in 1926 remained in the Morris family until 1976 when it was sold. Lawrence and Lillian Morris are buried in the Independence Cemetery. PHARES W. AND MARY M. (LOWTHER) MORGAN

Phares W. Morgan was born February 21, 1845 in Marion County and died December 21, 1908 in Jackson County. He is buried in a small cemetery on top of a hill behind the old Gilmore High School at Sandyville. He was a farmer. Phares was the son of Jesse T. and Elizabeth (Dragoo) Morgan. Census records listed Jesse T. and Elizabeth in Marion County in 1850, Wirt County in 1860, and Jackson County in 1870. Phares married Mary Matilda Lowther on December 11, 1870. Mary was born September 17, 1846 in Harrison County and died January 28, 1941 in Jackson County. Phares and Mary to the best of my knowledge probably had nine or ten children. They are listed as follows: Salina Elizabeth (Betty), Oscar O., Elias Herald, Jesse Thomas, William E., Phares Granville, Nora Virginia, Mable Maude, Claude, and possibly one or two more that died young. Of the above children, attention will be focused on Jesse Thomas Morgan since it is his line of descent this article will be following.

Jesse Thomas Morgan was born December 21, 1874 in Jackson County and died April 29, 1957. Jesse married Florence Ellen Richards on July 26, 1905. Florence was born February 22, 1887 and died October 28, 1977. Jesse and Florence are both buried at Blaine Memorial Cemetery near Cottageville. Jesse and Florence had seven children. They are listed as follows: Phares William, Lawrence Richard, Gladys Boothia, Sylvia Evelyn, Roy Clifford, Enoch Clair, and Floyd Dale. Of the above children, Lawrence and Gladys (Boots) are the only two surviving. Lawrence is living at Industry, Pennsylvania and Gladys is living at Irving, Texas.

Of historic value is the fact that Jesse Thomas Morgan and his son, Lawrence Richard Morgan, who was 15 at the time, hauled the Sarvis Fork covered bridge from the Carnahan site to Sarvis Fork with two teams of mules. Lawrence's mules were named Jim and Jerry. Each round trip took 15 hours and it took 20 loads to move the bridge. They received $200 for their part of the job. They did not tear the bridge down or put it back together, they only transported it.

Phares William Morgan was born July 14, 1906 in New Brighton, Pennsylvania and died May 7, 1980 in Jackson County. Phares married Mary Elizabeth Grimm on June 15, 1940. Mary was born July 16, 1920 at New Haven, West Virginia and died December 9, 1987 in Jackson County. Phares and Mary had six children. They are listed as follows: Ronald Keith, Charles Eugene, Harriett Marie, Nathan Ray, Jeffery Paul, and Randy Joe. Lawrence Richard Morgan married Ruth Safreed. They had no children. Gladys Boothia Morgan married George Foster on March 13, 1936. George is now deceased. They had two children, Beverly Jayne and George Edward, Jr. (Eddy). Beverly has four children and Eddy has two. Unfortunately Eddy suffered a massive heart attack at an early age and is now deceased. Sylvia Evelyn Morgan married Edward C. Yoho first and had three children, Donald Edward, Ann Lavon, and William Joseph. Sylvia married Coy Beckett second and they had two children, Danny Eugene and Dane. Sylvia died October 1, 1975. Roy Clifford married Elsie Rowe. They had no children. Roy was killed in 1943 in an accident in Texas while serving in the U.S. Army. Enoch Clair Morgan married Betty Hill in February 1946. They had no children. Enoch and Betty are both deceased and are buried at Blaine Memorial Cemetery near Cottageville. Floyd Dale Morgan married Maxine Beckett and had six children as follows: Sharon and Karen (twins), Steven, Delmar, Shelia, and Roy. BERNARD AND ELLEN MORRIS

My parents, Bernard and Ellen Morris, were married on June 20, 1955, at the home of the groom's parents, Foster and Delpha Morris, at Statts Mills. Ellen was the daughter of William Dorsa Rogers and Edith Thomas Rogers of Statts Mills. After a few months in Washington, D.C., the couple returned to the Morris family farm. They worked in the F.F. Morris & Sons General Store, in which they owned a half interest. The store was an old-fashioned general merchandise store, and it kept long hours, from seven in the morning until nine or later at night, six days a week. It was a gathering place for the local community, and it also housed the Statts Mills post office. Bernard raised Hereford cattle, and in 1963 was one of the first county farmers to introduce Charolais stock. Besides the store and farm, he also worked as a school bus driver in 1956-58, and from 1961 until his retirement in 1988. Ellen became Postmaster in 1965, succeeding her mother-in-law, who retired. By this time Bernard and Ellen were sole owners and operators of the family store.

On December 19, 1971, a fire completely destroyed the store and post office building. Friends and neighbors joined with the family in rebuilding, and within two months a new store was open for business on the same site. Of all the things I remember about growing up in Statts Mills, that's what I remember most — the generosity and love of our neighbors.

In 1974, Bernard and Ellen sold the store to a niece, Lynn Skeen Merical, and her husband, Bill. In August 1976, Ellen transferred to the Charleston Post Office, where she worked until 1979. After serving as officer-in-charge at the Kenna Post Office, she was appointed Postmaster at Buffalo in Putnam County in November 1979. The couple bought a house in Buffalo, but also kept a residence on the farm at Statts Mills.

Bernard and Ellen Morris

Besides their numerous business interests, they have been active members and officers of the Siniaville United Methodist Church. They sang in a gospel quartet for more than a dozen years. Bernard has served on the Republican Executive Committee for Jackson County, has been a member of the Bus Drivers' Association (past president) and the Farmers Home Administration Loan Board, and is the local fire warden. He is currently president of Wildwood of Statts Mills, Inc., a Morris family corporation developing recreational and sporting opportunities in the Statts Mills area.

Ellen is a member and past president of Jackson County Postmasters Association.

Their children are: Teresa Lynn Morris Deane, born November 17, 1956; Robin Gail Morris Casto, born March 31, 1959; and Bernard Wallace Morris, Jr., born January 10, 1968. They have two grandsons and five granddaughters. Submitted by Teresa Morris Deane

FOSTER F. MORRIS

Foster's great-grandfather, Benjamin Morris, was born January 30, 1799 in New Jersey. His father, Samuel, moved the family to Harrison County, (West) Virginia in 1814, where Benjamin grew up. On September 28, 1828, Benjamin married Mary McWhorter, the daughter of Walter and Margaret (Hurst) McWhorter. They raised a family of seven boys and five girls on a farm near Lost Creek.

Three of the boys, Thomas, William, and Walter, served in the Union Army during the Civil War. Robert Wendell, husband to their daughter Rebecca, was a Confederate soldier. Rebecca, no doubt, had a deeper fear about the war than most.

Five of Benjamin and Mary's children settled in Jackson County. Eli, born December 12, 1833, was probably the first, soon after his marriage to Hannah Powers in 1851. Hannah was the daughter of Thomas and Pamela (Hart) Powers. Eli's brother, Fields, who was born November 20, 1837, married Catherine Powers, the daughter of Elihu and Charlotte (Davis) Powers, and also moved to Jackson County. So did Thomas, who was born April 23, 1832, and who married Clarinda Lawson in 1856. Rebecca and her husband, Robert Wendell (var. Windle) also lived here. Foster's grandfather Granville Morris (born February 7, 1839) was probably visiting one of his brothers or his sister when he met his future wife, Sarah Staats. Sarah, born March 16, 1845, was the daughter of Isaac and Anna Eliza (Tolley) Staats. The community of Statts Mills was named after Isaac, who operated a mill at this location, served as postmaster, and was a pillar of the community.

Granville and Sarah were married February 12, 1863. Five of their children survived to adulthood: William H., born March 19, 1864, married Louisa Jane Casto; Philena, born June 12, 1866, married Jacob Casto; Benjamin Franklin, born December 2, 1870, married Cora Crooks; Elbert, born December 31, 1874, married Clara Parsons; Clara Alice, born June 8, 1882, married James McCrady. Several other children died during childhood.

Benjamin Franklin Morris married Cora E. Crooks on December 4, 1890. Of their children, those living to adulthood were: Edna, born April 11, 1892, married Mont Hendricks; Reuben Carl, born March 19, 1898, married Margie Skeen; Lelia, born July 2, 1900, married Dewey Thomas; Velma, born 1907, married Ezra Randolph; Eurada, born August 14, 1914, married Orville Monday; and Foster Frederick, born October 9, 1903.

Foster married Delpha G. Rhodes, daughter of William Monroe and Lougena (Casto) Rhodes, on October 16, 1924. Delpha was a young school teacher at the time, and owned shares in the F.A. Casto & Co. Store at Statts Mills. Shortly after their marriage, Foster and Delpha became the operators and managers of the store, and gradually bought out the other stockholders. Except for a time in the 1940's, the store has been and still is run by family members.

Foster and Delpha's children are Lougean, born May 25, 1926, married J.C. Chancey; Lorene, born February 16, 1928, married Roderick Skeen; Bernard Wallace, born January 6, 1930, married Janet Payne (1951), married Ellen Rogers (1955); Frederick Keith, born June 7, 1932, married Elsa Cobb; Patricia Ann, born January 31, 1936, married Charles Manery; and Thomas Kent, born January 24, 1948, married JoAnn Rogers.

Foster was elected sheriff of Jackson County in 1940 and again in 1948. He served as chairman of the Republican Executive Committee in the 1950s and was the county road supervisor. He was employed by the Federal Land Bank of Ripley. He was elected to the Jackson County Commission in 1972, where he was serving as President at the time of his death on May 18, 1975.

Delpha had served 20 years as Postmaster at Statts Mills when she retired in 1965. Along with helping run the family store, raising a large family, and participating in church and community activities, she has been a very active woman. Eventually, Foster and Delpha's home became "Granny and Grampa's." All 16 grandchildren loved to go there, and it's still a meeting place for the whole family. Once when the large front lawn seemed full of grandchildren running every which way, a car stopped at the drive to ask the lone adult in the yard, "Is this a children's home?" Delpha, at age 86, still keeps the home fires burning, is a wonderful cook, and always puts out the welcome mat for her large family. Things have changed, Dad is gone and great-grandchildren now play on the lawn, but the central values remain the same, and home is a warm, wonderful place for all of us.

O.J. MORRISON

Okey Johnson Morrison was born January 10, 1869 at Kenna, West Virginia, on the farm of his parents, Granville P. and Virginia (Wolfe) Morrison.

He was educated in the common schools and then Hockingport (Ohio) Academy. For two years he engaged in teaching and then settled on a farm, where he remained until 1890, when with only $200 to invest, he established his first store at Kenna, in partnership with his brother-in-law Mr. L. Maddox. While Mr. Maddox tended the store, young O.J. peddled from home to home through the hills and valleys of Jackson County. In less than a year he bought out Mr. Maddox and thus realized the dream of a country boy in his teens — a store of his own.

O.J. Morrison on October 1, 1891 married Cora A. Harpold, daughter of Solomon W. and Samantha (Sayre) Harpold. She proved to be an inspiration and a real partner to him. He stated, "I not only got a wife when I married, but a partner and helpmate. All these years she has helped, and whatever success we have obtained is as much due to her as to myself." They had four children, Freda Morrison, Fae Morrison, Okey Johnson Morrison, Jr., and Carroll H. Morrison.

O. J. Morrison

In 1892, with a capital of $700, he opened a small store in Ripley, the venture was an immediate success. From the beginning, he was determined to give better value than other merchants. With larger and well established stores in Ripley as competitors, he realized that to undersell he would have to underbuy. So well did he buy on his initial trips to wholesale centers, and such were the savings offered by his stores, that his competitors were certain that he was selling under cost. He made regular trips to wholesale centers and became well known as a bargain hunter.

Although a business man, Mr. Morrison had literary talent. He wrote a book titled The Slaughter of the Pfoff-Greene Family. It was of such a nature as to excite more than local interest, with vivid description and pictures.

Over the years the Ripley store grew to 4,500 square feet and was the leading general mercantile business in town, requiring the assistance of eight clerks.

About seven years after opening the Ripley store, he opened a second store in Spencer, West Virginia, and from there he opened nine more stores, one in Clendenin, Charleston, Huntington, Clarksburg, Morgantown, West Union, Point Pleasant, Fairmont and Logan, West Virginia. The O.J. Morrison Dept. Store at Ripley, is the only store of these eleven stores left (1990).

JOSEPH AND MARGARET MURRAY

My grandfather and grandmother, Joseph and Margaret Jane Ulam Murray, moved from Green County, Pennsylvania to Jackson County, West Virginia in 1883 by boat on Ohio River to Ravenswood, West Virginia and from Ravenswood by horse and wagon to their farm on Joe's Run where Joseph had bought 400 acres of wilderness virgin timber. Here he began to clear the land by ox team to farm. Their first home was a log cabin. I have heard it said Grandma planted her cabbage seed as it was the 17th day of March 1883, the day they arrived. What brave people they were. Grandma was a great gardener and homemaker. I remember her herb garden, also the medication she provided from those herbs for family and neighbors. Grandfather was a country preacher. He traveled over the country on horseback to preach and to help his fellow man. They had no school or church near enough to attend. Joseph donated the land for the Victory School on Joe's Run where we all went to school. He also helped to build Mount Hope Church in 1913 and it was dedicated 1914. The school was torn down some time ago. The church has been well maintained also well attended.

Joseph and Margaret Jane Murray, 1925

Joseph and Margaret Jane had eight children — five boys and three girls — all deceased. Many of the grandchildren live in Jackson County. I am the oldest grandchild, 91 years old. Grandfather died in the house he built in 1932, 82 years old. Grandmother in 1940, 90 years old.

I lived most of my life in Ohio. Three years ago I came back to Jackson County to spend my remaining years near where I was born.

When my father and mother married in 1893 my mother was Elizabeth Burch. My father bought 200 acres from Grandfather Murray's farm. They built their home and raised their family — nine children. We all grew up on the farm. Four of the nine children are living. Two of us live not far from the old home place and two are living in Ohio.

MART AND MARY McBRIDE

Mary McBride was born May 28, 1904, in Jackson County, daughter of James and Sarah (Brown) Williams. She had two brothers, Sanford "Dick" and William, and two sisters, Velma and Edna. One Christmas when Mary was small, she hung her stocking up for Santa. Her mother told her there was no need to hang it up for there wouldn't be anything that year. She found out it was true the next morning. At the age of 16, her mother died and she had to drop out of school to take care of the home. She never got past the sixth grade. She had to wash for her father and two brothers on the washboard and hang the clothes on the fence to dry.

Mary (Williams) McBride

On February 28, 1924, she married Martin McBride, son of Nathan and Effie (Logston) McBride. They were married in Marietta, Ohio by Rev. Tiffany. They had two daughters, Jo and Jean, after 12 and one half years of marriage. When they were growing up, the girls hated washing dishes. They decided to go on a sit-down strike thinking as soon as Mom finished them they could get up. It didn't work that way and the chairs were getting hard after two hours of sitting.

Mart and Mary celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on February 28, 1974. This poem was written by V.G. Kyger and sent to them:

GOLDEN WEDDING WISH

On your yearly calendar February twenty eight
Has now become quite a memorable date
And has grown more special year by year
Until your golden wedding date is now here

The announcement recently in the Parkersburg News

Will no doubt many peoples mind confuse
Only a few older people will really understand
Why horses and buggies were so much in demand

If greater distances you wished to go
The horse and buggy travel was just too slow
So you would then ride on a passenger train
Where it was much more comfortable in snow or rain

A trolley ride to Marietta it's plain to see
Located for you a Preacher named Tiffany
He really could tie a long lasting knot
That for fifty years hasn't been forgot

So here is a wish from an old time friend

That writes this poem especially to send Best wishes for a most happy fifty years celebration
To be held on the beloved family plantation

On March 22, 1974, Mary started writing a weekly column for the Jackson Herald. During her 15 years of writing, she made lots of friends. She also had a reporter from Pittsburgh come to her home and do an interview for the Wall Street Journal. Her husband passed away on March 1, 1980. She lived her entire life in Jackson County and passed away on March 11, 1989. Submitted by Jean (McBride) Wilkinson

McCLOUD

Sometime before the year 1860, a family by the name of McCloud moved into this part of (West) Virginia. These people were known as squatters and would move into houses built by earlier squatters on land owned by someone else. They would stay for a short while before moving on.

The first account of the McCloud family was when they moved to land in an area known as Belgrove, on the White Pine Road. Three children died while they were living here and they are buried on the hillside below what was later to become the David L. Casto Family Cemetery, on land owned by David L. and Louisa Casto.

The McClouds moved to a house on land owned by the Buren family on the Kenna-Kentuck Road. This property is now owned by Kemp and Eurada Landis.

The McClouds had a small boy that was crippled. When the family moved from this last house nobody saw them leave. A mound of freshly turned earth was found nearby shortly after they had gone. This mound lay along a road now known as the Center View Ridge Road, County Route 19/5. It is believed to be the grave of the crippled boy.

In later years someone carved J.H. Cloud, 1860, on a rock and placed it on the grave. The grave always had flowers on it, placed there by neighbors.

In around 1950, some members of the family came from another state and asked Alice Skeen about the location of the grave, but there has been no inquiries in recent years. Submitted by Robert R. Casto

McCUTCHEON-LEMASTER

My father, Charles Oscar Neil, was a direct descendant of Robert McCutcheon, who came from Scotland to the Shenandoah Valley in the early 1700s. A son, Jones McCutcheon, married Rosanna Rogers in Fayette County in 1809. Their son, John R., active in the formation of the constitution of West Virginia, married Sally Kessler, a daughter of Fred and Elizabeth Hutsenpiller Kessler for whom Kessler's Cross Lanes was named. Their daughter, Sabina, married Samuel Neil II. They were the parents of my father on the Neil side. He was a direct descendant of Samuel Neil who served as Sheriff of Nicholas County in early years.

My mother, Lola M. Groves, was a direct descendant of Benjamin Lemasters. Sometime in the 1780s, the exact date is unknown, there came to Bucks Garden a Revolutionary War Patriot by the name of Benjamin Lemasters. He was a Personal Dispatcher to General Washington, spent the winter at Valley Forge, crossed the Delaware on Christmas night and later was wounded in the heel. He was taken to a hospital in Philadelphia where he met Rebecca Martin who became his wife. Tradition tells us he was of French descent and was the son of William Lemasters, a Presbyterian Minister, and Lady Catherine Graham.

Lemasters patented land on Bucks Garden and reared a family of ten daughters. He gave the name Bucks Garden to this valley because of the large deer found there. His youngest daughter, Elvira Lemasters, married John Rader and inherited part of the Lemasters land.

John Rader was a direct descendant of Adam Rader I and Catherine Deibert. They came from Germany to Hanover County, Pennsylvania. Their son, Adam II, married Anna Barbara Bender and lived in Timberville, Virginia. Their fourth child, Anthony, married Dorothy Alexander and moved to Greenbrier County. Their son, Michael, married Margaret McClung. Their eldest son, John, married Elvira Lemasters. John and Elvira were my great, great grandparents.

My father, Charles Oscar Neil, and my mother, Lola M. Groves, were married December 24, 1908. My father was born March 21, 1886. Mother was born June 13, 1882. Three children were born to this union. Thelma, January 18, 1910, and married Jennings Bryant. They are the parents of two sons, first Charles J. born March 1, 1929. He married first Lorena Querry and they had one son, Charles E. born January 23, 1951. Charles Bryant's second marriage was to Lois McFee. They had three children, Pamela Jean, Elizabeth and John M. James W. Bryant is the second son of Jennings and Thelma. He was born December 14, 1932. He married Janet Hardman on January 12, 1952. They are the parents of two children, William G. and Susan Beth.

Harold D. Neil, son of Oscar and Lola Neil, born May 16, 1911. He married Lulu Quesenberry June 30, 1946. After her death, Harold married Beulah Mollohan Brown of Birch River, West Virginia.

Mabel G. Neil, born November 4, 1912, married Leonard Grose July 1, 1939. They had three children, Edward, Rebecca and Anna Lynn. Submitted by Thelma Neil Hall

HOMER DAVID McFARLAND

Most area residents past the age of 50 have met the man and seen his work. He was a controversial figure, unconsciously presenting a different personality to different people.

His life style was before his time. He was born in an era and an area of America that was perhaps not yet ready for the itinerant artist; a class of people too busy to stop and look.

He was born (1864) in Lucas, Ohio later moving to Indiana. When he graduated from school, he took a bicycle trip through the south and mid-west, painting and selling his work for living expenses. Perhaps his pictures are hanging in many homes from West Virginia to the Dakotas. He met and married Ida Virginia Laughlin. They moved to West Virginia where eight children were born to this family: D. Willard, James, Bonnie, Eva Marie, Earl, Virginia, Edna and Robert. Most of the children died young.

Homer David McFarland died in 1947 and is buried in the Pine Hill Cemetery at Ripley, West Virginia. His epitaph, in the immortal words of Walter Savage Landor, reads:

"I strove with none, for none was worth my strife
Nature I loved and next to nature, art,
I warmed my hands before the fire of life,
It sinks, and I am ready to depart."

The above was written for two art showings, in Ravenswood, of Mr. McFarland's Paintings several years ago.

His daughter Edna (October 4, 1910-March 27, 1989) lived in Ravenswood most of her life. She was a poet and artist, volunteering much of her time at the Ravenswood Village and Ripley Elder Care. She was a devoted Sunday School teacher, painted scenery for Bible School and was very faithful to her church. Edna was a person who enjoyed giving and helping others. McGINLEY

On December 24, 1949, my father Charles E. McGinley, became a member of the Jackson County community of Ripley. That was the day he married my mother, Willa May Coast, a Jackson County native and teacher at Ripley High School. They had met while both were attending West Virginia Institute of Technology in Montgomery. My mother's family were farmers and teachers in Jackson County and the Ohio Valley for generations. (See Coast-Floyd entry.) Better known as "Skip," after the popular comics character Skippy, he grew up in Summerlee, in Fayette County, near Oak Hill. His father, Howard G. McGinley, was bookkeeper for the New River Coal Company. His mother was Nancy Thompson. The McGinley family was from Elizabeth, Pennsylvania, a small Monongahela River town, 16 miles south of Pittsburgh. The Thompsons were farmers in the area. The McGinley family settled in Elizabeth around 1800. One of my father's ancestors was instrumental in founding the volunteer fire department in Elizabeth in 1832. Frank McGinley co-founded the Elizabeth Herald newspaper in 1876 and remained active in its publication until its sale in 1934.

Skip was a charter member of the Fayette County Historical Society. He was graduated with a B.A. in history from West Virginia Tech and a Masters degree from Marshall College in 1952. After moving to Ripley, my parents were employed as teachers at Ripley High School. My mother, Willa, continued to teach at Ripley High until her retirement in 1986. My father went to work for the West Virginia Rating Bureau in the town class department and later worked as an engineer/auditor for State Auto Mutual Insurance for 20 years.

Skip joined the Ripley Volunteer Fire Department in 1950. This began a long association with the fire services. He taught fire fighting classes at Parkersburg Community College, the West Virginia University Fire Training School and seminars at Purdue University. He was president of the West Virginia Fire Chief's Association and director of the Fire Fighters School at Cedar Lakes for 19 years. He was twice a featured speaker at the International Fire Instructors Conference held formerly in Memphis, Tennessee. He served on the Governors Committee of the Volunteer Fire Departments Funding for the State of West Virginia. To this day none of his children can pass a fire extinguisher without checking the inspection tags. Active in local politics, my father served on the Ripley City Council and was City Recorder from 1975 until his death in 1984, at the age of 55.

Following the death of her husband, Howard, my grandmother, Nancy, moved to Ripley in 1957 and resided on Bridge Street near my mother's mother, Georgia Coast. "Grandma" McGinley, as she came to be called by many in Ripley, joined the Epworth Methodist Church where she served as Sunday School president. She was a Rebekah, a member of the American Legion Auxillary and Homemakers Club. She volunteered to help with the elderly. She did not consider herself a senior citizen herself until well into her 80s. She was active in the establishment of the Ripley Senior Center and remained involved in its daily activities until her death at 93 in 1987.

Willa Coast McGinley was a member of the Ripley Junior Woman's Club during the 1950s, serving as president the year before they saw the project to bring a hospital to Jackson County become a reality. She has won a number of awards for painting and poetry on state level. In addition to her regular classes she was play director at Ripley High School from 1974 to 1984. She is Art Department Chairman for Ripley Woman's Club, charter member for the Valley Art Group centered in the Kanawha Valley where her paintings are currently handled at the Spring Hill Showcase Gallery. She is currently Mayor of Ripley, the first woman to hold that position.

Charles E. "Skip" and Willa (Coast) McGinley

Skip and Willa had four children. Catherine Sue (Suzy) was employed as a buyer at the Diamond in Charleston. She is now working at Jackson County Library in Ripley and is working on a Masters Degree from Marshall. Charles Gerald "Pat" is director of Emergency Services for the city of High Point, Florida. He and his wife, Judine, live in Pinellas Park, Florida. He has one step-daughter, Stacey Natus. William Boyd lives in Ripley with his wife, Dale, and son Emmett Wright. Bill is legal council for the West Virginia Education Association. John Kevin recently married Amy McCafferty of Ravenswood. They are both employed by the Jackson County Commission. John is radio dispatcher and part-time EMT, and Amy is a paramedic. They live in Ripley with Patrick 7, and Jennifer 5. Submitted by Catherine Sue McGinley and William McGinley

WILLIAM M. McGREW

William Michael "Mike" McGrew, whose family name is Celtic in origin, has an American ancestry which dates to the early 1700s. Originally from Scotland, the family left that country in the 1600s to avoid religious persecution against their Quaker faith. Then, according to the "History of the McGrew Family," written by James C. McGrew in 1912, the McGrew family immigrated from Ireland to Adams County, Pennsylvania about 1726. From Adams County, various members of the family migrated and settled in counties in the western part of Pennsylvania and in northeastern Ohio.

John McGrew (came to Jackson Co. in 1845)

There have been members of the McGrew family in Jackson County, West Virginia since 1845. John, and his wife, Susan (Deyarnan) McGrew, moved to the county in that year from Jefferson County, Ohio. John McGrew's occupation was a miller and, in 1853, he bought the Ripley Grist Mill from Jacob Sayre. The water-powered mill was a large 2 1/2 story building and stood on the south side of U.S. Route 33 (Main Street) near the West end of the bridge over Mill Creek. After purchasing the mill, John McGrew increased its capacity by adding two new sets of burrs, one for wheat and the other for corn. He also installed a steam boiler and engine for furnishing steam power to run the mill's water wheel when the water level of Mill Creek was low.

The mill furnished flour, feed, meal and buckwheat to most of the people in the community. Extra flour generated by the mill was shipped in wooden barrels to Pittsburgh via the Ohio River. John McGrew owned three yoke of oxen which were used to pull loaded wagons of flour to Ripley Landing, the chief river port for Ripley on the Ohio River.

John and Susan McGrew were the parents of eight children: Mary L., 1836; Arminta, 1839; Rebecca M., 1840; Isabella, 1842; Eliza J., 1844; Lemuel, 1846; John P., 1848; and Augustus W., 1853. Two of the sons, John P. and Lemuel, served in the Union Army during the Civil War along with their father John McGrew. Also, during the war, John sold the grist mill to his son-in-law, Davis K. Hood, husband of Rebecca M. McGrew.

William Michael's lineage continued through Augustus W. "Gus" McGrew, his great-grandfather. "Gus" and his wife, Jane K., had seven children: Frank, 1873; Elizabeth, 1875; Hal F., May 1878; John V., May 1885; Bessie M., November 1888; Dennis Hobert, October 1896; Edith E., March 1891. Their son, Hal F., was to become Mike's grandfather.

Hal F. McGrew married Cora L. O'Dell on January 23, 1899, in Jackson County. Killed at the age of 40 in a work-related accident, Hal F. had four surviving children: Progler O'Dell, 1905; Jerald E., 1907; William C., 1913; and Eugene, 1903. One daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, was born shortly after Hal's death in 1918. Two children died in infancy preceding his death.

William C. "Bill" McGrew is the father of William Michael. Born March 2, 1913, Bill married Geneva Aulene Casto on September 19, 1936. Born January 14, 1915, Geneva is the daughter of late B. Cleo and Verna Casto of Kenna. Bill and Geneva are residents of Kenna and hold membership in the Grass Lick Baptist Church in that community. Bill has served as a deacon and trustee of the church, and Geneva as a Sunday School teacher and church clerk. Both Bill and Geneva are retired from the U.S. Postal Service. Bill served the Kenna Post Office as a rural letter carrier for 34 years and Geneva was a postal employee for 12 of those years. She also served as Deputy County Clerk for Jackson County from 1932 to 1938. Bill is also a Navy veteran of World War II, having served aboard the battleship, USS Fall River. They are the parents of two sons, William Michael and an infant boy who died at birth.

William Michael McGrew was born on November 24, 1949, and was educated in the Jackson County school system, having attended Kenna Elementary for grades 1-8, and graduating from Ripley High School in 1968. He attended Alderson-Broadbudd College, Philippi, West Virginia, as a political science major, and graduated from that institution in 1972. He married Deborah Jean Dolan on August 6, 1972. Deborah Jean was born January 19, 1951, her parents being Robert Wendell and Betty Lee (Miller) Dolan of Ripley, formerly of Roane County. Deborah is also a graduate of Ripley High School (1968) and Alderson-Broadbudd College (1972).

William Michael and Deborah live at Kenna, West Virginia, on their farm, Whitehawk. The principal crop produced on Whitehawk is several varieties of Christmas trees which are wholesaled to local retailers in Jackson County and surrounding areas. McKAY

My great-great-grandfather, William McKay (1759-1836), was born in Scotland and came with his parents to the United States in 1772. They settled in Bladen County, North Carolina.

William served in the Revolutionary War from 1776 until the war ended. He was taken prisoner and held in captivity until the capture of Cornwallis, at which time he was released.

William married Nancy McKay in 1787. She was born in Scotland and came to the United States with her parents and settled in Richmond County, North Carolina (1770-1840).

William was a farmer and in 1795, he, along with his family, left Chesterfield County, South Carolina and traveled to Ohio County, Virginia. He purchased a farm located in what is now Tyler County, West Virginia.

My great grandfather Reuben McKay (1790-1873) was born in Chesterfield County, South Carolina. He married in 1812, Jane Williamson (1791-1878), daughter of John and Elizabeth (Shepherd) Williamson. John also served in the Revolutionary War, mostly as a spy from 1777 until the war ended.

Reuben left Tyler County in 1837, moving his family to Meigs County, Ohio, in the Great Bend area. He was a farmer and owned 700 acres of land.

Children of this union were: Elizabeth, William, John, Nancy, Flora, Charles, Abram, James, Reuben Jr. and Malcolm.

My grandfather, William McKay (1817-1882), was born in Tyler County and moved to Meigs County, Ohio with his parents. He was twice married, first to Elizabeth Hayman in 1842 (1821-1859). Children of this union were: Adaline (1843) married John Sayre; Reuben (1846) married Ellen Douglas; Zachariah (1848) married Amanda Thorn; Martha (1849-1849); Jerusha (1851-1852); Henry (1853) married Clara Hastings; Sinah (1855) married Ephraim Blake; Flora (1857) married Charles Hogsett; and infant son (1859) age 18 days, buried with his mother.

Late in the year of 1859, William, who was a farmer, moved his family to Jackson County, West Virginia. He purchased a farm in the area known as Warths Bottom.

William, in 1860, married his second wife, Catharine Moffit (1827-1914). She was born in Beaver County, Pennsylvania, the daughter of John and Sarah (Weseler) Moffit. The Moffit family had moved to Warths Bottom a few years earlier. Four children were born of this union: John (1861-1928) never married; Infant Son (1863) stillborn; infant son (1865) stillborn and Charles McKay.

My father, Charles McKay, (1867-1949) was born at Warths Bottom, Jackson County. He was a farmer for most of his life. He was twice married, first Genora Hague in 1893 (1871-1920); one child Henry Dale (1895-1905).

My father and mother were married in 1927. My mother was Flora Slaughter (1905-1976), daughter of Charles and Jessie (Robey) Slaughter. Three children were born of this union: Charles W. (1928), Virginia L. (1930) and Regena M. (1936). Submitted by Virginia Martin

McKELVEY

On August 24, 1904, William G. McKelvey (1881-1962) and Ida Fankhauser 1877-1958 were married at her home in Clarington, Ohio. The family operated a general store in Monroe County until 1916 when they bought a farm and moved to Meigs County. William and Ida were the parents of four children: Robert (1906-1976); Ella Mae (1907-1981); Charles (1912-1989); and William (born 1915).

After moving to Portland, Mr. McKelvey found that the schools weren't what he wanted for his children, so he bought a house in Ravenswood, West Virginia and enrolled the children in school in Ravenswood. Here the family lived in winter, crossing the river each day by boat to feed livestock and moving to Ohio in the summer. John, older brother of William, made his home with William and helped with the farming. In 1925 the children were sent to school at Portland and the house in Ravenswood was sold. By this time their son Robert had graduated from Ravenswood High School.

McKelvey family

Robert and Charles both worked for the U.S. Corps of Engineers; daughter Ella Mae married and moved to Parkersburg and William stayed and worked on the farm with his father.

Over the years the family traveled many times to Ravenswood to shop, visit friends, and meet daughter Ella Mae who came down on the train from Parkersburg to visit. The trip across the river was made by ferry boat. Mr. McKelvey dreamed of a bridge one day crossing the Ohio River at Ravenswood, but sadly he did not live to see this.

In 1984, son, William, retired from farming and he and his wife, Hazel, bought a home in Ravenswood so once again William moved across the Ohio River. William and Hazel are the parents of four children: Shirley, William G. (Bill), Bruce, and Marvin. Shirley married Donald Johnson and they are the parents of two sons, Brian and Bruce. They live near Portland, Ohio. Bill lives in Massachusetts, is married to the former Karin Kelley and they have six children. Bruce is married to Teresa Wilson and they live in Portland with their daughter, Miranda. Marvin is married to Eleanor Schneider and they live in Syracuse, Ohio, with their sons, Michael and Jay.

Today Shirley McKelvey Johnson and her son, Bruce, both work in Jackson County. Shirley is office manager for Medical Service, an insurance company owned by her brother, Bill. The firm presently employs 15 people in Ravenswood as a branch of the Quincy, Maryland office. Bruce Johnson, great grandson of William G. and Ida, is an electrical engineer with Ravenswood Aluminum. McKEMY

The McKemy family lineage is descended from the Scotch-Irish, originally Scotch, of the clan of McKenzie.

One of our early ancestors was James McKemy of Augusta County, Virginia. It was recorded in Augusta County records of March 22, 1753 that he qualified as Ensign of Foot (military foot soldier).

McKOWN

The first of the McKown family in America was Gilbert McKown (1726-1803), who with his wife, Lady Jane Crawford, and son, James, emigrated from Ireland, arrived via Delaware Bay, traveled east and settled in York County, Pennsylvania in about 1755.

Later, Gilbert and family moved to Middletown, Frederick County, Virginia, later known as Gerrardstown, Berkeley County, Virginia, and West Virginia in 1863.

He fought in the Revolutionary War and was present at Yorktown, Virginia when Cornwallis, a British General, surrendered October 19, 1791, to General George Washington.

Gilbert returned to Ireland in 1782, for his father, Andrew (1685-1799), and they constructed homes in Gerrardstown that still stand and remain as Historical Homes.

Gilbert and Lady Jane had three children: James (1758-1850), Samuel (1764-1837) and Elizabeth.

After the death of Lady Jane, Gilbert married Martha Snodgrass from Pennsylvania. He and Martha had six children. Andrew, Gilbert, Lady Jane and Martha are buried at Gerrardstown, West Virginia.

James McKown (1758-1850), son of Gilbert, returned to Pennsylvania and in 1782 married Phoebe Casto of Greensburg, Pennsylvania. He and Phoebe returned to Virginia until about 1787, then returned to Green County, Pennsylvania, and in 1814, James and family began a trip west across Pennsylvania to the Ohio River. Upon reaching the river, he and his family boarded a flatboat with the Stone and Crow families and began their venture down the Ohio River to Mason County (now Jackson, 1831), Virginia. They settled on Lower Mill Creek about three miles west of what is now Ripley. The McKown Family Bible was lost on the trip.

James, like his father, was a Revolutionary War Veteran, being wounded at the Battle of Brandywine, Pennsylvania. He is also mentioned in the history of Knox County, Ohio for his role as master of ceremonies at an ox roast celebrating the election of William Henry Harrison, ninth President of the United States.

James and Phoebe had ten children: Isaac married Miriam Luce; Mary married Elijah Blatchley; Sarah married E.P. Stone; Gilbert (moved to Roane County) married Lydia Flesher; John married Sarah Stone; Samuel married Margaret Rush; Edith married David Wright; Celia Phoebe married Job Teagarden; James married Polly Wells; and Francis married Aaron Teagarden. James and Phoebe are buried at Angerona, Jackson County.

John McKown (1790-1878) son of James, married Sarah Stone, also of Pennsylvania prior to moving to Mason County, Virginia (now Jackson County) on Lower Mill Creek.

John served as Jackson County assessor in 1834 and served 16 years on the County Court, and was county sheriff in 1842. He owned a grist mill and a carding machine and a family of seven slaves.

He and Sarah had six children: Elias never married; James married Samantha Smith; Lydia first married Thomas Love, then Nathan Ong; Margaret first married George Griffin, then John Hogg; Gilbert married Bersheba Brown, whose son, John, fought in the Civil War (Jackson County, Ninth Infantry, Company K), and Samuel married Rhoda Rollins.

John and Sarah lived and are buried on the farm where a portion is now owned by Junior Crank.

James McKown (1828-1905) son of John, married Samantha Smith on August 12, 1849.

James and Samantha had 11 children: William died at two years of age; John S. married first Mary Poling and had a son Fred (Mary is buried in the Old Cemetery at Ripley), then Kathren Keever and they had one daughter, also named Kathren. John, like his father, was also quite active in county government and was appointed clerk of the circuit court of Jackson County, then he was appointed deputy sheriff of the county and then court officer. Later he relocated in the Parkersburg area and became involved in the business activities of that area while serving as Vice President of the Second National Bank, in addition to owning and operating a steamboat on the Ohio River and owning and operating the Blennerhassett Hotel. John and his second wife, Kathren, are buried in the McKown Mausoleum located in the Mt. Olivet Cemetery, Parkersburg, West Virginia; Charles H. married Maggie Carter and by this marriage a son, Grover, was born. Grover is the father of Lucille Rollins who lives near Ripley and is well known throughout the area. Lucille and her husband, Victor Rollins, built and operated Rollins Lake, located on Rt. #87 near Evans. After her husband's death, Lucille continued to operate the business for years until the recent purchase of the lake by the State of West Virginia; Perry E. married Emma King; Clara married Edgar Ruble; Lewis married Elizabeth Dudgeon; James never married; Lucy married Samuel King; Ella married Frank Perry; Sarah married Vaught Board; and Fanny F. married Charles Briant.

Perry McKown (1857-1933) son of James married Emma King on October 25, 1881. He and Emma lived on the farm given to him by his father, on Lower Mill Creek near Ripley.

He was active in the Ripley community and was on the board of directors of the First National Bank of Ripley, as well as a successful farmer.

He and Emma had ten children: Grace who married Benjamin King, and is the mother-in-law of Mrs. Ocie King who married their son, Paul King; Nellie married Sterling Campbell; Francis died at 11 years of age; Mary married Harold Engstrom; Ralph was killed in WWI; Ruth married Carl Huggins; Edward married Hazel Hutchinson, who still lives in the town of Ripley; Bryan first married Dessie —, then married Lena Gardener; Smith married Dorothy Higginbotham, who currently resides in Tampa, Florida; and Helen who married Clyde Beabout.

Perry McKown family, ca. 1900

Smith McKown (1899-1979) son of Perry, married Dorothy Higginbotham on September 13, 1920. Smith was born on his father's farm on Lower Mill Creek, near Ripley. After his graduation from Ravenswood High School in 1917, he moved to Canton, Ohio to gain employment, only later to return to Kanawha County for employment with Standard Oil Company. He later returned to Jackson County and farmed a portion of the original McKown farm for a short period and returned to the Charleston area of Kanawha County.

He and Dorothy had three children: Ruth married Gene Boley first, and Abe Gurley second; Allen married Margaret Knapp; Dorothy married Robert Bushea.

Smith died in Tampa, Florida, but was returned to Jackson County for burial at the Pine Hill Cemetery, Ripley.

The McKown farm on Lower Mill Creek remained in the family for four generations before being sold out of the family in about 1945. Also, other family members are buried in the various cemeteries surrounding Ripley. Submitted by Allen S. McKown and Darrell A. McKown (son)

McKOWN

James McKown (1758-1850), son of Gilbert (1726-1803) (see other McKown sketch in this book), married Phebe Casto on January 3, 1782. The wedding is variously reported to have taken place in Winchester, Frederick County, Virginia, or in Pennsylvania.

Phebe Casto was the daughter of David Casto and Phebe Gandy, who married August 17, 1752, at Cape May Baptist Church, New Jersey. Reportedly, her paternal grandparents were David and Maria Casto, her maternal grandfather was Thomas Gandy, and her paternal great-grandfather was Azariah Casto.

Military service file W7430 for James McKown (1758-1850) at the National Archives includes his sworn statement of his military service. It says he was born September 2, 1758, entered the service in September 1776 and marched from Berkeley County, Virginia, where he resided, to Pittsburgh. His company then passed down the Ohio River. They were ambushed by Indians, and James was wounded in the left thigh, causing him to be confined for about 14 months. Contrary to what is said in Norton's 1862 History of Knox County, Ohio, the file contains no reference whatsoever to his having been at the Battle of Brandywine (which was fought while he was still recuperating from the thigh wound). History of West Virginia, vol. III, pp. 298-299, repeats the

Among the children of James (1758-1850) and Phebe was James McKown, born July 5, 1794, who married (probably 1818-1821, place unknown) Mary "Polly" Wells, born ca 1801. Their son David's death certificate indicates he was born in May, 1830, in Richmond County, Virginia, but that place seems doubtful. They were definitely in Knox County, Ohio in the 1830s; in Boone County, Indiana in the 1840 census; and in Clinton County, Indiana in the 1850 census. James died May 22, 1853, and is buried in Sims Cemetery, near Middlefork, Clinton County, Indiana (Norton's History of Knox County, Ohio erroneously reports he died in Illinois.) Mary apparently married second, Hugh G. Larimore in 1857 in Clinton County.

The children of James and Mary "Polly" Wells McKown included Isaiah (1822-1897) married Sarah Davis; John (ca 1828 -); David C. (1830-1902) married Charlotte Gard; Frances (1832-1922) married first, Larkin Sims and second, Henry Smith; James (ca 1834 -); William (ca 1835 -); Mary Elizabeth (1839 -) married Harrison Walter; and Eliza Jane (1843-1920) married Jonathan DeBruler.

For descendants of Larkin Sims and Frances McKown, see Ancestors and Descendants of Thomas Sims of Culpepper County, Virginia, . . . by Lela W. Prewitt, 1972. See also James McKown and Mary "Polly" Wells McKown by Jay B. Wright, 1990. Submitted by Jay B. Wright

WILLIAM R. NELSON

Among the new settlers to arrive in Jackson County, West Virginia, in the 1870s was the young family of JAMES E. NELSON and his wife MARY. They came with Mary's parents the FORTNERS. They settled in Sandyville in time to be counted in the 1880 Jackson County census.

JOHN H. FORTNER, head of household, age 58 and born in North Carolina. His wife NANCY H. age 60 and born in Virginia. Son Josephus age 28 and born in Kentucky, and daughter Mariam age 20 also born in Kentucky. Included in this family was a son-in-law JAMES NELSON age 29 who was married to their daughter Mary Jane age 24, and their two children, Julius Clyde age 4 and William Riley age 2.

This young Nelson family increased by one after settling in Jackson County, they had a daughter and named her Birdie. Nineteen years later records show that this daughter married on April 24, 1899 to James Jarrett age 27.

WILLIAM R. NELSON, the youngest son of James and Mary Nelson never married, but lived to the ripe old age of 73 when he died March 12, 1954. He is buried in the Nesselroad Cemetery, on Little Sandy. His obituary stated that he was a retired farmer and died at his home after a long illness. Also buried in the same cemetery is MARY JANE (Fortner) NELSON, the wife of James E. Nelson. In her death record it states she was born July 6, 1858 and died March 13, 1932 aged 74 years, 8 months and 7 days. Funeral was conducted by the Rev. Floyd Dick. Her three children survived her.

J. CLYDE NELSON, the oldest child to James E. and Mary (Fortner) Nelson lived to the age of 90, when he died May 26, 1965 at the Ohio Valley Nursing Home. He was born December 28, 1874 in Morgan County, Kentucky. He was a farmer and member of the Methodist Church. Part of this time she lived with a friend in Ravenswood but returned to her home on Little Pond Creek in her last years. She was well thought of by all who knew her. She died July 4, 1977 and is buried along side her husband in the Willowdale Cemetery (often called the Rawson Cemetery) on Little Pond Creek.

JOHN NEPTUNE

The earliest Neptune ancestor, whom I have been able to prove, is John Neptune, born about 1780-85, in Maryland, I believe. In researching this line, I know that John and his wife, Anne Sigler, born about 1785 in Virginia, were my great great grandparents. They may have been married in Maryland since census records indicate that their children were born there. I am not sure when they moved to Monroe County, Ohio, but estate records there, dated March 26, 1856, list the following as heirs of John Neptune, deceased: his widow, Anne; sons: William and wife, Mary Ann; Samuel and wife, Mary; Wesley and wife, Mary Ann; John, Lydia Jane, widow of Washington Neptune, and their children, Eli, Columbia Jane and Mary Elizabeth; and daughter, Elizabeth Spencer and her husband, Amos Spencer. Others mentioned in this partition petition are: Edward Grissell, Isaac Booth, John Booth and John Beadmore, but I have no knowledge of what connection they are to the Neptune family. The exact date of death of John Neptune is not known by me, but I assume it was before October 22, 1850 for on that date, Anne Neptune, age 65, born Virginia, was enumerated as living alone (1850 Monroe County, Ohio census) but immediately following her son, John Neptune and family; Anne is listed as "farmer" with real estate valued at $2,000.

My research has not revealed when the Neptunes came to Jackson County, West Virginia, but I do know that in April 8, 1880, my great-grandfather, Eli Neptune, son of Washington Neptune and his wife, Lydia Jane, was married to Mary Martha Everette Jackson, the 16 year old daughter of Hezekiah Jackson and his wife, Maria Jane Hartshorne. Eli was 32, twice her age, and they were married at the home of her parents; his place of residence is shown as Sandyville, and hers only as Jackson County, West Virginia.

My grandfather, George Wilbur Neptune, the first child of the above couple, was born in Ravenswood, Jackson County, on January 31, 1882, as was their second, a daughter, Florence, born August 8, 1883, but by December 25, 1885, when their third child, Mamie, was born, the family was living in Minneapolis, Ottawa County, Kansas, where their two youngest children were also born: Herman, May 5, 1888, and Everett Eli, April 3, 1892. Hezekiah and Maria Jane Jackson also moved to the above mentioned town in Kansas where they died in 1890 and 1917, respectively.

Later my grandfather, George Wilbur Neptune, moved to Haskell, Indian Territory, where on May 12, 1906 he was married to Alta Brown, daughter of William C. Brown and his wife, Hannah Caroline Markham. Five children were born to this couple — four daughters and one son: Caroline, who died at age 2; Agnes who married but died without issue; Florence, married and had issue; Mary Katherine, married and had issue; and Everett Brown Neptune, my father, who was born September 29, 1912, married in 1934 to Virginia Tully, daughter of Daniel Tully and his wife, Mary Virginia McIver. When I was a young boy, my father was transferred from Oklahoma by The Phillips Petroleum Company to their refinery in Old Ocean, Texas, where he was employed until his death in 1972. My mother still resides in Texas.

In 1959 I was married to Mary Sue Pinckney, daughter of John McPherson Pinckney, Jr., and his wife, Mary Pearl Reed; we have two daughters: Rebecca Ann born July 13, 1960, married 1978 to Stephen Scott Gibson. They have three children: Amanda, Allison, and Everett; Elizabeth Ann born February 15, 1963, married 1986 to Todd Russell Dodge; they have one son, Todd Riley.

I have two sisters: Linda born 1941, married 1965 to Leonard Francis Smith; they have one daughter, Stephanie Kay. Diane Sue, born 1947, married 1967 to Gerald Lee Krafka; they have four children: Laura Ann, Rachel Lee, Charles Everett, and Katherine.

I have confined this to my direct descent from John Neptune and to my siblings and my immediate family. We do have data on other of my collateral Neptune line; if anyone is interested, we will share this information. Submitted by Everett Brown Neptune, Jr.

PERRY EMMET AND WINNIFRED O'BRIEN

In 1934, Perry and Winnifred ("Fritzi") O'Brien arrived in Ripley to begin a half-century of life and service in this great community and county.

Winnifred Fletcher Evans was born on Wheeling Island, Wheeling, West Virginia, on February 24, 1904, the second daughter of Arthur Stockwood and Ester (Fletcher) Evans. Her sisters were Mrs. W.N. (Florence) Crowl of Wheeling and Mrs. E.M. (Helen) Siegling (deceased). Winnifred received a "standard normal" certificate from West Liberty Teachers College and was teaching at Edgington Lane School in Wheeling before she and Perry were married in 1932.

Perry Emmet O'Brien was born in Buckhannon, West Virginia, on August 2, 1898, the oldest son of William Smith and Emma (White) O'Brien. He had one sister, Mary Martha O'Brien (deceased) and two brothers, Daniel Pitt (deceased) and William Talbott O'Brien of Buckhannon. After serving in the U.S. Army in 1918, Perry received a B.S. degree from West Virginia Wesleyan College in 1921 and later attended George Washington University. He taught mathematics at Logan, Triadelphia (Wheeling) and Victory (Clarksburg) High Schools before marrying Winnifred.

After their marriage in Winnifred's home in Triadelphia, West Virginia, on June 8, 1932, she and Perry lived in Clarksburg before moving to Morgantown where, in 1934, Perry completed his L.L.B. degree. The couple then moved to Ripley, where Perry began his law practice on South Court Street in the T.J. Sayre and Kenna K. Hyre office building. In 1936 he moved to the O.C. Staats building on Main Street where his office remained for the next 48 years.

Perry and Winnifred ("Fritzi") lived first at 408 North Church Street until 1948, when their house, 300 North Street, overlooking downtown Ripley was completed. They had one son, William Smith O'Brien, born on June 6, 1936.

Perry Emmet and Winnifred (Evans) O'Brien

Both Perry and "Fritzi" were very active in the Epworth United Methodist Church, members of the Golden Rule Sunday School Class and singing in the church choir. Perry was Sunday School Superintendent in the 1940s and "Fritzi" was very active in the Women's Society of Christian Service. Perry served the West Virginia Conference of the United Methodist Church as a Trustee and member of the Commission on Archives and History, and also as director of the Wesley Foundation at Glenville State College.

Winnifred was active in the Ripley Junior Women's Club, president of the Ripley Women's Club, Grand Worth Matron of the Eastern Star and the advisor of the Rainbow Girls. Returning to her teaching career in the mid-1940s, she completed her B.S. degree in elementary education from Morris Harvey College in 1948. One of her class reports, "Early Settlers And Their Contributions To Jackson County and It's County Seat, Ripley, West Virginia," was printed and distributed by the Jackson County Library in 1979.

Winnifred taught the fifth grade at the Ripley Elementary School over 20 years. She was a member of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, the American Association of University Women and the National Retired Teachers Association.

Perry was City Recorder of Ripley from 1943-1947 and Mayor from 1955-1957. He was chairman of the Jackson County Health Board, trustee of the Jackson County Hospital, president of the Ripley Chamber of Commerce, and chairman of the Ripley Park Commission. He was a 39-year member and chairman of the Jackson County Selective Service Board. He was a member of the West Virginia and the American Bar Association.

A 50-year member of the Ripley Rotary Club, Perry served as president and secretary. He was chaplain of the Ripley American Legion Post and a director of the Kootaga Area Council, Boy Scouts of America. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Masons, and the Plimoth Plantation Society. Perry was an emeritus 50-year member of both the West Virginia University Alumni Associations. Intensely interested in local and regional history, Perry was president of the Jackson County Historical Society and member of West Virginia Historical Society. Active in the location and establishment of the Cedar Lakes FFA-FHA Camp, he was a member of the Cedar Lakes Advisory Committee and an honorary member of the FFA.

Perry was involved in the public library movement from the late 1940s, serving as chairman of the Jackson County Library and member of the Alpha Regional Library since its beginning in 1951. He was appointed by Governor Underwood as member of the West Virginia Library Commission from 1960 to 1964. He was a member of the American Library Trustee Association and the West Virginia Library Association. In 1950, he was named as the West Virginia Library Trustee of the Year.

Throughout his civic work, Perry recognized the value of water supply to community growth and the destruction that happens with the lack of flood control. In the 1940s, Perry joined other community leaders in planning better water supply control for the Mill Creek Valley, leading to the formation of the Mill Creek Watershed Committee, of which Perry was chairman from 1967. He provided much of the legal work for the series of watershed lakes which now provide flood control and water supply for Ripley and the Mill Creek Valley. In recognition of his service in this cause, on May 29, 1984, the Jackson County Commission designated the Mill Creek Site 13 dam to be named the "Perry Emmet O'Brien Dam." On September 19, 1987, this completed dam was dedicated as the 150th Watershed Dam constructed in West Virginia.

Perry Emmet was listed in "Who's Who in the East," "Who's Who in the Methodist Church," and "Outstanding West Virginians."

Winnifred ("Fritzi") passed away on June 13, 1978. Perry Emmet passed away on August 11, 1984. They are buried in Lot No. 6, the Oldham Section of Pine Hill Cemetery.

A 1934 newspaper item welcoming the young lawyer to Ripley stated, "You are the class of folk we need. You will add to our fine citizenry." Fifty years later on the day following Perry's death, Elaine Rowley wrote in the Jackson Herald, "He has certainly been a pillar of strength in our fair city. He and his late wife, Winifred (sic) O'Brien, were always willing to shoulder civic responsibilities and to go the extra mile in social services. Everywhere around the town, they have left their influence."

A good rule-of-life has always been to leave a place a little better than when you arrived. Winnifred ("Fritzi") and Perry Emmet certainly spent their half-century in Ripley and Jackson County following that guide. They lived and gave of their lives to their church and their community, among the people that they loved. Submitted by William S. O'Brien

OLDHAM FAMILY

The name Oldham came into England with the Saxons, more than 1400 years ago. It was brought to this continent by JOHN OLDHAM in 1622 when he arrived at Plymouth aboard the Elizabeth and Anne. John Oldham was killed in 1636 aboard his trading vessel Shallup, which was attacked by Indians. His sons, Thomas and John, were with him on the vessel and for a time they were held captive by the Indians.

Thomas Oldham settled in Massachusetts where he married Mary Wetherel in 1656. They had a large family.

Colonel Samuel Oldham, son of Thomas (1680-1759), settled in West Moreland County, Virginia. His rank in county militia earned him the title of Colonel. Samuel's wife's name was controversial but his children are listed as: John, Robert, Thomas, Isaac, Samuel.

Colonel Samuel Oldham was married a second time to Elizabeth Newton Storke (1728). He is buried in Cople Parrish, West Moreland County, Virginia

Isaac, the son of Samuel Oldham, was born in 1726. Isaac served as a noncommissioned officer in Captain John Van Meter's Pennsylvania Rangers in 1778. His second wife, Sarah Anderson was the mother of 14 children, one of whom was William.

William Oldham (1753-1828) married Eliza Hooer, Pocohontas County, Virginia in 1824. They had two children, William Kennison and Nancy, who married George Hickie.

The father, William Oldham, died in 1828 and the mother, Eliza, married William Price Morrison. They moved to Braxton County, West Virginia and later to Jackson County. In 1849, William Kennison Oldham, the son, returned to Pocohontas County, Virginia to a farm inherited from his father. There he married Sarah Kinnison who died at the birth of their first child, a son, Upton Etchinson, in 1859. In 1961 he sold his land in Pocohontas County and returned to Jackson County with his son and his bride, Elizabeth Smith. In Jackson County, William Kennison bought a farm on Parchment Creek where they established residence.

William Kennison Oldham and Elizabeth Smith Oldham were the parents of nine children, three of whom died in infancy. The names of the surviving children were: Owen Otto, Olev Olson, James Lockhart, Odenna Proffitt, William Torrentia, Joseph Smith. Elizabeth died shortly after the birth of the youngest son as a result of injuries received in a fall from a horse.

William Kennison Oldham was later married twice: to Mary Pinnell and Lucretia Barnette.

William Kennison Oldham was a Captain in the Union Army during the Civil War serving the 141st Regiment of 22nd Brigade, 5th Division of the Virginia Militia. He received four commissions, the last from Governor Pierpont.

He was a successful farmer and was active in community affairs. It is said he served as Grand Marshall for the Independence Day parade in Ripley for several years and was quite a colorful figure in his full dress Union uniform astride his white stallion.

William Kennison Oldham died suddenly in the hayfield on his Parchment Valley farm in July of 1895. He is buried at Mt. Moriah, a country cemetery, overlooking the valley he loved so much.

I am very fortunate in having the Ong History researched in 1906 by a Dr. Albert R. Ong of Martins Ferry, Ohio, and it is on record in the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

In early years the Ong name was spelled "ONGE," but the lineage was not traced beyond that of Francis Ong who sailed from Bristol, England, on December 1, 1630, arriving in Boston, February 5, 1631, on the ship "Lyon," with three sons; SIMON, JACOB, and ISAAC. It was thought that they embarked on this hazardous journey in a desire for freedom in religious worship.

Francis Ong 1, died within the next five years and I listed our ancestors in the following order.

ISAAC ONG 2, resided in Massachusetts and New Jersey until his death June 13, 1696, having five children. We are a descendant of his first child, Jacob.

JACOB 3, was a farmer in New Jersey. His first son, Jacob, was born in 1702.

JACOB ONG 4, had four children and his first son was Jeremiah.

JEREMIAH ONG 5, was born in Burlington County, New Jersey. He lived during the War of the Revolution in Eastern Pennsylvania. He and his wife, Christianna Ong, are; the ancestors of all present members of the Ong family in America. He was a farmer and is believed to have been a member of the Society of Friends. He is reported to have been killed by Indians. We are a descendant of his first child, Jacob.

REVEREND JACOB ONG 6, was born January 24, 1760. He was a postal boy and carried messages during the early part of the war and later joined the ranks of the Continentals and served till the close of the war with an honorable discharge. He married Mary McCrew in Pennsylvania on September 25, 1784. He was a carpenter and cabinet maker by trade. After the war, he being of Quaker parentage and being received back into the Quaker church, renounced all claims against the government services, being convinced that war was wrong. He was an acknowledged minister of the Society of Friends. We are a descendant of his third child, Jacob.

This particular ancestor is of great interest to me as he married a McGrew, which was the maiden name of my mother and her ancestors are from Pennsylvania.

JACOB ONG 7, was born June 25, 1789, and married Hannah Davis, January 23, 1813. He died at Angerona, Jackson County, West Virginia, on August 11, 1861.

NATHAN ONG 8, his second child, was born August 10, 1816, and was married twice. He had nine children including my grandfather, Elias Filmore Ong, born September 28, 1856, and Barbara A. Ong born August 4, 1845, who is the grandmother of Charleean Cunningham Hutchison of Evans. He is buried in Angerona, West Virginia.

My grandfather, Elias Filmore Ong 9, married Elizabeth Marjorie Fultz May 28, 1881. They had nine children, all of whom are deceased. He died in 1933 and my grandmother in 1940. I have very fond memories of my grandfather even though I was very small when he died. My grandmother seemed to be the mainstay of the family. I always had the feeling she was "happy to see me come, but happier to see me go." Their home was beside Moore's Marker in the middle of what is now known as the boulevard.

My father, Charles Finley Ong 10, was born December 22, 1888, and died in September 1962. He married my mother, Edith Ellen McGrew, October 5, 1921. She was born in Ripley on March 6, 1891, the daughter of Augustus Walker McGrew and Jane Kathryn Hall McGrew. She died July 15, 1971.

I was born July 15, 1922, at Point Pleasant, West Virginia, and have one brother, Robert Finley Ong, born October 5, 1924, at Point Pleasant, West Virginia. We moved back to Ripley when I was about six years of age. I married Norman Chauncey Slaughter, of Ripley, February 21, 1946, at the United Brethren Church in Ripley. We have one child, John Gregory Slaughter, born January 30, 1948, at Charleston, West Virginia.

Gregory Slaughter married Diane Winter, of Fairplain, August 2, 1969, daughter of Clifford Rolland Winter and Sarah Marmette Brannon Winter. They have one daughter, Shawn Marie Slaughter, born January 1, 1972 at Charleston, West Virginia.

My brother, Robert Finley Ong, married Jo Ann Starcher, daughter of Rudolph Starcher and Maude Nethercutt Starcher, in 1946. They were the parents of three children: Janna Kathryn Ong, July 18, 1948 Parkersburg, West Virginia; Dea Jo Ong May 25, 1944, Parkersburg, West Virginia; Michael Robert Ong, May 8, 1963, Ripley, West Virginia. Robert Ong has a son, Ryan Heath, born January 1, 1972, from a second marriage to Rebecca Rader. At the present time they reside in Parkersburg.

Janna Ong married Michael Ramos and lives in California. Michael Robert Ong is single and lives in Palm Springs, California. Dea Jo Ong married Ronald Stanley of Ravenswood and lives at Evans. They are the parents of three children; Anna Kathryn July 10, 1976; Leah Beth July 14, 1980; Brian Mathew March 29, 1986. These children were all born at Jackson General Hospital in Ripley, West Virginia.

I am very proud to be an 11th generation American with my son, Greg and his cousin, Dea as 12th generation, and my granddaughter, Shawn, and the children of Dea Stanley as 13th. We are fifth, sixth and seventh generations of Jackson County. Submitted by Kathryn Elizabeth Ong Slaughter

JOHN HARE OSHEL

John Hare Oshel, teacher and farmer, was born in Monroe County, Ohio, in 1838, the son of James and Mary Wilson Oshel. He was educated at Ohio Wesleyan College, Delaware, Ohio, and became a school teacher, during which career he taught school in Ohio, Kansas, and Jackson County, West Virginia.

In 1862 while living at Summerfield, Ohio, he was united in marriage to Rebecca Ann Horton. To this union four daughters and one son were born.

In 1870 John Hare Oshel migrated to Lawrence, Kansas, there joining his father and brothers who had "homesteaded" to Kansas in 1860; but his wife, Rebecca Horton Oshel, not finding the climate in Kansas conducive to her health, encouraged him to return his family back to the Ohio/West Virginia area. In 1872 John Hare Oshel and family departed Kansas and returned to Ohio leaving in Kansas father and brothers whom he would never see again. In 1873, from Ohio John Hare Oshel moved to Cottageville, Jackson County, West Virginia, where he purchased a farm on what is now the Patterson Road. Mr. Oshel was attracted to settle in Cottageville by his wife's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Crow, who resided there.

For the next 15 years Mr. Oshel taught school in Cottageville, farmed and saw his four living children reach adulthood.

In 1890 Mr. Oshel left teaching and moved to Evans in Jackson County where he formed a mercantile partnership with George B. Crow. The venture being less than successful, he moved to Grimms Landing on the Kanawha River in Mason County in 1894.

Daughter Georgianna married Oscar Douglass of Cottageville; daughter Maude married Otho Crow of Ripley; daughter Lenna married Thomas Courtney of Charleston; and son Victor S. (Sherry) married Elizabeth Jane Maupin of Arbuckle, Mason County.

John Hare Oshel died at Grimms Landing in 1916. He had been preceded in death by his wife

Rebecca Ann Horton Oshel in 1915. Mr. and Mrs. Oshel are buried in the Adkins Cemetery near Buffalo, Putnam County, West Virginia. Submitted by Charles W. Oshel

RAY AND BERNICE PAINTER

Bernice Ankrum Painter was born August 17, 1911 near Cottageville, West Virginia, which was also the birthplace of her parents, Clyde Ankrum and Myrtle Stewart Ankrum; paternal grandparents Madison Matt Ankrum and Adelpia Lloyd Ankrum, and maternal grandparents Alonso Stewart and Keziah Sayre Stewart.

Bernice was one of seven children. The children were: Clarence Lucian (April 1, 1908) married Faye Oldham; Hazel Virginia (September 17, 1909) married Owens J. Smith; Bernice Elizabeth (August 17, 1911) married Ray Painter; Ursie Isabelle (December 8, 1914) married John

*Finney B. and Ruth Ann (Kessel) Painter,

McCoy; Dorothy Margaret (May 28, 1917) married George Weekley; Ethel Nadine Francis (April 6, 1920) married Joe Fox; Lloyd Stewart (December 6, 1926) married Stella Golinski.

All of the Ankrum children attended one room schools known as Lone Oak, Lone Pine, or Locust Grove. All graduated from Union High School, except Hazel who quit to help at home. Bernice walked more than 4,000 miles to attend high school. She played on the basketball team. Graduating from high school in 1931, she went on the New River State (now West Virginia Tech) and earned a Short Course Certificate to teach school. She returned to teach at Locust Grove where many of her former classmates were then her students. She earned $70.00 a month.

She met her husband, Ray Finney "Sam" Painter (March 1, 1914), while teaching at Big Pine School near Kenna, 1939-40. They were married in Kentucky on January 20, 1940. Ray was one of 13 children of Finney Bascom Painter and Ruth Ann Kessell Painter who lived on Eighteen Mile Creek near Kenna.

Ray's paternal grandparents were Barney Painter and Annaliza Ranson Painter. His maternal grandparents were Jake Kessel and Margaret Raeburn Kessel. His parents had 13 children. They were:

Wavie Lori married Oke Casto; Barney Ivan married Pearlle Casto, Hazel McGinnis and Mae Cook; Cloyd Alvin married Marie Parsons and Lillie Hill; Brady Estel married Reva Hopkins; Otho Jasper married Ollie Higginbotham; Shirley Otner married Odie Casto; Lexie Flloyd married Mary Rollins; Mandvil Avalee married Oshell Bonnett and Earl Mangus; Omal DeFore married Chester French and Early Casto; Addie Ethel married Darrell Starcher; Finney Ray married Bernice Ankrum; Palestine DoraBelle married Lestil Starcher; Freddie Pearl married Arden Casto.

Ray and Bernice established their home on Eighteen Mile Creek where their first two daughters, Doris Lee (October 1, 1940) and Donna Jean (August 31, 1943) were born. Bernice continued to teach at Big Pine walking or riding horseback three miles each way. Ray began work as a tooldresser on a gas well being drilled on the farm and this became his life work. He advanced to driller and worker for many years as a driller for Guy B. Ray later known as Ray Brothers (James and Rex). Ray's job took him to Logan County on two different occasions. Bernice and the children moved along with him from job to job until Brenda Sue was born March 2, 1946.

The family home was then established on Route 34 head of Eighteen Mile Creek. A three room house was built as temporary shelter until a larger family home could be constructed. A son, Lowell Edward (January 7, 1949) was born in this small house which later became the "chicken house." The youngest child, Rebecca Ann was born December 13, 1950 in the new house.

All of the children were born at home, the first two delivered by Dr. Rymer at a cost of $15.00 each and the last two by Dr. Dwight Staats and a nurse at the cost of $45.00 each.

Bernice quit teaching in 1945 to care for the family. She returned to her teaching career in 1958 serving as a substitute teacher, as they were scarce at this time. She did not have a certificate and taught only on a temporary permit. She later returned to school and through renewal credits received a 96 hour certificate. She continued to teach at Kenna School for 13 years. She retired at age 62 in 1973.

Her retirement was early due to Ray's health. He was injured in a construction accident in August, 1971. His severe injuries required more than three months of hospitalization and nearly a year of recovery. He required six months of rehabilitation therapy at the State Rehabilitation Center Institute. He did regain ability to walk with the assistance of a cane. He was never able to return to work.

The Painters moved to Klondike Road, Ripley in 1975. Ray's health continued to deteriorate due to emphysema. He died December 25, 1985. Many remember him as giving generously his handicrafts such as beads, necklaces, doilies, and also knives and candy mints, known to him as his cigarettes. His love of horses, dogs, and guns also will be remembered by his friends.

Bernice and Ray's five children all married and four of them live at Ripley and the other one at Evans. They were given 12 grandchildren and got to love and enjoy them as they lived so nearby.

Doris Lee (October 1, 1940) married Sterling D. Ocheltree (October 24, 1938) and they had three sons.

Richard Darrell (June 16, 1958) married Robin Walker (January 4, 1959) and they had three children: Amy Elizabeth (July 12, 1982), Emily Kristen (May 21, 1983), and Evan Baker (August 4, 1986).

Jerry Lynn (March 8, 1960) married Angela Goddard (October 25, 1960). They had two daughters Erin Lynn (October 29, 1986) and Megan Nicole (November 6, 1989).

Terry Lee (February 5, 1963) married Teresa Bates (September 24, 1964) and they had a daughter Tara LeAnn (January 1, 1988).

Second daughter, Donna Jean (August 31, 1943) married Philip Keller (March 1, 1944). Their children are Anthony Todd (July 18, 1966) and Mika Michelle (September 3, 1970).

The third daughter, Brenda Sue (March 2, 1946) married David Clay Black (March 25, 1944). They had two sons, David Courtney (February 27, 1970) and Patrick Arron (April 27, 1972).

The only son, Lowell Edward (January 1, 1949) married Louise Miller (May 9, 1953). They had two daughters, Amanda Jo (July 12, 1973) and Melissa Sue (March 12, 1980).

The youngest, Rebecca Ann (December 13, 1950) married Dennis Michael Keller (January 3, 1950). Their three children are Robert Michael (January 29, 1976), Ryan Matthew (April 22, 1978) and Elizabeth Rae (May 7, 1986).

CATHERINE ELIZABETH PALMER

Catherine Elizabeth Palmer, July 24, 1845-July 19, 1932, was the eldest child of Herbert Palmer and Susannah Nesselroad Palmer (see related article.) Her paternal grandparents were David and Judith (Morris) Palmer of Manchester New Hampshire. The Palmer farm was, and is still located along the Ohio River at Sherman, south of Little Sandy Creek. It adjoins the DeBussey Farm.

At the age of 20, on January 26, 1865, Catherine Elizabeth married Robert Adolphus DeBussey. The photographs accompanying this article were taken at the time of their marriage. Evident in the photograph of Catherine are a pair of earrings with an interesting history:

As John Hunt Morgan, leader of "Morgan's Raiders" fled south ahead of pursuing Union troops, he and his men hid for a time on Buffington Island which lies in the Ohio River opposite the Palmer Farm. The group, known for raiding both public and private property to obtain horses and other goods with which to support the southern war effort, apparently had in their possession some jewelry and other items of value. When Union troops threatened to overtake them, Morgan and his men departed so quickly that some of the treasure was abandoned. After the "Raiders" had fled across and down the Ohio, curious residents on both sides of the Ohio went out to Buffington Island. There they found some of the jewelry left behind during the hasty departure. Robert Adolphus found a pair of gold earrings which he gave to Catherine. She is said to have been married in those earrings.

Robert Adolphus and Catherine Elizabeth (Palmer) DeBussey

Catherine and Robert DeBussey had 11 children (see related articles), and lived on the DeBussey farm at Sherman throughout their long lives. Both are buried in the DeBussey family cemetery there along with Robert's parents, Thomas and Sarah Evans DeBussey, and several of their children.

The farm remains in the family, owned by great grandchildren of Catherine and Robert and their families. The log home built by Catherine and Robert is still in use today. They had lived in it until additional rooms had been completed for the finished house which is pictured in the DeBussey section of this book. The log house became one interior room of the enlarged farmhouse, and cannot be seen in the picture.

Each spring, thousands of yellow daffodils can be seen enclosing a large area that had been Catherine's and Robert Adolphus's yard.

The families of Robert Chancellor DeBussey and Jane DeBussey (Mrs. Gary) Singleton are the present owners, and are direct descendants of Catherine, shown as follows:

Catherine and Robert A. DeBussey had one surviving son, Herbert Richardson DeBussey. H.R. DeBussey had three sons—Richard Reys, Robert Paul, and H.R., Jr.

Robert Paul (1911-1965) had two children—Jane Chancellor DeBussey (Singleton) and Robert Chancellor DeBussey. Jane's children are John Shelton Merritt, Robert Carter Merritt, Ashley Ann Merritt (Bergbauer), Glenn Thomas Singleton, and Myra Ruth Singleton.

Robert's children are Danielle Deck DeBussey, and Christopher Chancellor DeBussey.

Herbert Richardson DeBussey

HERBERT PALMER

Herbert Palmer (1821-1890) was born in Manchester, New Hampshire, son of David and Judith Morris Palmer. He was a shoemaker and worked on a canal which he was paid for with land in Augusta, Virginia. He bought 140 more acres of land on February 9, 1857, located at Sherman opposite Buffington Island. The Palmer family home was moved twice due to the Ohio River floods. A fire destroyed the home in 1941. It had been the first home for 16 Palmer children.

Herbert Palmer, his wife and seven of their children, seven grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren are buried in the Palmer family cemetery. Much of the original Palmer land is owned by descendants of Herbert Palmer family. Submitted by William McKinley

ROBERT PARK (PART I)

It was perhaps chance that lead Robert Park, Sr. to purchase 350 acres along the Ohio River in October 1836 for $3,000.00 from Ephraim Wells (both from Brooke County). The land, lying south of Turkey Run, had been intended for Bryant Hubbard and was part of the 1,475 acres purchased in July 1836 by Ephraim Wells from the heirs of George Washington.

ROBERT PARK, SR., was born in Ireland in 1773 and died in 1874 in Brooke County at the age of 101. Arriving in Western Virginia in the early 1800s he would take cargo down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers to New Orleans, sell the keelboat and cargo, then "with the gold belted around him would buy a mule and ride home or sail around to New York and home by stage coach" (THE NEWS, January 17, 1905).

Because of the inaccuracy of records it is possible that this is the same Robert Park buried in a family cemetery on Skull Run, Wellsburg, Brooke County, who "died September 3, 1872 in the 91st year of his age." If so, he had two wives, Margaret and Anna and had several children by both women.

On June 26, 1838 Robert Park, Sr. conveyed 175 acres "for $2,000.00 and natural love and affection" to William Park, his son and the upper 175 acres to Robert Park, Jr. This began over 150 years and five generations of the descendants of Robert Park in Jackson County.

ROBERT PARK JR. (Born July 22, 1817 died January 10, 1872) and ISABELLA (Kirk) (born March 19, 1816, died January 27, 1897) came to Jackson County in 1939, settling first in Ripley and later in the Park home which he built in 1840 overlooking the Ohio River. Their families owned adjoining farms near Wellsburg where they were married on May 19, 1839.

He had been apprenticed in cabinet-making in Brooke County and made his own furniture including a cherry bedroom set. A farmer, he also served Jackson County as practical surveyor for 14 years as magistrate. He was a Democrat, and was in the Masons and I.O.U. Lodges in Ravenswood.

Robert Park and Isabella (born in Pennsylvania) had eight children:

WILLIAM KIRK PARK-born July 31, 1840-died May 5, 1865; ROBERT EMMETT PARK-born October 2, 1842-died February 23, 1815; JOHN KIRK PARK-born October 25, 1844-died December 27, 1862; FRANCIS SPINNING PARK-born March 7, 1847-died September 19, 1848; MADISON MONROE PARK-born July 10, 1850-died February 4, 1896; MARGARET HANNAH PARK-born October 6, 1852-died March 27, 1855; GEORGE WASHINGTON PARK-born March 3, 1856-died May 31, 1932; HENRY FITZHUGH PARK-born August 4, 1858-died December 22, 1903.

Robert Park Jr. was a southern sympathizer with two sons (William Kirk and Robert Emmett) in the CSA, and by 1862 he was confined by military despotism within the limits of his farm, his friends considered it a duty to visit him. (Page 119, Civil War Diary of Mrs. Henrietta Barr). His brother, William, was killed September 19, 1861 probably by Northern sympathizers or by members of the Home Guard who were led by Colonel Dan Frost. Robert heard the shots and when called to come outside barricaded himself in his home.

He was appointed an original trustee of the Turkey Run Graveyard on January 26, 1856 along with Ephraim Wells, Bartholmew Park and others. Robert Park Jr. died January 10, 1872 and is buried in the "Old" section of the Ravenswood Cemetery.

George W. Park

GEORGE WASHINGTON PARK, was of Scotch-Iris descent on both sides of the family. His grandfather, Robert Park, Sr., was born in Ireland in 1773 and died in Brooke County, West Virginia in 1874. George Washington studied for three years at the "State University" (WVU) and returned home as a farmer and dairyman for six years at which time he sold the original Robert Park farm and built "the beautiful home he now occupies in the back part of town" on Walnut Street (from an article in The News about the 20th Wedding Anniversary to Annie Laurie Harwood whom he married on January 15, 1885). The children of G.W. Park and Annie Park were: MILDRED LEE born November 14, 1885, died February 1, 1963, married Fred Rudman and had five sons. GEORGE and EVERETT born December 8, 1886, died December 12, 1886. She joined the D.A.R. in 1924 as a descendant of Thomas Chancellor (born 1749) who was a private in the infantry in the Revolutionary War. Her uncle, George L. Harwood, received part of a tract of land on Blennerhassett Island and built the Neale-Harwood brick house where she was born.

George Washington Park was a respected local businessman who was active in public affairs. Through his efforts (he) started the Jackson County Bank. He was active in organizing the Ravenswood Telephone Company (a director) and also the new Farmers Building and Loan Association (director). He was also a director in the Ravenswood Lumber Company. ROBERT KIRK PARK

ROBERT KIRK PARK, born June 10, 1900, youngest child of George Washington Park, the first of the Robert Park, Sr. line to be born in the 20th century. Like his father he lived and worked his entire life in Ravenswood. Bob Park attended Washington and Lee University and graduated from WVU in electrical engineering. He returned home to work in the Farmers Building and Loan with his father who founded the firm in 1905 with only $5000 paid in on a $200,000 initial capitalization. When G. W. Park died in 1932, Bob Park took over the management of the Association with assets of approximately $1,000,000. Bob built Farmers into the state's second largest chartered S&L. When he died in 1969, Farmers had assets of more than $22,500,000 in several branches in the southwestern part of the state. The office was located on Walnut Street, site of the current town offices. In the true spirit of a local S&L serving its community, during the Depression every effort was made to cooperate with borrowers to help them avoid losing their homes and farms when they had difficulty making payments. Active in his profession, Bob was president of the West Virginia S&L League, was named to the International Development Committee of the U.S. Savings League and traveled to various international meetings. He was also active in various local organizations such as City Council, the Katooga Area Council of the Boy Scouts and Grace Episcopal Church. A generous citizen he was particularly interested in supporting educational causes.

On October 5, 1933, Bob Park married Sallie Margaret Purdy (from Moundsville). This was the second time that a descendant of Robert Park, Sr. (born 1773 in Ireland) married a descendant of Jonathan Purdy (born 1759, Ct.) On April 9, 1865, Bob Park's grandfather's brother's son, William A. Park, Jr. married Sallie Margaret's grandfather's sister, Mariah (Mary) Loiza (daughter of Simeon B. Purdy, sister of William Jonathan). The Parks fought in the Confederate Army, the Purdy's in the Union Army.

Bob and Sallie M. Park had two children: SALLIE KATE, born May 26, 1935, and ROBERT KIRK II, born November 4, 1939. Sallie Kate married Laszlo George Kish, born May 18, 1922, a Hungarian Freedom Fighter in the 1956 uprising, on July 15, 1961. They have three children: GEORGE ALEXANDER KISH born December 5, 1963; SALLIE MARGARET KISH, born March 30, 1966; and ROBERT THOMAS KISH born April 18, 1967. They built and run the Black Swan Inn in Lee, Maryland. Robert Kirk II, graduated from W&L and married Mary Beth Anderson, June 1963. They had three children: Deborah Sue, (born June 24, 1964) married Mike Wickiser in June 1988; Katherine Christine (born December 6, 1967); and Robert Kirk III, (born September 22, 1970).

Bob Park purchased the original Robert Park home in 1938, restored and modernized it and moved his family there in 1940, exactly 100 years after his grandfather, Robert Park, Jr. built it.

After inheriting the family home, RK II, added a new wing in 1974. Time and circumstances have affected the Robert Park line in Ravenswood. At the present time there are no direct descendants living in Jackson County. Submitted by Robert Kirk Park II and Mary Beth Anderson Park

WILLIAM PARK FAMILY

Robert Park, Sr., of Brooke County, conveyed 175 acres on June 26, 1838 to his eldest son, William. The census of 1840 indicates that six members of William's family had moved to Jackson County, and that William was a farmer. In 1860, his occupation was listed as "Merchant."

WILLIAM PARK (1808-1861) married on November 7, 1829 Jane Adams (1819), daughter of William Adams, Sr. They had at least eight children: JOHN (1831 -); ROBERT H. JR. (1833 -), married (1) Vianna Adams, who died in May of 1859; their children: William Spence (1857), and Belle? (1859-1930), and (2) Margaret Burditt, married September 19, 1860, their children: Clyde (1861), Bird W. (1864), Alfred (1866); Nancy M. (1837) married Oscar C.R. Fleming, April 17, 1864; William A. Jr. (1838-June 1906) married Mary L. (1844) daughter of Simeon B. and Jane Grey Purdy. Their children: Ella (1865), Robert E. (1867), Mary (1870); ANDREW J. (1841-August 17, 1885) married Annie Atkinson (October 20, 1843-June 10, 1883), son: Thomas S; THOMAS B. (1846 -); VAN BUREN (1849 -); JANE (1848 -) married George J. Hamilton on December 18, 1871.

Tragedy struck the William Park family on September 19, 1861, when William, a Southern sympathizer was called outside his home by Northern supporters of the Home Guard, shot and killed.

His farm had conveyed on January 8, 1862 to Jacob Armstrong, trustee, for $1 to secure monies owed to Robert A. Park, William Bell, and T.S. Bell. On October 14, 1872, the deed for 175 acres was conveyed to Robert S. Brown, after the default in payment of the monies owed and a foreclosure. On November 6, 1872, Jane Park, widow, conveyed her dower interest to Robert S. Brown. The 1870 census shows Jane living with five of her children.

Other family members followed Robert and William to the Ravenswood area from Brooke County. Their sister, Julia A.E., married Zadock S. Thorn in Brooke County. The Jackson County court records of 1845, indicate that on February 26, 1845, a deed of sale for land from Robert Park and wife (Isabella) to Zadock Thorn. Julia A.E. Thorn's grave is in the Ravenswood Cemetery.

It is possible that Matthew C. Park was also a son of Robert Park Sr. The will of a Robert Park, in Brooke County dated January 4, 1872, and probated September 26, 1872, refers to "son Mathew has already received his full share of the estate." The will of Robert S. Brown, in Jackson County, dated December 25, 1885, refers to "The Mathew C. Park tract of 320 acres" as being part of his estate.

Members of the Kirk family also moved from Brooke County to Ravenswood area. The Civil War Diary of Mrs. Henrietta Fitzhugh Barr, notes on April 19, 1862 that "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Park, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk, Miss Kirk, Mrs. E. Wells, and Miss Kirker spent the afternoon admiring our lovely flowers extravagantly." On April 13, 1876, Madison Monroe Park (son of Robert and Isabella) bought Mary Kirk's interest in the land left her in her father's will (John Kirk). Mary Kirk moved to Ravenswood and lived with her sister, Isabella Park. The 1880 census indicates that Mary Kirk was 81 years old, and originally from Ireland.

There does not appear to be any direct heirs of William Park living in Jackson County today, nor any members of the Kirk family. The ties of family and friends in the mid-19th century have passed and the family has either died off, or moved on. Submitted by Robert Kirk Park III and Robert Thomas Kish

PARRISH FAMILY

The Parrish family history tells us, Edward (1640-?) and Clara (or Mary) Parrish, came from Yorkshire, England. Settled near Baltimore, Maryland sometime before 1668. Very likely Edward was accompanied from England by several family members and they were Quakers. A Will dated January 14, 1722 of Edward gives the list of children: Edward, Mary, Anne, John and William.

John (1672-1727) married Sarah Franklin Horne on November 23, 1700 in Maryland. Names of their children found are: William, John, Edward and Richard.

Richard (1707-1785) married Rachel Owens. They had only one child, a son, Edward Parrish, born in Baltimore, Maryland.

Edward (1748-1813) was apparently married three times. The third wife being Rachel Evans, mother of this line of descendants. Edward came to Monongalia County, West Virginia, from Maryland about 1785. Bought land July 15, 1785 on Oraft's Run. In 1800 land became center of law suit between Edward and a Jacob Scott. Court decided in Edward's favor in 1802.

During American Revolution, Edward was a Private. He died the Spring of 1813, leaving a Will listing his wife Rachel and 19 children: William, Joshua, Richard, Susanna, Perin, Enoch, Rachel Cole, Nancy Hamilton, Edward, Cintha, Delilah, Eleanor, Dorcas, Cassie, Jesse, Evans, Sarah, Isaac, Ruth and Ephriam. According to the settlement in 1828, Ephriam died before becoming of age.

Some marriages found: Cassander to Joseph Wilford; Jesse to Elizabeth Bright; Evans to Catherine Denny; Dorcas to Edward Bussey.

Marriage Bond: Joshua to Sarah Morgan; Isaac to Maria Harrison.

Have found no record of William, son of Edward and Rachel, except for a son, William R. Parrish.

William R. (1803-1885) married Elizabeth Hamilton (1813-1895), daughter of James and Clarissa (Fleming) Hamilton, on November 22, 1827. Lived at Mannington, Marion County, West Virginia, until 1857. Went to Elizabeth, Wirt County, West Virginia. Lived on what is known as Parrish Fork.

In 1860, after drilling a shallow well on the farm and it produced good, William and sons leased several acres to oil speculators. In 1867, sold the farm to speculators from New York and Philadelphia for $50,000.00. Received $35,000.00 cash but never received the balance owed them.

Harwood C. and Robert Kirk Park

In 1867 or 1868, William sewed most of the money they received inside Elizabeth's petticoats and headed for Hereford, Jackson County, West Virginia.

It was at Hereford, William and Elizabeth raised their family, farmed and lived out their lives. Both are buried in Parrish Cemetery near Hereford. They had 11 children: Joshua married Minerva Kearns; Allison died in youth; Mariah married David Watson; Clarissa married George Gray; Louisa married Alfred Fought; Richard married Sarah Wolfe; William married Lavena Humphrey; Calder married Mary Parsons; Zachariah married Mary Wilson; Henry married Margret Cain; Mary married John Bostic. Calder Haymond (1848-1928) and Mary (Parsons) Parrish moved to Spencer, Roane County, West Virginia.

Henry Hamilton (1853-1939) married Margret L. Cain (1857-1940), daughter of Alfred and Mary (Corbet) Cain, of Roane County, West Virginia, November 13, 1873. They lived, farmed, raised a large family, on Parrish Hill, Jackson County, West Virginia. Both are buried in the Parrish Cemetery. They had 11 children: Emma married Charles Nuzum; Clarence married Stella Williams; Cadmus married Isa Landfried; Charles married Esther Pearl Hinesman; Camden married Winifred McPherson; Esther married Samuel Crawford; Clarissa married Holly Young; Flossie married Charles Shinn; Clinton married Flossie Rader; Gay married Myrtle Bowen; Edward married Mildren Murrah.

Charles O'Dell (1882-1910) married Esther Pearl Hinesman (1884-1963), daughter of John Henry and Freyanna (Payne) Hinzman, August 24, 1905. Lived on Parrish Hill until Charles' death September 30, 1910. He is buried in Parrish Cemetery. Pearl (as she was known) remarried Lewis Rhodes (a widower with several children) June 25, 1911. Charles and Pearl had three children: Herbert S. died an infant; Arthur married Edith Bailey; Mabel married Eugene Reidy.

Arthur Lemoine (1906-1989) married Edith Grace Bailey (1908 -), daughter of Wasson and Grace (McGee) Bailey, June 25, 1927 in East Liverpool, Ohio.

After his father's death, Arthur lived in the home of his grandparents, Henry and Margaret, when his mother remarried. As a young man, he worked on the family farm with grandfather. When about 17 years old Arthur went to East Liverpool, Ohio. He lived with an Aunt and Uncle and looked for work. Had many odd jobs before getting a job at the Pottery. Arthur met Edith at a men's shop (where she worked) while he was looking for a suit. That union lasted 62 years, with six children, 11 grandchildren, 18 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild.

They lived most of their lives at Newell, Hancock County, West Virginia. Their children were: Elsie married (1) Sherman Rohr, Jr., (2) Terry Stuchell; Ralph married Orwina Swift; Grace married (1) Gene Johnson, (2) George Kourpas; Marion married (1) Leslie Thornberry, (2) Merle Starkey; Helen married (1) William Vitalone, (2) Leland Fowler; Howard married Joan Chaffee.

Their son, Howard, is a minister in Canton, Ohio, and their oldest granddaughter, Vicki, lives in Spencer, West Virginia. Arthur started this article but passed away September 2, 1989 before he could finish it, and it was completed by his wife and son. Submitted by Edith Parrish and Reverend Howard Parrish

PARSONS-GOODMAN

Our names are Lindsey Hughes and Matthew Scott Parsons and we are the great grandchildren of Frederick Wade Don and Marion Goodman Parsons and great niece and great nephew of Ethlyn Parsons.

Gee Pa Frederick Wade Don Parsons was born on Parchment Creek, in Jackson County, West Virginia. He was the son of Lovell Minor Parsons, Sr. and Mary Hannah King. He attended school on Parchment Creek and graduated from Ripley High School (Presently Ripley City Building), and played football in a field off Route 33 where the interstate goes through and where the present grade school and city pool are in Ripley, West Virginia. Some of his school activities were Glee Club, HiY, Homeric Literary Society and the school yearbook. He graduated from WVU with a B.S. in Agriculture. While at WVU he was active in the Alpha Alpha Chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho, Sphinx, Torch and Serpent, Block and Bridle, Agriculture Council and Grange. We have been told that over the years people could not remember his initials, which were F.W.D. so they associated it with "four-wheel-drive."

On September in 1930, he married Gee Gee Marion Ethlyn Goodman from Clarksburg, West Virginia, the daughter of Clarence Marion and Edna Mae Vollmer Goodman, Marion graduated from Washington Irving High School, attended Hood College in Frederick, Maryland, then graduated from WVU with a degree in Vocational Home Economics. She was active in Alpha Upsilon Chapter of Alpha Delta Pi, and ROTC and band sponsors.

Family home on Maple St., Ripley, WV

They built a house at (402) 217 Maple Street, Ripley, West Virginia on a lot which was part of his parents land along Sycamore Creek. They had two children Ethlyn and Frederick Wade Don "Sunny" II.

After the children were born in the Ripley home, Fred began his work as County Agent for the Department of Agriculture in Gilmer County (Glennville) and later on to Braxton County (Sutton) as 4-H Agent. As the children grew older Marion became active in the Red Cross at home during the war years and helped with the County 4-H activities at Camp Holly Grey (which is mostly now under water with the Sutton Dam). While an agent in Braxton County, the Braxton County Cottage was built at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp near Weston, West Virginia. An interesting story was told to us while they lived in Sutton a block from downtown and the court house, the children were given a runt of a litter of pigs by a local farmer which they kept in the parlor of the house they lived in as a pet for awhile. One day it decided it was time to go to town and was brought back by a friend of the family squealing all the way.

In the early 1940s, the Parsons family moved back to Maple Street in Ripley, where Fred began teaching as a Vocational Agriculture teacher at Ripley High in a building behind the present post office. Marion taught a year at Gilmore High (New Era-Sandyville area) West Virginia, then Ripley and taught a year before becoming the Vocational Home Economics teacher at Ripley (in a building which is the present Ripley city garage) and retired in the early 1970s.

During this time Fred and Marion were active in many things. Fred belonged to Rotary, taught Veterans on-the-job-training and worked for Farm Credit, along with his dairy farm on Parchment. During the farming years on their back porch on Maple Street in Ripley the family made their own butter (buttermilk) and cottage cheese. Marion was quite active with FHA functions with her girls (local and state), planning of Cedar Lakes, first Arts and Craft Fair. She helped with Jackson County 4-H Camp, and belongs to the Delta Kappa Gamma, teachers honorary.

The family attended the United Methodist Church, Fred in Methodist Men, Marion in Woman's Society and the children in the Youth Choir and Youth Fellowship. The family church is now Epworth United Methodist Church, corner of Church at North Street.

Ethlyn and Sunny attended grade school in Sutton, West Virginia and Ripley (where present city parking lot is on Court Street, between the Bradley and Phillips property). Ethlyn graduated from Ripley High (the present City Building) and Sunny was the first class to graduate from the present high school. Ethlyn and Sunny belonged to clubs in school and in the community (4-H, Scouts). During the war years (1940s), they were among many of the youths of Ripley who sold savings bond stamps (Molly Pitcher) and helped young youth fill up books which they took to the Post Offices and turned in for United States (Paper) Savings Bonds. Ethlyn was employed locally and by the State (West Virginia) until 1957 when she began working for The Bureau of The Public Debt as a keypunch operator and searcher, as well as working with microfilm in the Parkersburg and Ravenswood, West Virginia offices. During this time she obtained her Life Saving and Instructor Certification and taught swimming in the old swimming pool of Ripley on West Street. She helped organize the Ripley Busy Beavers 4-H Club with Lorna Cavendish in 1952 and continues to work with 4-H when she has time. She is a member of the West Virginia 4-H All Stars, Pilot Club of Jackson County and P.R.I.D.E. (litter control). She was a bowler who attended many State and National tournaments during the late 1960s and early 70s. She served as Regent of the local DAR and belongs to the Jackson County Historical Society. Marion and Ethlyn belong to the Ripley Woman's Club, the Golden Rule Sunday School Class and Friendship Circle at Epworth. Ethlyn retired in 1987 from government (30 years) and received the Albert Gallatin Award.

Sunny was employed by the Department of Interior as a surveyor over most of the eastern United States. He was in sales in the eastern section of West Virginia and has four boys Frederick Wade Don "Rick" III, David Michael, Greg Scott and Craig Shawn. He has three granddaughters, and a grandson. He presently resides in Ripley. Submitted by Lindsey Hughes and Matthew Scott Parsons

ALEXIS TROTTER PARSONS

The first proven member of our direct family, William Parsons, lived in Queen Anne's County, Maryland, in 1725. He would be our first generation in America. He had at least three children: Thomas, Joseph, and Charles Parsons.

Our branch of the family is descended from Charles Parsons, our second generation. Born in Maryland in 1729, he was one of the first to come to the Ohio Valley after the treaty of peace was made with the Indians. During the Revolutionary War, Charles Parsons entered service as a private in the Virginia Militia in the Company of Captain John Harness' Virginia Rangers (1776). He served as a scout from Harrison County, Virginia, in 1792, before moving to the Ohio Valley. He was married twice, first to Elizabeth Chestnut and then to Hanna Fauquier. He died November 4, 1823 and was buried in the Frozen Camp Cemetery of the Upper Mill Creek Baptist Church. The Ravenswood Chapter of the National Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution placed a marker at the grave in 1970.

His eldest son, our third generation, was Capt. William Parsons who was born July 24, 1769. He married Susan Fink (daughter of Henry Fink, a noted Indian fighter) who died in 1807 and with her infant son was the first person to be buried in the old cemetery at Ripley. Afterwards, he married Elizabeth Walker. He was the first settler at Ripley in 1803 and died at Frozen Camp in Jackson County on October 10, 1839. He was first an Indian scout, then founded a home in the frontier wilderness on the Ohio, and later settled in Ripley. He enlisted in the Army of 1812, serving through that war and winning a Captaincy when he returned home. In 1820, Capt. Parsons contracted to carve a bridge path from Letart, Ohio, via Ripley, Reedyville, and New California (Spencer), to the mouth of Steer Creek on the Little Kanawha River. This is known today as Route 33. He was appointed "Tip-Staff and Crier" for the first court held near Ripley in 1831. On July 30, 1977, the Lord Calvert Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 dedicated a marker in his memory in the Frozen Camp Cemetery.

William Parsons, son of Capt. William Parsons and our fourth generation, was the first white child born in the government seat of Jackson County on August 20, 1806. He married Susannah Bonnett.

John Nelson Parsons, son of William and Susannah Parsons, was born on Parchment Creek, Jackson County. He first married Emily Barnett and, later, Nancy Stephens. Other members of William Parsons' family were Lydia, Mark, Alexis Fink (one of the founders of the Bank of Ripley and chairman of its first Board of Directors), Nicholas, Margaret, Barbara, and Henry (married to Elizabeth Simmons). These constitute our fifth generation.

Alexis Trotter, son of John Nelson Parsons and Emily Barnett, was born February 27, 1859, and is our sixth generation. September 28, 1881, he married Nora Florence Battrell, born August 4, 1864. They had nine children: Ethel, Margery, Susie, Alma, Anna, Lexie, Everett, Jim and Emily. Emily Parsons was born at Foster Chapel on July 4, 1885, and is our seventh generation. June 25, 1905, she married George W. Simmons, M.D., who was born May 30, 1879, at Kenna, West Virginia.

George W. and Emily (Parsons) Simmons, 1905

Emily and George Simmons had three children: George Winfred, who died as a child; Mildred Ann, born May 28, 1914; and Lenore Elizabeth, born June 8, 1916. This is our eighth generation.

Mildred married Denver Reynolds on June 7, 1938, and had one son, George David Reynolds, born January 17, 1941. She died June 7, 1961.

On May 3, 1940, Lenore married Howard Franklin Jenkins, born October 9, 1915. They had one daughter born March 19, 1942, who was christened Emily Louise Simmons Jenkins in Christ Church, Alexandria, Virginia. Emily Louise ("Emmy Lou") and George David are our ninth generation in America.

George David Reynolds was married three times. His first marriage was in 1960 to Lorraine DeChane and they had one son, George David Reynolds, II, born January 20, 1961, David was killed December 25, 1981, and was buried in Dunedin, Florida. George David's second marriage was to Peggy (surname?) in 1968 and produced one daughter, Sharon, born January 25, 1969. His third marriage was to Cecilia (surname?) and they had one son, Phillip, born June 30, 1971.

Emily Louise Jenkins was married three times, but only the first marriage produced children. Emily married Henry Vincent Cavaliere on December 3, 1960, and they had six children: Elizabeth Ann (Lisa), born April 3, 1962; Henry Keith, born October 15, 1963; Richard Clark, born May 18, 1966; Christopher Franklin, born May 23, 1968; David Wade, born February 9, 1970; and Mark Vincent, born May 10, 1971. The children of George David Reynolds (George David, II; Sharon; and Phillip) and those of Emily Louise Jenkins Cavaliere (Elizabeth, H. Keith, Richard, Christopher, David, and Mark) are our tenth generation in America. Emily Louise divorced Henry V. Cavaliere in 1974. She married Forest (Buck) Anthony in 1977 but they divorced, having produced no children. She married George J. Lamb on August 15, 1981.

Elizabeth Ann (Lisa) Cavaliere married Ted Derek Cochran on July 17, 1982. At the date of this writing (September 1989) they have two children: Ted Jared (born September 8, 1984), and Emilia Marie (born July 7, 1988. H. Keith Cavaliere married Rita Graham on May 30, 1987. At this time, they have one child, Elizabeth (Beth) Mae (born August 20, 1988). Christopher Cavaliere married Carla Harbin on October 8, 1988. Carla had one son, Justin Carl, at the time of that marriage; Christopher and Carla now expect a child in June, 1990. The children of Elizabeth Ann (Lisa) and Derek Cochran (Jared and Emilia), the daughter of H. Keith and Rita Cavaliere (Beth), and the expected child of Christopher and Carla Cavaliere are our eleventh generation in this country. Submitted by Mrs. Emily Lamb and Mrs. Lisa Cochran

AUSTIN LEE PARSONS

AUSTIN LEE PARSONS was born February 2, 1862, the ninth child and fifth son of Alexis Fink and Phoebe Casto Parsons. He died September 11, 1949, and is buried at Arlington Memorial Cemetery, Parkersburg, West Virginia. He married February 14, 1884, Clara Elizabeth Dawkins. After deciding to marry they rode their horses to a minister's house near Sandyville and were married while on horseback. They first lived in Parchment Valley where seven children were born as follows: Lola Lee, Earl Virginia, Howard Sherman, Alpha Margaret, Lemuel Marion, Adelaide Ellen, and Dale Dean. Alpha Margaret died at the age of two when she became choked on a coffee bean.

Austin and Clara moved to Wood County after the flood of 1913. She had several brothers living in that locality and wished to be among her family again. They went to Parkersburg by train and Austin began working at the Vitro-Lite factory where he was employed for several years. He then acquired a grocery store which he operated until his retirement.

The three older children, Earl, Howard and Lola, attended normal school together. All three became school teachers. Earl attended law school later and became a lawyer and school superintendent in Logan County. Howard eventually attended business college and became treasurer of a large coal company. Lola taught school in one of the southern counties of West Virginia. She married there, moved to the Parkersburg area and over the next several years became the mother of nine boys and one girl. She taught school in Ohio after her children were raised. Austin and Clara's three younger children were Lemuel, Adelaide and Dale. Lemuel worked in Parkersburg and for the federal government in Virginia, where he retired. Adelaide married O.L. "Cy" Hall, a Wood County teacher. She worked for several years in the office of a lumber company. Dale was a heavy equipment operator for construction companies. He died October 19, 1953, on the job at Wheeling, West Virginia. Adelaide Ellen Parsons Hall is the last living member of this family as of this 1989 date.

BOYD L. PARSONS

Boyd L. Parsons (1894-1960) was the son of Frank Parsons (1864-1941) and Ida Kessel (1865-1937). Boyd married Luella Corfee (1901-1965). Their children are Clyde Edwin (1924-1981), Roy (1926-1967), Betty (1933-1937), and Mildred Moss (1942 -).

Boyd and Luella Parsons

January 28 is the birthday of a great man in the history of Jackson County — a man who became indispensable to the community where he lived. The man? Boyd L. Parsons.

When asked what the "L" of his name meant, he answered, with a twinkle in his eye, "Lickem." However, as a teacher his policy was not to "lick" students unless it was a last resort. I believe spankings hurt him more than the one being punished.

Boyd was teacher, farmer, and rural mail carrier serving the Foster Chapel-Evans Route community.

I didn't miss a day of school my first year, largely because Boyd picked me up on his horse, Old Pete, on our way to Victory School (later called Long Hollow). Later, my only chance to go to high school was to live with Boyd and Luella in the old Ramsey house down by the railroad trestle and then ride the bus to Cottageville.

He welcomed all the young people to his home to hear the first radio in the area and built a tank on his roof that held water pumped by a windmill so that he could have a bathroom. He gave the folks an idea that modern living was possible for everyone.

Boyd quit teaching to carry the mail on the Evans Route which went out what is now Route 87, out Kopp Ridge, down Spruce, up to the long Foster Chapel Ridge, down to Parchment Creek and back to Evans, over some of the meanest, most miserable road humans could travel.

Later, I realized how much the community had come to depend on Boyd. He was their only contact with the outside world when the red clay roads were belly-deep to a horse. He relayed long-distance telephone calls for them; he shopped for them and brought them all the supplies he could by mail, and when he couldn't lawfully do that he came back after his route was finished. He marketed their eggs and produce and had their prescriptions filled. If people couldn't pay when the service was rendered, he waited until they could.

Electricity came late to the community, the roads had no improvement, and the church was vandalized. The community was dying, but Boyd tried to keep it living. I've found Boyd with a vehicle buried in the mud, sitting on the bank, looking drawn and white from exertion, resting so he could go again. When it was totally impossible to go this way, he rode a horse. He was a dedicated man who loved his family and community. I never heard him speak evil of anyone. He did much for many and although it is very late, I would like to say for all, for whom words of thanks come hard — he was appreciated. Submitted by Olive Smith Stone

CLARA SUSAN PARSONS

Clara Susan Parsons was the youngest of the four daughters of Alexis Fink and Phoebe Casto Parsons. She was born November 3, 1856, died March 18, 1948. They lived on a large farm on Parchment Valley, near Ripley, West Virginia. Her father was a big cattleman. Along with nine sons, there were several hired hands to run the farm.

Her mother wove material for their shirts, dresses and household needs. She also tended large iron kettles of food hung on hooks in the fireplace. Foods, such as corn, beans and meats, were preserved for winter by salting in barrels. The girls baked stacks of pies on Saturdays and hurried their Sunday morning chores so they could go to church, weather permitting. They each had their riding horses. Clara Susan only went to school four or five months a year, but she was a good student in spelling, writing and arithmetic.

Wagon peddlers went through the country in the summertime and that was a treat for the women. They could buy some jewelry or trinkets that otherwise they couldn't have had.

Clara Susan Parsons

Clara Susan married Jessie C. Ellison in 1879. He was born in 1854 and died in 1925. He was born in Calhoun County. His father was killed in the Civil War and his mother died soon afterwards. He came to Ripley, West Virginia, and lived with a family of Flanders and worked in Ripley. After marriage, they lived on a farm on old Route 21 three miles south of Ripley and he operated Chase's Mill at the foot of Salt Hill on Mill Creek. He learned the trade of dressing or sharpening mill burrs and he followed that trade into surrounding counties traveling by horseback. Sometimes he would be away from home two to three months at a time. They were the parents of four children:

(1) Phoebe Hattie Ellison 1880-1966); (2) Flora Jane Ellison 1881-1917; (3) Lewis Edgar Ellison 1883-1901; (4) Alexis Okey Ellison 1887-1940. Submitted by Marie Reynolds (Granddaughter)

EDGAR ALLEN "BUD" PARSONS

Edgar Allen "Bud" Parsons, son of James and Celia Parsons of Foster Ridge and Parchment Valley, Jackson County, was born in 1920 in Akron, Ohio, and was graduated from Garfield High School. His first employment was at the Star Well Drilling and Machine Company as a stenographer, and he concurrently attended evening classes at the University of Akron. Two years later, in 1939, he was employed at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, doing similar work. At the time of entering the Army, he was head of the Factory Clerical staff.

Bud's Army training was first at an Infantry Replacement Training Center, and subsequently at The Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Georgia, where he was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant. He served in a rifle company, Company A, of the 272nd Infantry Regiment, 69th Infantry Division. This division is noteworthy primarily because it was the first division to link-up with the Russian Army, April 25, 1945, near Torgau, East Germany, during the final days of the Battle of Berlin. He has accepted several invitations to visit Russian counterparts of that link-up, in the Soviet Union as well as in the United States.

Following his Army discharge, he enrolled in the Graduate School, Cornell University, received his Ph.D. in Economics, and was appointed to the Cornell Faculty. In 1947, while a graduate student, he met Frances Evelyn Walker, of Saco, Maine. Frances had just moved to a new position in the Cornell Library from employment in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. They were married in the Sage Chapel, at Cornell, July 25, 1947.

Edgar "Bud", Celia, Cindy, Allen, Patty, Jeanne, and Frances Parsons, 1966

They have four children, Jeanne Elizabeth Parsons, born 1950 in Ithaca, New York; Allen Walker, born 1951 in Alexandria, Virginia; Celia Anne Parsons Bode, born 1955 in Arlington, Virginia; and Patricia Ellen Parsons Beyer, born 1959, in Arlington, Virginia.

In 1950, at the beginning of the Korean War, Bud changed his commission to the Air Force, and became employed in the Directorate of Intelligence in the Pentagon, Washington, D.C. This involved service in Korea, and other parts of the Far East.

He subsequently became employed in the Executive Office of the President, working on various national security studies concerned with nuclear weapons, countermeasures, and civilian and military mobilization.

In 1960, he was invited to join the Research Triangle Institute, Research Triangle Park, North Carolina, with responsibility to initiate, and to staff, the work of this new organization in Operations Research and Economics Research. Some projects involved work in other countries, including western Europe and the Middle East.

Frances' and Bud's oldest daughter, Jeanne, lives in Arlington, and is on the staff of the Appropriations Committee, U.S. House of Representatives; their only son, Allen, is an electrical engineer at IBM; their "middle" daughter, Celia, married Kim Bode of Atlanta, Georgia, and they have two sons, Kyle Luke, born May 23, 1985, and Casey Allen, born May 24, 1988 — Celia is more commonly called "Cindy" and teaches special education classes at Woodward Academy, College Park, Georgia; and their youngest child is Patricia Ellen, a toxicologist, who married Dr. Wayne Beyer, of Durham, North Carolina. FLORA JANE PARSONS

Flora Jane Parsons Kessel eldest daughter of Alexis Fink and Phoebe Casto Parsons. She was born May 4, 1850, at "Tight Squeeze" near Rockcastle, died October 1, 1932, is buried in Pleasant Hill Cemetery. On September 14, 1869 she married James Mason Kessel, son of Job Kessel, also a pioneer settler of the County. She was a member of one of the pioneer families of Jackson County, her great grandfather, Captain William Parsons, being the first settler at Ripley, and her grandfather, William Parsons, being the first person born at Ripley.

Flora Jane Parsons

James and Flora Jane settled and resided in the Pleasant Hill Community during the long span of their married life, which was unbroken until the death of James July 26, 1916. They were the parents of eleven children and she became the stepmother of three small children, which she cared for and reared as her own, and who knew no other mother but her.

In her early girlhood she was converted and joined the United Brethren Church at Barnett's Chapel on Thirteen, where her membership remained until her marriage. After her marriage she moved her membership to the Pleasant Hill Methodist Episcopal Church, South where she spent her life in service to the Church, her family, and her community.

She was truly a typical pioneer woman. She was an expert in carding wool, also a fancy knitter, tatting, like most persons of her time. She could use the spinning wheel or loom for the benefit of the family, with ease, and could prepare a meal for the whole countryside in short order, as was, sometimes occasioned by a quarterly Church meeting, log rolling, or a houseraising. Quite often in bygone days the sound of her horse's hoofs could be heard over the hills and through the valleys, as she was hurrying to the bedside of a sick person. The night was never too dark, the weather too rough, nor the distance too great for her to go to see the sick and administer to their needs.

Her noble life as a mother in the rearing of her splendid family of children has seldom been equalled in anyone's memory. The grandchildren of "Grandmother Jane," as she was familiarly known, too are among the most outstanding men and women of the present day, among whom we find doctors, lawyers, teachers, public officials, farmers, and leaders in all phases of activity for betterment of the county, state, nation and mankind. This enviable position of being at the head of a family that has rendered such a remarkable service in every respect speaks more for her good, upright, and outstanding life than man can write. She said of herself, "I have tried to pattern my life after the little bit I've been able to learn out of Scriptures, and by applying it to myself." Each day of her life she always spoke a kind word, did a noble deed, or rendered a Christ-like service. Submitted by Mrs. Marie Bibbee Boswell

FRED AND GEORGIA PARSONS

We the grandchildren of Fred and Georgia Parsons wish to enter their names in the History of Jackson County. We still remember pleasant childhood memories of summers spent on their farm.

Although we don't know just when the Parsons' and Williams came to this country, we do know they lived in the Frozen Camp area of Jackson County since before the Civil War.

Our grandfather told us of his father, Jesse Parsons, who, as a child, hid in the cemetery at Frozen Camp to watch a battle of the Civil War in the field below. Our great-grandfather, Henderson Williams was a confederate soldier, and is buried in the Frozen Camp Cemetery.

Our grandfather was Fred D. Parsons, son of Jesse A. Parsons and Molly V. Humphrey Parsons. Our grandmother was Georgia Anna Williams, daughter of Henderson and Dorcas Rhodes Williams.

Fred and Georgia were married September 14, 1902 at Little Creek in Jackson County. Following their marriage, they bought a farm on Wiblin Run where they farmed and raised cattle for most of their lives.

They had ten children: Milford (1903-1987), Bernice (1905-1980), Royce (1906-1983), Irene (1908 -), Chester (1910-1975), Myrta (1912-1929), Vera (1917 -), Woodrow (1919 -), an unnamed infant (1922-1922), and Nadean (1923 -).

In 1948 Fred and Georgia retired and moved to the old Cottle school (which he remodeled) at the bottom on Ball Hill on Route 33 in Roane County. There he operated a small grocery store for the remainder of his years in the area.

Fred D. and Georganna (William) Parsons

Of the surviving children; two daughters, Irene and Vera, and one son, Woodrow, live in Ohio. The youngest daughter Nadean Parsons Miller still resides in the old Cottle school house.

Part of the original farm on Wiblin Run is still owned by the children of the eldest daughter, Bernice Parsons Deems.

While many of Fred and Georgia's 29 grandchildren are scattered around the country, most of us still consider our roots to be in Jackson County and return as often as possible. Submitted by Joan Deems Rebholz

THE GARLAND PARSONS

Celia Parsons (born December 15, 1890; died April 16, 1946) and James N. Parsons (born May 24, 1890; died September 16, 1981) moved in 1915 from their home on Foster Ridge, about two miles west of Parchment Valley, to Akron, Ohio. Their home was on the land of James' father, Alexis Trotter Parsons (born February 27, 1859; died April 4, 1944) and mother, Nora Florence Battrell Parsons (born August 4, 1864; died April 27, 1912). James' parents are buried at Foster Chapel.

Celia grew up in Parchment Valley. Her father was George William Parsons (born June 3, 1858; died March 10, 1907); and her mother was Adelaide Evelyn Casto Parsons (born April 3, 1857; died winter of 1912). Celia's parents and grandparents are buried in Mt. Moriah churchyard. Celia's father, George William, taught school for a time. The family farmed, and with the children, seven girls, operated a general store with a post office, and a second store and post office at Rockcastle.

Celia's sisters, in order of birth, were Rosa, who married Della J. Parsons from Rockcastle (born 1884, died 1961) and moved to Columbus, Ohio, where their descendants from two sons, Marion, and Harvey now live; Luticia "Louie" who married Carl Lewis, and died shortly after giving birth to Thelma Luticia Lewis, born October 9, 1904 (Thelma married Troy Everett Kessel born October 8, 1904, and one of Thelma and Troy's children, Thelma Eloise Kessel, born August 14, 1926 now owns most of the George and Adelaide Parsons homestead in Parchment Valley where the sisters lived their childhood); Frederica, who married Odus McCrady, an operator and superintendent of gas and oil wells in West Virginia; Beatrice, born October 28, 1888, died February 3, 1951, married Hollie B. Kay, parents of Olive, Monroe, Adelaide, Virginia, and Hollie B. Kay, Jr., who was killed in Italy in World War II; Celia; Georgia, born September 13, 1892, died November 30, 1984, unmarried and with major responsibility for Thelma Lewis' care; and Gracia "Doll" who married Willis Dilley of Niles, Ohio, no offspring.

James and Celia were distantly related, as both are descendants of Charles Parsons (born 1745; died November 4, 1823) and Charles' first wife, Elizabeth Chesnut, whom he married in 1764, in Maryland. James' lineage goes back to the first son of that marriage, William Lowther Parsons, (born July 24, 1769; died October 10, 1839). William married Susan Fink in 1786, and one of their offspring was William Parsons II, (born August 20, 1806; died January 27, 1892), who married Susannah Bonnett (born 1807; died February 7, 1863) in 1826. One of their children was John Nelson Parsons (born March 1, 1831; died February 13, 1912), who became the father of Alexis Trotter Parsons, the father of James Nelson Parsons.

Celia's father, George William Parsons, was the son of Hiram Parsons born December 8, 1825, died February 5, 1913 and Luticia C. Morrison. Luticia died April 2, 1880. Their children were George William, James M., Joseph, Spicer, Demmie, Della, and Minnie. Hiram's father was George (Curly) Parsons, and Hiram's mother was Fanny Woodruff before her marriage, March 1, 1827. The parents of George (Curly) Parsons were George Parsons, born 1780, death date unknown, and Mary (Polly) Sleith who married December 23, 1801 in Harrison County, West Virginia. This ancestor of Celia's, George, born in 1780, is the brother of Celia's husband's ancestor, William Lowther, born July 26, 1769, died October 10, 1839. Both brothers were the offspring of Charles Parsons, born 1745 in Maryland, died November 4, 1823, and his first wife, born Elizabeth Chesnut.

Alexis Trotter Parsons fathered nine children, as follows: Mary Etheleen (Walters) born 1883, died 1949; Emily (Simmons) born 1885, died 1970; William Everett born 1887, died 1955; James Nelson born 1890, died 1981; Susan V. (Winland) born 1892, died 1978; Margery Alice (Parrish) born 1894, died 1970; Anna B. (Casto) born 1896, died 1976; Sarah Alma "Babe" Parsons born 1896, died 1980; and Alexis "Lex" (Howe) born 1903, and living in Florida.

Before Celia and James Parsons moved to Akron, in 1915, they had two children, born at Foster Ridge, George Trotter, born July 17, 1911, and Garland Carl, born July 20, 1914. In Akron, two more children were born; Evelyn Catherine born February 6, 1917; and Edgar Allen "Bud" born January 7, 1920. They took in boarders, mostly relatives from the Ripley area, and "Jim" worked in various rubber factories. They separated in 1930, with all the children staying with their "Mom."

The education feasible for James and Celia was roughly equivalent to eight grades. The school was one room. Nevertheless, they were well-informed, read extensively, and imparted a love of learning and reading to their children. Rural Jackson County families frequently hosted "recitations" at which memorized poems provided the main entertainment.

As Celia's eyesight failed, she retained many poems in memory. On many occasions, she entertained family and neighbors with her recitations. Among many poems were, "The Face On The Bar-Room Floor," "Dan McGrew," "Asleep At The Switch," "Fair Ines," "The Dying Soldier," and Poe's "Annabel Lee," and "The Raven."

Celia died of stroke complications in 1946, age 56, and is buried in Greenlawn Cemetery, Akron. James died in Florida, age 91 years.

The 1989 status of James and Celia's children is as follows: George Parsons, a championship golfer, retired from Goodrich as Marketing Manager of the Plastics Division, and is living in Florida; Garland is owner and manager of Pine Valley Golf Course in Wadsworth, Ohio; Evelyn, widowed since 1980, lives in Arlington, Virginia, and travels extensively, visiting Philip in California, and Mel in England; and Edgar "Bud" is a retired professor/research director, and lives in Chapel Hill, North Carolina with his wife Frances.

Brought to Akron when he was about one year of age, Garland was educated in the Akron public schools, graduating from Garfield High School in the depths of the depression. He was an excellent golfer, and captain of the Garfield High golf team. This skill he developed while caddyding.

Garland has always been associated with golf courses. He started as a caddy, progressed to greenskeeping, to managing the Municipal Golf Course at the City of Akron, and for several years also managed the Akron Rubber Bowl. In the 1950s, he bought a farm that he converted into Bath Golf Course, and operated that course with his family, for some twenty years. After selling that course, he purchased Pine Valley Golf Course in Wadsworth, Ohio, which he and his family now operate.

In World War II, Garland served with the 82nd and the 13th Airborne Divisions, in the European Theatre.

Garland Parsons family

Garland married, in 1943, Dorsalene Darnell, an Executive Secretary at Firestone, and they have two children, Garland Carl "Gary" born April 19, 1945; and Janis, born October 18, 1947. Gary married Elaine Weygandt born February 8, 1951, and they have two children, Abigail, born January 31, 1977, and Garland Carl, born May 2, 1979. Janis married Robert Nilson, born October 3, 1947, and they have one child, Charles Nilson, born July 21, 1974. Garland's golf courses are family affairs, with Dorsalene and the children sharing in the work and making possible their success. Submitted by Edgar A. Parsons and George Parsons

GUY WILLIAM-PEARL (WILLIAMS) PARSONS

Guy William Parsons and Pearl Alice Williams were married November 13, 1916 and set up housekeeping in the Alexis Chapman and Minnie Myrtle Flowers Parsons homestead at Oak Hill. They were farmers and Guy supplemented their income by working for neighboring farmers and on the U.S. 21 highway. Later in life, he did carpenter work, and during World War II, worked at a war plant in Dunbar.

Guy William was forced to quit school at the age of nine, and assumed the care of his family after the untimely death of his father, Alexis Chapman Parsons. Pearl Alice Williams moved with her family from Williams Mountain in Boone County to Salt Hill when she was a small child. The family wanted to escape the coal mining industry and become farmers.

An infant daughter, Birdie, was stillborn in April 1918, and on April 16, 1919, their daughter, Naomi Myrtle was born. Their son, Guy Sheridan, was born March 15, 1922. On January 16, 1933, another daughter, Janet Deloris was born.

Guy and Pearl were hard working frugal people whose main purpose was to assure their children a better life by acquiring higher education. To pursue that end they moved from the farm and purchased a small house in Ripley in 1932, to enable their children to attend the Ripley schools. Naomi entered Junior High School at that time. Naomi graduated from Ripley High School and Charleston School of Commerce, and worked from 1938-1946 in the Bank of Ripley. Guy Sheridan was graduated from West Virginia University in 1948 with a Master's Degree and taught at the University of Tennessee, later moving to Raleigh, North Carolina, where he eventually became Head of Dairy Extension, North Carolina State University. On January 17, 1929, Herbert was married to Opal Mae Lupardus. Opal was born December 25, 1911; one of five children born to Ezra and Amma Lupardus of Roane County. He owned land from the home place following the road to the present Baptist Camp and on the Given Road towards the Pleasant Hill Church. Lovell was one of the prime movers in the building of Ripley United Brethren (Calvary) Church corner of North and Court Streets. Served as a trustee of the church. Was a leader in roads and erection of a high school building in Ripley, and helped establish and promote the first telephone and electric power lines into his home community.

Soon after the death of his father, who was a charter stockholder in the Bank of Ripley, he purchased the father's stock and was made a director, later Vice-President and after Warren Miller, for many years served as president of the Bank.

After many years on the Parchment farm, Mr. Parsons and his wife, Mary, decided to spend their evening years in Ripley. He purchased the George B. Crow home on Court Street in the early 1920s. His son, Lovell M. Jr., continued with the farm and lived there for many years before moving to Ohio.

Lovell and Mary's home as seen by a grandchild. It was a two story white house with a front porch and a sun room over the porch. There was a porch across the back of the house. This house had a partial basement along with crawl spaces under most of the house. As you entered the front, on the left was the parlor and stairs to the second story, on the right was the library and on down the hall to dining/sitting, bedroom, kitchen and stairways to the upstairs. Upstairs were two bedrooms and an apartment which the Dery family lived in for many years.

As you sat in the rocker on the back porch and looked out over the flower and vegetable gardens

L. M. Parsons house (back)

you could see a small house along Syeamore

Street, behind which was a barn where livestock was kept and the feed was stored in the loft. Behind the gardens was a chicken house and to the right was a corn crib. There were many shrubs and colorful plants around the yard. Beside the house on Court Street still stands a house Mr. Parsons built. Behind the chicken house were three lots on which an Adams-Winter family lived, one where some animals were kept at time and the lot along the creek where his youngest son built a house in the early 1930s. This house and lot is a block from the past and present Court House. Submitted by Ethlyn Parsons (West Virginia) and Frederick Wade Don Parsons III (Louisiana)

NELLIE B. PARSONS

This story was written by Nellie Board Parsons in 1973. It tells a story, common to West Virginia as well as Jackson County, of making a living and moving away from the county and state.

Nellis was the daughter of Charles Holly Board and Elizabeth Roush. Elizabeth was the daughter of Levi Roush and Sarah Rebecca Hyre. Charles Holly Board was a grandson of Nancy Parsons Casto Board, a half-sister of Capt. William Parsons who settled at Ripley. Thus Nellie Board and Lovell Parsons Jr. were distant cousins.

Nellie Lee Board was born at Frozen Camp on June 7, 1904.

"I attended High School at Ripley, West Virginia, staying with my uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roush. I graduated May 26, 1922. At that time one could have an elementary teaching certificate good for one year, with graduation from high school and six hours credit on the college level. I, with five other girls from Ripley, went to Huntington and attended Marshall College for a six weeks term. We received our certificates and were ready to teach the following year: 1922-23.

"I taught the home school at Frozen Camp. There were 44 pupils enrolled, eight grades and three of the boys were older than I. Selma (sister) was one of the pupils. My salary was $75 per month.

"The year 1923-24, I taught at Montana Mines, a mining town about five miles from Fairmont. I was not rehired so I spent the year (1924-25 in school at Huntington). I boarded with Della Brinker, a first cousin of my mother. Since the previous three summers had been spend attending summer terms, I had now accumulated enough credits to obtain a standard Normal Certificate good for five years.

"I taught at Mullens, West Virginia the year 1925-26. This is the southern part of the state at the head of the Guyandotte River. The salary was $125 which I thought was wonderful.

"That fall, I married Lovell Minor Parsons, Jr.; August 29, 1926) and taught at Parchment Valley School. (Son) L.M., III was born in October 1927, so I did not teach that year. However, the year 1928-29, I again taught at Parchment Valley, making five years teaching in West Virginia.

"Soon our family grew to include five sons and although I renewed my certificate, teaching was impossible. (What is unsaid is the canning of food, farming, raising chickens as well as boys. She did fill in at Parchment Valley and taught her boys when the school closed early one year.)

"Problems of educating the boys caused the family to decide to move to Ohio in April 1947.

"At that time there was a shortage of teachers. In March 1949, there was a vacancy at Baltimore, Ohio in the first grade classroom. I was asked to finish the year. I obtained an Ohio temporary certificate by sending in my old unused West Virginia one. The temporary was renewable with completion of a 3-hour course in education each year. When there was a vacancy at Thruston in the first grade, I applied. I was hired and taught there for 17 years. I renewed my certificate each year with various extension classes and correspondence courses.

"By 1958 I had accumulated enough hours so that residency was needed for a degree. With much cooperation from my husband, I went to Athens and attended a five-week term in 1958 and a 10-week term in 1959, graduating that summer (summa cum laude). I was very proud. I was 55 years old but I had my degree and had put myself through college.

"After Thurston and Baltimore consolidated the first grades were all sent to Baltimore. I taught one year. Health problems indicated it was time to retire. I had taught a total of 23 years and three months.

"I do not feel old (this was written in 1973). I think I have filled my life full as I could with service to my family and community. I leave a legacy of five fine sons with beautiful families.

"God has been good.

Nellie Board Parsons died May 10, 1978

OKEY JOHNSON PARSONS

OKEY JOHNSON PARSONS, the 11th child and seventh son of Alexis Fink and Phoebe Casto Parsons, was born December 3, 1867, died June 7, 1959, and is buried in Mt. Moriah Cemetery. He married Nora Casto January 7, 1892. She was born May 5, 1871, died September 2, 1955, and also is buried in Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

Three children were born of this union: Odie Mae, Clara Ava and Goldie Glenva.

Many men are known by the business that they follow rather than by their name. Okey Johnson was a farmer and owned a farm on Parchment. He visited folks in sickness or misfortune with words of wisdom, ministered to them in time of need, gave them good advice when they sought it, and was a friend to all at all times.

The story was told in 1954 in one of the Charleston newspapers that "Uncle Oke" as a young man rode a horse to Charleston to see a young lady that he wanted to know better. His boyhood friend, O.J. Morrison, kidded him about it as he passed through Kenna. Morrison had opened his first store there a few months before. Upon arriving in Charleston, after 40 miles of mud and his three gaited mare losing two shoes, he put his horse in a livery stable, checked into Charleston's best hotel, the Ruffner, and in due time called on his lady love. For the evenings entertainment they decided to go to a gypsy fortune teller.

As they were leaving the fortune teller, the gypsy's hand caught him to the sleeve. "Kind sir," said the gypsy, "If it be your wish, for one dime I will see that you'll never have a toothache in your life." Uncle Oke stopped to consider. A dime was a lot of money in those days. It took a lot of hard work on a farm to make a dime. Still, a toothache usually cost more. Well, anyway he thought, why not? This was his first big fling in the city. He gave the gypsy a dime. And the woman, bold and dark, reached over and kissed him on the mouth in a deep embrace. It was almost more than the country boy could take and his arms just dropped to his side while his lady friend stared in horror. Needless to say, despite his pleading, the Charleston belle said she never wanted to see him again.

Uncle Oke road back to Parchment Valley the next day vowing to never again visit Charleston. And he never did!

Time heals all wounds and it wasn't long until Uncle Oke met a pretty country girl named Nora Casto. They had three daughters who are named above. Uncle Oke never visited Charleston again. He said if he could find the young gypsy woman again he would give her a $50 bill since everything had turned out so well. Because at the age of 87 he had never had a toothache and still had all his own teeth. Submitted by Charles M. Jones

ORTON DANA PARSONS

ORTON DANA PARSONS was the 13th child, ninth son, and youngest child of Alexis Fink and Phoebe Casto Parsons. He was born April 13, 1873, died December 26, 1957, and is buried at the East Akron/Greenlawn Cemetery in Akron, Ohio.

His first marriage was to Georgia Unrue and two sons, Harry and Clyde, were born to this union. Orton Dana then married Johnney Dove Unrue. Three children, Orpha, Norman and Willard were born of this marriage. Johnney Dove Parsons was born June 3, 1872, died December 13, 1962, and is buried at the East Akron/Greenlawn Cemetery in Akron.

Orton Dana and Johnney Dove Parsons moved from Parchment Creek to Akron in 1909 taking Clyde, Orpha, Norman and Willard. Orton became a policeman for the Goodyear Rubber Company in 1920, a deputy sheriff in 1926, and began working for Akron City in 1930. He retired sometime in 1946. He had a beautiful voice and could sing and play different musical instruments. It was said he was a good businessman and as a public official never passed up an opportunity to help his fellow man. Orton Dana Parsons died as a result of being hit by an automobile December 22, 1957. Submitted by Donald H. Graven

RAYMOND PARSONS

Raymond Parsons (1909-1983) was the second of three children born to Otmer and Lelia (Hyre) Parsons of Frozen Camp. Raised in poverty and hard work, his love for learning began in a one room schoolhouse that was across the road from the Old Mill Creek Baptist Church.

He fought many obstacles to attend high school in Ripley. Because he lived so far away, he moved in with his grandparents David and Sarah Ann (Roush) Hyre. From there, he walked the remaining four miles into town.

In 1927, he began medical school at Athens, Ohio. When the stock market crashed in 1929, he returned home to help his family survive. It was during this time that he accepted a job teaching in a one room school on Joe's Run Road. He remarked once that, before he retired, he had students who were the grandchildren of those first students.

In the late 1930s, he returned to college at Marshall to complete his undergraduate degree. He then moved to Maryland where he taught at the District Training School for who were then labeled "criminally insane children." It was while he was working there that he was called into service in the Army.

Raymond Parsons

Upon his return home to Frozen Camp, he married Bettie Lou Wolfe (1922-1980), daughter of Early Gay and Crystal (Cook) Wolfe. They had four children, Barbara born 1948, Cheryl born 1950, David born 1952 and Lella born 1957.

In 1958, he took a leave of absence from his teaching job and moved the entire family to College Park, Pennsylvania to complete his master degree in Physics at Pennsylvania State University. While there, he surprised neighbors by shoveling snow under his mobile home. They soon discovered that snow was a good insulator, and actually keep the trailer warmer.

Returning home, he settled into his lifestyle of teaching by winter and farming by summer. One summer, however, he accepted a job at Union Carbide in South Charleston. The long drive, high stress, and health problems that followed soon convinced him to return to the teaching profession. For, although, it was less money, teaching was the life he loved.

He remained a teacher at Ripley High School until his retirement in 1974. But he still remained a teacher. People repeatedly sought him out for his advice and opinions. Submitted by Lella J. Parsons Miller

WILLIAM PARSONS I

William Parsons I, it is reported, came to the eastern shore of Maryland about 1723-1725. Years of research by family members have not produced authoritative information regarding his life. Nellie Board Parsons reported in 1973 that our earliest ancestors in America were three Parsons brothers, Thomas, William and Solomon. We know that Thomas, Sr. had four sons and two daughters. William is believed to have had two sons, Charles and Joseph, who were born in Queen Anne's County, Maryland in 1745 and 1755 respectively.

Although little is known of William's life, posterity has left a few references to his activity. He is shown in Early Colonists of Maryland as coming to Maryland in 1723, not 1725 as has frequently been reported. In Magruder's Maryland Abstracts, Chapter III, William Parsons teste to the will of George Smith, Sr., Worcester County, Maryland. The will is dated July 27, and proved August 23, 1775. The Daughters of American Colonists Linage Book states William Parsons died in 1778, and lists Charles Parsons as his son.

Joseph Parsons, William's son, in his pension declaration made in 1834, states he was born in 1755 in Queen Anne's County, Maryland and that when he was seven or eight years of age he removed to either Augusta or Rockingham County, Virginia and later to Buchannon Fort in Lewis County in 1776, and was living there when he entered the service. It seems reasonable to believe that William Parsons I brought his family to Virginia about 1763 and lived there until about 1776. Years of research has not determined the name of William's wife.

Some family members have reported that William Parsons I came from England. Some evidence exists that this could be true since at least two William Parsons' came to the eastern shore of Maryland about 1725. Another member of the family has published that according to tradition William Parsons left Prussia on account of religious persecution, first came to the Netherlands, and later to Maryland. It has been reported that William I had a third son, Thomas. There was a Thomas Parsons, Sr. who was prominent in pioneer Virginia and he could have been a brother to William but we do not have any proof of the relationship. Submitted by A. Chapman Parsons

WILLIAM PARSONS II (PART I)

William Parsons II was the eldest son of Charles Parsons, Sr., (1745-1823), who was the eldest son of William Parsons I, who it has been reported came to the eastern shore of Maryland about 1723-1725. William Parsons II has by tradition been referred to as William Lowther

Log home (formerly on Parchment), now on Route 34

Parsons, and most of the family records and local historical society journals have used the name William Lowther Parsons. However, the use of the name has not been authoritatively established and he signed his name William Parsons.

William Parsons was born July 24, 1769 in Queen Anne's County, Maryland on the eastern shore, the first born of Charles Parsons and Elizabeth Chestnut. He moved with his father and grandfather to Augusta or Rockingham County, Virginia about 1763 and later to the South Branch of the Potomac River, and still later to Randolph County and Fort Buchannon.

It has been difficult to research this family since few early records were kept, or have been destroyed over the years. Dates of marriages and births and deaths are elusive or non-existent. Many records have been transferred by word of mouth and by traditional family lore.

William Parsons II married in 1786 Susan Fink, the daughter of Henry Fink, a noted Indian fighter. It has been reported that William Parsons II came to Warth's Bottom (1790-1793), with his family, and father, Charles', family. He is thought to have moved to the vicinity of the present site of Ripley about 1801, cleared some land, and built a cabin on the bank of Mill Creek. It has been reported that he and his family lived in a hollow sycamore tree before a cabin was erected. His name first appeared on Kanawha County Tax Records in 1801. It has been written that he moved to Sycamore Creek one mile east of the present site of Ripley. On January 26, 1806 he was granted 92 acres of land bordering the John Swan Grant on Sycamore Creek. On June 11, 1811 he was granted 100 acres on Sycamore Creek which shared a boundary with his father, Charles Parsons. William Parsons was granted other acreage on Parchment Creek and at Frozen Camp.

During his early years in the vicinity of Ripley and Jackson County, it is reported that he may have not owned a horse but may have owned a cow. He raised corn, obtained salt from a site near Charleston and hunted and fished for the balance of the family's food and clothing. During the War of 1812 he recruited a company of soldiers and marched to Norfolk, Virginia where many of his men became sick with cabin fever. William Parsons II gained a Captaincy in the Sixth Regiment, Virginia Militia and a marker was dedicated in his memory July 30, 1977 at his grave site in the Upper Mill Creek Cemetery at Frozen Camp by the Lord Calvert Chapter of the Daughters of 1812. WILLIAM PARSONS II (PART II)

T. Clayton Parsons stated in his Genealogy of the Parsons Family updated that Captain "Billy" Parsons led a very busy life and was public spirited in the settling of this new frontier. He appointed in 1807 by the County Court of Mason County as one of three persons to help lay out and mark off the Point Pleasant and Clarksburg Turnpike. When the first "Circuit Superior Court of Law and Chancery" was held in Ripley in 1831 by Lewis H. Summers, Judge, 19th Circuit of the 10th Judicial District of Virginia, Captain Billy was named Tip-Staff and Crier by the Judge since to sheriff had yet been appointed. It is reported that during the decade beginning in 1820, Captain Billy contracted to cut out a bridle path from Letart, Ohio by the way of Ripley, Reedyville, and New California (Spencer), to the mouth of Steer Creek on the Little Kanawha River. This bridle path now is what is known as Route 33.

Captain William Parsons was one of the many daring frontiersmen, who along with his father, pushed into the settlements on the Ohio River after the battle of Point Pleasant, which made the land more safe from Indian attacks. He witnessed the formation of Kanawha County in 1788, Mason County in 1804, Jackson County in 1831, and was an active participant in local, state and national affairs of the day.

William Parsons II (Captain Billy) was born July 24, 1769 and died October 10, 1839. He first married in 1786 Susan Fink, and as near as it can be established, they were parents of seven children: Henry, John Fink, Martha, Hannah, Susan, William III, and Charles, an infant, who along with his mother died at birth. They were both buried at the site of the old settlers cemetery at Ripley. It is reported they were buried in the northwest corner of the cemetery; however, the graves can't be of the cemetery; however, the graves can't be located.

Captain Billy married second February 28, 1809. Elizabeth Nancy Walker in Harrison County. They were parents of nine children as follows: Mary, Travis, Ann, Jerusha, Elizabeth, George Walker, Caroline, Margaret Jannette and Lafayette.

Henry Parsons, the eldest child, was born at Fort Buchannon. He married June 6, 1823 Lavina Turner, born 1801. Their children were: Washington, born 1824, died 1895, married Margaret Custer; Solomon, born 1826, married Lucinda Deweese; Elizabeth, born 1828; Amanda, born 1833, married January 8, 1857 Samuel Deweese; Evans, born 1835, married first June 15, 1869, Mary Ann Shamblin (a widow), and second December 30, 1882 Ruth Sheets; Emily born 1837, married January 1, 1859 Alfred Deweese; Charles C., born April 10, 1840 and died June 5, 1911, married January 4, 1863 Alice C. Moore, born August 10, 1838 and died April 10, 1918. He was a private during the Civil War. She was the daughter of Andrew and Rebecca Waugh Moore from Pocahontas County. Submitted by Rick Parsons

REV. WILLIAM BALLARD PARSONS

The Reverend William Ballard (W.B.) Parsons, born July 5, 1850, in Stonelick, Jackson County, was the first child of John (1830) and Mary (Freeman) (1832) Parsons. On October 14, 1869, W.B. Parsons married Parthena Harper, born August 9, 1853, in Roane County. Parthena was the daughter of Enoch and Elizabeth (Rhodes) Harper of Roane County. Of that union, 11 children were born: Artemetia, 1872, Laverne, 1873, Dora, Owens, Mary Jane, 1877, Margaret, 1878, John, 1879, Daniel A., 1880, Ed, 1882, Eva, 1883, and Perry, 1887.

At one time, W.B. and Parthena owned over 220 acres of land in Kenna, Jackson County. In 1916, W.B. founded and dedicated the Hickory Grove M.E. Methodist Church in Kenna. Rev. Parsons donated property, financing and supervised the building of the church. There is a story that before the church was completed, he preached under the hickory trees on the site where the church now stands.

W.B. died July 20, 1920 and is buried in the cemetery behind his church. His marker reads, Rev. W.B. Parsons, July 5, 1850, to July 20, 1920, Founder and Builder of HICKORY GROVE CHURCH. Parthena lived on for some 11 years, and in later life she was crippled by arthritis and spent her time in a wheelchair. She followed W.B. in death on April 19, 1931. W.B.'s descendants are filled with the same spirit and determination he lived. His granddaughters Ezzil (Smith) Gregory and Cumi (Smith) Payne were instrumental in assuring that the Hickory Grove Church would continue to be a source of comfort and history to his descendants and the community he served.

WILLIAM K. PARSONS

Bill and Hilda Parsons

It was a hot day, August 13, 1932, and it was my father's 32nd birthday. Mother was going to have fried chicken for dinner for my dad, and she was busy taking care of my two older brothers, Lovell M. III and Charles Franklin. Mother went into the chicken yard to pick out two chickens that dad would kill and then she would prepare a great dinner. I know the dinner would have been great, because in the coming years, she cooked many great chicken dinners, but on that day, a chicken dinner had to be postponed because that was the day I first came into Jackson County. In the years to come Dad and I celebrated our birthdays together on our farm, and two other brothers followed me, Roger Lee in 1936 and Ronald Gene in 1937.

The five of us grew up on our Parchment Valley farm and went to a one-room school until the ninth grade and that year we moved to Ohio. I have many happy memories of our farm and the fun we had going to Grandmother's and Granddad's in Ripley. (Mary King Parsons and Lovell M. Parsons, Sr.) and Granddad (Charles Holly Board) and Grandmother, (Elizabeth Roush) home on Frozen Camp.

After moving to Ohio and finishing high school and attending Ohio University, I went into the U.S. Army and spent two years on the west coast, but the memories of Ripley and Parchment Valley still remain.

Mother did a history of our family (Genealogical History of the Lovell Parsons Family - 1745-1973) and my roots are deep in Jackson County. She did a lot of research and much love went into our history. She had a unique way of adding family stories that made the dates and ancestors real.

My family record was continued in the Family Record of Alexis Fink Parsons and Phoebe Casto Parsons 1982. This was printed for the 150th birthday of the town of Ripley, West Virginia, and we saluted our fore fathers.

In 1955, I went to Havre de Grace, MD, for the wedding of my brother, Charles to Christine Montville, and at that time I met Hilda Marie Tarbert. In December 1956 Hilda became my bride. We have four children: William David, Jacquelyn Virginia, Charlotte Marie and Darryl Hamilton. All four are married, David to Robin Bickett; they have one son, Danny; Jackie to Garry Shields, Jr. They have two sons, Garry, III and David; Charlotte to Frank Wood III. They have two daughters, Amanda and Carolyn; Darryl to Sandra Erickson; no children to date.

At this time, I live in Highland, Maryland with my wife, Hilda, and I work for the Corps of Engineers in Washington, D.C. and as time will allow I go "home to Jackson County."

As my mother said, "God has been good."

THE AMERICAN FLAG (1795-1818):

15 white stars on a blue field and 15 stripes (8 red and 7 white).

This flag figured in many stirring episodes, and inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner."

The NSUSD of 1812 Emblem was provided by Mrs. Vencill and her sister, Kathryn W. Lynch, Ph.D., direct descendants of the soldier.

The stately granite monument in the cemetery bearing the names: George Walker Parsons and Capt. William Lowther Parsons, was placed there by children of George Walker Parsons and Mary Elizabeth Asbury-Parsons: The Honorable Judge William Asbury Parsons, Dr. Alexander Ruthven Parsons, of Spencer, and Mrs. Mary Parsons-Parish. (Information supplied by a researcher).

William Lowther Parsons was one of the early settlers in Jackson County; first married (1786) Susan Fink, daughter of Henry Fink. Parsons came from Buckhannon Fort around 1800; first lived at Warth Bottom; about 1801 he built a cabin "on the bank of Mill Creek." Here his wife and infant died in 1807 and according to researchers, were the first persons buried at Ripley, in the Old Cemetery-Ripley Graveyard.

WILLIAM QUINCEY PARSONS

WILLIAM QUINCEY PARSONS was born December 28, 1848. He was the first child and first son of Alexis Fink and Phoebe Casto Parsons. He was born at home on Parchment Creek and attended Mt. Moriah Church. William Q. married Minerva Jane Sayre April 11, 1866 and they changed residences many times during their married life but always in the general vicinity. They had homes on Eighteen Creek, Wolf Creek and lived on the Charlie Kessel place on Parchment Creek close to the Mt Moriah Church. This was their last home.

Their family was born at different locations. The youngest daughter, Georgie Alice, was born in the last home on Parchment.

William Q. was a good farmer and owned a threshing machine which he also used to grind wheat to make flour for his family and others. He was of average size and medium height and it is said he and his fourth son, Hollie Howard, looked very much alike.

It was told that William Q. always voted the Republican ticket, the reason being, he said was because you always had to hide the horses from the Confederate Army. It is also said that the only two Republicans of Alexis Fink's family were William Q. and Alexis Chapman. I am told that this caused some pretty hot family political arguments over the years.

William Q. and Minerva Jane were the parents of nine children: Nancy Jane, Joel Weston, Dora Malinda, Dallas Walton, Alexis Asbury, Irene May, Hollie Howard, Mary Dove, and Georgia Alice. Several of these children were teenagers when their father died on Parchment Creek June 6, 1906 at the age of 57. He is buried at Mt. Moriah Cemetery. Submitted by Eloise Parsons

BARBARA ANN (ADAMS) PELLICO

My brother probably saved my life even before I was born. But first, let me tell you who I am, where I've been and a little bit about what happened to me while I was there.

I was born Barbara Ann Adams on November 24, 1945, at Kaylong, Mason County, West Virginia. My great, great, great grandfather was Christian Plants, born in Germany in 1762. My great, great grandfather was Jacob Plants, Sr., born in Washington County, Pennsylvania in 1803. My great grandfather was John Plants, born in Mason County in 1830 and my grandfather was Theodore Hayes Plants, born in Mason County, West Virginia, in 1876. My mother is Avis Carol Plants Adams, born June 7, 1915, Mason County, and my father was Raymond O. Adams, born in Mason County on May 10, 1905. The events surrounding my birth were traumatic to the say least.

On September 7, 1945, just 78 days before my birth, my sister Tharon Elaine Adams, born January 6, 1938, was struck and killed by a car on Route 62 in Mason County. She is buried in Suncrest Cemetery in Pt. Pleasant, West Virginia. My mother being in the latter months of her pregnancy started up the highway after learning that Tharon and her brother Jimmie, born February 20, 1935, were involved in an accident. As Mother left the yard, my brother Tommy, born December 28, 1943, and less than two years old, began crying for her so loudly that she turned and came back in the yard to care for him. Her suffering in the days ahead told her family she could not have continued her pregnancy had she gone on up the highway and witnessed the death and carnage that was there. So, it just may be that my brother's crying for his momma and bringing her back into the yard helped her to continue to carry me warm and protected so close to her heart until that cold and windy November morning when Dr. E. R. Keig said to my parents, "You have a daughter." My mother has often told me of her love for me, her only daughter, in a family of three children. I grew up in a household that was always filled with warmth and caring. My father was a barber in Pt. Pleasant and I can remember as a child visiting his shop and watching with great interest how well he did his work. The cost of a haircut was about 50 cents. The cost was 25 cents when my parents were married in 1933. Mother has told me that bread at that time was five cents a loaf and white beans were three pounds for a dime.

My first year of school was at Central Grade School in Pt. Pleasant. My teacher was Genevieve Butler. She taught us many things that were not in school books. One lesson was kindness to all living creatures. She made the lesson very plain to us by saying "If you must kill a bug of any kind, do it quickly, so it will not suffer." My schooling in Mason County ended when my father died of a heart attack on February 21, 1959, and my mother, Tommy and I moved to Jackson County where she was working at the Kaiser Aluminum Plant. My older brother Jimmie had graduated from West Virginia University and was working for the Social Security system.

I graduated from Ravenswood High School in 1963 and the following fall enrolled in West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon, West Virginia. Before the term was over, I married Robb Ritchie Williams from Jackson County and on November 5, 1964, we were blessed with the honor of being parents with the birth of a beautiful, sweet-natured little girl, Robin Risha. She filled our days with joy and was a delight to the lady she calls Granny, my mother, Avis (Peggy) Plants Adams Handley. Robin and I have always felt that Granny has been a guiding light in our life. She never failed to point out to us all the good there was in life and helped us to be strong in the face of some of life's reverses. Church and Sunday School were as important to us as was the food

Mrs. Daniel Cahan and Brittany

we ate and the clothes on our back is just one example of Granny's true teachings. She had received just such training from her mother, Mary Susan McKinney Plants, born in 1876 and Mary Susan had received it from her mother and especially from her grandmother Nancy Hicks McKinney, born 1831.

As a young girl in Pt. Pleasant I attended Trinity Methodist Church and as a young adult in Jackson County I attended the First Methodist Church in Ravenswood. I agree with Abraham Lincoln — a lot of what I am today I owe to the early Christian training I received from my parents.

From that cold, wintry day November 24, 1845, in Mason County, until today as I reminisce sitting in the sunshine of Miami, Florida, where I live with my husband, Eugene R. Pellico, I am grateful for my West Virginia roots. My husband and I often share our family histories with each other and though we come from very different backgrounds and countries, the basic tenets of our forefathers are very similar — love of God, family, and country. Gene was born in Oriente, Cuba, in 1930. His father and mother were from northern Spain and his father worked all his adult life in sugar mills. Gene came to the United States in 1952, served in the United States Army, and became a naturalized U.S. Citizen in 1961. While he longs for his native country where he has a brother and friends living still, he says the United States is his home, his Cuba is no more. He adamantly prefers the democracy of America! We who have been born and raised in this country should be thankful and ever-watchful lest we suffer the fate visited on other folks' homelands.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Pellico

Many events have taken place which space does not allow me to include. Just as with all my forefathers from 1762 until 1989, a total of 227 years, I find experiencing life with its joys and sometimes its sorrow, I am still proud and confident because of the rich heritage left me by those, who centuries ago, went before me sowing seeds of kindness toward each other with caring and love for their families and devoted patriotism for this country. If we look and listen carefully, we can see footprints and hear echoes of the past, which if we're sensitive can guide our paths today as well as tomorrow. SHIRLEY AND RITA PETTY

Shirley Sullivan Petty, son of Irvin and Emily C. Milhoan Petty, was born July 10, 1895 in a log home near Belleville on the Jackson-Wood County line. Shirley had nine brothers and sisters: Birchard Hayes, Earl B., Charles, Loren Tackett and Kendall

L.; sisters were Louella, Rose, Anna and Clara. Shirley was a large baby and was named for a prize fighter, John L. Sullivan. Shirley lived longer than anyone in his family. He was a student at Cherry Grove grade school when students did not use knives or forks. Lunch was taken to school by the student. After the first day of school he was asked, "How did you like school?" His reply, "Just fine! Only we didn't have any knives and forks." As a young boy he played baseball and in the winter liked to ice skate. In the evenings the family made popcorn balls and ate apples from their farm, which had been covered by straw or buried in the ground. He would help his parents with the farm work.

Shirley went to Akron, Ohio to work and got a job with Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. When war erupted, he came home to be with friends and go to France. Just before he was to leave, on May 16, 1918, he married Rita Kathryn Anderson. Also going to France was a cousin of Shirley's, John Petty. He was killed on the battlefield in France. They both served in the 32nd Infantry. Shirley was going near the front lines when he became ill and was taken to the hospital. He was grateful to be alive and back in West Virginia.

Shirley was a dedicated veteran and a member of World War I Vets, American Legion Post #118 of Ravenswood, Disabled American Vets and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1212 Parkersburg. He held offices for West Virginia War Vets, was Commander of the West Virginia Department and also held office in National World War I Vets. He was very patriotic and carried his large flag for miles. He was given a key to the city and made an honorary citizen in Chicago, Illinois, Dallas, Texas, Valley Forge, Virginia and Houston, Texas. The folks of Ripley looked forward to seeing him march in the 4th of July parade. He also marched in the Ravenswood parades and was honored in the Homecoming parades at Belleville in the 1980's, carrying his flag, "Old Glory." The folks there had a lot of love and respect for him.

Shirley and Rita had three children: Norma I., Donald Ray, and Robert "Bob" C. Norma was a World War II veteran. Don enlisted in the Marines, however, he had bad ear trouble. Robert is a retired National Guard Sergeant, was in the Korean War and served in Germany and the United States.

Shirley was a farmer, rural mail carrier, owner of S.S. Petty's General Merchandise at Belleville, West Virginia and assistant postmaster at Belleville for many years. He worked on the B&O Railroad in the 1940's. He was a long time member of the Mt. Zion Methodist Church, but in later years attended Ravenswood Baptist Church.

As an honored citizen, Shirley and Rita went to Florida to see the space ship which went to the moon. They were invited by the Washington, DC Space Administration to the Cape in Florida.

Shirley was ill and death took him on Tuesday, June 28, 1988, following Rita's death in 1984. At the end of his life he could not attend any more parades, but was given a full military funeral with many friends at his final resting place in the Ravenswood Cemetery. He enjoyed being an American with a lot of courage and love for his country and as a bright star his life was surely — "Let our lives shine." He lives in our hearts beyond the sunset.

Rita Kathryn Anderson, older child of Thomas (d. 1944) and Hannah Mills Anderson, born September 18, 1899 at Belleville, West Virginia. Rita had two brothers, Raymon and Rufus Anderson, died in the early 50's. A sister, Rachel, and a newborn sister died in February 1917. Rita was a great-granddaughter of Peter Anderson who served in the Revolutionary War and a granddaughter of Otis B. Anderson, a soldier in the Civil War. Peter had lived in Maryland and came to Belleville, Virginia in 1789. He became well-known in the area where he made his home.

Rita was a very good student in school and was given a teacher certificate in grade school at sixteen years of age. Certificates were usually not given until eighteen years of age. Being younger than some of the young men, her father thought best for her to go to business school which would earn her a business job. In 1918, she married Shirley S. Petty. When Shirley came back from France they lived in Akron, Ohio until Rita got homesick for West Virginia. Shirley was given a job by the post office as a rural mail carrier. Their daughter, Norma, was born January 1920. At the age of twenty-one Rita became ill with polio. She could not walk until she could be outside, so Shirley bought the Bailey farm near his parents. At that time she had a young son, Donald Ray. She improved in 1923 but it took a long time to get well enough to take a clerking job in Parkersburg, West Virginia post office. She worked at night to get experience and finally on February 4, 1931 was appointed postmaster at Belleville, West Virginia. She retired in 1968. During these years she had a third child, Robert Carol, in March 1933.

Rita wrote articles for newspapers and speeches for veterans to be given on special days. She was a member of the DAR, World War I Veterans Auxillary and the Army Mothers Auxillary. She traveled to state and national conventions many times with the postmaster and the World War I Vets. She gave humerous readings on programs in New York and Washington, D.C. She served as judge advocate for the Department of West Virginia Veterans.

Rita was gifted in arts and crafts and enjoyed fine needlework. She made rugs from bread wrappers and a hat from plastic materials. She could paint and studied family histories. She was a member of Belleville South Church.

Shirley S. and Rita K. Petty

It is a small wonder that one lady could find time to be an active hero when unable to move about in earlier days. She died January 10, 1984 and is buried in the Ravenswood Cemetery. At the end of her life she had outlived all of the Anderson members of the family. "We are like the flowers, we live, die and then go away", quoted Raymon Anderson in the 1940s. So we keep the faith and "Let our lives shine." Submitted by Norina Irene Petty and Don Petty

The Mountaineer, a weekly newspaper published in Ripley said, "Mr. Pfof's name was so closely associated with the Bank of Ripley that for many years to mention him was to think of the bank . . . He was one of its mainstays as an official and as a major stockholder. Mr. Pfof was a quiet, unassuming business man. His outstanding characteristic was a sympathetic heart and a generous hand for those that met with the reverses of life."

Mr. Pfof was born on Grasslick on Dec. 21, 1861, the son of William Marion and Cloah Koontz Pfof. He came to Ripley as a young man to work in the drug store owned by a Dr. Kidd. LLOYD PINNELL (PART I)

Our Pinnell line originated in Normandy, France, with various spellings of the name Pinnell (Pennell, Pannell, Pinel, Parnell, and Purnell) where there are records dating as far back as 59 AD. In the Roman occupation of Gaul, under Julius Caesar, the legions of Rome established a walled city near the present city of Poven, France. The fortified place was on top the highest ground in that city, and the Romans called it "Pinnellium", which in Latin means "on the peak", or at the top. They occupied the place for seven years before being driven out in 58 AD by the Franks, and their leader was known as the Duke of Pinnellium, later shortened to Pinnell, and still later to the French spelling of Pinel. Our name is mentioned in the Bible (Genesis, Chapter 32, Verse 30). Six members of the family are listed in the first volume of the Domesday Books, and extend back to William the Conqueror. This information was researched by Royall E. Pinnell in the "History of Pinnell and Royall Families".

Alcander C. Pinnell (1854-10/10/1923) married Dora Kessel, and were the parents of: Mary

William Perry Pinnell and Czrena A. W. Lloyd

Stella; Frederick Meredith, Lillie May Lewis; William Perry; Paul Mason; Walter A.; Otis Harpold; John Minton; and, Charles Delmer.

In her widowhood, Mother Isabella lived with them and died sixteen days short of her hundredth birthday.

Their children were: Owen Roseberry Lloyd (1/30/1870-12/1953, Blaine Memorial); and, William Lloyd Pinnell (1/15/1888-9/21/1967, Blaine Memorial). Owen and Lloyd were half-brothers. (See Pinnell, Lloyd, Hoffman, Kiser).

Lloyd, as a young man, was known as a fancy dresser, down to spats and cane, and he and Will worked in one of the large department stores as window dressers. Their Uncle Henry was a building contractor, and Lloyd became a master carpenter under his guidance. His future into building and highway construction was begun.

Lloyd married (1/09/1912) Olevia May Beckwith (9/23/1890-5/02/1976, Blaine Memorial), daughter of William Lewis Beckwith, (son of Lewis Beckwith and Sarah Deen Grancil Stewart of PA) and Lenora Ellen Sayre (daughter of George W. Sayre and Mary Jane Lewis — a direct descendant of General Andrew Lewis, Civil War, who is buried near Salem, Virginia).

Lloyd was a building contractor in Kansas City, Topeka, Detroit and Chicago, and built the first all-concrete building in Chicago. While he and his family were on vacation in Jackson County, he won the contract to build the UB Church in Ripley (now Calvary United Methodist), in 1925.

He was an avid sports fan, and his lifelong interest in baseball unfolded as a player and owner, then manager and umpire of post WWII Cottageville Club when adult county baseball was in full swing. As a young player, Dr. Roy Kessel remarked that Lloyd was the only man he ever saw who could hit a ball as hard as Babe Ruth.

Lloyd and Olevia and four children returned to Cow Run about 1927, and in 1932 moved into the new house (he designed and drew the blueprints) overlooking Cottageville, after the birth of their youngest child. It was the first house in Cottageville to have an indoor bathroom, and the first bathroom in the County to have colored, vitreous china fixtures.

Lloyd ventured into highway construction again, and formed a partnership with Marion Pfost in a lumber mill operation and construction company — Pinnell and Pfost. They did road work all over the State, a portion of Kanawha Boulevard, the grading of Stonewall Jackson High School in Charleston, and the grading of the Airport at Salisbury, Maryland. The construction part was sold in 1946, and the lumber business continued. Still later, Pinnell bought out Pfost, and son, William, and son-in-law, Marion Hogsett, joined him in the Company. Still later, the entire business was sold to JCo Lumber.

His activities took him into Hereford and swine farming, acres of corn and hay, and some of the most extensive strawberry fields in the area. Olevia grew the first boysenberries in the State. That, along with the strawberries, were trucked to markets in Charleston, Beckley, Akron and Columbus. Special packaging of prime berries went to Reeves Market in Charleston.

Coming out of the depression and into the war years, Olevia added to the family finances by raising thousands of chickens from the incubation stage to the adult birds, caponization of males, selling to the Charleston market. She also dressed birds for Reeves Market in Charleston, and for various customers in Ripley during the WWII meat shortage, when meat ration stamps had been exhausted.

During the war, Lloyd would raise the American flag every morning, and a service flag with three gold stars honoring their son and two sons-in-law who were serving in the US Navy.

Olevia had attended Brown school, Lee Normal School in Ripley, and Marshall College. She taught school in Wadestown and Hundred. She was a charter member of Order of Eastern Star, Cottageville Chapter #16, and attended the United Brethren Church. Her blonde curly hair wasn't touched with grey until she was nearly seventy, and she was noted for her graciousness and her beautiful flower gardens.

William Lloyd and Olevia Beckwith Pinnell

In the summer of 1952, Lloyd and Olevia honored their friends, neighbors and relatives by hosting the first annual pig roast and picnic, which evolved into the largest private gathering in the County. Each member of the family, from the youngest to the oldest, invited their guests. Olevia prepared gallons of iced tea and lemonade, and Lloyd provided the succulent pig from his herd of swine. The guests provided pot-luck "vittals" and it was a feast and fellowship fit for kings! The little girls, in their fancy dresses, tried to master the hula-hoop, and the boys played rough and tumble football in the front yard. The event was never rained out. The roasting work-party the evening before was managed by the younger crew, and was a happy prelude to the "big day". The whole hog, complete with the big red apple in its mouth and purple grapes for eyes, was roasted in huge cast-iron ovens at the farm of Margaret Cunningham, "Dude's" mother-in-law, and required all-night vigil. A bushel of tiny, new potatoes were boiled, scraped, and browned in butter and drippings. Charledean Cunningham Hutchison and husband, Carl, were part of the enterprise. It was reminiscent of the old-time play parties. The first pig was two hundred pounds of pure eating joy, and as the years progressed, and the crowds grew larger, so did the pig. In 1958, the guests numbered 250+. The picnic was discontinued in 1959. It is truly a grand and glorious memory.

Lloyd was a Master Mason, member of Order of Eastern Star. He will be remembered for his timeless efforts in getting a County hospital built — the Jackson General Hospital. He served as President of the Board of Directors, and Ripley City Council named a street at the facility for him. At an age when most men retire, in 1959, Lloyd and Olevia turned one of their prime farms into a housing development to accommodate the numbers of people flocking to the County to work at the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Plant, and named it Evergreen Hills Community. They were well respected in their community and county. They were good, responsible and considerate parents who loved their family and were loved and honored by their children: William Lloyd, Jr., (6/20/1913); Virginia Kathryn (1/02/15); Olevia "Dude" Beckwith (5/30/1918-1/15/1974, Otterbein); Roger Owen (7/14/1921-7/28/1979, Jackson Memorial Gardens); Joann May (12/09/1931). JACOB PLANTS

Christian Plants was born in Germany in 1762 and sailed for America about 1784. He settled in the hills of Washington County, Pennsylvania, perhaps choosing that site because the rolling hills, thick with virgin timber and lush green meadows, reminding him of his homeland across the sea. He fathered a family of ten children, but we only have genealogical outlines and family history on one, i.e., Jacob, Sr., the pioneer, born in Washington County, PA, in 1803 and died in Mason County in 1880. He and about sixteen members of his family are buried on a hillside overlooking Ten Mile Creek. This family burial ground is a part of an original track of land consisting of 500 acres that this great pioneer bought in 1849. In 1966, several members of Jacob's family, of which we have genealogical outlines on nine of his children, gave of their time and money to erect a large marble stone to mark the resting place of Jacob, Sr., and some members of his family. Mrs. R.L. Handley of Jackson County and a great granddaughter of Jacob heads up a family group that, for the past several years, have spent a day on portions of this 500 acre track visiting this burial ground as well as the birthplace of one writer of this article. Mrs. Handley's son, Thomas Adams, is a videographer and he has a great deal of family history to be shown on TV as members of this "talk and trek" group relive the days of their childhood and reminisce about stories that have been handed down through generations about the great pioneer, Jacob Plants.

Jacob Plants Sr

Much can be said for the patriotism of the children of Jacob. He saw five of his sons go to the battlefields of the war between the states. All were Union soldiers. Of the five who left for battle, only three returned. Jacob, Jr., died of fever near Memphis, Tennessee. Francis Marion, a very young man, was killed in action at Fisher's Hill in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia. John, the grandfather of the authors of this sketch was wounded at the battle of Cedar Creek on October 19, 1864. The other two sons, Christian and George, returned home unscathed. Thus, love of country was exemplified, just as was love for God, an outstanding trait among the fifteen children fathered by this great pioneer, Jacob. This fact is upheld by our knowledge of one son, our grandfather, John Plants, who sold his last milk cow to finish paying off an indebtedness on the local Methodist Church, Eddy Chapel, so it could be dedicated debt-free.

The purchase of such a large track of land, 500 acres, in 1849, as mentioned earlier, shows us this great pioneer was also perhaps a good businessman who saw the worth and value of the hillsides of deep, dark forests of hickory, white oak, poplar, ash, and pine trees. The fresh and clean waters of Ten Mile Creek that flowed through his acreage provided water for the stock he raised in meadows that were lush and green as he cleared the land.

He and his children felt a kindred spirit and had close binding ties as evidenced by the fact that as the children grew to adulthood and married, quite often land was cleared on this 500 acre track and they built their log house nearby, living and raising their families almost within the shadows of this great pioneer, Jacob Plants.

John, our grandfather, Jacob's third son, born in 1830, built the family homestead only two miles up Ten Mile Creek from his father's cabin. There he made his home and fathered twenty children, having three marriages. Theodore Hayes Plants, our father and grandfather, was one of the sons born there in 1876. His mother was Sarah Catherine Hoschar. Grandfather John was born July 10, 1830 and died December 7, 1896, and is buried in Eddy Chapel Cemetery.

We are a proud people, who for 224 years have walked with pride and dignity as we realized the blood of our forefathers still courses through our veins. From Christian Plants, born in Germany in 1762, to this great pioneer, Jacob Plants, Sr., and throughout a span of time covering eight generations in our family, we have felt the cause to rejoice because of the good heritage left to us by those whose footprints were left in the sands of time as they traveled the road of life ahead of us. MARY AND DORY PLANTS

Her name is so right for her. She was born Mary Susan McKinney on November 10, 1876, in Mason County, West Virginia. Mary was indeed a merry child with snappy black eyes that reminded one of the black-cyed susans that grew along the roadside near her birthplace. "Dory," the pet name she always called her husband after their marriage on September 29, 1894, was given the birth name of Theodore Hayes Plants, born October 15, 1876, also in Mason County. They "set up" housekeeping in a little log cabin near both the McKinney and Plants homesteads. Dory wrote one of his daughters, Avid Plants Adams Handley, and told her of the first meal his Mary had prepared after the wedding, describing in detail the fact that their table was a wooden box and their chairs were also wooden boxes, but before eating, they each bowed their heads and Dory asked a blessing on their food and on the life that was ahead of them, quite noteworthy for two 17 year olds.

Little did they realize that 49 years of married life lay ahead of them, along with six sons and six daughters. Their Plants garden must have looked empty in those early times of their marriage, but soon some Plants were seen sprouting and on May 2, 1895, Dell D. Plants was born. He is remembered for his many good deeds as he worked in later years with the American Legion. In World War I, he was wounded in the severe battle of the Argonne Forest before he returned home to marry Bertha Edwards and settle near "Mary and Dory's garden of Plants" to raise his own family.

One little boy seemed lonely in the garden and soon Wilber E. Plants was born on December 1, 1896. A sensitive and caring young man, his greatest ambition was to secure an education. This he accomplished in spite of a lack of finances by firing the furnace for the president of West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon to earn money toward his college tuition. We're certain his clothes sometimes showed patches as Mary plied the needle and thread late into the night to make her "college son" look presentable. In addition to teaching in elementary schools and being a railway mail clerk, after retiring he taught school in Pt. Pleasant as a substitute teacher. He was married to Opal Gorrell.

A garden with only two Plants! "Never," said Mary and Dory. On April 7, 1899, Owens was born. He was a farmer, construction worker and very active in church work and Republican politics.

A fourth little boy sprouted in this garden and they named him Russell Lee, born June 29, 1901. Russell was a kind and tender-natured child who at an early age became a Christian and felt the call to become a foreign missionary. In November 1928, he sailed for Egypt, the land of the famous Nile River, the mighty Sphinx and pyramids. Boasting only an eighth grade diploma from Eagle School in Mason County, he studied the Arabic language so he could speak to the people. Even yet today at the age of 85 years and a bed patient the past five and one-half years, he sings us beautiful hymns in Arabic. Russell married, on April 17, 1933, the former Grace Smith of Cortland, New York.

Mary and Dory were pleased with their garden of four "boy Plants" but yearned for a daughter and so on December 22, 1903, Adelia Marie was born and just so she'd have a playmate, Beulah Mae was born on May 23, 1906. Adelia Marie was not a real strong child and often suffered from illness, but being their first "girl Plants" and born so near Christmas Day, she was the "apple" of her four brothers eyes as well as Mary's and Dory's. When Beulah Mae was born, Adelia had a playmate. Beulah had a strong belief and faith in God and as a young woman found herself engaged in Home Missions work and was affiliated with the Pt. Pleasant Mission under the leadership of Miss Ocie England.

Their father, Dory, having been born into a family of 20 children, as well as Mary Susan, felt the desire and resulting happiness of rearing a large family.

On June 8, 1908, Virgil Ray was born and as a playmate for him, Mary's sixth and last son, Paul John Wilson, was born February 25, 1910. Virgil, lovingly nicknamed "Buzz" was a construction worker who, as a young boy, was shy and seemed happiest when roaming the hills near his home with his dog named Loud. Paul was a handsome lad with the snappy black eyes like Mary Susan and in later years was an insurance agent and realtor.

By now the garden was growing a little "lopsided," six "boy Plants" and only two "girl Plants." Mother Nature has a way of fixing everything just right and so four more "girl Plants" were added to the garden and Mary and Dory now had an even dozen Plants. These last four little girls added to the family fun as they romped and played in the shade of a giant sycamore which still stands today on the site of Mary's and Dory's garden of Plants.

The ninth Plants in the garden was Creota Iris, born January 11, 1913. She is lovingly nicknamed Sally. She attended Pt. Pleasant High School but graduated from Hebron High School in Hebron, Ohio and later attended Olivet College in Illinois. Avis Carol (we call her Peggy) was born June 7, 1915. She grew up fun-loving and free in the garden of Plants down on Ten Mile Creek. She now lives in Jackson County with her husband, R.L. Handley, on a site overlooking the Ohio River where they can view a broad valley where in times gone by the Indians hunted the buffalo. This fact is evidenced by the many arrowheads found on their land. Bernice Valeda, born on June 16, 1918 was the 11th Plants in the garden and she was named for a French nurse who nursed brother Dell when he was wounded in France. On April 25, 1920, a very tiny, frail baby girl was found growing in the garden. She was Mildred Catherine weighing only 4 1/2 pounds and Dr. B.F. Sommer of Leon was called in to assist in her birth. The other 11 were delivered by a Mason County midwife, Emma Love. All of Mary's and Dory's Plants had lived until adulthood, but in 1946, Mildred died in childbirth at the age of 26. There are living today, six of the 12 Plants: Owens, Russell, Beulah, Creota, Avis and Bernice.

For 49 years, Mary and Dory traveled the road of life together teaching their children by both precept and example, making certain they had "tended" their "garden of Plants" well. Mary and Dory lie sleeping side by side on a hillside at Eddy Chapel Church. Their Plants garden numbers more than 150. They left their footprints across the United States as well as in some foreign countries.

MARY SUSAN PLANTS

Mary Susan McKinney was left motherless even before she became of school age. She had a good stepmother, Martha Hoschar, whose mother was Rhoda Plants Hoschar, a daughter of Jacob Plants, the pioneer. Thus, Mary Susan had good teaching and training from her kind stepmother and her father, Wilson McKinney, a minister of the gospel. Mary Susan married young and with her husband, Theodore Plants, raised a large family and thus she learned how to "make a lot from a little" and to do it with so much love and caring that her family didn't seem to notice that they were a poor family and sometimes deprived. It has been said that Mary could make enough biscuits and gravy for Grant's army. In this home, there were times when, because of sickness or death in the neighborhood or an extra load of work at Dory's sawmill, Mary would extend her table and arrange extra sleeping quarters. One winter she cooked three meals a day for 17 people and bedded 16 of them. All this was accomplished with a merry heart often singing some hymn as she worked.

Mary S. Plants on Eagle Ridge

Married in 1894, she seemed always to be busy and was happiest when she felt she was needed and could help someone. When she was 88 years old, she was still making quilts and often putting on patches for some member of the family. As she came into these later years of her life, she had to figure out some way to thread her needles with a certain amount of ease. At such an advanced age she still did not wear glasses except to sew and to read. Mary Susan had an ingenious spirit and could always seem to overcome every difficulty.

If you would go into the home of her daughter, Avis Plants Adams Handley, in Jackson County, today, you would find a medium-sized square glass jar with a lid on it filled with an assortment of items that had to do with Mary's everyday life. There are single-edged razor blades for snipping a thread, small scissors that fit in her apron pocket, and many useful buttons, never knowing when she might need them. Most touching, most ingenious of all, was a square of parafin that she would draw her thread across in order to stiffen it a little so it would go through the eye of the needle a little more easily. The marks in the parafin are more than many, showing how capable she was with a needle and thread. Those snappy brown eyes that first saw the light of day on November 10, 1876, were beginning to fail to the extent that on dark, cloudy days Mary had difficulty threading her needles. But, here again, her ingenuity came forth and on bright, sunny days she'd thread many, many needles with both black and white thread, each one carefully stuck into a cloth ready for use when she needed them.

Mary S. Plants

But, there did come a time when Mary Susan no longer needed her needles. On April 29, 1970, she closed her beautiful brown eyes never to awaken on this earth. For 93 and one-half years she had lived a good life, being all that epitomized a good neighbor, a loving wife and a beautiful mother. Each time we examine the contents of the square glass jar, we are reminded of her staunch and sturdy character and even when death came, we learned how she had persevered often in difficult times and planned ahead for even small work-a-day activities. Yes, as small a task as threading a needle was handled in a manner so like this great lady.

We learned, after her death, that this great lady (we call her Grandma Plants) had been prepared for work and helping others when we discovered that "she left her needles threaded."

Much more than "threaded needles" were left to her posterity. Anyone touched by her life, even in the smallest degree, were felt to be a better person for having known her. The consistent Christian life she lived and the love and care she gave her children all point up the true beauty of this great lady. The square glass jar of useful household items and especially the many needles she had threaded on bright, sunny day, spell out vividly her foresight and optimism about life and, to us, are a symbol of her enduring presence in our life when we see and remember that she "Left her needles threaded." Submitted by Rhea Ann Buchanan and Betty Jean Taylor

POWERS

Through early family lines, kinship links are established with English kings and the Emperor Charlemagne, and with John and Priscilla Alden, Mayflower passengers.

In the middle of the 17th century, two Powers brothers migrated from Cork County, Ireland and settled in New England. Later, descendants moved to Hagerstown, Maryland and thence to Virginia.

William Powers (later Captain) was born in Frederick County, Virginia, November 9, 1765, but early settled at Powers Fort, Bridgeport, Harrison County. As Justice of the Peace, he was a member of Harrison County Court in 1800. He had served in the American Revolution and was later given a Revolutionary grant near the town of Jane Lew, Virginia. He was a farmer, Indian Scout, and once served as Sheriff of Lewis County. He was pensioned in April 1841 for his services. He died in 1856 and was buried in Broad Run Cemetery of Lewis County. (Recorded in: West Virginia in the American Revolution by Ross Johnston. William left a diary of his scouting era, and legend has it that this record was the basis of Chronicles of Border Warfare by Alexandra Withers.

A son of Williams Powers, Thomas, married Pamela Hart on Feb. 14, 1820. She was the granddaughter of John Hart, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. In 1842, William and wife sold 165 acres on Polk Creek to Thomas and Pamela for $10.00, and they lived there until about 1856. Thomas was a farmer and millwright. Prior to the Civil War, he moved his family from Lewis County to Jackson County, buying approximately 800 acres. A portion of this original track is now covered by water from Watershed Dam #13 on Tug Fork, near Staats Mill.

The story is told of Thomas coming home one night with a large ham. He heard blood-curdling screams behind him, gradually coming nearer, and knew it was a panther. He moved faster and faster, the screams came closer and closer. Finally attack was apparent, so he flung the ham over his shoulder and ran home. Luckily, the panther preferred the ham, and the family survives to tell the tale.

According to the 1850 census, Thomas and Pamela had eight children, all born in what was then Virginia. They were: Elihugh, Daniel, Margaret, Roanna, Hannah, Rachel and Sarah.

The oldest child of Thomas and Pamela, Elihugh, married Charlotte Davis 3/4/1841. They lived in Doddridge County, later moving to Jackson County with his father. He was a millwright, stonecutter, and farmer. He cut the stone which supported the mill and covered bridge at Staats Mill. The bridge now sits at Cedar Lakes Camp, near Ripley.

Elihugh and Charlotte had ten children: Elmer, Claudius, Katherine, Gustavus, Ida, George, Guy, and Isaiah — all born in Doddridge County — and Thomas and Flora, born in Jackson County.

Thomas was born 10/3/1859. He was a carpenter, Baptist minister (circuit rider) and farmer. He played a mean flute, told fantastic tales — always in the proper dialect — and was counselor to the area. His ways of travel were horseback, horse and buggy, and the jerkwater train from Ripley to Mt. Alto. Churches he served were: Ephesus (near Plum Orchard); Grass Lick at Kenna; Mt. Carmel at Rocky Knob; Harmony Baptist at Harmony; Mt. Alto; Meadowville and Sherman. He married Mollie Flinn and they had four sons: Rev. Lloyd Powers, Marshall, Okey and Hoyt — all now deceased. The family lived on a portion of the 800 acres originally purchased by Thomas and Pamela (Hart) Powers.

Lloyd married Vesta Casto of Fairplain. Their children were: Paul, Ruth, Mary and Martha. Marshall married Orma Wright of Ripley. Their children are: Kent and Robert. Okey married Grace Alma. They had one child, Nancy. Hoyt married Pauline Casto of Fairplain. They had two children — Lucille and Keith.

After his first wife's death, Thomas married Laura Fields (born April 4, 1892) of Fletcher, on June 26, 1913. They had three children: Hiram, Grace and Carl. Thomas died 12/22/1946.

Hiram married Valeria Brotherton 2/26/40. Their children are: Mary Rebecca (1942) and David (1944). A step-daughter, Diane, is married to John Suchanoff of Bridgeton, New Jersey. They have one daughter: Pauletta, Orlanda, Florida.

Rebecca married Scott Donat III (7/1/1962). They reside in Ripley. Two children: Scott IV (1966), single, (Ripley) and Laura Beth (1968). Laura Beth married Anthony Riddle in 1987, and they live in Denver, Colorado.

David married Shirley Parsons (1962) — residing in Jackson County. Two children: Sheryl and Jeffrey. Sheryl married William Webb of Ripley. Their two children are Ashli (1986) and Jeremy (1988). They reside in Wood County.

Grace married Norman Madan of Mt. Vernon, New York. (6/1/44). They now live in Coral Gables, Florida. Children: Richard (1950) and Karen (1952). Richard, single, lives in Miami, Florida. Karen married James B. Strickler III, of St. Petersburg, Florida in 1982 — one child: Laura Beth (1988). They live in New York City, on Governor's Island.

Mary Lavina "Viney" Price was born 28 Apr 1871 Boyd, Roane County. She married Charles William Tucker 1 Jan 1891 in Roane County. Charlie was born in Wood County 10 Dec 1870, a son of George M.D. (1850/1885) and Mary A. Kaufman Tucker (1854/1885). His lineage includes William Radcliff who married Deborah Hughes, sister of Jesse Hughes. Charlie and Viney lived for some time in Jackson County; three of their first four children being born there. Charlie farmed, timbered, and raised stock cattle in Roane, Jackson, Mason, Boone, and Kanawha Counties. He took his sawmill from place to place and would spend many months cutting and sawing timber. Sometimes the whole family would move, other times just Charlie and the mill hands with older children to "help out". The older girls would go along to do the cooking.

In about 1902, after a particularly bad winter there was an explosion at the mill and one of the mill hands was severely burned. The mill was completely destroyed, and the family's finances along with it. Viney's father, John Price, helped all he could. They moved into an old house on his farm, fixed it up and lived there until Charlie was

In spite of the belief of the General that there were no Indians on the war-path in that area, they were attacked the next day. The fire of the Virginians was very fierce and deadly. The battle was over at end of the day; the bordermen had only half won at fearful cost.

PRINGLE

John and Samuel Pringle were soldiers stationed at Fort Pitt doing garrison duty. In 1761 they left the Fort, proceeding up the Monongahela River to the Youghiogheny River which they ascended to its head waters or what is known as Glades. Here they were employed by John Simpson, a hunter and a trapper. They remained here until 1764 as the game was depleted. They moved farther West.

While journeying through the wilderness and crossing the Cheat River, a quarrell arose between the Pringles and the Mr. Simpson and they separated. Mr. Simpson proceeded westward until he came to the West Fork River, where he established his camp, now Highland Park, West Virginia, near Clarksburg. He remained for several years until he sold his land rights.

In the meantime the Pringle Brothers went up the Tygaret Valley until they came to the Buchannon River, then on to Turkey Run, near the present city of Buchannon. Wild game was aplenty. Their decision to establish at least a temporary residence here was climaxed by the discovery of a large hollow Sycamore tree which looked inviting for their future home. When they were ready to execute their plans of moving into their new place of abode, they discovered that the tree was already occupied by another family, a she-wolf. They remained here for more than three years; their sole diet being fish and meat. Their supply of ammunition became so low that only two loads remained.

Late in the year of 1767, John Pringle packed a bundle of furs and took his gun, but leaving two loads of ammunition with Samuel, that he might replenish his meat supply, and departed for the South Branch.

Before his departure they had an understanding, that if something should happen to Samuel, two notches were to be cut in a nearby sapling if it became essential for him to leave on account of hunger. And one notch if attached by Indians. When separated in the woods the two brothers had always used the signal of two long wolf howls, followed by a short one to acquaint the other of their whereabouts.

When John Pringle set out on his mission, he without road, danger lurked at every turn; being highly trained in woodcraft, he reached the settlement and having secured the supplies, he hastened to make his return, which was affected without mishap. His glowing description of the Buchannon Valley was given, and many decided to set out for themselves. In 1768 a permanent settlement was made.

Among the early arrivals were Captain William White, John Jackson with his two sons, George and Edward. Jessie Hughes, John and William Hacker, Ales, Tom Sleith, William Radecliff, John Brown and Ben Cutright.

John Pringle married Rebecca, daughter of John Simpson. In 1780 moved to Chaplins Fork, Kentucky, Samuel Pringle married Charity Cutright, and their first married life was spent in the Sycamore tree. They had three sons John, William and Samuel, two daughters Elizabeth and another, who married a Mr. Wolfe and settled at Letart Falls, Ohio. William Pringle married Nellie, daughter of Barney Rollins, and they were the parents of 15 children; Hetie, wife of William Weatherholt; Siani married Christopher Cutright; another daughter married Abraham Crites; Alma, wife of I.W. Simmons; Mohela, wife of Jacob Crites; Susan wife of George Cutright; Rachael, wife of Hiram Rollins. John married Roda Casto, sister to David Casto; James married Mary Ann Weatherholt; Isaac married Ester Rogers; David and Silas; Young Gilbert died in infancy; Joel married Elizabeth Montgomery. Chancy married Melvina Olive Crites, daughter of Jacob Crites. John Pringle, the second son of Samuel Pringle married Mary Cutright, a sister to Andrew Cutright. Their children were Barbara, wife of John Hunt; Catherine, wife of House; Elizabeth, who married Daniel Philips; Christena, became Mrs. Elisha Curney. Fanny and Andrew never married. Miles married a Miss Brown.

MAJOR CHARLES HENRY PROGLER

Major C.H. Progler was born on the 13th day of Sept. 1829 of Swiss parents, at Aix le Baines, then a possession of the Kingdom of Sardinia, now a department of France. His father died and his mother soon thereafter returned to her native Switzerland. From there, in a short time, she migrated to the United States of America where she believed she would have a better opportunity to provide for her five children.

The family having arrived in New York were met by relatives who had preceded them to this country, and the Major, then a small boy, soon found employment thereby, assuming at an uncommon early age, the duties and responsibilities of a useful and industrious life, which, without cessation of activity, continued until the tenth day of January, 1913, when he was eighty three years, three months and 10 days old.

While in New York City, the widowed mother married a Mr. Mills and in 1848 the family moved to a small farm which they had previously bought on Sycamore, in the neighborhood of Ripley, Jackson County, WV. Hence it was in Ripley and vicinity that the children grew to maturity, and the mother passed away at Ravenswood at a good old age, honored and beloved by all that knew her, in August 1904. The surviving children of this Lady are: Mrs. Fannie Sence of Cincinnati, and Mrs. George Fleming of Ravenswood. Of the surviving members of the Major's immediate family there are Julia A. (Mrs. D.W. Greer), John R. and Harry S., all of who are well known to the community. Of the grandchildren there are Henry P. and Mayme Jess, children of Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Greer, H. Smith and Margurite Elizabeth, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Progler; and Harriet Isabelle, Julia Celestine and Charles Robert, children of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Progler.

Mr. Progler's business career was varied as that of but few men in our community, and it took him into many states. He was, at different times of his life, a news vendor, an errand boy, an instructor in French, a carpenter, a lumberman, a United States coast surveyor, an oil operator, an Inn Keeper, a woolen manufacturer, a contractor, and a builder.

He had quite an unusual amount of inventive genius and was in several instances a patentee, though he never prosecuted very vigorously the manufacture and sale of his invention. For many years he operated the planing mill in Ripley and probably built more churches than any other man in Jackson County. On most of such contracts he seems to have lost money. As a business man generosity took the form of weakness. He was generous to a fault.

As a literary character, Major Progler was a delightful surprise to all who acquired his education, and amassed the fund of information which he stocked his mind. With only a few months actual schooling, he became profound in mathematics, extensively versed in history, well informed in science and philosophy, and above all these acquired a literary style that rivals that of eminent scholars. This literary ability was doubtless in a large measure inherited. His mother's sister was a traveling companion to the family of James Fennimore Cooper while in Europe, and the Major, himself while a mere lad when he could scarcely write his name, had the remarkable conversational powers to hold a position of tutor in French to the children of an English family in New York. Beyond his literary ability and excellent taste for good association, he inherited the sensibilities of refinement to a high degree.

The Major's good humor, cheerful disposition and warm affection were always in evidence. In his writings, some of his most exquisite touches of sentiment relate to his mother to whom he was most inordinately devoted. After a lapse of seventy years of speaking of his mother's farewell to her beloved Switzerland, friends and family, he wrote: "Poor dear mother, how often in after years have I realized the great sacrifice you were making to your helpless little ones. How often have I wondered at your courage and fortitude to bear the pangs of that parting. God bless you, dear mother."

The Major, very feelingly, referred to his domestic relations as the most pleasant and inspiring of his experiences in life, and the sweet memory of his departed companion always seemed to temper the stormy winds as the frosts of many winters crowned his head with the glory of old age.

Major Progler was confirmed in the Episcopal Church in New York in the year 1847, from which time to his death he was in full communion with the church.

Major Progler's home was a very beautiful one of Main Street in Ripley. It has since been remodeled to become "The American Legion Hall." (no longer there)

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Progler had three children: Harriet Isabelle (Issy), Julia Celestine (Jude), and Charles Robert (Bob). Harriet Isabelle married James Hinkle and had two daughters, Dorothy Jean and Betty Jane. Dorothy (Dot) married Wayne, and Betty married James White and had one daughter, Melissa. Julia Celestine married Carl A. Zerby and had no children. Charles Robert married Gertrude Jane Weekley and had two daughters, Patricia Lou (Patti) and Mary Frances.

Patti married Guy Landon Hersman and had two sons, Guy Robert and Randall William Hersman. Guy Robert Hersman married Brenda Kay Boggess and had three children, William Ray, Benjamin Lee, and Sally Beth. Randall William married Sherri David and had no children.

Mary Frances married Eugene Paul Straley and had four children, Paula Suzanne, Julie Celeste, Leland Scott, and Gene Kent.

Paula married Blaine Ellis and had three children, Amanda Michelle, Adam Paul, and Andrea Blaine. Julie married Robert L. Winebrenner and had no children. Submitted by Pattie Progler Hersman and Mary Frances Progler Straley

DWAYNE A. PUGH

(1-10-1990) I, Dwayne Arthur Pugh, through the prodding of those friends around me, and by some means that remotely bears a semblance to support, have been hereby requested to include in this document an explanation to my existence in Jackson County. I will begin with the union of my parents. On July 20, 1962, Grover Arthur Pugh took Mary Oda Lawrence (both being natives of Kanawha County) to be his wife.

In May of 1963, Arthur and Mary Pugh moved to Ravenswood, but were obligated to return to Kanawha County in February of 1965, which was two months before the birth of my sister, Melissa Dawn Pugh. Melissa was born April 16, 1965. On the glorious morning of September 19, 1967, I came into being at McMillian Hospital, and was given my father's middle name of Arthur. Our family resided in Kanawha County until March of 1976.

In March of 1976, my family moved to Jackson County for what was to be my parents second time, but a first for Missy and myself. We moved onto a farm on Beech Grove Road, which is the Evans entrance to Cow Run. The road is located at the top of John King Hill in Evans, and our farm was exactly two miles down Beech Grove Road.

In October of the year of 1985, my family moved to the other side of Ripley, into the community of Sandyville. Arthur and Mary Pugh, Melissa and myself now reside on Sarvis Fork Road, which is located one mile past Gilmore Elementary School in Sandyville. Sarvis Fork Road has the only covered bridge in Jackson County that is still in use since the Staats Mill Bridge was taken out of public service and reconstructed at Cedar Lakes.

Grover Arthur Pugh is a supervisor at Appalachian Power Company, Point Pleasant location. Mary Oda Pugh is a first grade teacher at Gilmore Elementary School in Sandyville. Melissa Dawn Pugh is a Seventh Grade Teacher of special education at Ripley Middle School in Ripley. I, Dwayne Arthur Pugh, am a student at WVU — Parkersburg, Jackson County Extension, and am a wonderful cook at Ripley's finest and only McDonalds.

This is the history of the Pugh family here in Jackson County, and expressly, the qualification for my having any rights to call myself, Dwayne Arthur Pugh, a native of this territory. As I have spent the better part of my so-far-short life here in this county, I consider it very much my home, and am proud to contribute this meager offering to the preserving of it's heritage. May these insignificant and dusty words be recorded for all of posterities sake, and somehow contribute to the betterment of all mankind. Submitted by Dwayne Pugh

Jackson County was formed from Kanawha, Mason and Wood Counties by an act of the State of Virginia, March 1, 1831.

The western part of Virginia broke away from the South and formed a new state in 1863.

A militia from Jackson County, 141st, served in the Civil War. Among the men were: Solomon Harpold, Charles Harpold, Sandusky Harpold, Edward Hart Rader, Michael Rader. Michael Rader had been a captain of the minutemen in the War of 1812, and an Indian Scout under Daniel Boone. After the War, these men were given a land grant of 400 acres.

Great grandfather Rader was English, great grandmother was German. Both came first to Roanoke, Virginia, thence to Lewis County, West Virginia, where they married, thence to Jackson County with his brother, Hart Rader. They had four children, one boy, Green, Mom's grandfather, three girls; he married Harriette Rhodes; one girl married Jim Johns; one married Henry Parsons; one married Dave Cox, father of Will, Ben, Charlie, George, Vicki, Sarah, Newt Harpold's first wife, Emma, who married Evans Keebaugh, and John, who married Della Bradley, and was Bessie's father; so she and our real grandmother were second cousins.

George married Annie Edwards; they had Opheelia. She later married our grandfather; (Winter)

Dave Cox II married Martha Harpold, our grandfather's sister; they had Russell and Rudy; after he died she married Perry Casto.

Green Rader's children were: Anna Liza, our grandmother, Clark, James, Dora, Elvira, Mary, Inga, Della.

The Raders had large land holdings and owned slaves at one time. However, during the time of runaway slaves, their home was part of the "underground railway" used to help slaves escape to freedom. Submitted by Elaine Calhoun

MAJOR MICHAEL RADER

Adam I and Catherine Taubert Rader came to America around 1724, from the Palatine Region of Pfalz, Germany, near the town of Mutterstadt. They settled in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

Adam II (1690-1773) moved to Timberville, Virginia. He married Anna Barbara Bender Painter and lived on a plantation, which consisted of over 2,000 acres. On this land was a lead mine which was the principal source for shot in the Revolutionary War. They along with others deeded land for the Rader Lutheran Church and cemetery in 1765.

Adam III and Margaretha Marie Rader lived in Shenandoah County and died in Augusta County, Virginia in 1783, are the parents of Michael Rader.

Michael Rader (1750-1839) was born in Rockingham County, Virginia, and on December 25, 1769 he married Catherine Long (1750-1840).

He was a Major in the Revolutionary war, and was a Justice of the State of Virginia, having been sworn in by Patrick Henry on June 9, 1778. He was a Justice of the Peace of Mason County, then Kanawha County, Virginia.

Michael enlisted as a Private in the volunteer battalion of the Shenandoah and was later made a Captain. He reenlisted and his uncle, Captain Anthony Rader, his brother Captain Adam Rader and Captain Abraham Lincoln (grandfather of President Abraham Lincoln) and formed two more companies of volunteers. Michael was a part of Dunmore's troops at the time of the march to Point Pleasant in 1774. On April 30, 1778 Michael was advanced to Major. He was quartered at Fort Pitt on more than one occasion. He left Fort Pitt and Wheeling, Virginia on orders of General Hand to take command of Fort Carnes on Deckards Creek near Morgantown. Captains John Rausch and Abraham Byrd served under him.

Michael Rader and his family came to Greenbrier County, Virginia with his uncles around 1790. They settled in Rader Valley near Lewisburg and Donnelly's Fort. His oldest daughter, Elizabeth Holman, was the first grave in the Old Stone Churchyard in Lewisburg, West Virginia. The grave is unmarked but registered on a card index file there. His son, Abraham, is also buried there.

Michael subsequently moved to present Jackson County around 1800. He owned over 1,000 acres in the Gay Road-Elk Ford area, east of Ripley, West Virginia. He maintained a large home and owned as many as 15 slaves. It is believed he and his wife are buried there on the farm. His military monument is located in the Mt. Olive Cemetery, Gay, Road.

In 1902 he and his father built the old store at Sherman — later called the original Anna Howell Store. Darrell was employed as manager of the Ravenswood Wholesale Grocery for 40 years. He served the town of Ravenswood as mayor and as councilman. On February 24, 1904 he married Fanny Leura Saftred of Sherman.

Leura "Lou" was descended from the Cleveland-Tubbs-Dinsmoor clan being born to Mary Ann Dinsmoor and William Lewis Saftred at Sherman on May 26, 1879. Darrell died at their home on Sand Street on October 21, 1951. Lou was buried beside her husband in the Ravenswood Cemetery after her death on September 16, 1954.

The union of Darrell and Lou produced five children, the second of whom was William Kenna born on January 8, 1908 at Sherman. He is a 1927 graduate of Ravenswood High School where he was active in football and basketball. While attending Marshall College (now University) in Huntington, he married Dorothy Virginia McCoy, daughter of Charles Fremont McCoy and Victoria Nichols McCoy of Cottageville.

Ken worked as a salesman for the Ravenswood Grocery Company for several years. He is the last surviving member of the original (1935) Ohio River Festival Committee. At age 35 Ken was drafted into the Navy during World War II, and served at Richmond, Virginia until his discharge in 1945. He was employed for a time by General Mills and later was manager of a local hardware company. He then became a rural mail carrier until his retirement in 1973.

Dorothy McCoy was born on December 27, 1908 in Cottageville and received her early schooling there. She graduated from Ravenswood High School in 1927 and continued her education at Marshall College.

Through the years Ken and Dot supported the many youth activities of their three children. The oldest of the children is Connie Lou (Mrs. Bill Ritchie) of Ravenswood, born on November 3, 1928; Nancy Von (Mrs. Allen N. Short) of Vincent, Ohio, born on April 26, 1933; and William Kenna, Jr. (Bill) born on June 21, 1935, now residing in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

Dot obtained both her bachelor and masters degree from Marshall University. She completed 25 years of teaching and administration in Jackson County Schools and retired in 1973.

RHODES

The surname of Rhodes has been spelled several different ways within the same time period and sometimes even within the same document. Some of the spellings include Roads, Rodes, Rhoads, and Rhodes.

Alexander Rhodes, son of Christopher Rhodes, was born in Rockbridge County, Virginia, circa 1807. In Botetourt County on March 3, 1829, he married Mahala Edens, daughter of Jesse and Dorothy Edens. Mahala Edens Rhodes was born in Rockbridge County circa 1812. The Alexander and Christopher Rhodes families came to Jackson County, Virginia, now West Virginia, between 1830 and 1840, and are listed in the 1840 census of the county. Alexander purchased a tract of land from H.O. Middleton on Billy's Run, a branch of Elk Fork of Mill Creek (Deed Book 11, Page 307), where he was still living in 1876.

Alexander Rhodes had several children, including Llewellyn (also spelled Lewellyn, Lewallen, Luellen, and possibly other ways), Murphy D., Elizabeth, Martha Jane, Barbara J., Dorothy, Matilda, Rachel, Preston Isaiah, and Melissa.

Preston Isaiah Rhodes, usually known as Isaiah, (b. June 6, 1845, d. April 19, 1908) married Amanda J. Tolley (b. June 16, 1843, d. October 4, 1921), daughter of Jordan and Sally Anderson Tolley, on April 14, 1864, in Jackson County. The ceremony was performed by George Thomas, minister. Amanda was also known as Mandy J. and M.J.

During the Civil War (Preston) Isaiah Rhodes served in Company F of the 9th Regiment of the West Virginia Infantry, and later received a pension for his services. Records from the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions, and other sources in Washington, D.C. show his pension was increased on various occasions upon request. He was still residing in Jackson County in 1880, but by March 31, 1899, his address had changed to Ryan, and by June 11, 1902, had changed to Woodyard, which is in Roane County.

Preston Isaiah and Amanda Rhodes

Children of (Preston) Isaiah and Amanda Tolley Rhodes were Emmanuel G., known as "Bub", Alfred Clint, Emmett M., Ezra Oscar, Zeal, Mary Ann, Agnes Victoria, Cordelia J., William Bennett (b. December 25, 1877, d. September 25, 1898), and Emza L. (b. March 16, 1883, d. September 16, 1892).

Emmanuel married Ida Belle Thomas; Alfred Clint married Florence Harper; Emmitt M. married Rebecca Jane Hawkins; Ezra Oscar married (1) Florence Taylor and (2) Canna Cox; Zeal married

Will Thomas; Mary Ann married (1) Deck Westfall, (2) John Harper; Agnes Victoria married Jackson West; Cordelia J. married John M. Lowe; and William Bennett and Emza L. were both unmarried.

RHODES-TOLLEY

When my parents were married, they joined several of the pioneer ancestors of Jackson County. They were married on July 4, 1923, on the courthouse steps as a part of the celebration of the day, for which they were paid five dollars. To this union were born four children: Kathleen Virginia (Beymer), William Edward, Robert Ralph, and Sharon Lynn (Turley). They combined branches of the Rhodes, Harpold, Tolley, Westfall, Rollins, Johns, Casto, Sayre, Southall, Whiting and Hyre early inhabitants of this county.

Ralph and Mary (Harpold) Rhodes, Clarissa (Johns) Harpold, holding Wm. E. Rhodes

Ralph was the son of Minton Robert Rhodes and Mary Virginia Harpold, married 24 August 1884. Mint was the son of Archibald D. Rhodes and Delilah Rollins, d. John and Mary Rollins. To this union was born eleven children. Archibald is the progeny of Samuel Rhodes and wife, Peggy. Many of our county ancestors came from Rockbridge County, Virginia and the Rhodes were one of them. I must note at this time that there were two Samuel Rhodes from Rockbridge County, the other married Parthena Vandyne and came to the area in 1845. Both are in the 1850 Census.

According to History of Roane County, our Samuel was a brother to Peter Rhodes of Roane County. From this information, Samuel's father should be Christopher. From History of WVA III, Maxwell & Miller, there was a Christopher (2) who was the father of Samuel and also Christopher (1) who came to this country from Germany prior to 1800, settled in Botetourt County, Virginia and served in the war of 1812.

In the early 1900s, on the land owned by Archibald and Delilah, a part of the original land purchased by Samuel, one of the first oil wells in the county was sunk. The family purchased one of the first automobiles in the area.

Delilah was the daughter of John Rollins and Mary Hoffman. John's father was Elijah Rollins who was raised in the Buchannon Settlement and came to Mill Creek about 1811. He was the first white settler on Tug Fork, arriving about 1816. He was a local Methodist preacher and he and George Casto founded the first Methodist classes in the upper Mill Creek Valley.

On the maternal side, Mary Virginia was descended from Adam Harpole, born 1734, who came to this country from Germany in colonial times and fought in the War of the Revolution. Adam's sons, Adam, Solomon, and John came to Jackson County (then Mason) in 1809. John married Rachel Sayre, 26 January 1839, d. David Sayre, Jr., and Sarah of Greene County, Pennsylvania. David was a soldier of the Revolution, also an Indian fighter. He was born in New Jersey. The union of John and Rachel produced nine children, David being our ancestor. David married Mary Hyre, daughter of Jacob Hyre and Mary Beath, Jacob's parents coming from Switzerland. Of the eight children in their family, John A. Harpold, our ancestor, married Clarissa Johns. John A. served in the Civil War, Union Army, Co. F, 9th Inf Reg from 28 Feb 1862, was wounded at Cedar Creek, rank, Corporal.

The daughter of John A. and Clarissa Harpold was Mary Virginia Harpold who married Minton Rhodes. Submitted by Sharon Turley

DANIEL DEMING RHODES

Daniel Deming Rhodes was born February the 12th, 1818, in Warren County, New York, the son of Ira and Lydia Deming Rhodes. His paternal grandparents were John and Sybil Edmonds Rhodes. The maternal grandparents were Daniel and Sally Johnson Deming. Both grandfathers were Revolutionary War soldiers. John Rhodes fought in the battles of Stillwater and Saratoga at the young age of 14.

Daniel came to Portsmouth, Ohio, in 1842 and resided there until 1857. On February the 18th, 1844, he married Mary Ann Leonard. During his time in Portsmouth, he owned a successful lumber business, was town councilman and justice of the peace. Four children were born in Portsmouth, they were Alvin, George L., James S., and Lilly E. With the exception of Lilly E., the children succumbed to fatal childhood diseases at an early age.

In 1857, Daniel traded his properties in Portsmouth to Colonel Oscar F. Moore, of Moores Mills, Virginia (now Cottageville, WV) for Colonel Moore's small mill and considerable land holdings. Daniel set about laying out the town in the spring of 1857. Stone masons, carpenters and laborers worked feverishly at various sites throughout the town simultaneously. In the short period of two years the town had been enlarged considerably. Besides the original buildings, there now stood on the banks of Big Millcreek an imposing new flouring mill towering five stories above the creek bed. The products from this mill would soon be sold on many distant markets, including those of: New Orleans, Philadelphia, and Baltimore. Daniel's new home was a beautiful eighteen room, two story dwelling. In addition, a large store building was erected adjacent to the home. Five other homes, called cottages were erected for his brothers and brothers-in-law. In order to supply water power for the huge mill, a massive stone dam was constructed across Millcreek. Fifty yards upstream a new covered wooden bridge was erected to replace the crude log one. Moores Mills, Virginia unofficially became Cottage Mills, Virginia in 1858. By 1858 the small settlement had been completely transformed into a bustling little town.

Oldest mill west of Allegheny Mountains

The name of Cottage Mills was decided upon by Daniel and his brother George, obviously derived from the newly completed cottages and mill. Daniel formally changed the name to Cottageville, Virginia on February the 24th, 1860 and it remains so today. The only exception being that West Virginia achieved statehood on June the 20th, 1863.

Two additional children were born to Daniel and Mary at Cottageville. They were Daniel W. Rhodes, who married Sally Jane Lawill, and Louella, who married Doctor Benjamin Early Harrison. Lilly E., who was born in Portsmouth, married Henry Fleming.

From 1857 until his death on December 12, 1882, Daniel resided in Cottageville. During this time he was a merchant, miller, postmaster, Civil War prisoner of war, and an army private in the home guard of Captain George King's company. At the age of sixty-four, Daniel was laid to rest in the Methodist Church cemetery at Cottageville.

During his relative short time upon this earth, he endured much hardship and grief. It is a fitting tribute to the man, his strong will, and his faith, that he overcame these adversities. Above all he loved and respected his fellow man. As a result of this compassion he unselfishly assisted many along the way. The town of Cottageville occupied a special place in his heart. He was truly at home with the many fine families and friends who settled there.

The children born to his son, Daniel W. and Sally J. Rhodes, were: Daniel W. Rhodes, Jr., Dr. Fred L. Rhodes, John H. Rhodes, Sr., and Susan Rhodes (all deceased). Residing in Cottageville at this time are Helen E. (Hood) Rhodes, widow of John H. Rhodes, Sr., her children, Patricia (Rhodes) Prowse, Frederic H. Rhodes and John H. Rhodes, Jr.; also two grandchildren, Jennifer L. Rhodes and John P. Rhodes and one great-grandson, Matthew J. Beigler. Submitted by Frederic H. Rhodes

LORA MARIE TOLLEY-RALPH MINTON RHODES

The Tolleys came to Elk Fork from Rockbridge County, Virginia in the 1830s. Our ancestors, John and his wife, Rebecca, were married in Rockbridge County, Va. and all children but one born there. In 1870, Rebecca is listed as a widow of John. Their children were: Allison, Emily, Granville, Susanna, Margaret, David, and Barbara. Our ancestor was Granville.

Granville, born in Rockbridge County 1834, married Elisabeth Catherine Southall, d. William and Paulina Catherine Hix. She was born in Franklin County, Virginia. To this marriage was born nine children, Alexander, John, William Howard, Martha, Susan, James, Charles Walter, Sandusky and Florence.

Charles Walter Tolley, b. March 7, 1875, married Minnie Florence Westfall, d. John D. and Sara Jane Whiting. Their children were: Vesta, Gertrude, Mabel, Lora, Gladys, Russell, Charles and twins who died at birth.

C.W. as he was known to all in the area, moved his family from Billy's Run to Ripley in 1927. He was a timber man, working from the time he was a young boy for others and then starting his own company, Tolley Lumber Company, and eventually had his own planing mill on what is now 2nd Avenue. He cut timber all over the county and sawed timbers for all of the oil derricks built from 1919. He also cut timber for the fence posts that were used around the World's Fair in New York, 1939-40. He developed land areas, built houses, and on the site of the Tolley Homestead in Ripley, now stands the Ripley Baptist Temple, land donated by C.W. at his death. For many years he was the S.S. Superintendent of the Baptist Temple and active in all phases of church work. In 1943, the Jackson Herald honored him in the "Unsung Heroes" column. Statiss Simmons, then editor, wrote of him: "There are many unsung heroes in this world, men and women, who give their time, their efforts, and their means to promote the well being of their fellow citizens . . . one such person is our neighbor, Walter Tolley, who over more years than we can remember, has been the president of the Sunday School Organization (non-denominational) in this county and who each year devotes much time, a tremendous amount of effort and no little sum of money to the furtherance of the Sunday School program . . . we bow to Walter Tolley, gentleman, civic minded citizen, good neighbor and loyal friend. The world could use a lot more fellows like him."

The Tolley family originated in Warwickshire, England and came to America in the early 18th century. Dr. John F. Tolle came to N.Y. and he was the first to add the "Y" to the name. There were three nephews, Daniel, John, and Dudley and the Tolley family in Rockbridge County descended from these early settlers.

Lora Marie Tolley was one daughter of C.W. and Minnie. Lora married Ralph Rhodes, and to this union was born Kathleen, William, Robert, and Sharon Lynn. Ralph died in 1935 at a young age. Lora later married Carl Lanham and to this union was born a son, Carl Lanham, Jr. Submitted by William E. Rhodes

WILLIAM M. RHODES

Alexander Rhodes was born in Rockbridge County, Virginia, about 1807. He married Mahala, the daughter of Jesse and Dorothy (Davis) Edens, in Botetourt County, Virginia, on February 23, 1829. They came to Jackson County (West) Virginia before 1840, and settled on Elk Fork. Their children were: Llewellyn, born July 14, 1833, married Agatha Lytton; Murphy D., born 1835, married Mary Clarkston on February 23, 1856; Elizabeth (Margarete), born 1836, married Enoch Harper September 11, 1852; Martha Jane, born 1839, married James E. Thomas, September 28, 1854; Barbara, born 1838, married Robert Bradley February 21, 1856; Dortha, born 1840, married William H. Thomas, May 27, 1857; Matilda, born 1841; Rachel, born 1843; Isaiah Preston, born 1845, married Amanda Tolley April 14, 1854; and Melissa, born 1851, married James Hamilton in 1854.

Murphy D. Rhodes served in the West Virginia Home Guards during the Civil War. In the 1880 census, he and his wife, Mary, were living at Statts Mills. Their children were: Helena, born 1857, married Sylvester Rhodes, November 27, 1873; Artanisha, born 1859, married William A. Casto; Samantha, born 1862, married Nicholas Merial; William M., born 1864, married Lougenia in 1888; Clara, born 1870, married Milt Boice; Franklin, born 1872, married Elsa Windle; and Minnie, born 1878, married George W. Rhodes.

W. M. Rhodes family

Lougenia, the wife of William M. Rhodes, was a daughter of Joel and Mary Magdalene (Bradley) Casto, who was married on September 17, 1857. Joel was born September 1, 1834 and died September 25, 1886. His wife was born in 1837 and died in 1926. Joel was the son of George Casto, Sr., (about 1784-1845) and Sarah (Ours), who were married in Harrison County, in 1813. Joel's wife, Mary, was a daughter of James and Nancy (Rhodes) Bradley, who were married September 8, 1831 in Rockbridge County Virginia.

The children of William and Lougenia Rhodes were: Rhomie, married Pearl McCrady; Blondie, married Ida Fields; Orville N., married Verl Southall; Moody C., married Lydia Chatman; Elva, married Oshel Morris; Delpha G., married Foster Morris; and Leo, who married Wanita Skidmore.

William and Lougenia lived all their lives around Statts Mills. Will was a blacksmith, farmer, and miller. He was a good family man, serious with his work, and respected. But he had a humorous side also. I remember he and grandmother working in their garden. Grandfather was pulling the plow with a rope and grandmother was guiding it. It was the kind with the large iron wheel with handles made for pushing. All at once grandfather began to prance like a scared colt, and the next thing you know, he was going down a row of sweetcorn at a gallop. Grandmother plowed out six or seven hills of corn before she could get him stopped. I think he did it to make his grandson laugh.

Leo V. Rhodes of Fairplain and Delpha Morris of Statts Mills are the only living children, but there are many grandchildren and great-grandchildren still in Jackson County. Submitted by Tom Morris

RICHARDS/NAGY

The Nagy side of the family started on March 6, 1971, when Judy Ann Richards, daughter of William Sheridan and Dorothy Sedlock Richards, and granddaughter of Elah Blance Parsons Richards of Euclid, Ohio, married Janos Nagy, who was born June 25, 1936 in Mosonmagyaróvár, Hungary. Judy Ann was born May 2, 1947. Janos came to the United States on a children's airlift in 1956, shortly after he escaped from Hungary during the Revolution. After a brief stay in Connecticut, Janos joined the U. S. citizenship six years later. Settling in Bridgeton, New Jersey, he started a career in scientific glassware production. In order to further his career, he moved to Willoughby, Ohio, where he met and married Judy. With more scientific work on the West Coast, Janos and Judy moved to El Monte, California in 1972.

During this period, Judy worked as a realtor in

ROBERT AND WILMA (STANARD) RICHARDSON

Robert L. and Wilma Stanard Richardson came to Jackson County early spring of 1951 and located on Hillcrest Drive, Ripley. Bob was employed as District Conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, a position held for 24 years. That summer Wilma was employed as Jackson County Home Demonstration Agent for the West Virginia Agricultural Extension Service and served in that capacity four years. She later taught in the elementary and secondary schools of the county and served as elementary supervisor during the administration of Rob Roy Walters.

Soil Conservationist in Jackson County was Bob's first professional assignment after graduation from the West Virginia University School of Forestry and a two year training period in Roane county where Wilma was employed as English and social studies teacher at Walton High School. After Bob's retirement in Jackson County, 1974, they returned to their native Nicholas County and established residence on his home farm where he previously spent ten years working and managing the farm for his father, a Nicholas County public schoolteacher.

L.A. and Christina Williams Richardson settled on the farm near Carnifex Ferry in 1917. Their children, in order of age, are: Thelma Martin (deceased), Robert L. and Edith Herold Koon of Summerville, Mary Florence (deceased), and Esther Weddington of Louisville, KY. Their Richardson ancestry dates back to Captain James Richardson who came from England to Virginia in 1836. The Williams line is traced to pioneer William Williams who was born in Williamsburg, Greenbriar County, 1974.

Wilma grew up on a farm near Summerville, one of five children of James Berton and Jennie Dyer Stanard. Her only brother is James Dyer Stanard of Ripley, well known in Jackson County as "J.D." Her sisters are: Helen Jackson of Roanoke, Virginia; Kathleen Ham of Havana, Cuba; and Lois McCabe of Charleston, WV. The Stanards descend from William Stanard, who came from London, England to Virginia about 1675. The Dyers of Webster County were descendants of Roger Dyer who was killed at the Fort Sybert massacre in Pendleton County, 1758, and of his son, James, who was held captive in Ohio by the Shawnee Indians.

Bob and Wilma Richardson, 1945

Bob and Wilma were married at Ft. Devens, MA during World War II. He then served in the European Theater of War, was captured in France and held as a prisoner of war in Germany for six months. They are the parents of two daughters who grew up in the Ripley area of Jackson County. They are Pamela Graighead of New Orleans, LA and Julie Ryan of Hampstead, NC. Grandchildren are Robert Austin and Jamie Rose Ryan.

Bob has this to say about his life and work in Jackson County: "I truly enjoyed my work with the Jackson County people and remember many occasions of warm hospitality in the rural areas of the county. While I had opportunity to move to other positions, I chose to remain in the area which offered everything we wanted".

In a Jackson Herald account of Bob's retirement in 1974, it was pointed out that he was identified with many important conservation projects in the region including the original plans for the Mill Creek flood control project. The Ravenwood News featured his interest in nature and his participation in state and national nature organizations. It was stated by the Herald, "Mr. Richardson is well known as a biologist and has assisted the schools and other organizations of Jackson County on numerous occasions with his knowledge of plants and wildlife." RIDENOUR

My father, Emory Martin Ridenour, and mother, Anna Elizabeth Sayre, were both born in Jackson County, West Virginia; however, since the Sayre family will be adequately represented in this book by others, my contribution will relate mostly to the Ridenour family.

The Ridenours seem to have had their beginning in America in the state of Maryland, but like many early settlers moved on to the state of Ohio. There in the county of Jefferson, great-great-grandfather, David Ridenour, married Elizabeth Easterday, 8-22-1817. This couple and their children moved to Meigs County, Ohio.

David and Elizabeth's first born was my great-grandfather, Martin Ridenour. Martin Ridenour was born 2/19/1818 in Jefferson County, Ohio. He married Nancy Jane Hawley, who was born in Jefferson County 3-26-1820. Martin died 12-21-89 at the home of his son, Vitalis, in Kansas City, Kansas. Being a veteran of the GAR, he is buried in the national cemetery at Ft. Scott, Kansas.

Martin and Nancy Jane had eight children: Elizabeth, Sophia, Benjamin Franklin, Samuel, Mary Ann, William Thomas, James M., and Vitalis. Around the year 1860, the family moved to Jackson County, West Virginia from Letart Twp., Meigs County, Ohio.

Martin and Nancy Jane's first son, Benjamin Franklin, was my grandfather. Benjamin was born 1845 in Meigs County, Ohio, and died in Jackson County, W. Virginia in 1932. He was married 4-14-64 (while on leave from the W. Virginia 9th Regiment, Co. F, of the Union Army to Emeline Smith, daughter of Jackson Smith.

Benjamin and Emeline had 15 children: Alpha Omega, Nancy, Elizabeth, William, Mary, Hawley, Lewis, Emory, Iva, Cecil, Annie, Kenneth, Ida Mae, Cleophus, and Esta. Esta, the last of these children, died in 1982.

Benjamin, Emeline (Smith), Anna (Sayre), and Emory Martin Ridenour, ca. 1926

My father, Emory Martin Ridenour, was born in 1877, in Jackson County, W. Virginia, and died 1958, in Madison Co., Ohio. He married Anna Elizabeth Sayre, daughter of Abijah and Ellen Hartley Sayre, June 30, 1901, and lived on Cow Run several years before moving to New Sheffield, Pennsylvania. My uncle, Tom Sayre, younger brother of my mother, remembers carrying Velma, my oldest sister, and the oldest member of our immediate family, from his parent's home on Cow Run to uncle Chris Baier's home where my parents lived. Eight additional children were born to this marriage: Dorma, Clyde Otmer, (deceased 1989), Evelyn, Russell, Raymond, Emory (deceased 1917), Cecil, and Paul. Emory married again to Elsie Franeis. From this marriage two daughters were born, Hester Ann and Nancy Carolyn.

As the last child of the Ridenour/Sayre union, I am not as acquainted with the Jackson County surroundings and folklore as I would like; however, each year my wife, Maxine and I, find some excuse to visit uncle Tom Sayre and his children, my cousins, Ada Ruth, Quinten, Ralph, and Don. This "Jackson Co. magnetism" has captured our daughter, Karen, so that she now returns to Jackson County to seek her ancestry. Our son, Charles, lives in St. Louis. Submitted by Paul E. Ridenour

RICHEY/RITCHIE

Andrew W. Richey (1763-1828), his wife Martha Liten Richey, two children, and several of Andrew's brothers, came to America from County Cork, Ireland, in the late 1700s. Andrew's brother Craig Ritchie (1758-1853), and family came from Glasgow, Scotland. They migrated to Pennsylvania, purchased land, and became farmers. Andrew was also a fine mechanic. After the War of 1812, in which Andrew served with Regiment 1 of the Pennsylvania Militia, the Richey family came down the Ohio River on timbers (flat boats) and purchased land at Letart Falls, Gallia County, Ohio. Andrew and Martha had 11 children.

Andrew's son, John McCubry Richey (1786-1879), also served with Regiment 1 of the Pennsylvania Militia in the war of 1812. John married Rachel Smith (1786-1862) of Pennsylvania Dutch descent. To this union were born nine children. John was a schoolteacher and manager of an Inn in Chambersburg. When the owner of the Inn wanted to add a tavern and serve liquor, John and family left Pennsylvania and joined his father and mother, brothers and sisters in Letart Falls, Ohio. He continued to teach and farm. He bought large tracts of land, giving farms to his children. The land on which the Apple Grove Methodist Church was built was purchased from John and Rachael at $5.00 per 1/4 acre.

John's sons, William C. (1821-1891) and James (1825-1901), received farms side by side in Portland, Ohio, extending from the Ohio River to the hills. They were Home Guards during the Civil War and participated in the engagement at Buffington Island when the Morgan boys were foiled by Federal troops, Militia, and gunboats as they attempted to cross the river on their way to Kentucky. Jane's home was used as the army hospital. William married Lavina McDade (1826-1905), a sister of James' wife, Hannah McDade. William and Lavina had 13 children.

William's son, Arthur C. (1858-1936), married Laura V. Smith (1860-1946). In the early years of

A. C. and Laura Ritchie, Golda and Edna

Arthur and Laura's marriage, Arthur worked for a mining company in Butte, Montana, leaving their home in Portland, Ohio, in early fall and returning in the spring to plant the family garden and care for his family. When his eldest son, Ray, was 12 years old, he could lead their team of horses through the Ohio River to Buffington Island to plow the land. Arthur and Laura had seven children.

St. Dennis Mill

In 1902, Arthur brought his family to Ravenswood, Jackson County, West Virginia, where he bought the Mark Sayre family interest in the St. Dennis Mill and property along the Ohio River. He was a partner of Elmer E. Cross for eight years, buying his interest in the mill in 1910. Arthur and his son, Ray, (1890-1968), operated the mill until 1920, when Arthur sold the mill. The Ravenswood News headlines of February 12, 1920 read:

"St. Dennis Sold to Spencer men

Arthur played an important role in the public school system of Ravenswood. He served on the Board of Education for Ravenswood District for 17 years. With the able assistance of Frank Harpold, M.E. Ginther, and Dana Woofert, and others, he was instrumental in the building of a Ravenswood High School building. The Ravenswood News of December 1, 1921, headlines read:

ROY AND LAURA (EMERICK) ROGERS

Leroy Clay and Laura Belle Emerick Rogers lived in the Grant District near Medina on Little Sandy Creek in Jackson County during the hard times of the 1930s. But no matter how hard the times, visitors were always assured of a welcome in their home. They willingly shared what they had.

They were the parents of Emmet who married Wilma Fox, Jerald T. who married Mary Noma Foutty, and Katherine who married Joseph Vlach. One other daughter, Ethel Goldie, died at 3 months old.

Heinrich's parents were Christoff and Anna Emmerich. Christoff was buried in Delkenheim, Germany 13 March 1683. Anna was buried on 22 May 1688.

Mary or "Mollie" Smith was the daughter of Cummings and Elizabeth Wilson Smith. Elizabeth's parents were James and Martha Cross Wilson. Cummings was the son of Hyland and Lydia "Ida" Bailey Smith. Ida was the daughter of Absalom Bailey. Hyland's father is believed to be Major Charles Smith, Jr., who served in the Revolutionary War in 1777 at Yorktown and Winchester, Virginia. He later settled in Muses Bottom of Jackson County (then Virginia) in 1829. His father, Charles Smith, Sr. served in Washington's Militia in the French and Indian War in 1754. BERTHA (ARCHER) ROMINE

Bertha Archer was born on May 13, 1884, in Jackson County, the daughter of Megary and Sarah Aplin Archer.

The home place was located on Billy's Run, named for her grandfather, William Aplin, whom she greatly admired.

Bertha had one sister, Florence Archer Winter Scrote. They looked like twins but were a few years apart. Florence was the older. Their brothers were Clarence Archer, Willie Archer, Guy Archer, and McKinley Archer. The brothers lived most of their lives in Jackson County except for McKinley who moved to Akron, Ohio, where he raised his family.

Bertha Archer was very fond of books and learning. Through much reading and self-study along with attending Normal School, she became a schoolteacher. She taught in Jackson County and in Logan County. A picture of her with her students at Science Hill School, dated 1909, appeared in the Jackson County Herald on Friday 13, 1974. At her school in Logan County, she resided with a family on one side of the river and rowed herself across to the school on the other side. Among her students at that school were children of the Hatfield and McCoy families.

After her parents deaths in 1912 and 1913, (she had remained with them and taken care of them in their final days), she met and married Webster C. Romine of Roane County. She was 30 years old at the time. She sometimes said she was an "old maid schoolteacher" when she married. They were married on January 13, 1915, at Gay, while sitting on their horses in the middle of the muddy road. The "preacher" came out to them.

Bertha and Web established their home on a farm near Reedy, in Roane County. Their first child, a son named Buehl, was stillborn. Five other children followed: Garland, Eleanor, the only daughter, Webster Junior, Glenn, and Arthur.

The family moved to California during World War II. Webster Junior died at age 25, in 1951.

Bertha liked to observe nature — the plant and animal life, the natural scenery, and especially the birds. She was very fond of gathering four-leaf clovers. Supposedly, they brought "good luck". Her family still finds them pressed in her books.

Another great interest of hers was travel. This went with her love of nature. She would have enjoyed seeing the world. For much of her life, however, as it was for most farm families in her area, travel was very limited. After World War II, though, she was able to visit most of the states of this country as well as parts of Eastern and Western Canada. The trips were taken with her son, Garland, and Web, her husband.

Bertha Archer Romine lived to the age of 70 and died in Los Angeles on January 24, 1955. Her burial site is Forest Lawn, Glendale, Ca., far from her roots in Jackson County, W. Va.; but her life was formed, molded, and affected by the scenes and environment of the Hills of West Virginia.

JAMES THEODORE ROMINE

James Theodore Romine (1868-1954) married Mary Eldora (Dora) Jeffries (1881-1972), daughter of Francis Marion and Elizabeth (Montgomery) Jeffries, from Jackson County, and they spent their lives on a farm on Coxes Fork, Harper District, Roane County. First the post office there was called Jingo, later, Zona, and now Harmony. They reared nine children, four boys and five girls on this small farm. During the hard times of the 1930s, several of the children migrated to the Akron area to work in the rubber factories.

Following are the names and addresses of the children and their spouses:

Gomer (1902) married Beatrice Board, Akron,

Ohio. Iva (1904) married Ernest Hersberger (deceased), Akron, Ohio. Elva (1906) married George Hood, Akron, Ohio. Charles Everett (1908-1988) married Shirley Reed, Huntington, WV. William Theodore (Ted) married Mozella Matics, Parkersburg, WV. Opal (1911) married Clair Weaver, Uniontown, Ohio. Roy Forrester (1916) married Geraldine Weaver, Uniontown, Ohio. Olive (1918) married Adam Summerfield, Akron, Ohio. Goldie (1920) married Carl Starcher (deceased) Uniontown, Ohio.

The old home place is now owned by one of the daughters, Iva Hersberger. The house is furnished, and from time to time, some of the children still meet there to visit. PAULINE TAYLOR ROSE

I am Georgia Pauline Taylor Rose, born near Sandyville. I attended school there, first and second grade.

My parents, Allen Wesley Taylor and Velma

Warren and Pauline (Taylor) Rose

Lee Casto Taylor moved me and my only brother Leo. We attended Centennial school, my third year and Leo's first year. Some of my teachers were Gay Frazier and Ms. Rilla Skeen, who still lives near Ripley. My family then moved to Spencer and then to Ohio, on McKenzie Ridge, near Racine. We moved a number of times, but I completed high school at Racine, graduating in 1941.

I did housework and took care of Rev. Earl Scott and his wife and two sons. He died of cancer. She was a minister and performed my marriage in the parsonage at Portland, Ohio, to my only sweetheart, Warren H. Rose, on Dec. 6, 1941.

Warren and I raised four children; we have one son deceased. Our children are Chester Ray, Ralph Edward, Sr., Warren H., Jr., Edith Annette Hubbard, and Paul Kenneth Rose. We have 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

When Chester was 22 months old, Warren went to the Army. He did basic training in Camp Hood, now Fort Hood, Texas. He went to Japan for 13 months. He was discharged Sept. 30, 1946. After leaving the Army, he did farm work for about a year. We then bought a small farm on which I still live. I became a widow on Sept. 2, 1987.

Warren's parents were Neville Theodore and Martha Conger Rose. Martha was born at Drift Run. Neville's parents were David and Catherine Rose of Portland, Ohio. Warren's brother and sisters were Thelma, Evelyn, Grace and Guy. They all live in Ohio.

My brother and sisters are Francis Leo, who lived at Racine, Ohio; Blondena Mae Rainer, who lives at Stockport, Ohio; Doris Oleta Wilson, who lives at Brooksville, Fla., and Ruby Ruth Yarrington, who lives at Racine, Ohio. My mother lives at Racine and will be 82 this Nov. 2.

I remember my great-grandparents Frank and Sarah Balser and their children, Henry, Clarence, Virgil, Marshall, Blanch, Iona, Jessie, Virginia and Mary. Iona was my grandmother. She married Albert Casto and had two daughters, Cecil Mae and Velma Lee, my mother.

I remember my dad's father, John Taylor, but his mother died when dad was a small child. Dad's brothers and sisters were Franklin, Owen, Harry, Nora, Effie, Anna and Fannie.

I have vivid memories of Jackson County. I remember the Christmas before I was two. Dad got me a little black car, the wind-up type. The wheels turned it in a circle. It chased me around the kitchen table leg. I was scared to death of it. I can remember lots of dear friends and relatives that we visited in Jackson County. I do not know much about Grandpa Taylor's or Grandpa Casto's relative but I would love to have the histories of these families. Submitted by Pauline Taylor Rose

ROWAN

Great-great-grandfather Archibald Rowan, Sr., an emigrant, was born in Claughardown, Scotland in 1792. Archibald became a rebel against the oppressive Queen Victoria who caused the beheading of many men. Archibald hid on a ship bound for the U. S. in a cotton bale for four days before he came out of hiding. He became friends with the Ferguson family aboard ship. He fell in love with Helen, their daughter, born 1794 in Scotland. After arriving in New York, they were married. Their son, Archibald, Jr., was born in 1822 married Sarah Jane McCleary in Belmont, Ohio, 1849. Sarah was born in New York, 1828 and died at Cottageville, WV, October 18, 1915. Archibald died March 26, 1899. Grandfather McCleary came from Dublin, Ireland.

Archibald, Jr., enlisted in the Union Army. He fought under Philip Sheridan, captured at Cedar Creek during Sheridan's ride and imprisoned at Richmond, Virginia called "Libby Prison" until end of war. Great-grandfather bought a tract of land in Jackson County better known as the Joe Car Farm of Lickrun, 1837. He bought a farm adjoining his sister's which has been in the Rowan family about 140 years. He grew up in timber and brush so he bought a mattock. After the first half day of work and sweat, he planted his mattock down beside a sprout with the exclamation: There you are, I didn't put you there and I'm not going to take you out. He packed his skillet and pans on his back and started for Steubenville, Ohio. Later Archibald, Jr., gained the title to the deserted farm in Jackson County. He set off and drifted down the Ohio River and landed at Ripley Landing. He sold his boat and built a cabin in the wooded country. He proceeded to live and raise his family of 11 children.

Grandfather Edward David Rowan was born October 11, 1873 in Jackson County. He married Mary Edna King born November 20, 1876 and died November 13, 1923. They were the parents of seven children: Charles, Lee Roy, Ralph, Harold, Dana, Donald and daughter, Elsie. Edward was constable at the public hanging in Ripley. Over 5,000 people came to the hanging, selling all kinds of trinkets. The man showed no remorse for killing two sisters with an ax as he sat astride the casket and sang on the way to the hanging tree.

John Rowan, Archibald's brother, came to the U. S. to escape Queen Victoria's tyranny. He landed in New York and moved to Union, Monroe County. His son, John M. Rowan, was born around 1830 and had three children: John L., a sister Mrs. Allen Caperton, and Andrew Summers Rowan whose middle name was his mother's family name. Andrew was born April 23, 1857 and married Ida Symms on April 12, 1887. His second wife, Josephine Morris-de-Greayer, married 1904. Andrew graduated from West Point, 1881. He volunteered to take a message from President McKinley during the Spanish American War to General Garcia Insurgent. Garcia was marooned in the interior of the island surrounded by the Spanish Army. Rowan's feat was immortalized in Elbert Hubbard's book which became a classic. A home for senior citizens in Sweet Spring, West Virginia is named the Andrew S. Rowan Memorial Home in honor of the famous message bearer.

Another relative, Judge John Rowan, built a colonial residence on Federal Hill in Bardstown, Kentucky, 1797. In 1853, Steven Collins Foster visited his cousin Rowan's home and was inspired to write the famous song, My Old Kentucky Home.

Harold Rowan's son, Ramon Edgar, now deceased, followed his ancestor's footsteps by being appointed to West Point, 1948.

Elsie (Rowan) Dayton's son, Walter Dayton, served in the Army during the Viet Nam War stationed in Germany.

Charles and Effie Rowan's son, Spencer, served with the ROTC while attending Ohio State University

ARCHIBALD ROWAN

Archibald was born in Scotland about 1788. He was a weaver and became one of the participants in the Weaver's Revolt in Glasgow in 1820, and to escape beheading after the failure of the uprising, fled to America. His wife was Helen Ferguson, and the children were: Mary, Thomas, Archibald, John, Helen, Jenitta, Jane, and Anne.

The immigrants lived for awhile in New York, then moved across the mountains to Steubenville, Ohio.

In 1838, Archibald Rowan bought 100 acres of land in Jackson County, Virginia, from Benjamin Mairs for $200.

After a short time, Archibald realized he was not a farmer. The story goes, he had stuck his mattock in a stubborn root and declared, "I dinna put ye thar, and I'll nae take ye out," and subsequently loaded up his family and went back to Steubenville.

Twenty years later, the land was again farmed by the son, also named Archibald, born 1821. He married Sarah Jane McCreary, born 1829, and their children were: Albert, Thomas, Elizabeth, Penola, Archibald W., Rosetta, Samuel, twins Helen and Addie, William and Edward.

Before he brought his family down from Meigs Co., Ohio, he came alone by river boat bringing the household goods. On the first trip he stopped to see the Douglass family at Ripley Landing, stayed for supper, and tried to walk the three miles around the hill on Lick Run in the dark. He got lost and with the dawn followed the sounds of roosters crowing, arriving back at the Douglass place in time for breakfast.

He joined the Union Army in August 1862.

Archibald Rowan, 1862

While he was off to war, his son Samuel died. In October, 1864, he was captured at the battle of Cedar Creek, Virginia. He was held at Libby Prison in Richmond, where he made shoes as a condition of extra rations. His ration was a potato a day that he roasted in the coals of the fire. Archibald was paroled February, 1865, sent to Camp Chase, Ohio, and mustered out in June. Archibald contracted a disease of the bowels in these last months of the war, and his efforts to secure compensation for disability left many names, places and dates in the public record. His widow did eventually get $12 a month, years later.

Albert Rowan, born 1850, married Jane Clementine Hartley, born 1854, the eldest daughter of Edward and Elizabeth Hartley of Ravenswood. After a short time farming in Illinois, they secured a land claim in Western Kansas. They were so impressed with the open, flat land, no rocks, no roots, they also obtained a "tree claim", the requirement being that they plant trees. Then they discovered the land had no shelter and no water. A trade was made for land along Pawnee Creek. Their children were: Charles, Benjamin, Nannie, Edith, Albert, and Chestina.

Albert, and his brother Archibald W., then living in Missouri, made a trip home in 1902, and wrote a long poem describing how things had changed in 20 years and how heartbreaking was the final parting. Albert died a year later. Submitted by Joseph Pontins

The 1856 Homestead Farm is a 60-acre working farm. The family raises registered cattle and has pleasure horses.

The farm house was built in 1856 by David Woodruff who owned 700 acres, part of which is now called Woodruff Acres Subdivision. The house was made of red clay bricks which were cast on the property. There is a full basement accessible from the rear of the building, and they drove teams of horses into the basement during the Civil War.

The present driveway leading to the home from U. S. Route 33 was once known as the Gilmer-Ripley-Ohio Turnpike and was heavily traveled as people had much business with the packet boats on the river.

In 1880, Woodruff sold the house to William

Richard E. Rowe home, 1898

Crow, a son of George and Susanna Crow, who lived just down the road in a house very similar to this one, presently owned by Russell Isaacs. In 1899, the farm was sold to Enoch McIntyre and it thrived during those years. A large barn was constructed near the present barn, with 90-foot virgin timbers taken from the bottom land. It passed to his heirs in 1933 and his son, William McIntyre, acquired all the shares in 1944. In 1968, Mayme Woodruff Armstrong bought 300 acres of the farm and this home built by her grandfather. Ken McIntyre retained part of his father's farm and still lives on it nearby. Grant Donohew purchased the farm and developed Woodruff Acres from a portion of it, selling the farm house to Tom Goodwin in 1973. The Rowes purchased the home in 1978 and did a major renovation of the home, leaving intact much of the original structure.

ELAINE ROWLEY

"I wouldn't change my life with anyone else because of the friends I've made," said Mrs. Elaine Rowley, writer of the weekly column RIGHT AROUND RIPLEY, "I never met a stranger."

Life wasn't easy for the NEWS correspondent who became a widow at the age of 33 and was left with seven children to support — the youngest only three months old when her husband was killed.

"My husband was cutting a tree behind our barn when it fell on him. I found him lying in the snow," she said. "We were living on the farm at Rockcastle at the time. I stayed on the farm for several years then sold it and moved to Ripley."

While still living on the farm, Mrs. Rowley returned to college in order to obtain an emergency certificate so she could teach school.

"In order for me to continue teaching I would have had to take further training. This wasn't possible, so I took a job as a waitress in order to earn enough to support my children," said Mrs. Rowley. "I worked as a waitress for three years and then went to work at the Spencer Manufacturing Company at Kellwood, a sweater factory on Route 14."

Mrs. Rowley worked at the sweater factory for 20 years, having retired from there two years ago. During that time, she did little writing, other than a ghost story which sold to the Fayette Magazine for $125, plus she also wrote seven stories that were purchased by the Charleston Gazette.

The NEWS correspondent was born in Kanawha County but moved to Ripley at the age of three. "I've always lived within an eight mile radius of Ripley," she said. "I attended Ripley schools and graduated from Ripley High School. At the age of 12 I wrote a poem for the Valley Bulletin, a creamery bulletin. My father took the poem to the business and I received $1.00. When I was 13 years of age I wrote another poem for Fred D. Wolfe, who was the editor of the Mountaineer. After I graduated from high school, I began writing a column for him which I titled, "Right Around Ripley."

She continued to write the column for ten years and then got married and started to raise a family. "I had seven children in 13 years and didn't have time to write," said Mrs. Rowley.

Even though the responsibilities of raising seven children without a father wasn't easy, Mrs. Rowley was never sorry she had the children. "They've been my very life," she said. She is the mother of three boys and four girls.

NOTE: The above was reprinted from an article in the RAVENSWOOD NEWS.

Elaine's children are: Bennie Lee (b. July 14, 1936) married first, Maxine Kay, then Louise Hembree; Mary Margaret (b. Two of the sons, Johnny and Benny, are brickmasons and live in High Point, N.C. Rusty works at Lakin State Hospital and the youngest child Faye, is an LPN and lives at Gay, W.V. HOMER G. AND VIRGINIA SAFREED

Homer G. Safreed (November 10, 1904) was born and raised at Sherman, WV up the Little Sandy Road where Orland Jones now lives. Homer's parents were William Henry Safreed (November 30, 1865-1955) and Julia Ann Knox Safreed (1875-1968). On August 29, 1925, Homer married Sarah Virginia Davis (July 27, 1900-January 15, 1979). At the age of 14 Homer started working for the Eureka Grindstone Company on the Ulysses Grant (Lee) Aten Place, at Sherman, WV. The Child Labor Law allowed children under 16 to work eight hours so Homer would work just eight hours and quit. The pay was twenty cents an hour. After working there a number of years he went to Akron for a year. He then came back home and started the stone quarry again. He was also a blacksmith for the Government repair crew on the Ohio River. He then went into business for himself repairing automobiles and after that repairing lawn mowers at "Safreed's Auto and Lawn Mower Repair Shop" across from Cope's Market in North Ravenswood. Homer closed the shop September 1988. One of Homer's favorite stories is that after he built the repair shop in 1937, he wired it and then went down to Charlie Karr's hardware store and bought five 150W light bulbs, Hi-Grade brand. The cost was $1 for all five. One of the bulbs burned for 17 years.

Homer's brothers and sisters were: Helen Murrel (Spears) (Brammer) (1900) lives in Arizona, Mildred Gertrude (Petty) (1901-1923), Dorothy Emma (Salser) (Davis) (Davis) (1907) lives in Arizona, Edwin Elsworth (May 22, 1910), lives in Ravenswood, and Harold Monroe (1916-1937).

The parents of William Henry were Isaac and Julia Ann Bowen Safreed. Isaac's brothers and sisters were: Joshua, Mary, John, David, Joseph, Sarah, Samuel, George and Hannah. Their parents were John Lewis (1792-1860) and Elizabeth Rinehart Safreed (1782-1855).

Census records show that this John L. Safreed, his wife, Elizabeth and nine children, were in Jefferson County, Ohio (Steubenville) in 1829. In 1831, the family traveled down the Ohio River to Buffington Island, which is located across the river from Sherman, WV. The family lived on Buffington Island until 1841, when John L. purchased a tract of land on the West Virginia side of the river, here the family stayed and John L. is said to be buried on this land. So far his grave has not been found.

Homer's wife Virginia was the daughter of George (1863-1943) and Anna (Swain) Davis

Homer is now retired and resides at 1111 Ann Street, Ravenswood, WV. Submitted by Homer G. Safreed

JOHN LEWIS SAFREED

About 1840 John Lewis Safreed moved from Meigs County, Ohio to Jackson County. John Lewis purchased a tract of land and he and his family ended an odyssey which began in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania sometime after 1822. John Lewis Safreed probably became the ancestor of the Safreed family in West Virginia and his descendants are now scattered throughout these United States.

John Lewis Safreed was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania in 1792. His father was purportedly Battres Safreed and his mother's first name was Barbary. No record of either parent has been found in Pennsylvania. John Lewis married Elizabeth Rinehart about 1812, probably in Lancaster County.

The family is first listed in the 1820 census of Leacock Township, Lancaster County. The family head was given as John L. Seafried (note the spelling). The family consisted of three males and one female ten years of age or younger, one male age 26 to 45, and one female age 26 to 45.

John L. is listed in the tax records of Lancaster County for the years 1820, 1821 and 1822 as John L. Safreed (note spelling). Thus he was a taxable, but he paid no tax on any property either real or personal. Apparently the Safreeds left Pennsylvania sometime after 1822. The family was next found in Jefferson County, Ohio in 1829. Later they moved to Meigs County, and then, as noted above, they emigrated to Jackson County.

John and Elizabeth were parents of seven sons and three daughters, and those progeny are the ancestors of most, if not all, of the Safreeds in West Virginia. Elizabeth Rinehart Safreed died in 1855, probably in Jackson County, although no grave has been found. John L. was remarried to his second wife, Christena Dernberger (Spelled as it appeared on the marriage certificate), a widow, on July 10, 1856 in Jackson County. The marriage certificate for that marriage established the parentage and birthplace of John L. Safreed.

Christena Derrenberger was born in 1806, probably in Jackson County, although she may have been born in Meigs County, Ohio. She was the daughter of Elijah and Margaret Alkire Staats (see Staats history elsewhere). There was no issue from the second marriage of John Lewis Safreed.

John's first son was named Joshua and Moore related an interesting story about him. As students of Jackson County history may recall, the Ohio River became an important waterway for river boat traffic, and Ravenswood, West Virginia became an important port and stopping place for the big steamboats, which traversed the river during the 1800s. According to Moore: "... as the residents became involved in river activity, it was bound to happen that some would be involved in some unfortunate incidents. One of these was John Dernberger. Another local man attempted to gain his fortune on the steamboats. His name was Joshua Safreed and he was known for his skill around riverboats. He obtained the job of first mate on one of the local steamboats. Safreed logged many miles before he met his doom. Safreed's demise occurred when, during a race, one of his boat's boilers exploded near Memphis, Tennessee, and blew him and part of the boat into the water."

John Lewis Safreed, was certainly a family man, because he was quite conscious of the number and condition of his children and grandchildren. This was evidenced by a letter which he wrote to a sister in 1855. The letter was apparently written just a short time before the death of John's wife, Elizabeth. It is reproduced below in its original form:

Little Sandy Krick Jackson Co. Va.

February 18, 1855

My Dear Sister: I received your letter dated the 20 of January last which surprised me that you did not receive my last letter sent to you. I wrote a letter to you shortly after Susanahs death and have not got no answer since your last above written. I am so very sorry it so happened. We are all well at present but some of my grandchildren sick with scarlet fever, but are getting better and I hope these few lines may find you in good health.

Me and my Companion are as we first began in life. My children are all doing well in wealth and (their) children 43 in number, 20 boys and 23 girls, more expected. Dear Sister I could wish to see you onst more in this world, and sister Catherine and family and let me know about them in your next letter to me. I am getting old and very much afflicted with the rhumetism so that I can hardly write any more, being so nervous in my right arm though I enjoy good health otherwise Thank the Lord. I think you could make some arrangements to come out and live with me if you weaul take courage, the time would be so short in coming out that you would hardly feel it in 18 hours from Philadelphia. I want you in inquire in

Potstown of Joseph Hencks and inform him of our present welfare and tell him to write to me, himself and brothers-how they all are. No more at present but remain your Effectionate Brother John L. Safreed

Direct your letter Ravenswood Postoffice, Jackson Co. Va.

John Lewis Safreed died in Jackson County in 1860. Family tradition holds that he is buried on the property which he purchased when he came to the county. However, no grave has been found.

The author of this article has a listing of nearly 100 Safreed families, all of whom are descendants of John Lewis. At least 12 of them still reside in West Virginia. Others live in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, New Jersey, Florida, Michigan, Oklahoma, Arizona and California. These do not include, of course, those hundreds of descendants of Safreed daughters who have married, and mothered others, as for instance, the author of this article. SAYRE-HUGHES

Benjamin Sayre, first child of Daniel Sayre and Sarah Hall, born 1806 in Jackson County. Not much is known of Benjamin, as he died quite young, about 1830. His father and grandfather, David Sayre, were among the first families in the Jackson County area. Benjamin married Delilah Hughes January 1, 1828.

Delilah's ancestors also were prominent in Jackson County history. She was born August 14, 1810, the daughter of William Jonathan Hughes and Rebecca Staats. William married Rebecca Staats in January, 1805. William's parents were Jesse Hughes and Grace Tanner. Jesse Hughes was a well known Indian fighter. Parents of Rebecca Staats was Abraham Staats and Anna King. I read that the Staats family was believed to be the first white settlers in what is now Jackson County.

Benjamin and Delilah had one child, born before or shortly after Benjamin's death — Andrew Jackson Sayre, born April 22, 1830. Delilah later married Solomon Hall, October 24, 1833. They had seven children and moved to Illinois, where Delilah died January 13, 1879.

Andrew made up for being the only child of Benjamin by having twenty, possibly 22, children. He married first Roenna Lewis, May 16, 1852. Roenna was born 1833, parents unknown at this time, believed to be from Meigs County, Ohio. She died April 11, 1875, and although they lived all their married life in Jackson County, she is buried at Bicknel Cemetery, Meigs County. They had nine children: 1-William Wesley (April 29, 1853); married Leah Forman. 2-Elizabeth Florence (1856); married Allen Aleshire. 3-John Edward, (1858); married first Tallmadge Boyd, second, Rachel Ellen Smith. 4-Minerva (January 19, 1860); married first Harvey Rice, second, W.C. Dunlap. 5-Evaline "Evelyn" (1862); married John Degarmeior. 6-Lilly Leota (February 1867); married Julius Hunt. 7-Barbara A. (1869); married Grant Meadows. 8-Delphine "Della" (August 6, 1872), married Henry Phineas Roush. 9-Cora married Williams.

Andrew married Sarah Jane Jacobs February 5, 1878. She was born May 13, 1858, in Mason County. They had 11 children: 10-Louisa B. (October 23, 1878); married George McCoy. 11-Ella Belle, (1880); married Deweese. 12-Mary L. (February 1882). 13-David Benjamin, (July 22, 1885); married Mary Cain. 14-Harriet (July 22, 1887). 15-Nathan D. (July 1, 1889); married Esther Jane (July 29, 1891); 17-Cynthia, (1894). 18-Liddia (Lydia) (February 11, 1896); married Casto. 19-Rouie, (April 24, 1898); married Hartley. 20-Nettie Violet (August 12, 1901). Some researchers list Clida A. who died young and another Florence. They're not listed on Andrew's Civil War pension application in 1898. He said he had 19 children, all living. Another child was born in 1901.

Andrew enlisted in the Civil War September 16, 1862, Co. "H", 3rd Regiment, W. Va. Calvary; discharged June 30, 1865 at Wheeling.

Andrew died January 2, 1905. Sarah Jane died May 22, 1913. Both buried at Jacobs Cemetery at Elmwood, Mason County. Submitted by Juanita Hiltabiddle

Backgrounds of our families:

Elijah Sayre Jr. was the son of Elijah Sayre, Sr. His parents were Daniel and Sarah Hall Sayre, both buried in Staats Cemetery, Evans, Jackson County. Elijah Sayre, Sr. married Mary Jane Hunt, a daughter of Abijah and Mary Jane Hughes Hunt both buried in Antioch Cemetery, Jackson County.

Alpina Margaret Anderson Sayre was a daughter of Samuel and Victoria Edmonds Anderson both buried in Anderson home cemetery, Jackson County.

The highlights of this background reveal interesting relationships that most families do not realize they have when a marriage takes place.

For example, when Waldo Hunt and Beatrice Sayre married there were already many family relationships.

Mary Jane Hunt, wife of Elijah Sayre, Sr. was a sister to Job Lewellan Hunt, the father of Benjamin Hunt that married Hannah Flowers, the parents of Waldo Hunt.

Hannah Flowers parents were Thomas Jefferson and Cynthia Anderson Flowers. Cynthia was a sister to Samuel Anderson, the father of Alpina Anderson that married Elijah Sayre, Jr., the parents of Beatrice Hunt.

Then when Waldo and Beatrice Hunts daughter, Gladys, married C.O. (Buss) Fox, they discovered many other Sayre, Hughes, Hunt, Fox relationships.

Mary Jane Hughes Hunt, wife of Abijah Hunt, was a sister of Job Hughes that married Anna King. Job and Anna were the parents of William Hughes that married Margaret Herdman. William and Margaret were the parents of Ella Bell Hughes that married John Fox. John and Ella were the parents of Edgar Fox that married Clara Sayre. Edgar and Clara were the parents of C.O. (Buss) Fox that married Gladys Hunt. Clara Sayre Fox was a daughter of Oscar and Eliza Jane King Sayre. Oscar was a son of David Sayre who was a brother to Elijah Sayre Sr. that married Mary Jane Hunt.

Arthur Sayre, a brother to Clara Sayre Fox, married Bell Postlewaite, a daughter Mildred married Walter Sayre, son of Elijah, Jr. and Alpina Sayre. Mildred was a cousin and aunt by marriage to Gladys Hunt Fox and first cousin to C.O. (Buss) Fox.

Mabel Fox, sister to C.O. (Buss) Fox, married Luster Sayre. Luster and Mabel had seven children, one infant, deceased, Delbert, Evrette, Darrell, James, Sandra and Shelia. Luster's parents were Fred and Nellie Pauline Sayre-Sayre. Nellie was a daughter of Daniel Floyd and Verena Anderson Sayre. Verena was a sister to Alpina Anderson that married Elijah Sayre, Jr. Daniel Floyd and Elijah Sayre, Jr. were the sons of Elijah Sayre, Sr. that married Mary Jane Hunt, a daughter of Abijah and Mary Jane Hughes Hunt, a sister to Job Hughes that married Anna King.

Glenmer and Joe Fox brothers to C.O. (Buss) Fox also go back in these Sayre, Hughes, Hunt, Fox lines.

Glenmer Fox married Mila Baier; Glenmer and Mila had one son, Ernest, one daughter, Barbra June. Mila's parents were Levi and Elizabeth Stewart Baier. Elizabeth's parents were Alonzo and Kaziah Sayre Stewart. Kaziah's parents were Ephriam and Mazilla Hunt Sayre. Mazilla's parents were Abijah and Mary Jane Hughes Hunt, a sister to Job Hughes that married Anna King. Ephriam was a brother to David Sayre, father of Oscar Sayre and brother to Elijah Sayre, Sr. that married Mary Jane Hunt, a sister to Mazilla.

Joe Fox married Ethel Ankrum. Joe and Ethel had one daughter, Carolyn, died at age three, three sons Jerald, Alvin and David. Ethel's parents were Clyde and Myrtle Stewart Ankrum. Myrtle was a sister to Elizabeth Stewart Baier.

All our backgrounds brought about various other pleasant relationships. Submitted by Herman Fox and Ivan Fox

ABEL AND RUTH SAYRE

Abel Sayre, son of David and Sarah Little Sayre, was born March 14, 1799, in Monongalia County, Virginia. Coming with his father's family about 1810, Abel became one of the early settlers of Jackson County.

Abel married Ruth Parson, born circa 1802, daughter of George Parsons and Mary "Polly" Sleeth Parsons, born 1780.

Polly's father was a son of Charles Parsons, reputed "Indian Fighter," Revolutionary Soldier, and early settler of Jackson County. He married Elizabeth Chestnut. George died about 1823 and is buried at Frozen Camp, Jackson County.

Abel Sayre became one of the largest land owners in the Parchment-Evans area of the County.

Being interested in the church and school, records show that he and Ruth conveyed a certain plot of ground to be used for public school and public worship to Ephraim S. Evans, Elijah Staats, David Woodruff, Daniel Sayre, and George Stone as trustees. The names of the trustees would indicated that the deeded land was around the Evans-Angerona area.

Hardesty's History states that Abel served in 1831 on the first grand jury in Jackson County.

Abel Sayre died August 5, 1862. Ruth Sayre

ABIJAH SAYRE

My grandfather, Abijah Sayre (17 May 1849-25 January 1925), the oldest son of Mazilla (Hunt) and Ephraim Sayre 2708-8 was named for his grandfather, Abijah Hunt. He married, 24 December 1874, Ellen Hartley (22 July 1850-2 September 1934), a neighbor girl, born in Harrison County, Ohio to Thomas and Lydia (Tomlinson) Hartley.

Abijah and Ellen Sayre

They went to housekeeping in a saw mill shanty located on his father's farm. During the first year of their marriage, logs were cut from the farm and a log house built on 25A. given to them by his parents. (This log house now stands at Riverfront Park in Ravenswood.) Here they lived and reared seven children. In later years additions were added to the log structure and all covered with poplar weather boarding cut from the farm and this is the home I remember of my grandparents. After the death of my grandfather, I would often spend the night with my grandmother. I well remember the mittens my grandmother knitted for my brothers and me with yarn spun from wool of sheep raised on the farm and dyed with walnut hulls and poke berries.

My grandparents were instrumental in the building of Antioch church where they were members. They are buried in Blaine Memorial Cemetery.

Their children:

1. Holly Irvin (28 September 1875-30 July 1924) married 24 February 1901 Anna Love, daughter of John and Martha (Ayers) Love. They went to Aliquippa, Pa. where they lived and reared four children; Beatrice, Inez, Byron and Lillian.

2. Stephen H. (21 September 1877-21 November 1908) married 2 April 1903 Anna Ridenour, daughter of Benjamin F. and Emaline (Smith) Ridenour. One child died in infancy. All are buried in Hopewell Cemetery, Mt. Alto, W. Va.

3. Anna E. (7 January 1881-24 December 1929) married 30 June 1901 Emory Martin Ridenour, son of Benjamin F. and Emaline (Smith) Ridenour. They moved to Pennsylvania and then to Columbus, Ohio. Both are buried in Union Cemetery in Columbus, Ohio. Children were: Velma, Dorma, Otmer, Evelyn, Russell, Raymond, Cecil and Paul.

4. Josie E. (24 August 1883-13 April 1917) married 19 March 1913 Lemon Miller. No children. Buried at Blaine Memorial.

5. Lora J. (4 April 1886-5 May 1973) married 25 September 1912 David E. Smith, son of David and Nancy (Shinn) Smith, one son, Thomas. Buried at Blaine Memorial.

6. Thomas Edison (11 December 1890-), my father, married 1 November 1916 Minerva Florence Sayre, daughter of Oscar and Eliza Jane (King) Sayre. (See Oscar Sayre). Their children: Ada Ruth, Quentin, Ralph and Don.

7. Mary M. (23 August 1893-19 November 1966) married 24 December 1924 Theodore Fox, son of John and Ella (Hughes) Fox. Children were: Carl and Phyllis. Submitted by Ada Ruth Sayre

B.F. SAYRE

Benjamin Franklin Sayre, Jr. was born at Evans, W.Va. on June 22, 1887. He was the youngest son of Benjamin Franklin Sayre and Mary Sayre. He grew up with his six brothers and sisters on the family farm at Evans, across from the Evans Fair Ground.

On April 10, 1912, he married Ruth Elizabeth Sayre (8 December 1888), the daughter of Oscar and Eliza Jane Sayre of Angerona. At the time of their marriage, Ruth taught school. After marriage they built a home on a 100 acre farm tract on Johns Run near the Mason-Jackson line. Three sons were born on the farm before they moved to Parkersburg in 1919, where they lived on Cornwall Street. While in Parkersburg, B.F. and Ruth were active members of the First United Brethren Church, both teaching Sunday School classes.

He is buried in the Otterbein Cemetery.

Ruth and the boys moved back to Jackson County after the death of B.F. and she eventually established a home in Cottageville. She maintained this home until all three boys were through Union High School, the youngest graduating in 1942. During this time she was active in the U.B. Church, serving as Sunday School Superintendent. For several years she was the operator of the switchboard in Cottageville until the "hand crank" telephone became obsolete. Her father, Oscar, made his home with her for five years, until his death in 1942.

On September 25, 1942, Ruth married Wade King, and shortly thereafter they moved to Parkersburg, making their home on 33rd Street until her death on July 20, 1958. Death was caused by complications from arthritis. She also is buried in Otterbein Cemetery.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN SAYRE

Benjamin Franklin Sayre (1844-1926), son of Joseph 2701-8 and Rachel McGuire Sayre, was born near Evans, Virginia. He was a farmer and carpenter. Family history relates that he was building a house on Cow Run for his uncle, Ephriam Sayre. There he became acquainted with Ephriam's daughter, Mary. He married his cousin Mary (1846-1922) in 1874.

He was known as B.F. Sayre or Frank Sayre. He was actual uncle to about 55 children and most all young people in area called him Uncle Frank. In the late 1800s and early 1900s he was a local Justice of Peace and some people called him Squire Sayre.

The home of Frank and Mary Sayre was on the approximate 330 acres of land deeded to him by his father, Joseph Sayre. This was across the road from Otterbein Church going towards Evans. The home had nearby summer kitchen which also housed a spring and cream separator.

He was a progressive farmer and one of first to use chemical fertilizer and to use a silo for storage of cattle feed. There was a pond and ice house in front of house and if winter weather permitted, he would have ice cut and stored for use in summer.

He was a charter member and stockholder of the "Mill Creek Valley U.B.C. Campground Association" of Evans, West Virginia. This was formed in 1890 for purposes of holding camp meetings, reunions, etc. The campground was located next to road in front of Staats Cemetery. In 1891 he purchased shares of "The Jackson County Farmers Stock and Mechanical Exposition Association." This was the "Jackson County Fair" which was held on Cunningham property adjacent to Otterbein Church. In early 1900s the annual Sayre reunions were held at the fair ground.

Later in life he was an amateur weather observer. He daily took high and low temperature, rainfall and barometer readings. These were mailed to U.S. Weather Bureau in Parkersburg, West Virginia.

CRISS AND MARY (MILLER) SAYRE

Criss Coe Sayre, son of George and Mazilla Henderson Sayre, was born July 28, 1897 at Cow Run, Mason County. He was three when his family moved to Jackson County. He attended Beech Grove school. All of George's boys inherited his love of horses but Criss most of all. This family trait went back to Grandpa Abel who was a jockey and weighed 90 pounds. The boys loved to ride the horses. Farmers mostly kept the Morgan breed — a general purpose horse used for riding as well as working or in their buggies and wagons. There were no draft horses.

When Criss was old enough, he went to a railroad job in Columbus, Ohio. His older brothers, and other Cow Run boys, were already working there. They got up early on Monday morning and walked to Millwood to catch the train. Criss soon earned enough money to buy his first saddle horse. Her name was "Ginger." Now he didn't have to ride "Pa's" horses any more.

The Cow Run boys would ride into other communities to dances or church events, sometimes causing quite a stir. This made the local boys angry and sometimes there would be a fight. Most all boys carried some kind of protection — knives, pistols, or "knucks" — the latter were made of metal and fit over the fingers. When Grandpa's well in the yard (walled up with rock) was cleaned out they found "knucks" that Grandma had thrown in at some time.

After a trip across the country to Poplar Creek (near Leon) Criss came home telling the folks about his pretty, little girl friend. Criss married Mary Lena Miller (born April 5, 1902), daughter of John and Margaret Pickens Miller. Their children: Dorsel, Flossie, Cecil, Ann, Raymond, Sidney and Gay Lee. They lived on farms when their children were small, moving to Toledo during WWII.

Mary, Sidney and Criss Sayre

While living in the country, Criss was never without a horse or two. He liked to trade for (or buy) a horse that had some flaw or limp and doctor it up. That's how he came by his first race horse, "Betty Barrett." She had been a winner but something had put her on the market. Criss shaped her up and entered her in races at the local fairs but would never put her in the long races. He found out later that's where she did best. They took her to Dunbar and Rock Springs, but the highlight of the year was Evans Fair. It was a gathering place all summer to watch the horses work out. Criss followed horse racing all the rest of his life, working with his son Raymond's horses at Toledo Raceway, Beulah Park, and Cleveland.

Janet, son Mike, Gay, unidentified man holding horse "Three Bears", Jockey John Dunn, Raymond (owner of horse), Criss (holding rein), and Cecil Criss worked ten years at American Shipyards in Toledo, OH. Mary worked eleven years at Johns Mansville in Waterville, OH. While living in Jackson County, she worked at the Courthouse in the Book and Craft room.

They moved back to Evans (Rte. 87) in 1957. Criss got another horse and Mary began planting her trees and flowers that are so beautiful now. She still takes care of her flowers at her home in Toledo. Criss had a quick wit and a quick temper. He could come up with original expressions. Stories told while fox-hunting are still being repeated today. Criss died Dec. 7, 1969, and buried in Long View Cemetery.

Dorsel, born Mar. 31, 1922, and his cousin "Lo" joined the Navy in Oct. 1941, serving in the South Pacific during the war and were never separated. Dorsel married Pauline Graham Johnson, born 1922. They had three children: George Ezekiel, born Sept. 1950; twins — James and Shirley, born March 23, 1952. Dorsel died May 12, 1974.

Flossie, born Feb. 16, 1924, married Londus Sayre, born Dec. 8, 1913. In Gallia County, Ohio, now Meigs County, Daniel married 19 June 1806 Sarah Hall (1782-1871) daughter of Joseph Hall. (His uncle Daniel 548-6 also married a Sarah Hall). ELIJAH SAYRE

Elijah Sayre, 2705-8, son of Daniel and Sarah Hall, born September 16, 1816, died March 29, 1910. His grandfather, David Sayre (born 1762) brought his family from New Jersey in 1799 to Virginia, then to Letart Falls, Ohio, from there to Jackson County, (West) Virginia near Evans in 1801. Elijah's father, Daniel, became owner of large amount of land in the Evans, Cow Run and Parchment area.

March 1, 1840 Elijah Sayre married Mary Jane Hunt (March 1826-1923) daughter of Abijah and Mary Jane Hughes Hunt. Records show they were still living on Cow Run in 1860 and sometime later moved to the Parchment Valley community (Johns Run) which is now the Paul McIntyre place. Here Elijah and his boys cleared the hills for pasture and cut virgin timber for their new barn, house, and out buildings. With a big family to support, it took a long time to save enough money for the new house. The story is told how Grandma sewed this savings into their feather tick for safe keeping. The house they built lived in the memory of grand-daughter all her life; the big fireplace with the cherry woodwork on each side, the mantel-piece, the curved stairway, big halls and porticoes, and the beautiful picket fence. Cut stone foundations, huge sills and beams have kept it standing straight and tall to this day. At that time carpenters lived with the family while building a new house.

Elijah Sayre house

In this house, in beautiful Johns Run Valley (it flows into Parchment), they raised the following children:

Elijah and Mary Jane (Hunt) Sayre

Elijah died March 29, 1910 at age 93 years, 6 months, 11 days. The following quote is taken from his obituary, contributed possibly by Sam Brooks, "He was an honest man and a great benefactor of the poor. He was not only a believer in relieving suffering of the poor but a doer in reality and truth. No strange or poor man was ever turned from his door. He divided with the needy and the poor. As an illustration of this he raised 18 orphans and did a good part by them. Me thinks I can hear Christ say, 'In as much as you have done it unto these, you have done it unto me'."

He is buried in the family cemetery on his farm. Mary Jane died in 1923 at the age of 97. She is buried at Otterbein. Submitted by Lena Sayre and Rita (Sayre) Poling

GEORGE AND MAZILLA SAYRE

George Sayre, son of Able and Catherine Anderson Sayre, born October 22, 1860, Parchment Valley, near Evans, Jackson County. When very young he went to stay with "Uncle Davy" Sayre, who kept several work hands to clear land and plant crops on his big farm. Being small, he was paid half wages. One day as they were cradling wheat and had stopped for a rest, Davy said, "George, I've been watching you and you are doing as much work as the others, so I'll pay you full wages."

At this time there were several Sayre families in the neighborhood of Cow Run, Evans, Angerona and Parchment. The cousins worked together, stayed in each others home and were more like brothers and sisters. They, along with other young people made a road full of couples walking to and from Church, pie suppers, skating parties or whatever. Any house or barn being built called for a square dance. The fiddlers for these parties were Pete Herdman and his boys. The youngest of this large family was Mazilla Jane. Her mother, Nancy, died when Mazilla was six. George Sayre and Mazilla became dancing partners and on June 25, 1883 they were married. Their first home was at the head of Cow Run, right fork, on the hill above "Owl Hollow" in Mason County. In 1900 they moved to Jackson County, left fork of Cow Run, above Beech Grove, directly below Long View Ridge. A short time later George bought the adjoining property down the creek. This farm had two log cabins, one above the other. He joined the two, working with skids and a team of mules. He built a bedroom addition, making the house an L shape. The stairs to the loft went up by the large fireplace. Their next and permanent home was about a quarter mile down around the hill. This house had two large rooms with a steep roof. Grandpa built on to it with upstairs, making room for their family of eight. It was also home for two nephews who lost their mother, and later Jesse and Russell (Verna's two boys) came to stay with their Grandpa. George and his boys farmed other land, as well as their own. As the boys became old enough they went to work on the railroad, and came home every two weeks. Grandma washed their clothes down by the creek where she had her tubs, kettle, and clothes line. This was under two large trees covered with wild grape vines. Their clothes would be ready next time they came home. She always sang as she worked. She loved music; it being an inherited talent. She wanted to play the fiddle like her brothers, but at that time it wasn't considered lady-like. She would go out in the yard at night and listen to the foxhounds as they came over the hills and say, "what beautiful music!" To the little girl with her it just sounded like dogs barking. She loved flowers and had many different kinds around their picket fence. She rang the dinner bell at eleven o'clock for the workers in the field. Supper was at four. She was a true Christian. Granddaughters walked from church by her lantern light and later tried to imitate her calm way of life. In late October Mazilla suffered a stroke. Their youngest son, Tom, and his family moved in with them. She died December 5, 1939.

George Sayre with Prince and Spencer

Grandpa George Sayre had a good memory as long as he lived. He was a good story-teller. The children would have him tell over and over about life at "Uncle Davys" and the bear he kept in his yard. He died January 21, 1950. He and Mazilla are buried at Creston, Mason County.

GEORGE THOMAS SAYRE

George Thomas Sayre, son of George and Mazilla Herdman Sayre, was born August 31, 1899 in Mason County, W.Va. He married Corda Minerva Miller, daughter of Frank and Emma Stone Miller. George Stone brought his family to Jackson County in 1822 from Pennsylvania and settled below Ripley, his son John Stone reared two large families on 13 Mile Creek (Long Hollow) in Mason County (great grandfather and grandfather of Corda M. Miller).

G.T. Sayre and Tony

George "Tom" Sayre farmed with his father and worked on the railroad part time and in 1925 worked with his brother-in-law Dorsey Sayre at Goodyear in Akron, Ohio. Tom and Corda Sayre's first home was a log structure on the home place. In November 1925 the family moved to Dorsey Sayre's farm in Mason County. Grandpa Miller lived on the hill above the Sayre farm and Aunt Mamie's family lived on the opposite hill. The Sayre farm had a large house, barn and out-buildings. Tom could trade horses, fox hunt and work at his own speed. Corda was back near her homeplace and Lone Cedar School, and soon made this place home for her family. She enjoyed the farm life, having her own garden, raising chickens and turkeys. She kept her incubator in the back bedroom. She ordered a cream separator from Sears Roebuck and paid for it on a $5.00 monthly payment plan. Cordia Sayre had many talents. She could play the organ at Church and took great pride in her young people's group. She could sew and often made her daughter's dresses without a pattern. The catalogues were our shopping centers. When Corda's son "Lo" showed musical talent she ordered him a guitar from Sears. Tom Sayre and his son carried their instruments in pillow cases to the parties. Tom would play his fiddle after dinner every day. Tom's main interest was horses. He and brother Criss liked to go to the Evans Fairground and mix with the racing crowd. He had a taste of victory when in 1938 his horse "Dr. Joe Ervin" came in first, another time in second place.

Tom Sayre and his family moved back to his homeplace after his mother was stricken in 1939. They turned this farm into a miniature Turkey Ranch for several years. During World War II Tom worked at the T.N.T. Plant in Pt. Pleasant and later for Cunningham Construction Company. He kept two "American Bred" saddle mares and raised colts. Later changing his hobby to "Walker Fox hounds," he and his son "Tink" traveled to the dog shows, and often bringing back trophies. Tom traded for a cane mill and Corda became an expert tending the "pan." Tom fed the cane into the mill, with "Old Dot" at the end of the pole.

George Washington Sayre was the oldest of ten children of David Sayre, 1810-1895. David had five children by his first wife, Minerva Stone, 1819-1851, daughter of George and Lucinda Miller Stone and five by his second wife, Marthenia Hill, 1832-1872, daughter of Laben and Rebecca Woodruff Hill. David and wives are buried in Sayre Cemetery, Cow Run, Cottageville, WV.

George W. and Mary Jane Sayre

Flowers Lewis, 1817-1909. They are all buried in Otterbein Cemetery, Evans, WV. Her paternal grandparents were Andrew Lewis, 1799-1850, who married Jennie Boswell. Her great grandparents were Thomas Lewis, 1752-1800, who married Sallie Thornton and her great great grandfather was General Andrew Lewis, 1720-1781, who defeated the British and Indians at the Battle of Point Pleasant, the first battle of the American Revolution. General Lewis' wife was Elizabeth Givens and his parents were John Lewis 1678-1762, founder of Staunton, Virginia and Lady Margaret Lynn Lewis, daughter of the Lord of Loch Lynn, Scotland. John Lewis' parents were Andrew Lewis and Mary Calhoun, Donegal County, Ireland.

George and Mary Jane had nine children: Lenore Ellen (Ella) 1863-1945 who married William Beckwith, both buried at Blaine Memorial Cemetery, Cottageville, WV; Thomas Lewis, 1864-1882, buried Otterbein Cemetery; Minnie Myrtle, 1866-1924 who married William Henry Sayre, she is buried at Otterbein, he is buried at Kimberling-Sayre Cemetery, Arbuckle, Mason Co, WV; William David, 1868-1882, buried at Otterbein; Lydia Diana (Annie), 1870-1945, married James Okey Crum, buried at Antioch Cemetery, Cow Run, Cottageville, WV; George Harvey, 1872-1969, married first Arkie Ann Dulin, second Fanny Paugh, buried at Otterbein; Early Douglas 1875-1926, who married Minerva Barr, lived and died in Gaston, Indiana; Mary Agnes (Mayme) 1876-1962, who married Thornton Lloyd, buried at Blaine Memorial; John Jerome, 1878-1937, married first Emma Jean Barr, second Ella M. Cozart, buried at Otterbein. (Refer to John J. Sayre history)

Tragedy struck the family in 1882 when sons, Thomas and William drowned together in Cow Run while rafting logs.

After the death of Mary Jane in 1899, George married Frances Mintern. One child was born to this marriage who died in infancy.

George's grandfather, Daniel, 1785-1866 (Staats Cemetery, Evans, WV) and great grandfather, David, 1762-1856 (Staats Cemetery), were pioneers in Jackson County, settling in the Evans flats in 1800. This David's father was the David Sayre, 1736-1826, Revolutionary War soldier buried at Letart Falls Cemetery, Letart Falls, Ohio with an official D.A.R. marker at his grave.

"Pap George," as he was commonly called, was one of Union district's best known and best loved citizens. He operated a large farm during the greater part of his life, retiring and moving to Cottageville at the age of eighty. He lived to see Jackson County develop from a vast timber-land wilderness to one of the richest agricultural counties in West Virginia. His life spanned an incredible culture change and he liked to regale his many grandchildren with tales of his past. One story was about the Sayre School he attended in the 1840s. Of log construction, it didn't have windows, instead a log was left out and that opening was covered with greased paper which let light filter through. One wintery morning, teachers and students arrived to find a hungry hound dog had eaten the greased paper! School went on as usual with a cold west wind swirling through the opening, making the day pretty miserable for all.

George was a very thorough man throughout his long life. He planned things down to the smallest detail, even having made arrangements for his own funeral. From his many grandsons, he selected six to carry him to his final resting place. Years before his death, he commissioned a carpenter grandson, Hoyt Crum, to build a coffin of the finest cedar finished like a fine piece of furniture. Originally it was lined with cheesecloth, but when his daughter-in-law, Ella Cozart Sayre saw it, she purchased satin lining from a casket company and sewed and quilted and padded until the interior duplicated that of a purchased casket. When he inspected the final result, "Pap George" said "Gawsh, Gawsh!", his favorite expression, "that's fine enough to sleep in!"

George's ninety-ninth birthday was June 26, 1938 and on July 6, Jackson County's oldest citizen died. The man, in whose welfare a whole county had been interested, was carried to his final resting place in his beautiful cedar casket.

IRA AND EFFIE M. SAYRE

Ira Virgil Sayre (3/24/1888), son of George and Mazilla Herdman Sayre married Effie Miller, daughter of John and Elzina Barr Miller. They went by horse and buggy to Ripley and were married on the covered bridge. Their children are: Earl, Ira, Mabel, Violet, Ray, Velva, Dale and Ruby Doll. All the children were born in Jackson County, near Beech Grove, around the hill from Grandpa Sayre's. The family farmed, raised their own vegetables, "holed" up their potatoes, apples, and cabbage for winter use. Virgil worked on the railroad, mending track. He and his brother-in-law, Waldo Herdman, walked to Angerona (about two miles), rode the "skeeter," (hand car), to the job and walked back in the evening.

The older children grew up with their Sayre cousins and all went to Beech Grove School. There were three special events at the schools each year; pie suppers, Christmas programs, and the last day of school. The whole community turned out for these. Christmas was so exciting for the four little Sayre cousins: Mabel, Violet, Lena and Mildred. The program would hardly be finished when we would hear the firecrackers and yells of the boys outside that meant Santa was coming. He came in with a lot of stomping and whacking his cane, and carrying a big sack with a treat for every student. The Sayre boys were usually the ones making the most noise.

Earl and Ira had good friends on the hill above, John Fox and Ted Sayre. They hunted together, walked to church together and rode horses through the "Donohew Lease" to "Pickle-bean" Church. Ray's "buddies" were Pete and Babe Sayre, Ted's brothers. Ray helped them work their calves and ride on the buggy frame. They traveled many miles down the hills. Velva was the happy go lucky, high-spirited one. Dale loved the family pets. He was four when they moved, Ruby was the baby.

Ira Virgil Sayre with horse

It was a sad time for these cousins and friends when they heard talk that Virgil's family might move to Ohio. Earl at 17 worked for Dan McKown who owned a farm below Ripley. When Dan bought a farm in Ohio, Earl went there to work and soon located a big farm that was for rent at Burgoon, Ohio. Virgil rented this farm, bought three horses on Cow Run, and he and Jessee Fox hauled them to Ohio at night. A few days later Virgil's family moved to Ohio. Hoyt McCloud (Effie's sister, Alma's husband) had rented a farm there too, so both families moved at the same time.

Virgil's place was down a lane with a beautiful big house, barn and all kinds of equipment to work with. Their main crop for a while was sugar beets. Effie worked at the Heinz Company in Freemont. Virgil was a good farmer with plenty of help, and in a few years was able to have a place of his own. The family grew up, married, and most of them settled in that same section of Ohio. They always came back to West Virginia, especially to the family reunions. Several of the Shinn cousins are in that part of Ohio too, and keep in touch.

Virgil, Effie and Earl are buried in McCormley Cemetery, Ohio.

J. J. AND ELLA M. (COZART) SAYRE

John, buried in Otterbein Cemetery, Jackson Co., WV was the youngest of nine children of George Washington Sayre (1839-1938) and Mary Jane Lewis Sayre (1839-1899). He was a well known and respected teacher in Jackson Co., teaching from 1900 to 1935. He had a Lifetime Teaching Certificate, an indication of his scholastic ability.

Over his lifetime of teaching, he taught at Antioch, Brown, Silver Valley, Beech Grove, Walnut Grove (Angerona), Lone Oak, Fairview and Millwood schools.

In Anderson, Indiana, John married Emma Jean Barr, sister of his brother Douglas' wife, Minerva. The sister's parents were John W. "Buck" Barr (1831-1891) and Nancy Miriam (Hunt) Barr (1840-1917) who are buried in Spruce Cemetery, Jackson Co., WV. John taught that year, 1903-

1904, Spiceland School, Madison Co., Indiana. John and Emma then returned to Jackson Co., WV and bought a farm on Cow Run. In 1909, their son, Clinton Lewis was born. In 1912 Emma Jean died.

In 1915, John was attending Teachers Institute (College) in Ripley. His sister, Myrtle started him corresponding with her husband's niece, Ella Cozart from Charleston, WV. Myrtle's match-making worked for after a summer of letter writing, John and Ella met and were married that September. In 1919, their daughter, Reba Carmen was born. A year later she died of pneumonia. In 1923, another daughter, Audrey Lillian was born. In 1928, their third and last child, Herbert Douglas was born.

John Jerome and Ella M. (Cozart) Sayre

Ella Mahalia Cozart (Otterbein Cemetery) was the daughter of Isaac Cozart (1859-1916), oldest son of Lafayette (1836-1906) and Mahalia (Sayre) Cozart (1840-1920). Ella's mother was Sarah Hannah Sayre (1865-1943), daughter of Mark Gilman Sayre (1830-1917) and Mary Charlotte Parsons (1834-1916). Mark Sayre held the rank of second lieutenant in the Virginia militia in 1861. On August 29, 1862, he enlisted in the 13th Virginia regiment, took rank as corporal, participated in eighteen hard fought battles in the Civil War and received honorable discharge on June 22, 1865 at Wheeling, WV. Mark Sayre's parents were Ezekiel and Hannah (Gilman) Sayre, grandparents were David and Sarah Little Sayre who settled in the Evans flats in 1800. His great grandparents were David and Hannan (Frazier) Sayre. This David (1736-1826) was the Revolutionary War soldier buried at Letart Falls, Ohio.

Isaac and Sarah Hannah Sayre Cozart are buried in Spring Hill Cemetery, Charleston, WV. Mark Gilman and Mary Charlotte Parsons Sayre are buried in Kimberling-Sayre Cemetery, Mason Co., WV.

In 1911, Ella Cozart began work as a telephone operator in Charleston. Starting at six in the evening, she worked the switchboard until midnight. She could then go to bed, in a bed kept behind the lockers, until five A.M. Then it was back to work until seven when the day shift came. When C&P took over, one year later, they did away with this shift and removed the bed.

The first floor of the telephone building was offices, the second floor was rest rooms with another room where a matron, a Mrs. Dabney, looked after the telephone girls. Each girl took something, a potato and a chunk of sidemeat for example, and the matron cooked it for that girl's lunch. The telephone operators worked on the third floor amid a lot of heavy machinery. A precarious situation developed when it was discovered the large beams supporting the third story were riddled with termites. These beams had to be replaced, very carefully!

Ella made the munificent sum of twelve cents an hour at this job. Her previous job at the 5&10 store had only paid seven cents an hour. After working at the telephone company for a time, she started college and in 1915, graduated from Capitol City Commercial College with high marks, ready to join the business world. However, romance intervened and she married instead and moved to her husband's farm in Jackson Co. Her new husband, John, was proud of his college educated wife. He framed her diploma and hung it on their "sitting" room wall where he pointed it out to visitors. This did not endear her to the neighborhood wives who thought that since she was from the city she was uppity anyway!

Clinton Lewis Sayre (1908-1979), only child of John Jerome and Emma Jean (Barr) Sayre, married Olive Anderson (1912 -). They were the parents of five children: Karl, Ruth Ann, Pearl Jean, Eleanor, Cecil Ray. Karl Lewis (1934-34) and Ruth Ann (1939-39), died in infancy.

Pearl Jean (1935 -) married Keith Radar. One child: Vickie Jo (1954 -); Jean divorced, married Joseph Fowler (1925 -), one child: Jonathan (1969 -).

JASPER SAYRE

Jasper Newton Sayre, son of Elijah Sayre and Mary Jane Hunt Sayre and grandson of Daniel Sayre and Sarah Hall Sayre. Jasper was born January 16, 1858 at Huntsville (Cow Run), Jackson County. His brothers and sisters were Sarah Ann, Wesley, Louise, Fielding, Mary Isabelle, John Oliver, Daniel Floyd, Fisher, and Elijah Jr.

Jasper married Martha Anne Barnett, the daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Casto Barnett on June 16, 1878. She was born in Mason County on

Jasper and Martha (Barnett) Sayre with sons, Virgil, John and Floyd

June 11, 1858. Jasper and Martha's first home was in the Rockcastle Community, living there until their first child Samuel was born. After that they moved to Huntsville on Cow Run. Jasper was a good farmer and Martha a good help mate and as their family grew they prospered, and by the time our father Virgil was born they had bought the farm on the hill above them. It was on this land that they began building their dream home.

Their seventh child Howard was born in the new house. The new place overlooked beautiful Cow Run Valley. The barn Jasper built is still a landmark in that community today. It can be seen for miles around. The barn was made by building a wall of stone in the underground portion of it. The stones were hauled one at a time on a wagon drawn by three horses.

Jasper and his boys farmed the ridges overlooking Cow Run. They also went through the country buying livestock. This livestock was driven to Millwood and shipped to Pittsburgh either by boat or freight.

Grandma Martha was a strong lady, always keeping a large flock of chickens and turkeys. She raised a garden, canned, and she set a fine table for their family, work hands, or other guests that might stop by the house. Grandma was also an excellent horse woman. She could saddle up her own horse, hitch her own horse and buggy to visit her grandchildren across the hills.

Grandma Martha had a particularly close bond to her grandchildren because she raised some of them. One of these grandchildren, Avelce, was raised entirely by her. The trips alone with her horses gave her much time to think of her family. Many of her family had settled in Rockcastle, some later moving to Oklahoma. Martha's mother and father were among those who moved to Oklahoma. Jasper and Martha were members of Fairview Advent Church.

Jasper and Martha's children are:

1. Samuel Furman (December 9, 1878-October 23, 1957) married Julia Ann Mullinax. Their children are: Samuel Lucian Sayre, and Avelce Sayre Brown.

Their children are: Leone Sayre Jacques, Blaine Sayre, Layton Sayre, Dwight Sayre, Ralph Sayre, and Beryl Eileen Sayre Riggs Lawton

6. Delbert Virgil Sayre (May 2, 1890-September 20, 1983) married Lola Margaret (Maggie) Fox. Their children are: Arnold (Ted) Sayre, Marion Marshall, Beulah Bell, Cletis Wayne (Pete), Virgil Ledford (Babe), Donald Bedford (Tommy), and Lola Ardella Sayre Click.

7. James Howard Sayre (May 17, 1892-July 17, 1971) married Ida Durst. Their children are: Landus, Charlotte Sayre Robinson, Bernice Sayre

Dixon Saunders, and Madalyn Sayre King.

His second wife was Nancy Myrtle Donahew. Their children are: Floyd, Wyona Sayre Hill, Macile Sayre Allen, Viola Sayre Harris, and Keith.

Grandma Martha died April 1, 1934 on Easter Sunday at her home in Cottageville, WV. After her death a grandson Lucian came to live with Grandpa. Lucian later got a job in Pittsburgh, PA and later married there. Grandpa then gave up his home. He spent some time living with his son Hugh and later lived with his son Virgil. JOHN THOMAS SAYRE

John Thomas Sayre (1867-1952) was the son of Issac and Sarah Margaret (Love) Sayre. He was born in Angerona, W.V. As a young man, he carried the mail three times a week between Angerona and Point Pleasant, on foot.

With the arrival of the B&O Railroad branch from Ripley to Point Pleasant, John Thomas opened a grocery store about 1888 in then what was called Staats Crossing. The store became a hub of activity with John Thomas purchasing timber, serving as postmaster, freight agent for the B&O Railroad and Railway Express, and as a distribution point for salesmen's merchandise arriving by rail. His home doubled as a boarding house for salesmen traveling in the area.

The residents of Staats Crossing thought the town should have a shorter name. One Sunday morning they gathered to rename this town. When consensus on a name could not be reached, the residents each wrote their favorite name on a slip of paper to be drawn from a hat. John Thomas submitted the name Evans. Mrs. Lottie Staats drew from the hat the name of Evans, and from that day in 1888 the village has borne the name of Evans, W.V.

On October 21, 1890, John Thomas married Della Shinn (1869-1956), daughter of Allen Alford and Sarah Ann (Sayre) Shinn. They established their home in Evans, where they resided until 1943 when they moved to Parkersburg, W.V. Their Evans home is still prominent in the town and occupied to this day (1989).

In addition to farming and the grocery, John Thomas operated a large planing mill in the early 1900s. He shipped flooring, molding and dressed lumber from the mill. The planing mill was destroyed by fire in 1891 and never rebuilt.

JOSEPH SAYRE

Joseph Sayre 2701-8 (1808-1899) was the son of Daniel 1329-7 and Sarah Hall Sayre. He was born in the family home about one-half mile west of present village of Evans near Staats Cemetery.

Joseph Sayre

Jackson County was established in 1831 from parts of Mason, Kanawha and Wood Counties. Young Joseph Sayre assisted in surveying Kanawha-Jackson County line in 1832.

Joseph's father, Daniel, died in 1866 and willed his Sarah Province land with "love and affection" to his son, Joseph. During his lifetime Joseph divided the 1000 acres and deeded it to his three sons; Frank (Benjamin Franklin), Lafe (Lafayette) and Ceph (Josephus). He also apparently disposed of other holdings in Evans area. Joseph was a farmer, and later became a preacher and physician. A family anecdote states that Joseph was quite involved in religious writings and he was going to rewrite the Bible. When the assessor came around Joseph put such a high value on his writings he could not pay the taxes. He had deeded his land away and had nothing but a horse, so they took the horse to pay for the taxes.

Joseph was on the Board of Trustees when the United Brethren Church erected the first building at Otterbein in 1864. Land for the church and adjacent cemetery was donated by William Cunningham and his wife Elizabeth. A new Otterbein Church building was dedicated in 1896. The Joseph Sayre family was among those involved in building the new church building. Joseph also helped to establish the United Brethren Church at Mt. Moriah.

Joseph's parents, Daniel and Sarah Hall Sayre, and his grandparents (David and Sarah Little Sayre), are buried in a plot in Staats Cemetery. In approximately 1865 Joseph had the plot enclosed using four large stone slabs and eight iron rods. The cemetery (now cleared 1960s) became overgrown and the enclosure preserved the grave markers from obliteration.

Joseph Sayre married first, Melinda Staats (1814-1836). There were no children. Joseph married second, Rachel McGuire (1813-1885) and they had six children, listed below. Joseph and Rachel are buried in old part of Otterbein Cemetery. His tombstone reads Rev. Joseph Sayre.

Children of Joseph and Rachel Sayre: Martha (1839-1879) married Benjamin Hunt, one child Martha Ellen; Virginia (1842-1925) married Dr. Samuel Barber, twelve children: Laura Lenora, Joseph J., Rachel Ann, Hiley Louis, Elvira Ellen, Dora Belle, Adra Addison, Mary, Tennessee C., Flora J., John L., Martha E.; Benjamin Franklin (1844-1926) married Mary Sayre (1846-1922). See B.F. Sayre (1844-1926) to follow; Columbus (1847-lived one month); Lafayette (1848-1934) married Nancy Lewis (1845-1904) eight children, Finly, Bertie, Walter, Wirt, Otis, Jessie, Charles Melvin, Edgar E.; Josephus (1851-1917) married Elizabeth Caroline Hogsett (1852-1915) six children, Martin Luther, Flora Ellen, Nellie Bell, Ora May, Herbert, Watson Russell. *Submitted by John F. Laban Sayre's birthday dinner

Laban Sayre was a kind and gentle man. He became paralyzed several years before his death. He had a grandson, Laban Sayre, Jr., who made his home with him and who nursed and helped him through all of his afflictions. Laban Sayre, Jr. was with the Army in the Italian Theatre of war and was fatally wounded in battle. His comrades in arms carried him back behind the lines and he was later taken aboard a hospital ship to be transferred to a base hospital, but died enroute, and is buried in Spruce Cemetery. fire from Nazi guns. Laban Sayre, Jr. was the son of Otho "Doc" and Susie Hill Sayre, he also had two brothers who served in the armed forces, Richard and Ray Sayre.

They established their home on land deeded to him by his father, on a hill near the village of Angerona, W.V. He cleared the land, built his house, and all of his children were born there. They were the parents of ten children.

Oscar Sayre was my grandfather and I lived at this home for eleven years after my father, Charles R. Baker, died March 21, 1921.

This home was a sacred place to all who lived there or to anyone who had the privilege of visiting there. "Uncle Oscar" as he was known in the community was a friend to all who came his way. He maintained a Christian home all the years of their lives together. Grace at each meal and family prayer each night were a must no matter who was there.

Grandfather and grandmother lived to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary (January 23, 1929). All of their children were present for this occasion.

Grandfather joined the United Brethren Church when very young, at Antioch and took an active part as steward for most of his life. He was also a trustee of the Otterbein Church for a number of years. He was a faithful member of the Odd Fellows lodge at Cottageville, W.V.

He was a farmer and fruit grower. Springtime, the re-birth of the land, orchards in blossom, the sweet aroma filling the air, were special joys to all of us. One of the greatest enjoyments of his life was driving over the countryside with a wagon load of his fruit to Ripley, W.V. He gave much of it to ministers, friends, children and neighbors along the way. A very fond memory of my grandfather was his desire to always have a bucket of apples by the fireside in the winter. Anyone who dropped in was always welcome to enjoy an apple.

Grandmother Sayre died June 7, 1932. After her death, he remained on the farm until his health became poor, and then he made his home with his daughter, Ruth, at Cottageville, W.V.

Sunday, Sept. 2, 1979 was a memorable and happy occasion, when the descendants of Oscar and Eliza Jane Sayre met for a family reunion at the "Old Home on the Hill," to celebrate the 100th anniversary of this home. The only survivor of their children to attend was Florence Sayre with her husband, Thomas. The memories we all shared that day will never be forgotten. The rich heritage my grandparents left will always remain. Submitted by Wynema (Baker) Donahue and Charlotte (Donahue) Johnston

ROY O. AND IDA D. SAYRE

Roy Oliver Sayre (11/4/1892) (9/9/1970), son of George and Mazilla Herdman Sayre, in Mason County. The family moved to Jackson County near Beech Grove in 1900. At that time the road to Cow Run came over the hill at the top of the John King hill and followed the creek bed to the Davy Sayre place on Cow Run. When the County road was made it followed the ridge at John King's and down past Beech Grove. "Pa" Sayre graded this road with "Prince and Spencer."

Roy and the other children had a happy childhood, growing up with their Sayre and Herdman cousins; all living within a mile or two of each other. The John Fox family (also cousins), lived on the hill. When there was no place to go they gathered at each other's houses. George and Mazilla's children had all inherited a love of music, good voices and talent to some extent.

front: Roy Sayre; middle: Dorsey and Henry Sayre; back: Criss Sayre

Nearly every get-together included music. Tom remembered winter evenings when the wide circle of "company" reached from one side of the big room to the other around the fire. Roy and Nancy got together a singing group that went to church events and parties in other communities.

The Cow Run boys had a ball team in the summer. They played Evans, Cottageville and other neighborhoods. Their "ball park" was Beech Grove School lot but, best of all was Pa's upper bottom after the hay was cut. "Tommy," because of his slight build, could never make the "A" team.

Roy, like the rest of the boys, went to work on the railroad when he was old enough. Unlike his brothers and friends who became farmers, Roy chose railroading as his life work.

In 1917, Roy along with Sayre cousins, Dorsey and Henry, joined the Army in World War I. Roy's Company, Batt. B. 314 Field Artillery, was sent to France as replacement. In later years the little Sayre nieces (who had been babies when they left) would look with awe at the three helmets, gas masks, and other gear stored upstairs and try to imagine what it was like "Over There." After the war, Roy went back to the railroad job in Columbus, coming back home in times of layoffs. We remember his "Studebaker" in Pa's wagon shed. We hadn't seen a car before.

Roy and Ida Sayre and son, Dick

Roy married Ida Davis (2/21/1898) (12/21/1989) daughter of Grant and Mary Davis. Ida was a well educated, cultured lady. She was a registered nurse and well skilled in her profession. She meant so much to us (Tom's family) at the time of Grandma Mazilla's sickness and death. Pa Sayre was in bed with flu; Tom and Bryce with pneumonia. The doctor had been there with medicine and now we had a nurse. She knew how to help us all. The big change was in Pa. She gave him most of her attention; he had lost his wife. It was remarkable to see him respond to her gentle care. For years Ida held an important position in her church, and was able to attend, until shortly before her death. Roy and Ida are in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Roy was an outgoing person and enjoyed his job with Pennsylvania Railroad. He started as a Brakeman, and then Conductor. At the time of his retirement he had worked 37 years.

Roy and Ida's son, Richard O., born June 16, 1929, married Rita Hitz, born September 17, 1932, daughter of Albert and Mattie Hitz.

Richard O. and Rita Sayre's children were: Michelle Marie, born February 15, 1959; Daniel Richard (3/15/1962) married Laurel (2/22/1958), daughter of Arlene and Harold Romine.

Roy and Ida's son, "Dick" served two years in Korea; "Dick's" son Danny served two years in the Navy — one of the years in Okinawa.

Dick and his family come to Jackson County every year for the "Cow Run" day. This get-together is a much enlarged version of the music parties of long ago. It also has the very special added attraction of the large display of Sayre History and pictures of Sayre cousins, Frank and Ada Ruth. We listen to the music of the Sayre, Shinn, Herdman and other cousins and know the legacy of musical talent lives on. Submitted by Howard Sayre and Londis Sayre

S.B. AND CLARA (KESSEL) SAYRE

This family first established its roots in Jackson County in 1801 and are descendants of Daniel Sayre (B. 1785), father of 11 children. Enoch Sayre, one of the 11 (B. 1814-D 1/8/1852) had only two children: John Wesley, father of S.B. Sayre, and Samantha Jane.

John Wesley Sayre, at age 14, volunteered for three years' service in the Union Army, assigned to the Fourth Regiment of Virginia Infantry, and saw heavy action at Vicksburg, Lookout Mt. and in many other battles. He was the youngest in his regiment and was mustered out at age 17 in 1864. He had volunteered as a Virginian but was discharged as a West Virginian. John Wesley, a farmer, fathered six children, one of them being Sylvester Brown (B. 11/1/1870-D. 12/20/40) who married, on 11/12/1891, Mazilla Clara Kessel. One of 14 children of Flora Jane Parsons and James Mason Kessel.

S.B. was known as a progressive livestock farmer on Parchment Creek. In addition to farming, he was Jackson County Assessor and Sheriff from 1920-1925, and later served three or four terms as Mayor of Ripley. A "major" unsolved crime in Ripley, during one of his mayoral terms, was when some "cowboys" spirited away his cow one Halloween and roped it to the principal's office at Ripley High School. He was one of the organizers and original stockholders of the Citizens' State Bank of Ripley which later merged with the First National Bank of Ripley, and served as Director and Vice-President of both.

His son, Floyd McKinley had five children: Truman Lynch (B. 8/19/1925), Floyd McKinley, Jr. (B. 7/17/1930), Robert Brown (B. 4/5/1932), Frances Sayre Beasley (B. 9/26/35) and Graham Everett (B. 9/12/1938). Truman Sayre's children are: Truman Lynch, Jr., (a) Rebecca Suzanne Sayre Riffe (b), and Thomas Hall (c), and there are four grandchildren: Daniel Preston and James Tyler Riffe (bb); Jennifer Ann and Francesca Ferguson Sayre (cc). Floyd Sayre, Jr.'s children are: Floyd McKinley, III (a), Richard Thomas (b) and David Lynch (c) with one grandchild, Floyd McKinley Sayre, IV (aa) Robert Brown Sayre's children are: Frances Elizabeth Sayre McLean and William James Sayre. Virginia Horn had five children: Howard William (a), Carolyn Irene Horn (b) (married to Poiana Butucescu), Marilyn Jean Horn Claff (c), Susan Lynn Horn (D. 3/31/63) and Jacquelyn Horn Sandstrom (d) and there are three grandchildren: Bryan Kristopher, Eric Jonathan and Brett Nicholas Horn (aa). THOMAS SAYRE

Our Sayre ancestry can be traced to year 1300. For this we are indebted to Theodore M. Banta, who published a history of The Sayre Family in 1901. The numbers to follow in this Sayre history are genealogy numbers used by Banta. These numbers are used to avoid confusion due to repetition of the same given name. For example: our Daniel Sayre was assigned #1329 with a suffix of seven which shows that he was the seventh generation in America.

The Sayre family was in Bedfordshire, England, in 1300 or before, having migrated from Gaul to Normandy and to England where Sayre records have been found as far back as 1309.

Thomas Sayre homestead

Records show that our immigrant ancestor, Thomas Sayre, and his brothers and sisters were baptized at the All-Saints Church at Leighton-Buzard, Bedfordshire, England.

Records of Lynn, Mass. show that Thomas Sayre (1597-1690) and his brother, Job, were landowners there in 1638. Thomas Sayre was a member of the colony which founded the town of Southampton, Long Island approximately 1639-1640. He appears to have been outspoken, aggressive and generous and one of the most prosperous and prominent members of the colony.

The above house was built by Thomas in Southampton in 1648 and stood until 1912 when it was torn down as it was considered a fire hazard.

The paternal ancestry of Thomas Sayre's descendants living in Jackson County is Thomas 1-1, Daniel 3-2, Samuel 20-3, Daniel 63-4, David 199-5 and David 549-6.

By 1700 our ancestors had begun a migration and we find Daniel Sayre 63-4 in Essex County, New Jersey. Daniel was a blacksmith and served in the French and Indian war in 1755 with General Braddock and George Washington.

Next we have David Sayre 199-5 (1736-1826) son of Daniel 63-4 and Rebecca (Bond) Sayre, who was born in Essex County, New Jersey. He married Hannah Frazier (1741-1826) in 1758. David was also a blacksmith and during the Revolutionary War he served as a private in Richland Townley's Company, First Regiment, Essex County, New Jersey. David and his wife along with other family members moved to the Monongalia County area of Virginia in late 1700s. In early 1800s David and family again moved; this time to Letart Falls, Meigs County, Ohio. Land records establish their settlement there in 1803.

David 199-5 and Hannah were the parents of 11 children: Daniel 548-6 was an early settler in Mason Co. at Letart, W.Va.; David 549-6 settled in an area of Jackson Co. near Evans, W.Va.; John 550-6, Rachel 551-6, Ephraim 552-6, Thomas 555-6, Rebecca 557-6, and Moses 558-6 with their families settled in Letart Falls area of Meigs Co., Ohio; Jedediah 553-6 stayed at the settlement he had made on Pleasant Creek in Harrison County now Barbour County, W.Va.; Sarah 556-6 married Benjamin Thorn and lived in Monongalia County; and Benjamin 554-6 was living in Tyler County in 1829 when he was drowned by being pulled under with a water-wheel on which he was working. David 199-5 and Hannah are buried in Letart Falls Cemetery at Letart, Ohio. The D.A.R. has put up the official marker for soldiers of the Revolutionary War at David's grave.

David Sayre 549-6 (1762-1856) was born in Essex County, New Jersey. Family tradition has it that David joined the Revolutionary service with his father, David 199-5, at the age of 13 and served as a scout. As early as 1799 David 549-6 and his brother Daniel 548-6 were exploring the virtually unsettled region along the Ohio River which later became Mason and Jackson Counties of W.Va. and Meigs Co., Ohio.

In 1803 at Cedar Grove, now Cottageville, a Methodist minister by the name of Noah preached the first sermon at the home of Joseph Parson. At this time David Sayre 549-6 and wife, Daniel Sayre 548-6 and wife along with Abraham Staats and wife joined the church.

David Sayre 549-6 appeared on the tax list of what is now Jackson County in 1805.

David Sayre 549-6 married Sarah Little (1761-1846) about 1783. They are buried in Staats Cemetery near Evans, W.Va. A monument erected by their descendants in 1964 marks their graves. Records indicate that the following eight children were born in Monongalia County, Virginia, now W.Va. They are the ancestors of most all Jackson County Sayres and related families.

1. Daniel 1329-7 (22 March 1785-7 March 1866) married 19 June 1806 Sarah Hall (1782-1871) in Galia County, Ohio, now Meigs Co. (See Daniel Sayre 1329-7 to follow)

2. Anna 1328-7 (4 June 1787-3 April 1892) married 16 January 1802 Henry Roush Jr. and they settled in Meigs County, Ohio. They had 13 children. It is thought says the "Washington Star" that she was the head of the largest family in the world and the only woman in this country to see her sixth generation. (See Roush History by Lester Leroy Roush)

3. Ezekiel 1331-7 (21 May 1789-died 1835 in Illinois). He married Hannah Gilman. His widow and children returned to Jackson County and later settled in Mason County, W.Va. (See Mason Co. history)

4. Rachel 1333-7 (12 January 1791-18 January 1863) married 5 March 1810 John Harpold. (See Harpold history)

5. Joel 1330-7 (9 January 1791-15 January 1855) married first Catherine Starcher and second Amelia "Millie" Rice. (See Joel Sayre 1330-7 to follow)

6. Sarah 1334-7 (approx. 1795-1849) married 28 November 1824 Stephen Boice. They had two children: George Washington who married Sarilda Gleason and had three children and Rachel who married David D. Casto 14 April 1843 and had 13 children. (See 1983 up-date history of David and Rachel (Boice) Casto by Stanley D. Casto)

7. Hannah 1335-7 (?-died 31 August 1868). She married Edward McDade. They lived in Letart township, Meigs County, Ohio. Some records say they had 10 children.

8. Abel 1332-7 (14 March 1799-20 June 1868) married Ruth Parson. (See Abel Sayre 1332-7 to follow)

THOMAS EDISON SAYRE

Thomas Edison Sayre (December 11, 1890 -), the son of Abijah and Ellen (Hartley) Sayre, was born on the family farm on Cow Run, Union District, Jackson County. At the time of his birth Thomas A. Edison was popular. The attending physician, Dr. Samuel Barber, said, "Name him Thomas Edison," and they did.

On November 1, 1916, Thomas married Florence Minerva Sayre (September 18, 1896-February 10, 1986), the daughter of Oscar and Eliza Jane (King) Sayre.

Thomas Edison Sayre family, 50th Wedding Anniversary, 1966

They established their home on the farm of his parents and made their home there for over 69 years.

They eventually bought all the farm formerly owned by his grandfather, Ephraim Sayre. The farm consisted of approximately 380 acres and here they engaged in general farming, raising cattle, sheep, hay and grain for feeding and care of the livestock. In 1949 they won the Farming for Better Living contest in Jackson County.

They were members of the Antioch Church located near the farm and were instrumental in the rebuilding of the church after it burned as a result of being stuck by lightning in 1943.

Thomas and Florence Sayre were the parents of four children: Ada Ruth, Robert Quentin, Ralph Edison, and Don Clifford. They were especially proud of their three sons who served in World War II.

Ada Ruth born August 3, 1917, married August 7, 1938 Franklin L. Sayre, son of Isaac and Anna (Bennett) Sayre. No children. They live at Dunbar, W. Va.

Robert Quentin born August 17, 1918, married July 4, 1953 Geraldine Hartley, the daughter of John and Josephine (Sayre) Hartley. He retired from Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation. They had one child, Robert Quentin Sayre, Jr., who is an attorney with the law firm of Goodwin and Goodwin in Charleston, W. Va. Their home is in Ravenswood, W. Va.

Ralph Edison, born April 7, 1920, married June 24, 1950 Virginia Sayre the daughter of Clifford and Mary (Morrison) Sayre. Ralph retired from Union Carbide Corporation where he was a carpenter. No children. They reside in St. Albans, W. Va.

Don Clifford, born March 30, 1922, married August 30, 1952 Frankie Marie Phillips the daughter of Russell and Margrie (Evilsizer) Phillips. Don is a sheet metal worker at Union Carbide in South Charleston, W.Va. They are the parents of Donna Marie and Dan Thomas Sayre. Don and Frankie live at Nitro, W.Va.

In 1983, Thomas Sayre donated the log house, built by his parents in 1875 and where he was born to the Jackson County Historical Society, who had the house relocated at the Ravenswood Riverfront Park which overlooks the Ohio River. This log house stands to show visitors the way of life of earlier generations.

In 1953, Thomas and Florence Sayre sold one-half of the farm to their son, Quentin Sayre. Quentin and his father jointly operated the farm for approximately 30 years, at which time Thomas and Florence Sayre sold the remaining portion of the farm to their grandson, Robert Quentin Sayre, Jr., who is the fifth generation of Sayres to conduct farming operations on the land once owned by Ephraim Sayre 2708-8. VIRGIL AND MARGARET (FOX) SAYRE

Virgil Delbert Sayre, son of Jasper and Martha (Barnett) Sayre, was born May 2, 1890 on Cow Run. He enjoyed farming and, like his father, learned to deal in livestock. In 1905, Virgil at 15, and his brother John, went to Boomer, WV to work building the railroad. From there they were transferred to Columbus, Ohio, and came home to Red Mud Ridge every two weeks (walking to and from the train station at Millwood, WV).

On August 25, 1912, Virgil married Lola Margaret Fox, daughter of John and Ella (Hughes) Fox. Maggie was the only girl in a big family of boys and was well trained in the care of a home. She had a place for everything. Her religious training began as a child also, going with her family in the wagon to church. Throughout her lifetime, she attended the churches in the community and her strong faith sustained her in her many times of sorrow.

Maggie was a kind and gentle person and Virgil loved company, so their home on Beechgrove Road was a gathering place for young people. Virgil had an odd way of saying things and mispronouncing names, which made for a lot of laughs.

Tragedy struck their home in 1921. At this time they had four children, Teddy, 8, Marion, 6, Beaula, 4, and Cletis, 2. They lost their two middle children only three months apart. Beaula, following her Daddy to the garden, was stung by bees before he could get to her. She developed kidney poisoning and died July 2, 1921. In October, Marion came home from school, sick. He was treated by doctor for sore throat but died October 5, 1921 (diphtheria). One month later, Virgil Ledford was born. Donald Bedford, "Tommy" was born April 20, 1923. When he was three he had polio which left him weak and slightly crippled in his right arm. He was his mother's helper. "Tommy" died of kidney failure when he was 12. Lola Ardella was born August 29, 1927.

As Virgil's boys grew, they learned to ride horses, ride buggy frames down the road, trained steers to work, went short game hunting in the middle of the night, as well as helping dad with the farm work and going on cattle drives.

Virgil and Maggie raised another boy from the age of 12, Luther Cossin, son of Julius and Mary Cossin (both had died), lived with his sister and brother-in-law, Flo and Theodore Fox. After Flo's death, Virgil and Maggie took Luther home with them and from that time on he was a member of the family. Luther married Lydia Lore and had two sons, Harold and Doyle.

Cletis Wayne volunteered for Army training, WWII, and was among the first to leave Ripley, serving the duration.

Virgil and Maggie retired from the farm to Longview Ridge, this move making them closer to friends and churches.

Maggie died October 22, 1968 and Virgil died September 20, 1982. Both are buried at Longview Cemetery, Evans.

W.W. AND LEAH L. (FORMAN) SAYRE

Wesley, first child of Andrew Sayre and Roenna

Lewis, born April 29, 1853 in Jackson County; grandson of Benjamin Sayre, the son of Daniel, son of David, son of another David who fought in the Revolution. Wesley's Sayre line dates back to the mid 1600s in America; coming from England. Benjamin died young; Andrew was his only child. Andrew made up for being an only child as he married second Sarah Jane Jacobs, and had in all 20, possibly 22 children. Many of the old Sayres lived in Jackson County from the early 1800s.

Wesley married Leah Forman January 7, 1873 at Meigs County, Ohio. She was born June 23, 1855 in Meigs County, daughter of Joseph Forman and Mary Florence Degarmo (daughter of Jacob Degarmo and Hannah Ames). Wesley and Leah lived in Jackson County all their married lives. They once took a trip in a covered wagon and went to Illinois. Wesley's grandmother, Delilah Hughes, the wife of Benjamin, married second Solomon Hall, later moving to Illinois. I believe this is where they went on this trip. The Hughes family also were early Jackson County pioneers, as was Delilah's mother's family, the Staats.

Wesley was a farmer; working for other Sayres, where a house was provided. Leah was good at folk medicine, gathering and drying different kinds of plants and roots to have for medicine for different illnesses.

Leah's family also dated to pre-revolutionary times on several lines. Her Forman grandparents were Edward Rawlings Forman and Priscilla Rawlings (cousins), both born in Berkeley County, Va. Edward's father, James Forman, died at age 103, the fifth generation of Formans in America; son of Robert, son of Aaron, son of Thomas, son of Benjamin; other dates not known. Leah's grandmother, Priscilla Snodgrass, was the daughter of Robert Snodgrass, who operated The Snodgrass Tavern in Berkeley County, Va. His father, William, came to America from Scotland about 1700. Robert's wife was Susannah Rawlings, born in Maryland; sister of Priscilla Rawlings; both were daughters of Stephen Rawlings, born 1713 in Anne Arundel County, Maryland; son of Aaron Rawlings, believed born in this country in 1667. Several other lines date back into the 1600s in America, coming from England, as did the Rawlings; at least one coming from France.

Wesley and Leah had four children. First, Florence, died at birth. Second, George Wesley, born July 25, 1874, married Clara Louella Slaughter. Third, Mary Roenna, born February 4, 1877, married John Donohew. Fourth, Amanda Ella, born April 27, 1879, married Homer Donohue, a double first cousin to John. John was the son of Andrew Donohew and Martha Matilda Rollins; Homer was the son of Reuben Donohew and Dorothy Isabelle Rollins. George's wife, Lou, was the daughter of William Riley Slaughter and Malinda Davis, all residents of Jackson County.

Wesley died October 12, 1915. Leah married Henry Riffle in 1917, in Mason County. She died October 17, 1931. Wesley and Leah are buried at Otterbein Cemetery at Evans. Submitted by Daisy Pauley (granddaughter)

WAYNE F. SAYRE

The Sayre and Starcher family lines were joined with the marriage of Faye Starcher and Francis Wayne Sayre at Belleville in Wood County on Thanksgiving Day in 1938. Car trouble kept them from their Wednesday evening wedding date, so that their wedding actually took place in the early morning hours of November 24th at the parsonage of Rev. John Cumberledge.

Wayne, a descendant of Daniel Sayre (see Banta 1329), is the son of late Ruth Sayre and the late B.F. Sayre, Jr. He was born March 22, 1915, on the family farm near Evans where he spent his early years. When he was four years old, the family moved to Cornwall Street in Parkersburg and he attended Nash School through the fourth grade.

F. Wayne and Faye E. Sayre

After his father's death, they moved back to Jackson County. He attended school at Walnut Grove and Cottageville Elementary where he first met Faye. They both graduated from Union High School, she with the class of 1930 and he with the class of 1932. After high school he attended Mountain State College in Parkersburg and became employed at Penn Metal Company in 1938.

Faye (24 March 1914), a descendant of Jacob Starcher (an early settler in Jackson County), is the daughter of the late William Paul Starcher and Golda Hill Starcher who survives. She grew up on the family farm near Cottageville where one of her sisters, Pauline (Mrs. Raymond) Hughes, lives today. After high school, Faye attended Marshall University and taught school at Cottageville Elementary and Goff School at Advent until her marriage.

They bought their first home on Pleasants Ave. (now 34th St.) in Vienna and lived there until 1951 when they moved to a larger home on 34th street where they still live today. They are the parents of two daughters, Karen Faye and Diane Lee. Faye spent many years active in Girl Scouting as troop leader, trainer of leaders, and camp director. Wayne was quite active in community affairs, serving as a member of the Vienna City Council until his work in sales took him on the road. After Keene Corporation purchased Penn Metal in 1967, he established his own sales representative business which he still runs from his home today.

They are both active in the First Lutheran Church in Parkersburg. Faye is a Sunday School teacher and a member of various ladies organizations. Wayne has served several terms on the Church Council, holding the office of President.

front: Anne Kehrli, Molly and Michael Bower; center: Melinda Bower, Steven Kehrli; back: David and Diane Bower, Karen and Wayne Kehrli

He served four terms on the Executive Board of the western Pennsylvania — West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church in America and was very active with the transition teams in the formation of the new Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. At the constituting convention of the West Virginia — Western Maryland Synod of the ELCA, he was elected the first synod Vice-President, a position he currently holds. This is the highest layman office in the synod.

Karen (24 March 1942) graduated from Parkersburg High School in 1960, and received her Bachelors in 1964 and Masters Degree in 1966 from Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. She accepted a position in Poughkeepsie, New York, where she met Wayne Raymond Kehrli from Tunkhannock, Pennsylvania, an employee of IBM. They were married on July 29, 1967. They still live in the Poughkeepsie area with their two children, Steven Wayne (11 November 1972) and Anne Elizabeth (20 May 1980). Wayne is a Program Manager with IBM and Karen is a speech therapist with the Hyde Park school system.

Diane (24 February 1945) graduated from Parkersburg High School in 1963 and West Virginia University in 1967. She married David Glenn Bower (grandson of Albert Maywood and Emma Thompson Bower of Brushy Fork) from Parkersburg on August 12, 1967, and taught school for two years in Morgantown before settling in the Parkersburg area in 1969. They live in Washington, West Virginia, where Dave is a Technology Service Representative with GE Plastics. Diane received her Masters Degree from the College of Graduate Studies in 1974 and taught in Wood County for several years before resigning to be a full-time homemaker. They have three children — Melinda Lee (9 January 1977), Michael Glenn (3 May 1979) and Molly Ann (4 December 1981).

PAUL SCITES

Paul and Margaret Scites were among the influx of people who came to Ravenswood after Kaiser Aluminum. Paul was born in Huntington, son of Paul and Lucille Scites. Margaret was born in Pocahontas County, daughter of Rev. E. Clyde and Reta Bussard. Paul's father went to Hinton with the C. and O. Railroad, and Margaret's father was sent there as minister of Miller Memorial Methodist Church.

It was there the two met. Margaret had graduated from Concord College with a degree in education. After marriage they moved to Huntington where Margaret was teaching. Paul worked in Huntington until he had an opportunity to be hired at Kaiser Aluminum. In the summer of 1964, they moved to Ravenswood, and Margaret taught English at Ravenswood High School. The following year she became Librarian where she continues today. They first lived in Regency Apartments, but in 1966 they purchased a home on South Ritchie Avenue where they still live today. Paul recently was presented his 25 year watch from Kaiser Aluminum and now works for Ravenswood Aluminum.

In 1966 a daughter, Lisa Ann was born. She graduated from Ravenswood High School and then attended Asbury College in Wilmore, Kentucky. She graduated in 1988 with a degree in education and now teaches English at Nelson County High School in Bardstown, Kentucky.

In 1969 a second daughter, Paula Jean, was born. She graduated from Ravenswood High School and is a junior at Asbury College majoring in elementary education.

In 1971 Margaret's parents retired in Ravenswood where her father died in 1975. Her mother continues to make her home in Regency Apartments.

In 1985 Paul earned a degree in education from West Virginia State College.

They are active in Faith Bible Church, where Margaret is pianist and Paul teaches the Young Adult Sunday School Class. Submitted by Margaret Scites

FLORENCE (ARCHER) WINTER SCROTE

Florence was born September 16, 1886 in Aplin Ridge, West Virginia and died in October of 1949 in Akron, Ohio. She was the daughter of Sarah Aplin Archer and Dock Megary Archer.

Florence (Archer) Scrote, age 18, wedding day

Florence loved the outdoors and preferred outdoor farm work to housework traditional for women. She could ride bareback, though she never learned to drive a car. She learned all aspects of farming while growing up. She married Harvey Winter and had a son, Herman. This marriage soon ended in divorce. She and her little son lived alone on her farm where she supported herself by raising chickens. She prided herself on being a good business manager. After a few years, her house burned to the ground while she was at church. She then left West Virginia for Akron, where she bought a house and rental property, found employment as an inspector at B.F. Goodrich Company, and successfully supported herself and her son. She remarried in 1924 and had a daughter in 1925 when she was 39 years old. During the hard years of the Depression, her ability to survive and manage stood her in good stead.

Florence (Archer) Scrote, age 39

Life on a backwoods farm at the turn of the century required a great deal of self-reliance. She had blood poisoning when she was 13. Red streaks were running along her arm, so her mother sent her on horseback, with a brother as escort, to the doctor's house. They found he was away. His wife kept Florence overnight so the doctor could treat her as soon as he returned. The brother rode home to tell the parents. Florence was a great believer in the home remedies practiced at the time. One of her favorites was flaxseed poultices. She took a piece of gauze, made a mash of flaxseed and very hot water, made a little packet of this mash in the gauze, and lay it on the sore, a boil for instance. I don't know if it helped, but the heat felt good. Florence was proud of her home nursing skills, and said if she could have been something else, she would have been a nurse. She wanted her daughter to be a nurse, but she was too squeamish and became a librarian.

Once Florence, as a child, rode into Ripley with her father, who stopped to visit his cousin. They arrived while the family was eating breakfast, a city breakfast of toast and coffee. Florence, who had experienced only great lavish country breakfasts, whispered to her father, "Are they poor?"

My opinion is that the Aplin women were strong-minded, spirited, and independent, traits partly genetic, but perhaps partly the result of nonconformist beliefs of their father, W.H. Aplin. Florence was in that tradition in that she was not afraid to get a divorce, support herself, and be an independent woman. She always said women had a harder time than men, and had great empathy for working women. She liked to say she could run any business as good as, or better, than any man.

SEAMAN

The Seaman family was originally Danish (Men of the Sea or Sea-men). On one of their excursions they landed on the coast of England, whipped the natives and held the land. Three Forks of Reedy (later just called Reedy) was in Harrison County until 1798, then it became Wood County. In 1831 it was Jackson County; in 1848 it was Wirt County and became Roane County in 1856.

David Seaman came to the Reedy area in the early part of the Nineteenth Century. David married Elizabeth Board. From that marriage came George, born in 1813 and died in 1876.

George Seaman married Jane Boggs from Jackson County in 1844. From that marriage came five girls and three boys, David, John and William A. (my grandfather), born December 10, 1865, died June 15, 1935. George and Jane and children lived in the Conrad Run Community just off Route 14, in what is now Wirt County.

William A. Seaman married Lavada Ellen Lindamood (from Ohio) on November 23, 1888. They moved to the Frozen Camp area and then to the town of Reedy, in 1919. From this marriage came four boys, Gay, Hoyt, Asa and Rudy. Three girls, Ottie, Grace and Esther. All were born in the Frozen Camp area of Jackson County. He was a farmer, ran a saw mill and cut timber on contracts. He was an honest man. It must have rubbed off on his sons. Clyde P. Law, son of Dave Law, Sr. who owned the Reedy Produce, told me several times that his dad told him to give the Seaman boys any credit they wanted. (In the depression years of the "30s" money was scarce. He said that they might not have money now, but if they ever get it I'll be paid.)

Gay Seaman family. Fay Corrine Full, John, Gay, Ileana Sims

Gay Seaman, born January 8, 1891 and died January, 1963. In 1918 Gay married Fay Conley, born April 16, 1895 and died July 14, 1988. Of that marriage was born three children, John, Corinne and Ileana. John born June 23, 1921; Corinne born January 18, 1923; and Ileana born March 4, 1930.

John Seaman married Hazel Miller Lowther (a widow who had five children). John was an amateur baseball player in Reedy and Spencer; was in the Navy 46 months during World War II; attended West Virginia Institute of Technology and obtained a B.A. Degree; retired from Kaiser Aluminum in 1983 and presently is a substitute teacher in Jackson County.

Corinne Seaman married Ralph Full. From this marriage came two boys and five girls; Richard, Ronald, Robin, Ronda, Renee, Rita and Roberts. Ralph and Corinne live at Atwater, Ohio.

Ileana Seaman married Harold Sims and they live at Palestine, WV. From this marriage came one son, Rodney (single) and two daughters. Vickie married Fred Jones and had one son, Jason. Vickie divorced and re-married Joe James of Norman-town, WV. From this marriage a daughter was born, Mandy. Melody married Tim Corbet. A son, Chase, and a daughter, Chelsie, came from this marriage. They reside at Palestine, WV. Submitted by John Seaman

EVERETT AND FRANCES SHAFFER

Everett Shaffer, son of Sheldon Shaffer and Nellie (Coleman) Shaffer, born August 29, 1913 at Goldtown, WV. He is retired from the State Highways Department. He also drove a school bus in the county for a number of years after World War II. His mother, Nellie, was born January 8, 1894, to Elijah and Lucendia (Miller) Coleman. Nellie died February 17, 1914, at the age of 19 years, seven months after Everett's birth. She was the last of 11 children. Nellie's father, Elijah, was born August 16, 1848. He died four months after Nellie's birth, on April 16, 1894. His father's first name is unknown but his mother's name was Kate (Daily) Coleman. Lucendia was born March 20, 1849, to George and Louann Miller. Everett spent a lot of his childhood years with his uncle Joseph Coleman of Goldtown, WV, and Rudy Coleman of Spicewood, WV.

Everett Shaffer married Frances, born June 11, 1930, daughter of Elmer and Georgie (Bogges) Joplin of Allen's Fork, Sissonville, WV. Georgie was the daughter of Greeley and Lucretie Bogges. Greeley, with his bright red hair, was a well known carpenter and preacher in the county. Lucretie was an invalid for a number of years. Georgie was known to many Jackson Countians as Tine, short for tiny because she was so small at birth. In the early part of the century babies were born at home and were not always named as soon as they were born. This was Tine's experience and she was not formally named Georgie Ann until she was three. The nickname was so firmly rooted by then that it remained Tine until her death in 1986. The whole name situation became a problem when she reached retirement age and applied for Social Security. Her birth certificate listed her simply as Baby Bogges, so she had to find older ones in the community who would affirm that she had indeed been born. Her husband, Elmer Joplin, died in 1939 at the age of 32. Tine was a wife for 10 years and a widow-woman, as she called herself, for 46 years.

Everett and Frances live on Spicewood Road, Kenna, WV, and are the parents of eight children. Betty married Fairley Halstead, son of Vincent and Ova (Phillips) Halstead of Sissonville, WV. They live on Carnian Ford Road, Ripley, WV, and are the parents of Jeffrey, born January 14, 1967, and Kandell, born December 29, 1968. Kandell married James Anderson, son of James and Geneva Anderson of Ripley. Sharlene married Gary Halstead, brother of Fairley Halstead. They live at Goldtown, and are parents of Jimmie and Lisa. Stanley married Sandra Sayre of Mt. Alto and is stepfather to Sonjia and Paul. Sonjia and her husband are the parents of Justin. Mary married and divorced Steven Meeks of Winfield. They are the parents of Sara. Mary next married Rusty Rothenberger of Ravenswood, WV. They are the Frances Shaffer worked at the I-77 truckstop at Fairplain, WV, for a number of years and in 1985 she started working at a nursing home in Sissonville.

Everett Shaffer remembers a different Jackson County than we see today. A time when young men went courting on horseback instead of by automobile. He especially remembers riding double with his cousin. His cousin forgot to warn him of an upcoming tree branch, the cousin ducked and Everett received a broken jaw. He remembers it best in rainy weather. Submitted by Everett and Frances Shaffer

ROBERT JAY SHAVER

Recently the "Shaver" roots have been traced as far back as 1724 to Paul Shaver. His son, Peter, came to America with his family from Germany around 1750 settling in Rockingham County, Virginia, which became Braxton County, West Virginia. The Shavers had large families and were very active in developing the wilderness into farm land, donating a lot of their time to help others. The town of Flatwoods, West Virginia, was once named "Shaversville."

Robert is the oldest son of James Vaughn and Wilma Virginia Shaver. They had 13 children in all. Eleven survive today.

Robert left West Virginia around 1955 to 1973, working in Delaware where he married Janice D. Fink. They had two sons and a daughter.

In 1973 the call of the hills brought him home to West Virginia settling on a farm in Upshur County. Since he could not make a living at farming he joined a company called Interstate Battery Systems of America, in May 1974 and became Interstate Battery of Central West Virginia. The business grew on the western part of the state so fast that they moved to Ripley in 1980. In time they planned to build a new home in Ravenswood on property they purchased by the Ohio River. But the expansion of the business made them build a warehouse on part of that property.

In researching the deed for this property, many interesting things were discovered. This was one of the first town properties to be sold and the man who once owned it ran the first ferry across the river, B. Fleming. The Ravenswood house, was once a neighbor. 1887, A. Weisheit had a tannery there; 1936 it was St. Dennis Milling Co.. Someone mentioned a cannery, private residence, a trucking company and now a Battery warehouse. The property has been flooded many times but the beauty is worth the risk.

The children of Robert and Janice are married with children of their own. They are: William Barry wed Lisa Ellen Matheny, from Ripley, and have two sons, Joseph and Beau; Keith Alan wed Kathy Marie Lewis, from Upshur Co. and have two sons, Darrell and Kirk; Nannette Lynn wed Richard Lynn Rexroad, from Upshur Co. and have two sons and a daughter, Derek, Cameron, and Natasha. Submitted by Janice D. Shaver

They overtook them and rescued them at Mingo Bottom, on the Little Kanawha River, near the present site of Elizabeth. They were impressed with the country and later brought their families to find homes in what was then a trackless wilderness on Right Reedy Creek. When they settled here, these lands were in Wood County. With the organization of Jackson County in 1831, much of this area became a part of the new county, and remained so until Wirt County was formed in 1848.

SHERMAN

Abel Sherman Jr. was living at Campus Martius in 1794. His father, Abel Sr., came all the way from Connecticut to visit him. He was warned to stay close to the fort at all times because of Indians, but being a Revolutionary War veteran, he went out one day to pick apples for the children. When he didn't return, they went out looking for him and found his body half a mile from the fort. His head had been scalped. The date was August 15, 1794. In the summer of 1798 a half breed Indian told a group of men that he had killed an old man gathering apples and had sold his scalp to the British. One of the men was Abel's son, Ezra. The Indian, named Silverheels, was never seen again. Abel Jr.'s son, Isaac, born in 1800, married Nancy DeWitt, daughter of John DeWitt and Nancy Culbertson DeWitt. Isaac owned 3,000 acres across from Buffington Island and was later Sheriff of Jackson County. The community of Sherman is named after him. Isaac had a son named Abel who married Priscella Anderson and they had a daughter, Nancy, who married Charles Rector. Their son, Wallace, born in 1873, married Laura Benson and their daughter, Mayme married Otmer Salser. They are the parents of my mother, Maxine DeWitt. Submitted by Doug Angus

SHERMAN

I am a descendant of the early Sherman family of Jackson County, and have been told that the town of Sherman, was named for my ancestor. The old home was still standing and looked beautiful when I saw it a number of years ago.

My father, Frederick Glynn Hopwood, was born Jan. 14, 1888, in Umatilla, Lake Co., Florida. He was the son of Charles Hopwood from England and Mary Virginia Sherman Hopwood. He died in Jacksonville, FL., April 22, 1969. My grandmother then married Rufus Bellamy.

With the aid of a Family Register that had been handed down to me, I was able to get the following information. Mary Virginia Sherman, born August 9, 1858 in Livingston County, Ky. Daughter of Henry Clay Sherman and Sarah Ruddick Sherman. Henry Clay Sherman, born Oct. 12, 1828, in Jackson Co., WV, and died August 9, 1906, in Sandoval, Ill. His father, Isaac B. Sherman and his mother, Nancy DeWitt Sherman. The date of their marriage is listed as October 15, 1857. There were five brothers and five sisters listed for Henry Clay Sherman. Nancy DeWitt Sherman was born 1801, and died March 19, 1834, and buried in Muses Bottom Cemetery, Jackson County, WV.

I had a brief visit in Jackson County, WV. to see the home of my pioneer ancestors. My grandmother, Mary Virginia Sherman Hopwood Bellamy told me stories of her early life in Kentucky during the Civil War. When she was four years old the Union soldiers stormed into their home thinking that her father, Henry Clay Sherman, was treating wounded Confederate soldiers. Her father had become a doctor after being a river boat pilot on the Ohio. My grandmother remembered how this brave man stood up to those rough soldiers as they made into the bedroom where she stood beside her mother's bed who had just given birth to her baby brother, Rufus Sherman.

The records show that Able Sherman, is the father of Isaac B. Sherman. I have been unable to find any record of Able Sherman, except a short story in a history book that told of Able Sherman, a Loyalist, dealing with the Indians.

My father, Frederick Glynn Hopwood, always said that Gen. W.T. Sherman was a relative. His picture shows a resemblance to my father. He could have been a brother of Henry Clay or Isaac Sherman.

We have looked for the markers in Muses Bottom Cemetery and also private burial grounds on the hills in Sherman, WV. We have been told, my husband and I, that the Muses Bottom Cemetery had been flooded many times and that graves had been moved. We wish we might visit again the beautiful State of WV. and learn more of our history. Submitted by Mrs. C. J. (Lois Hopwood) Marchand

HOSEA JACKSON AND NANCY (SAYRE) SHINN

Hosea Jackson Shinn, son of George and Nancy Smith Shinn, (4/8/1889, Cow Run, Jackson County). He was the youngest of a big family: Georgette, Martha, Thomas, Charlie, Emiline, Flora and Mary. Their home was at the forks of Cow Run near Antioch. He grew up enjoying the outdoor life, hunting and trapping in winter, fishing and swimming in summer. "H.J." spent a lot of time with his father in the workshop "tinkering" and developing his woodworking skills. He enjoyed school and was interested in everything scientific. He was an intellectual, a romantic, and had inherited a musical talent. He was a well-read Bible student which was the beginning of his deep religious faith. Debates were popular at that time; he attended them at Cottageville and other places. Dr. B.E. Harrison was one of the best known speakers in the community.

"Hode", like most of the local boys, became a railroader. For several years, he worked in Columbus with the Sayre boys who lived up the creek and on weekends would sing with the Beech Grove group. He had a rich baritone voice that blended well with Nancy's strong soprano. This musical attraction developed into love and June 23, 1914, they were married at Cottageville by Rev. Garrett. Nancy Catherine (2/14/1890-?) was the daughter of George and Mazilla Herdman Sayre. "H.J." and Nancy's children are: Olive, Roy, Woodrow, Gladys, Arnold, Clara, Naomi, Margaret, Dan, Darrell (twins), and Clark Lee, (died in infancy).

Hosea and Nancy (Sayre) Shinn, 1914

Nancy had grown up helping her mother and sister with their gardening, canning and taking care of children. Managing her big family was no challenge to her. She was the fastest worker we ever saw and the fastest walker. She often went up the creek to help her mother and came back with the same speed as she went. The children all had their jobs to do and when work was finished in summer the valley would ring with the sound of the Shinn family singing on the porch. In winter they would gather 'round the organ, Nancy would accompany Hode with the guitar and the children would harmonize. Not a tone-deaf child in the lot. Their family has meant so much to the community. They have sung for every occasion; whether it be solo, duet, trio, quartet or as a group. The family worked hard growing up, canning fruits, vegetables, pickling beans, corn, and kraut in barrels. They attended church regularly, H.J. playing the organ and leading the singing.

The boys all served their country. Roy, North Africa; Woody, The Aleutians; Arnold, Navy; Dan, Army; Darrell, Korea. The girls all worked in Defense Plants during the War, but Margaret, who was too young.

Some of the boys have the woodworking skills, others make knives, fix clocks, sawmill, and all have the musical talent.

Hosea and Nancy are buried at Creston.

Johaun Christopher Schache was born about 1715 in the part of Germany known as Palatinat. He arrived in the U.S. September 10, 1737. He settled first in Bucks Co., PA. There he and his wife, Barbara, raised nine sons. Abraham was born 1755 being the eighth son. He joined the Army in March, 1777 and deserted in September of 1777. There was seven years that no one know his whereabouts. But he had come to Marietta, Ohio and that is where our ancestors originated.

There they raised a large family. Benjamin Franklin was the 11th child born in (1868-1931) and he married Ida Belle McGlouthlin and settled on Beckwith Flats, Jackson Co., WV. She was the daughter of John L. McGlouthlin and Nancy Hawk, daughter of George Hawk who came here from Randolph Co., settling on Turkey Fork (now the Vanfossin Farm). He was murdered by the Moccasin Raiders in 1861. They raised a family of nine — Essie, Ethel, Everette, Nellie, Leonard, Edith, William, Robert, and Vera.

JOSEPH W. AND LUCILLE SHORT

Joseph Wade Short and Lucille Noll Short with their son, Allen, moved from Martinsburg to Ravenswood on July 4, 1941. They had recently purchased The Ravenswood News and were anxious to become established in the community.

They became members of the Walton Memorial Methodist Church (now First Methodist) and were involved with the Lions Club, Woman's Club, Chamber of Commerce, Ohio River Festival Committee, and were active in the Democratic Party in the county and state.

After selling The Ravenswood News in the mid-1950's, Joe worked for the West Virginia Trucking Association as editor of that industry's magazine, The Transporter. For several years after his semi-retirement, he was again affiliated with The News as a reporter and photographer. Illness forced his retirement and withdrawal from public life. Joe died on August 28, 1980 and is buried in Ravenswood Cemetery.

During World War II, Lucille was summoned to work for the draft board. In 1946, the Shorts purchased the Brokaw Jewelry and operated that business until her retirement in 1979. She also served as an executive secretary during sessions of the West Virginia State Legislature. In more recent years she coordinated the Headstart and Foster Grandparents groups in Jackson County and was director of Community Action for the West Central area. Lucille was a forceful leader in the Ravenswood Merchant Association and the Adopt-A-Family Program. She was honored posthumously by the Ohio River Festival Committee with the dedication of the flagpole at the Riverfront Park in Ravenswood. Lucille died on December 23, 1985 and is buried in Ravenswood Cemetery.

GEORGE W. SIMMONS, MD

Samuel Simmons (8/16/1790-1865) was our first proven generation in America. His parents fled France with the French Huguenots and settled in North Carolina. Samuel married Malinda Greer (born 1804). They moved to Kenna, WV, and became the parents of Charles (1834), Eli (1832), Jesse (1828), Thomas (1824), and Martha (1821); this generation was our second in America.

Our family stems from Eli Simmons, who (in 1863) joined the company of militia know as the Home Guard, organized for local defense during the Civil War. He joined Capt. John Riley's company in numerous actions against Confederate guerillas, especially the bands called the Moccasin Rangers, and retreating groups of Gen. John Morgan's Confederate cavalymen. Eli later became a teacher and merchant and married Elizabeth Shinn (born 1848) on 7/11/69. They became the parents of Cansetta (1870), Ellen (1871), Emily (1873), Mary/Mollie (1875), Samuel (1876), Everette (1878), and George W. (5/30/1879-6/11/1951). Eli's and Elizabeth's children would be our third generation here.

Dr. George W. Simmons

George W. Simmons of Kenna, WV, was too crippled to farm and so was allowed to attend medical school. The Louisville Medical School sent him a letter saying he could attend tuition-free if he could get there; thus, he left home with only a small cardboard suitcase, a clean shirt, a pair of underwear, a $5.00 gold piece, and a Bible. After completing his studies in Louisville, Dr. G.W. Simmons went to Baltimore Medical College and attained another medical degree. He returned to Kenna and opened his practice in 1901. On June 25, 1905, he married Emily Parsons (born 7/4/1885) of Foster Chapel.

The offspring of Dr. George and Emily Simmons comprise our fourth generation in this country. These were George Winfred (who died as a child), Mildred (1914-1961), and Lenore Elizabeth (born 1916 and living at the time of this writing [10/89]).

Mildred married Denver Reynolds on 6/7/38 and had one son, George David Reynolds (1942-1986). Lenore married Howard Jenkins on 5/3/40 and had one daughter, Emily Louise Simmons Jenkins, born 3/19/42. George David and Emily Louise "Emmy Lou" make up our fifth generation.

George David married three times and became the father of three children: David (1961-1981), Sharon (born 1969), and Phillip (born 1971).

Emily Louise married Henry Cavaliere in 1960 and had six children: Elizabeth (Lisa) Ann (4/3/62), Henry Keith (10/15/63), Richard Clark (5/18/66), Christopher Franklin (5/23/68), David Wade (2/9/70), and Mark Vincent (5/10/71). The three children of George David and the six offspring of Emily Louise are our sixth generation here. Emily married twice more, to "Buck" Anthony in 1977 and to George Lamb in 1981.

Elizabeth married (1982) Ted Derek Cochran and they currently have two children, Ted Jared (9/8/84) and Emilia Marie (7/7/88). Keith married (1987) Rita Graham and they have one daughter, Elizabeth (Beth) Maye (8/20/88). Christopher married (10/8/88) Carla Harbin, who had a son (Justin) at the time, and they now expect a child in June 1990. Jared, Emilia, Beth, and the unborn baby currently make up our seventh generation in America.

SKEEN

The following history of the Skcen family was researched and compiled by George H. Skeen, Kenna, WV.

King Malcolm II (of the house of Duncans) King of Scotland, shortly after the year 1110 A.D. was out hunting one day and was attacked by wolves. One of his retainers named James Duncan, killed the wolves with his knife, or skenedhu, its Scottish name, and as a regard for this heroic deed the King made him a Lord and gave him a large bounty of land, which he named Skene in honor of the knife which the wolves were killed with. Thus he was James Duncan, First Lord of Skene. The family gradually became known as Skene, rather than Duncan.

Robert Skene built the first house in 1118. This chateau had large chimneys with wolf heads on top and it is still standing. During World War II it was leased to Linnal Hamilton. When Hess, Hitler's No. 2 man, stole a plane and went to England, the first person he asked to see after landing was Hamilton. The estate is now a shrine and is located eight miles west of Aberdeen.

During the reign of King George I, of England, the royal descendants declared themselves for the Pretender Charles Stewart and with a part of his clan fought at Culoden for the Stewart cause. When this was lost, all who had sided with the Stewarts were forced to flee for their lives or be executed as traitors. Lord Cumberland, the British victorious leader, chased Prince Charles far into the Scottish Highlands and forced him to return to France. The Skene Clan scattered and the few who remained loyal to the King were able to stay in Scotland, but the estate was confiscated by the crown. The head of the clan went to France and our direct ancestors went with him.

Fleeing to France was Alexander Skeen, who was born at Skene, Scotland, about 1710. He was approximately 38 years at the time of defeat. His son, James Skene, was also born in Scotland, about 1743. He was a child of five years when he accompanied his father to France.

During Prince Charles' stay in Scotland he was befriended by Miss Flora MacDonald (clanish), daughter of Clam Chiefton, of Skyre, Scotland. For this act she was arrested, taken to London, and deported to America. She married Alexander Kingsborough before her departure in 1748. After arriving in America she went directly to the Carolinas. She rallied the scattered Scots who had come from Ireland, France, Prussia and other countries in Europe. They gathered in the mountains of the Carolinas. It is believed that the rolling Appalachian Mountains most resemble their native Scotland. Flora returned to her home at Skyre, Scotland, after the Revolution and died in 1790.

According the West's History of the U.S., a large group of Scottish Highlanders gatherers in S.C. long before the Revolution. Among our ancestors coming to the Carolinas were Alexander Skene and his son, James. James had a son named Peter, born at Circa, in 1760. He served at Kings Mountain, S.C., during the Revolutionary War, emerging as a captain. This engagement was fought in 1780.

About 1790 Captain Peter Skene moved his family from the Carolinas to Wise, Russel County, in Western Virginia. He had two sons (probably other children) James and Stephen. Stephen was born about 1793; James was born about 1800. Stephen Skeen married Suzannah Kiser in Wise, Virginia, and the following children were born: John, b. June 4, 1814; James, b. June 28, 1815; Archabald, b. October 18, 1816; Henry, b. Dec 25, 1817; Martha, born April 17, 1819; Margaret, b. May 10, 1820; Franklin, b. July 12, 1822; Joseph, b. Feb 12, 1824; Samuel, b. Sept 12, 1825; Tolley, b. Feb 27, 1826; Stephen Jr., b. April 16, 1827, married Hannah Parsons at Jackson County Courthouse, and moved to Indiana. Susan, b. February 13, 1828; Elizabeth, b. June 9, 1830; William, b. Jan 6, 1832; Nancy, b. Aug 7, 1834; Richard, b. March 6, 1836; Hop, b. Oct 12, 1837; Jane, b. March 9, 1839.

Joseph Skeen Sr.

Joseph Skeen, Sr. killed the last panther that was killed in Jackson County, at a cave near Basin Rock on the Tilden Kiser farm. His son, David L. Skeen, published an article about it in the county paper in 1908. Joseph also had a fight with a bear in a cave. He had picked up the bear cub when the bear returned. He fought it with pine sticks. The family had the dried bloody bone for years, according to an article written by Alice Pearl (Kerns) Skeen, wife of Virgil Lee Skeen.

Joseph Skeen married (1st) Mary Hamon, and their children were: Elijah, married a Laforce. (2nd) married Polly Garrett, their children: Harlan, married Elizabeth Fields; Josuah, married Nancy A. Kiser; Margaret, married Henry Kiser; Sarch, married (1) Joseph Kiser, (2) Sabastian Hamon; Charles, married Cynthia Casto. The 3rd marriage for Joseph Skeen was to Matilda Casto, daughter of George Casto. Her mother came from Holland by boat when she was 16 years old. It took them 6 months to cross the Atlantic Ocean. One of Matilda's brothers was Dr. James Casto from Staats Mill and his grandson was Dr. Wendell Casto, dentist in Ripley. Their children were: Joel, married (1st) Virginia Mays and had son Virgil Lee Skeen, (2nd) Sylvia Smith, their children: Lilly, Georgia, Arthur, and Napoleon. David, married Cordelia Ann Winters. Their children were: Romie Dale, Clifton, Herbert, Otho, Mincey, Elva, Ora and Ada. Stephen, married (1) Nancy Mays, (2) Susie Haynes. Their children: George and Henry (twins), Everett, Grover, James Owen and Clyde. Joseph called "Little Joe", married Mary C. Harrison. Their children: Okey, Dayton, Ora, Cordelia, and Hancel. Delitheia, married Jeff Kiser.

Websters Dictionary list the name Skene or Skeen (Sken) Scieon Celt. Here in West Virginia the name is listed as Skeen, Skene, Skean, Skeens, and Skeenes. Submitted by Eurada Skeen Landis and Lorraine Skeen Rawlings

SKEEN

History, and descendants of Franklin Skeen, second permanent settler in the Kentuck area of Jackson County.

Franklin Skeen, the son of Steven and Susanna Kiser Skeen, was born July 12, 1822, in Russell County, VA, and was number seven in his father's family of 18 children. He followed Isaac Counts and wife Margaret Skeen Counts to this area about 1843. The Counts family had preceded him by about two years, and homesteaded several acres of land, and built a home. Franklin also claimed homestead rights to a number of acres. Number 7. Mary Elizabeth (5-16-1883)-(8-1911) NM. As to the origin of the name Skeen or Skene, legend has it that King Malcolm II (of the House of Duncan), King of Scotland, about the year 1110 A.D. was hunting one day, and was attacked by wolves. One of his relatives, James Duncan, killed the wolves with his knife, or skene-dhu, it's Scottish name, and as a reward the king made him a lord, and gave him a large boundary of land which he named Skene-Skeen in honor of his knife. Thus he was James Duncan, First Lord of Skene. The family gradually became known as Skeen-Skene rather than Duncan.

Franklin Skeen's grandfather, Captain Peter Skeen, born Circa 1760, served in the battle of King's Mountain, S.C. during the Revolutionary War, along with his brother James. The battle was fought in 1780. The result of the battle was: British killed 157, wounded 163, prisoners taken 698. Americans killed 28, wounded 62, afterwards the militia returned to their homes.

Franklin Skeen rode a fine white horse through the mountains from Wise, VA, to where Charleston now stands. He swam his horse across the river to where the state house is today. He spent a few days with a settler, living there, and the man offered him all of the land, from his cabin to the Elk River, for his white horse. Franklin didn't trade though, because a horse was of great value, and land was plentiful, and of little value as a medium of exchange.

Franklin and Phoebe Skeen, his wife, along with Isaac Counts and Margaret Skeen Counts, his wife, Abednego Kiser and Rebecca Kiser, his wife, John H. Skeen and Margaret Skeen, his wife, and Henry Kiser, were charter member of the Goshen Baptist Church when it was organized June 9, 1877. Franklin's son John was pastor of the church for many years.

Sattis Simmons, son of Clark and Flora Skeen Simmons, was a well known Ripley banker, and also editor of the Jackson Herald, a county newspaper, for many years.

During World War II, seven of W.D. Skeen's eight sons were in the service of the United States Military, at the same time: Delbert, Clifton, Denzil, Donald, Claude, Glenn and Rhoderick. One of them, Donald Avon Skeen, died in France in 1945, when a troop train was sabotaged.

When Franklin Skeen came to Kentuck, there were no mills nearer than 10 or 12 miles, and no stores. Ripley was the nearest settlement for buying goods. People made the most of their clothes at home, spun and wove it out of sheeps wool and flax. Settlers made their own spinning wheels, and the women spent many hours at the wheel. The tow linen thus made was very "scratchy". According to John Skeen in a letter written in 1909, from which the above paragraph was taken. Submitted by Regina Skeen and Euna Grey Parsons

JOSEPH SKEEN

The Skeen family traces its Scottish ancestry to Aberdeenshire. The original spelling in the Scottish language, McSgign, was later Anglicized to Skene and there are also American variants such as Skeen, Skeens and Skeenes. Skene was the name of the dagger worn by Scotsmen on their ankles and the name was given to an ancestor who used such a weapon in saving the life of Scottish King Malcolm II for which he was knighted, his name changed to Skeen and given an estate for his valor.

Earliest American history indicates the first Mason in the United States was a Skene and that Revolutionary War Captain Peter Skene, the family patriarch, migrated to North Carolina and then to the Wise/Russell County area of Virginia about 1790. One of his sons, Stephen, born about 1793, married Savannah Kiser of Wise County. They had a large family, three of whom, Margaret, Joseph and Franklin Skene (Skeen) migrated northward, finally settling in Jackson County, Virginia in the Kentuck area, where many of the descendants still reside.

Although he was not a church-going man, he was very religious. I never heard him swear, and he always asked a blessing at every meal. Roy has owned the farm for years has continued to take good care of the land, and today it is a beautiful green oasis in the forest.

All lived to adulthood.

We lived on a farm on Sarvis Fork enough level land for the house; the barn and garden was across a small creek, with a large tree flattened on top was used as a foot log.

The farm provided everything needed; we purchased staples; flour, etc. by trading eggs or chickens. Butter was made in a wooden churn; we got honey from bee hives, we planted sorghum cane to make molasses. There were orchards with a variety of fruit; we canned fruit and vegetables; potatoes, cabbage and apples were buried. Meat was butchered in the fall, sausage was canned; the rest was cured, smoked with hickory wood, chickens were plentiful, turkeys were special.

July 4, 1912 I woke early, looking out the window was surprised to see Dr. Curry's buggy hitched to the gate. I was frightened, slipping to Charles's room, I said "we gotta go hide"; the Dr. is here to take us somewhere. The doctor always brought the babies.

We left the house unnoticed, went on the hill before breakfast climbed a cherry tree where we could see when the Dr. left or if he was waiting on us. I was positive I didn't want to leave. We ate cherries for breakfast, lunch; we went to the spring, laying down we drank — then ate more.

Late afternoon the Dr. left. Arriving home Dad said "where have you been?"; telling the truth, he took us to the bed and showed us the Dr. had brought a baby brother, Kay.

Dad built a house in 1929 at Crow Summit. Ellis "Doc" returned to Jackson Co. helping repair machinery etc. and odd jobs from the homeplace.

MAJOR CHARLES SMITH

Major Charles Smith was born in Frederick County, Virginia, June 2, 1763. He died May 12, 1846 and is buried in the Dewitt Cemetery, Jackson County. He was the son of Captain Charles (of the Indian Wars and Braddock's Campaign) and Rebecca Hite Smith. Rebecca was the daughter of Col. John Hite (son of Jost Hite, the "Valley Pioneer") and Sarah Eltinge Hite. Major Charles Smith served in the Revolution War, beginning at the age of 14, guarding prisoners at Winchester, Virginia, and later in several campaigns, both in the Virginia and Continental Lines. He earned his Major's commission in the Virginia State Militia after the war.

Charles' first marriage to Jane Morton, daughter of Elijah, June 19, 1783, is registered in Orange County, Virginia. They had three children: Rebecca, Charles and Lucy. We have no record of Charles' life; Lucy never married; Rebecca married Whiting Washington, son of Warner and Hannah Fairfax Washington. They had four children: Charles Henry, Jane (Walker), Lucy (Lceper), and Whiting Washington Jr. The family lived in Russellville, Kentucky, where Whiting Sr. died. They later moved to Fayetteville, Arkansas.

Major Charles Smith married, second Elizabeth England, daughter of Jacob, Jan 24, 1809. The marriage is registered in Berkeley County, now West Virginia. They lived near Berryville, Virginia, until about 1819 when they moved to Greenup County, Kentucky where Major Charles tried to secure some of the land from grants his father had received for his service in the French & Indian War. Apparently failing at this, Charles and Elizabeth moved to Muses Bottom in Jackson County about 1828, onto a 927 acre tract which his father had purchased from Col. George Muse who had received it as payment for service in the French & Indian War. Charles was a member of the first Grand Jury empaneled at the June term of 1831 when Jackson County was formed.

Charles and Elizabeth had eight children: John Smith (1811-1870) married Sarah White. In 1864 they traded land in Jackson County for a section of land in Meigs County, Ohio. They had 13 children. They are buried in DeWitt Cemetery, Jackson County; Whiting Smith (1815) married Mary White. He later moved to Indiana; Maria Smith (1818) married George Payne and lived in Meigs County at one time. He served in the Union Army in the Civil War, and died in the Confederate Prison at Belle Isle; Mary Ann Smith (1823) married John Sheppard; Elizabeth "Betsy" Smith (1825) married Robert Shanklin. They lived in Ohio; Francis C. Smith (1827-1897) married Francis Gardner. Some of their descendants still live in Ohio; Adelaide Smith (1829-1901) married James Hassey. They moved to Hamilton County, Indiana. She joined the DAR on her Father's military record, July 10, 1899. Submitted by David Allen Brewer

CHARLES AND MELVIN SMITH

Remembering Pearl Harbor comes easy for Charles Smith, Jr., Parkersburg, West Virginia, and his brother, Melvin, now living in Dearborn Heights, Michigan. The Smith brothers, who were raised in the Medina area of Jackson County, were aboard the U.S.S. California which was sunk by the Japanese during the attack on Pearl Harbor, Sunday morning Dec 7, 1942. When general quarters sounded, Charles was preparing to go ashore on liberty. As he raced for his battle station below decks, the first torpedo hit the California, exploding in the area of the ship's oil tanks and cutting off all power. Seconds later an armor piercing bomb smashed into the ammunition room about mid-ship, detonating much of the large store of ammunition in an explosion that ripped that section of the ship apart. The power outage and loss of ammunition made it impossible to muster any kind of effective anti-aircraft defense. In a matter of minutes, the order came to abandon the ship as it went down. The California settled to the harbor floor, but was not completely submerged. The survivors made their way to nearby Ford Island to wait out the attack, then returned to the ship to begin the grim task of collecting the dead.

The California was the first ship in line on "Battleship Row", and the Arizona was the last in line of eight battleships. The California, Oklahoma, Arizona, West Virginia and Utah were sunk while the other three were damaged.

Charles' most anxious hours were those waiting to learn what had happened to his younger brother, Melvin. About eight hours later he saw him crawl up out of a hole where he had been trapped. A hole had to be cut in the bulkhead to get the trapped sailors out. Their parents had been notified at home that Melvin was missing in action, and it was a sad time until the Navy realized its mistake and notified his parents that he was all right.

Charles and Melvin had enlisted in the Navy together November 29, 1939, and were with the Pacific Fleet when it was moved from Long Beach, California, to Pearl Harbor early in 1941. They are the sons of Charles and Iva Sines Smith, and were only 20 and 18 years old when they joined the Navy.

After things became organized, Charles was reassigned to the heavy cruiser Chicago, based in New Caledonia. The Chicago was later sunk at the Battle of Guadalcanal. After that he was sent home for a 30-day R&R, and while home married Mary Smith, daughter of Harry and Alma Stallings Smith, March 13, 1943. After WWII, he went to electrician's school under the G.I. bill. He and Mary have two children, Steven and Jane.

After the Pearl Harbor attack, Melvin was reassigned to small crafts and mine sweepers around the Hawaiian Islands and Midway until the end of the war. He married Catherine Jablonski of Detroit, May 28, 1948. They have one son, Michael. Melvin is retired from General Motors.

ISAAC AND PRICY SMITH

Anyone living in the Foster Chapel area of Jackson County and for miles around knew Ike and Pricy Smith. She was the daughter of Aley and Sarah Lynch Smith; her mother died when she was 11 years old. He was the son of James and Jane Zearley Smith. His grandfather, Straughter Smith, a riverboat purser, had married Able Sayre's daughter, Rachael. Her brother, Joel, had the first Jackson County Court at his home.

Pricy was a Baptist who lived her Christianity every day. She was never too sick to go help someone. If she heard of sickness in the community she went, and often nursed whole families through epidemics of flu or delivered babies. Whatever the need, she was there.

They lived with Aley on Long Hollow when they were first married because he had a broken hip. But a step-mother was no fun and a step-mother-in-law less fun.

They went to Parkersburg to live when he got a job at the steel mill. He made stove pipe and bread pans. His six brothers, including brother, Bert, of Given joined him and worked there, too. After their first five children were born, (the first two died as infants), Pricy and the children came back to the farm. Ike had bought his father's farm after his death and his mother's marriage to Albert Hussell of Mt. Alto. He worked at the mill in summer and came to Millwood by train, where he was met by a team of horses or walked home. The mill closed during the winter months.

His boyhood dream had been to own the Major Harpold place. When Pricy's sister, Myrtle, died, her husband, Verde Lathey, who then owned it, sold it to Ike. Pricy and the boys raised the crops on the farm. She had inherited the ability to handle horses as well as any man.

Clyde, Inez and Holly had been born in the city, Luther, Gladys and Olive were born on the farm. In 1930 Ike lost his savings plus his health and came back to the farm permanently. The drought years were hard to live through, but food was never scarce.

Inez, the first to marry, married Lee Oldham of Evans. Clyde had spent some years with cousin John Zearley in North Dakota and later married Cornelia Kessell and lived for a while on the adjoining farm. Holly joined the Navy and spent 20 years including both World War II and the Korean War era. Luther married May Belle Livingston of the Evans Route and Gladys went to work at the American Viscose and married Bernard Braun of Belpre. They lived for a short time at the Glen Parsons farm near Foster.

Olive, the youngest, was home with the parents after the others were gone. She tried to be a boy when her dad needed one and a girl when her mother needed her. There were grandchildren and nieces at various times that kept them company. Olive was away in winter going to school after she was 12 and went to Parkersburg to work a year after her graduation from high school. She married Howard Stone of Belpre, the grandson of an old family friend.

Ike and Pricy were nearly the last ones to leave the Foster Community which had once been a thriving community with its church and store, but now abandoned with all the houses falling down.

Ike and Pricy Smith

The Stones talked them into moving to Belpre into a house they owned. After Ike's death, Pricy lived for a while with Gladys and later with Inez, where she was living when she died. She spent a lot of her time with her granddaughter, Lynn Stone, now Carson. Lynn was a teacher at that time living in Marietta, Ohio. They visited Pricy's friends and traveled to many places where she had always wanted to go. She had broken both hips during her last years, but recovered to be active again.

She was always busy with her flowers or making rugs or quilts; also writing letters to her many friends and relatives. She was active in keeping the Long Hollow Baptist Church in good repair as long as she lived. She was confident that the Lord would take care of her and she would never be in a nursing home and she wasn't. Ike died in 1962 and Pricy in 1972. They are buried at Fairplain Cemetery as is her father Aley and Brother Lawrence. Submitted by Lynn Carson and Sharon Kantos

JOHN SMITH

The Smith lineage is so extensive, that we have not attempted to list the entire family, therefore, we apologize to any of the family whose records have been omitted or the dates inaccurate, as many dates of birth and death are not known by us.

Our great-great grandfather, John Smith, was married several times and fathered 23 children. He was a wagon maker from Kentucky and settled at some time in the Fletcher area of Jackson County. His son, Samuel James Smith (1832-1917), was our great grandfather. Samuel James settled in the Fletcher area also and met and married Bethany Kiser (1834-1907), the daughter of Rev. Abednego B. JOHN W. AND ELIZA JANE (GARRETT) SMITH

Most people who are familiar with the area around Kenna will know the location of Fairview Church. It is about 1.5 miles off Route 21 on Shamblin's Run or Given Road. If you stand on the church steps and look west across the road, you will see a large, white, well-kept house in the open field. This house and farm is the homeplace of my maternal grandparents, John W. Smith (1848-1926) and Eliza Jane Garrett Smith (1856-1922). They were married on March 30, 1876. The present house (my mother called it the new house) was built in 1898 or 1899. The original house which was torn down a few years later was about 20 feet north of the new house.

John W. was the son of Wyatt Smith (1818 to 1896) and Lucinda Oldham Smith (1826-1909). He was born in Pocahontas County, Va, but the family moved to Jackson County sometime before 1860. Eliza Jane was the daughter of Charles L. Garrett and Elizabeth Click Garrett. She was born at Kentuck where her family had lived for many years. John and Eliza Jane called themselves farmers as most people did in those days but John was also a teacher and store keeper. For a while, the store was on Shamblin's Run near the farm house and then was moved to Kenna where he had the store and a boarding house. My father and Uncle Herbert (John and Eliza's sixth child) as young men in their late teens and early 20s, hauled supplies for the store from the railhead in Ripley by horse and wagon.

John and Eliza Jane had nine children. 1. Claude Roland (1877-1958) married Zorah Corbin; 2. Minnie B. (1879-1976) married Charles M. Winters; 3. Della Mae (1881-1977) married Hiram Oliver Faber; 4. Bessie C. (1884-1953) married Everett Hambrick; 5. Mary Ethel (1888-1978) married Otis Otho Simmons; 6. Herbert Owen (1890 to 1936) married Ami Casto, second marriage to Gladeen Minns; 7. Cora Alice (1892 to 1981) married William Granville Casto who are my parents; 8. Carra Elizabeth (1897 to 1977) married Allen Skidmore; 9. Wilbur Guy (1900 to 1981) married Nina Harpole. At the time of this writing only Nina Harpole Smith is living. All the children and the other spouses have gone on to their rewards.

Smith family reunion, 1949, Wilbur, Carra, Cora Alice, Mary, Bessie, Della, Minnie, and Claude

The remarkable thing about this entire family was their deep and abiding concern for each other. I can only assume this lovely virtue was instilled in them by John and Eliza Jane or was learned from them by their example. In all my years of talking to my mother and her brothers and sisters, I never heard even the slightest hint of dissention or friction among any of them. Every summer on the third Sunday of July from 1932 to about 1978, all of those that were living and well met for a family reunion. The meeting place was rotated each year from one home to another. In more recent years it was held at Fairview Church on Shamblin's Run. John W. and Eliza Jane and their parents, Wyatt and Lucinda, are all buried there is the church cemetery. WICK B. SMITH

Wick Bruce Smith was born in Pennsboro, WV in 1891 and moved to Jackson County with his parents, Bernard and Mary Ellen Markle Smith, in 1896. They lived on Drift Run where Wick went to school. He earned his Teacher's Certificate in 1910. He taught his first year in Lincoln County at the Sugar Tree School near Griffithsville, WV.

He also taught in Mason County and at the following schools in Jackson County: Lockhart, McGraw, Odaville, Upper and Lower Turkey Fork, Copper Fork, and 24 terms at Drift Run.

In 1913 he married Bertha Estella Conger, daughter of Charles Ulysses and Virginia Price Conger. They were the parents of two daughters: Jessie Edna (1914) and Helen Eunice (1918).

In addition to Wick teaching school, they operated a productive and well-kept farm on Drift Run, Sandyville, WV. As Wick frequently walked to school, including the Turkey Fork School, it was necessary for him to start his busy day early, and after school, work often continued until late in the evening.

In addition to other farm animals, Wick and Bertha kept several dairy cows and sold cream which was delivered to Sandyville for further shipment by train. Milking was done by hand, as was normal at that time, and the milk was put through a hand-operated separator to separate the cream. When Wick was absent due to school meeting, taking classes, etc., Bertha very capably took care of the chores pertaining to running a house and busy farm. By fall the cellar shelves were full of canned fruits and vegetables from their orchard and garden. She loved flowers, so flowers in the yard and on the porch were also a part of summer and African violets filled the kitchen windows in winter.

Wick B. and Bertha (Conger) Smith

Often in the middle of the night, after a telephone call on a crank turned citizen phone, Bertha would take her lantern and go to help a neighbor care for a sick child, or on occasion, help deliver a baby.

Later, after a gas well was drilled on their farm, they were able to use natural gas for heating and cooking, and still later had electricity which made their lives easier.

After Wick retired from teaching, they continued a busy work week. Although they later had to discontinue the heavy work, passers by could often see Wick working in his nice garden or scything weeds, briars, and brush from his fields.

Bertha passed away Dec 23, 1979 and Wick continued to live on the farm until his death Feb 2, 1987. They are buried in the Drift Run Cemetery.

Jessie Edna married Orville Thomas in 1932, a well known builder in Jackson County. They were the parents of a son, Lee Thomas, and a daughter, Connie. They made their home on Drift Run all of their married life except for a short time in Ripley. Jessie continues to live on Drift run, since Orville's death in 1979.

Lee, who married Helen Benson, has worked over 32 years at Kaiser Aluminum and still employed by Ravenswood Aluminum, and is the Chief of the Silverton Fire Department. They are the parents of two children, a son Greg and a daughter, Joyce. Greg married Denise Stamper and they have a daughter, Stephanie. Joyce is married to Pete Baltie and they are the parents of a son, Jason, and a daughter, Stacy.

Connie, who lives in the Cottageville area, is employed by a construction company.

Helen Eunice Smith and Martin Dole Archer were married in 1943. They are the parents of two daughters; Patricia Archer Travers (b. 1945) and Bonnie Jo (b. 1949), who is married to William T. Hatch. They have four granddaughters, Tamara Travers Mills (b. 1965); Deborah Travers (b. 1967); Meredith and Emily Archer Hatch (b. Sept. 1980), and one grandson, Tremain Archer Hatch (b. 1983). They also have one great-grandson, Eric David Mills (b. 1987).

They lived in the Washington, DC area, Norfolk, Virginia, San Diego, Calif, Subic Bay, Philippines, and in London, England during Commander, USN (Retired), Archer's military career. Submitted by Jessie Smith Thomas and Helen Smith Archer

Tradition has it sometime before the early 1800s, Samuel Somerville Sr., Jonathan Sheppard, Samuels father-in-law, and others pursued a raiding band of Indians who had stolen some children from the West Fork Settlement. They over took the Indians and rescued the children below Elizabeth in Wirt County. They were so impressed with the country a few years later they settled in the Right Reedy Valley area.

After staying in the Right Reedy area several years, Samuel and Susanna Somerville sold their homestead and moved to Brushy Fork in upper Jackson County. Several of their younger sons came with them. HAROLD SOMERVILLE

Harold David (Harley) Somerville (1895-1973) oldest son of Benjamin and Christina Lockhart Somerville born at the Somerville family homestead on Brushy Fork, Jackson Co. WV was a descendant of several early pioneer families. He had two brothers, Karl (1900-1921) married Clara Archer. They had three sons: Kermit, Chandis and Warren. Dr. Delmer Somerville (1907-) married Audrey Sayre. They reside at Ripley, WV.

Harold received his education in the public and Summer Normal Schools. He was awarded a First Grade Teacher's Certificate at the age of 18. His first term was taught at Lynn Valley, Grant District, in 1913-14. While teaching at Simpson School he met his future wife, Inez Lola (1899-) daughter of David and Harriett Smith Moore of Belleville, WV. They were married 25 March, 1917 at the bride's home by the Rev. I.N. Smith.

After teaching for 12 years he was appointed to the Sandyville Post Office in Oct. 1924 as an R.F.D. carrier. The family moved from Lockhart's Fork to New Era. In this day of modern transportation it is difficult to picture the hardships these rural route carriers endured because "the mail must go through." His first route was up Trace Fork, down Joe's Run, out the ridge to now North Hill then back to Sandyville. In the early days horses were used to travel through high water, snow drifts and the never-ending mud. Sometimes he used a large sleigh if there was snow on the ground. He stopped at homes along the route to get warm and thaw his frozen lunch. Mail-order houses did a flourishing business in those days and carriers delivered packages as well as letters and papers. In the spring there were boxes of cheeping baby chicks to deliver!

His first car was a Star, then several Model-A-Fords. They were built high off the ground to pass over the rough roads. In 1946 he bought a Jeep and was the first carrier in Jackson Co. to use one. In 1947 he transferred to Rt. 2, which included McGraw Run, Pleasant Ridge, Horner's Run and Turkey Fork.

After his retirement in 1958, he and good friend, Romie Hutchinson, surveyed many tracts of land in Jackson Co. He served as Jackson Co. Surveyor from 1958-1968. An attractive bronze plaque in his memory can be seen in the Jackson Co. Court House.

Harold and Inez (Moore) Somerville, 50th Anniversary, 1967

Harold Somerville was the author of many historical and genealogical articles. He began research in the 1930s, assisted by G.N. Lockhart and T.A. Lockhart. They talked with elderly people, viewed family Bibles, searched weed grown cemeteries and hand written court records. "A Pioneer History of Jackson Co." was published weekly in The Mountaineer and The Jackson Herald under the pen name "Tommie Sewell." "A Pioneer History of Wirt Co." was published in The Wirt County Journal in the 1940s. This series has recently been republished.

Children of Harold and Inez: Paul (1917-), Helen (1922-24), Gaynelle (1924-), Pauline (1927-), Hiram (1930-). Family records listed elsewhere in this book. Submitted by: Gaynelle Somerville Davis

JOHN SOMERVILLE

John Somerville (1830-1906), son of Samuel and Susannah Sheppard Somerville, married 10 April, 1851 Eliza Jane Hayward, daughter of Joseph and Ann Hayward. John born on the original Somerville homestead, Right Reedy, was thirteen years old when the family moved to Brushy Fork, Jackson Co. (W)Va. Eliza Jane was born on the farm at Red Brush her father had patented in 1830.

After their marriage, John and Jane lived on her father's farm. They purchased it from the heirs after the death of Joseph Hayward in 1853. In the 1850s John Somerville named Isaac's Run, Red Brush, because the red leaves stayed on the brush all winter. He also gave the village of "Buttermilk" its name. His brother, Hiram, lived on the hill above the village and his children daily carried buttermilk from the Isaac Cheuvront home, below the village. Every time John was at the store he saw the children on their daily errand and so exclaimed, "We'll call this place 'Buttermilk.'" The name, Buttermilk, was once on Rt. 21 road signs, but later changed to Lockhart.

David, son of Samuel Somerville, was to have the home farm on Brushy Fork for caring for his parents. But, in 1859, he and John traded farms. In 1886, the Walnut Grove U.B. Church was built on John Somerville's land near the mouth of Gault's Fork. It was razed about 1900, and the Mt. Hope Church on Windy Ridge was built from the material. In 1889, a school house was built on Somerville land. It was first called Oak Grove, later Somerville School, and last known as Brushy Fork School.

John Somerville was a land surveyor, constable for Squire Currey's court, and known as the "walking constable" because he did not like to ride a horse.

In 1855, while John and Jane lived on Red Brush, their two small sons died of diphtheria. Joseph Asbury and Henry Fisher, age three and two, were buried in the same grave in Red Brush Cemetery. Other children were: Samuel (S.K.) 1856-1948, married 1st Gula Myers, 2nd Margaret Campbell. A minister in United Brethren Church, lived Ravenswood, WV. Children: Alice, Lawrence, Glen and Earl.

Joseph 1858-1913, married Arie Snodgrass, lived Parkersburg, WV. Children: Anna, Dora, Sank, Alfred, Rae and Thomas.

Charles (1861-1890) married Victoria McFee, lived on part of home farm. Children: Maggie and Nannie.

David (1863-1895) married Mary Showalter, lived on Full's Fork. Children: Herbert, Clarence, Harold and Charley. John Jr. 1865-1930, married Jane Wells, lived on the home farm. Children: Gula, Pearl and Velma. Henry 1868- 1930, married Martha Lincicome, lived Medina; later Parkersburg, WV. Children: Nolia and Bernice. Benjamin W. 1871-1938, married Christena Lockhart, lived in Sandyville, WV. Children: Harold, Karl and Delmer. Adella 1874-1963, married Jacob Toncray, lived on home farm. No children.

At this time, Oct. 1989, three grandchildren of John and Jane Hayward Somerville are living: Earl Somerville, Parkersburg, WV, Mrs. Velma Lott, Elizabeth, WV and Dr. Delmer K. Somerville, Ripley, WV. Submitted by: Dr. Delmer K. Somerville

SAMUEL SOMERVILLE

Samuel Somerville, son of Solomon, born 1771 Donegal County, Ireland, emigrated to America in 1795. His brother, James, and family, sister Elizabeth Burnside and family sailed on the ship Delores. They may have lived in Virginia or Pennsylvania before settling near Good Hope, Harrison Co. (W)Va about 1800.

The name of Somerville may have been taken from a small village in Normandy, named St.

Omerville. In the course of time it was abbreviated to Somerville. Sir Gaultier de Somerville was one of the Normans who accompanied William the Conqueror to England in 1066. For his services he received estates in Staffordshire and Gloucestershire. William Somerville, a descendant of Sir Gaultier, settled in Scotland in 1136. He was granted the estates of Carnwater. A descendant of this William of Scotland settled in Londonderry, Ireland. Representatives of each branch of the family from England, Scotland and Ireland migrated to America.

Samuel Somerville married 16 year old Susannah Sheppard, 1 Jan. 1805 in Harrison Co. Va. She was daughter of Jonathan and Martha Wilson Sheppard who had come from Hardy Co. Jonathan was a Revolutionary War soldier. Soon after their marriage, the Somervilles, Sheppards, Otts, Bumgarner and others came to the Right Reedy section then in Wood Co., later Jackson Co. then in 1848 Wirt Co.

Through purchase and patent rights, Samuel acquired considerable acreage near the mouth of now Somerville Fork. His oldest son, James married Catherine Van Lere in 1830. In Oct. 1831 Samuel deeded 100 A. to James. This was the first deed of record, Deed Book I, Page I, at the Jackson Co. Court House, as that county was formed in March 1831.

In Nov. 1843 Samuel Somerville sold his farm on Right Reedy to son-in-law, Jacob Bumgarner, and moved to Brushy Fork, Jackson Co. Va. He had purchased several hundred acres from A.L. Kinnard. He built a large double log house and established a horse mill for grinding corn. Samuel and Susannah had seven sons and one daughter. Most of the Somervilles in Wood, Wirt and Jackson Counties are their descendants.

1. James and Catherine Van Lere Somerville moved to Jackson Co. They are buried Providence Church Cem. 2. Nancy and Jacob Bumgarner lived in Wirt Co. 3. Jonathan married Margaret Ott. They lived on Somerville Fork and their descendants still live there today. 4. Samuel, Jr. (Sim) married Mary Ott. They moved to Milan, Missouri after the Civil War. 5. Andrew married Margaret Slaven from an early pioneer family. They lived in northern Jackson Co. Their home was called the "Half-Way House" because it was half way between Ripley and Parkersburg on the old Pike. It was noted for its hospitality to travelers. Later known as the Clair Sheppard farm. His mother, Lucy, who married Pascal Sheppard, was daughter of Andrew and Margaret Somerville.

6. Hiram married Mary Ingram, 2nd Emiranda Grant. He was in the Union Army, later moved to Salem, ILL. 7. David married Julia Hayward. They lived on Red Brush. He enlisted Union Army at age 35. Operated the Victoria Hotel in Ravenswood, WV in 1869. It was named for his daughter. They later moved to Odin, ILL. where he served as post-master for several years. 8. John (1830-1906) married Eliza Jane Hayward (1831-1904), daughter of John and Ann Hayward and sister to Julia who married David Somerville. They lived on the Somerville homestead on Brushy Fork. They are buried Pleasant Ridge Cem. Grant Dist.

Samuel and Susannah lived the remainder of their lives on Brushy Fork and are buried in the Providence Church Cem. near their home.

This information compiled by H.D. Somerville in 1940. It has been published in Jackson Herald and Wirt County Journal under the name of "Tommie Sewell." Submitted by: Gaynelle S. Davis Generations of Southalls have made their homes in the Virginia/West Virginia hills. Our earliest settlers came to Virginia in the 1700s. It is suspected that they originated from an area in Southern England.

SOUTHALL

William Henry Southall, Sr. and his wife Catharine were born in Virginia in 1808 and 1812 respectively. They had seven children: Jonas (born 1832) and our direct descendant William Jr. (born 1835) were both born in Rockbridge County, Virginia; Alexander (born 1852); and Jane (born 1856); were all born in Franklin County, Virginia. William, Sr. was a farmer and divided up the family farm between his sons, who continued as their father as farmers.

William Jr. married Margaret Tolley on March 25, 1858 in present day Jackson County, West Virginia. Margaret (born 1835 in Rockbridge County, Virginia) was the daughter of John and Rebecca Tolley. (She died October 7, 1882 in Jackson County). William Jr. was fondly known as "Devil Bill" and was a confederate private in the 22nd Virginia Infantry, Company B. Bill and Margaret had ten children, all born in Jackson County: Susan (born 1859), married George Merical; James Henry (1861-1934); Frannie (born 1862); Nora (born 1867), married Timmy Casto; our direct ancestor Benjamin Alexander, known as Dick (born August 8, 1868-died September 9, 1945) married Flora Jane Casto in the early 1900s; William Early (born 1810), married Stella Garrete; Harvey (born 1872), married Annie Parsons; Rebecca (born 1874), married William Rhodes; Barbary (born 1879); Albert (born 1876 — died 1891).

Dick and Flora (Casto) Southall

Dick Southall continued as his father and grandfather as a farmer. He and his third wife, Flora (daughter of Martha Siders and Jake Casto) had ten children. Flora had a son by previous marriage, Brady Rhodes who later married Mattie Good. Flora and Dick's were as follows: our direct ancestor Romic (born 1905), married Orpha Fisher; Otho (born 1906), married Mae Wiseman; Dealie (born 1908); George (born 1916), married Cora Taylor; Opal (born and died in 1920); James (born 1923), married Garnet Gande; Ova Rector (born 1917), married Devona Atkinson. William Jacob (Bill) married Ethel Garmes.

Flora and Dick's children were all born in Kentuck, Jackson County, West Virginia.

Romie Southall married Orpha Fisher (born 1906) on May 11, 1929. Orpha was one of the eight children of Locke and Elizabeth Jones Fisher. Romic and Orpha both worked at Kelly's Ax Factory, later known as True Temper. Romic retired from True Temper with 42 years experience. Romic and Orpha had seven children: Renelda (born and died 1930) Roy (born 1931); Donald (born 1933); Delmer (born 1935); Dora (born 1942); Darrell (born 1944); and Dotti (born and died 1946). They have 13 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. Roy, Delmer, Darrell live in California, Florida, and Georgia respectively. Dora and Donald reside in Ripley.

The Southalls have been part of Jackson County and its rich heritage for more than 130 years. Submitted by: Kelly Haynes

To new folks in the county, it is known as Staats Mills or Jackson Co. #36 Road. To many it's still called Southall Ridge, the History you have just read reflects why. Submitted by: Mrs. Helen L. Southall Mrs. Naomi Bartlett

HENRY AND ROSETTA SOUTHALL

It is not known when the first Southall arrived here nor where he first settled. Southall is a municipal borough of South England, in Middlesex, west of London.

Joan Collins, British television star of "Dynasty," did some of her earliest filming at Southall Studios in 1952.

Douglas Southall Freeman is perhaps best known for authoring "Lee's Lieutenants." We know that the men of Albermarle Artillery, Everett Regiment, Southall's Battery, were present at that most tragic and bloody Civil War between the states. My great grandmother told of hiding from both Union and Confederate soldiers.

My grandfather, James Henry Southall, son of William and Margaret Tolley Southall, was born November 4, 1862. He had 4 brothers — Jenkins, Harvey, Early, and Richard. His three sisters were Fannie McDonal, Rebecca Southall Rhodes, and Nora Southall Casto. His father died in 1907 and his mother in 1882 at age 46. His paternal grandparents were James and Emily Southall, whose children, in addition to William, were a son, John, and two daughters — Jane Southall Johnson and Catherine Southall Tolley.

James Henry Southall purchased land of wild beauty in Jackson County, where he cleared the trees by moonlight in order to plow and plant by day. He and Rosetta Catherine Pringle were married December 23, 1891 at the bride's home at Fairplain, West Virginia, and stayed with his Aunt Jane Johnson and her husband Bentie until January 8, 1892. He was 29 and she 20. Henry's "pet name" for his young red haired wife was "Peggy."

They traveled by wagon to their new home at the head of Straight Run, where they lived in a log cabin. As their family grew, so also did the house and their love.

James and Rosetta had nine children; namely William Howard, (who died in France during World War I), Holly Forrest, James Boyd, Rolley, Addie, Arnel Roy, Bessie, Alma and Ora. Bessie, Alma, and Ora are the only children still living. Bessie and her husband Melton Skeens live in the old homestead, where they still make the family welcome.

They spent their entire married life there where James Henry died March 20, 1934 and Rosetta Catherine died February 25, 1940. Their funeral services were held there where they had lived and died. They are buried at Fairplain Cemetery.

Rosetta Catherine was the fifth child of 13 born to John G. Pringle, who died in 1909, and Mazella Rhodes, who died in 1931. The other 12 were Artimisha, James (Matt), Fred Wilson, Arthelia, Froni May, Mary Belle, Hannah Elizabeth, Carry, Lucy Florence, Effie Alice, Oley Edgar, and Clara Ethel. Much has been written in West Virginia history books concerning the Pringle brothers who took up residence in a large hollow tree and lived off the land as they cleared it for farming.

The union of Henry and Rosetta Southall was typical of the many fine families built on a structure of hard work and enduring love. Submitted by: Janet L. Beck

HOLLY AND RUBY SOUTHALL

Holly Forrest Southall and Ruby Grace Snider were married at her home in Big Springs (Calhoun County) on February 11, 1923.

Holly was born September 17, 1894 at Straight Run, Statts Mills. He was the second son of James Henry Southall and Rosetta Catherine Pringle. They were of English and Dutch descent.

Ruby was born May 10, 1900, in Big Springs, the tenth child of Joseph Emory Snider and Mary Rosalee Holbert. Mom told that her great grandfathers name was Schneider later shortened to Snider.

Holly and Ruby Southall

They had four children: William Troy born December 27, 1923 at Big Springs; Rose Marie born September 16, 1932 at Statts Mills; Forrest Wilbur born May 19, 1934 at Statts Mills; Bertrice Lee born August 23, 1937 at Statts Mills. Rose married Robert Harold Clegg from Wood County. They had three children: Jennifer Lee born September 9, 1959. Cynthia Ann born September 26, 1963. Michael Harold born May 14, 1970.

Forrest married Marsha Wade (now divorced) from Spencer. They had two children: Elizabeth Susan (Betsy) born September 13, 1972. Anne Miklyn born April 4, 1974. All grandchildren were born in Parkersburg, WV.

Bertrice Lee married Jackie Lee Leisure in 1962. They are divorced and had no children.

Troy never married. He died August 14, 1987 and is buried at the Fairplain Cemetery.

Ruby died June 2, 1969 at age 69. Holly died September 13, 1973 at age 78. They are buried at the Fairplain Cemetery.

Holly was a farmer, carpenter, timber and oil worker. He was a kind devoted husband and father, a good patriotic citizen, honest, sympathetic and helpful toward neighbors and friends.

He enlisted with the first U.S. draft law in early summer of 1917 for WWI and served with the infantry at Camp Mead, MD. until the war was over January 31, 1919.

He later worked for the Carter Oil Company in the gas fields of Calhoun County where he met Ruby while boarding with her parents. (His first car a 1918 Overland touring car is still owned by his son Forrest).

Holly worked for the State Road as foreman for 18 years and built the roads at Cedar Lakes Camp. He retired from construction on the then Kaiser Aluminum Plant in the early 1950s.

Ruby was a scholar and teacher who loved to read, sing and play the organ. She attended Calhoun schools through eighth grade and then attended Fairmont Normal School. She was teaching school at Beatrice, WV when meeting Holly. According to Freda Miller at the Ripley Library, her name appeared in all the books as being read. She loved people and was a good friend to all.

They built their first home at Statts Mills where it still stands today, owned by his sister, Ora, and Stanley Ellis. In 1939 the family built their home on top of Salt Hill overlooking Cedar Lakes (where it also still stands) and lived there until their deaths. It still belongs in the family and I live there. Submitted by: Bertrice Lee Southall

JAMES SOUTHALL

James (Jimmy) Southall 1-5-23, married Garnet Blondina Gendee. Their three children are; Connie Karen, married Rondus Guy Casto, had two children; Rondus Wayne, married Regina Harrison and they had Rondus Allen and James Christman. Annette Lynn Casto 1961 married Alonzo Oscar Spencer and had two children, Natalie Nichole Spencer 1978 and Lonnie Nicholas Spencer 1980. Second marriage was to John Hall, third to James Amos Cumberledge. William (1943-1944), Brenda (1946-1946), Opal 1920 died at birth, Girl (1925-1925). Last but not least my mother, Delie Southall, October 8, 1908 — November 15, 1987, married Kenneth C. Kerns, September 12, 1926. They had 13 children; Hanford L., Clyde A., Eurada, Francis, Emsey L., Richard Lee, Otho A., Denver Walter, Dale Ray, Nellie Mae, Sherry Juanita, Izetta, Sue.

I'm sure everyone thinks their mother is the best. Well, I know mine was. She always was giving of her love and time to everyone around her always sharing, but most of all was the love she had for her family. I was raised in hard times, not as much so as my older brothers, but we had our share of hard times. Mother and Dad didn't always have the money or transportation to take us to the doctor when we were sick, or to buy special medications. They had several ways of doctoring us, like mixing certain things to make cough syrups, or rubbing us with camphorated oil. I'm sure I wore a sock around my neck a few times just like many others have done back then. As a child I had asthma and got sick easily. I remember a lot of wonderful things my mother did for me as well as the rest of the family. But one special time really stands out in my mind as if it were yesterday. My mother and father and at least five or six of my brothers and sisters had gone to Sunday School, like we did every Sunday. To miss going to Sunday School we had to be really sick or dying, (so I thought), anyway I had a bad cold with Asthma too, I was feeling bad. There was a big snow on, the wind was blowing hard and it was in the low teens, we were walking back from Church (a long walk), everybody had walked ahead of Mother and me. I remember getting colder with every step I took, I started coughing, the wind was blowing in my face and taking my breath away; my Mother unbuttoned her coat holding it out as far as she could to her side shielding me from the wind the rest of the way home. Being the young child that I was I didn't understand why she didn't get sick, she was the one that got hit with the cold winds while protecting me. As I grew older I began to realize and understand a lot of things that I didn't understand as a child. That was just one of the special ways that mother showed her love. Submitted by: Sherry (Kerns) Miller

SPEARS

The Spears Family descended from an English family in Sussex County, England.

William Wright married Virginia Underwood (-1862). She died in 1862. They were the parents of Lois Wright (1825-1903). The Wrights came to this country and landed on the Virginia shore. They settled near Warm Springs, Virginia, Bath County.

Lois Wright married John C. Richardson, a Baptist preacher, in 1846. They had eight children. Three of these were (1) Mrs. Elizabeth Richardson Rhodes. (2) J.C. Richardson Jr. (3) Annie Francis Richardson Spears.

John C. and Lois brought their family to West Virginia crossing the Blue Ridge Mountains. They rode in a covered wagon part way. They settled in Ripley about 1850. According to the history found in the old Bibles of Virginia Shockey and a history written by Lee Mays of the Ripley Baptist Church, Rev. J.C. Richardson helped organize the first Sunday School in 1888. He and his wife, Lois, and some of their children are named as members in that Sunday School in Ripley. He traveled to surrounding towns preaching and died on the pulpit at Elizabeth, WV. in 1889. His body was brought back to Ripley. His name and others of his family are on monuments near the gate as entering the Early Settlers Cemetery.

Their daughter, Annie Francis (1855-1919), married Isaac Spears (1846-1916) in Fleetwood, Virginia.

Isaac Spears was a confederate soldier in the Civil War. They settled near Ripley in a log house near where Thelma Hall lives now. They soon got land out the ridge known then as Nigger Hill and began building a house and other buildings. Most of the men in the family were gifted at building as their descendants are yet.

They spent the rest of their lifetime there and were buried in the Ludwig Cemetery near their home along with some other members of the Spears family and their descendants.

Isaac and Annie Spears had 11 children. (1) John Calvin Spears (1870- 1958). He was never married and stayed at home and worked on the farm; a very useful man. (2) James Toliver (1873) married Corda Rogers (1899-). (3) William Walter (1874-1878). (4) Charles Alonzo (1875-1943). In 1905 married Rosie Been Latstetter (1875-1936). (5) Henry F. Spears (1877-1944) married Lucie Ann Bowman (1880-1946). Six children: Oscar, Clara Spears Hurd, Lenn, Otmer, Russell and Esta Spears Patterson. Esta and Rex had 8 children. ABRAHAM STAATS

Abraham Staats (1750-1826) and wife, Anna King (1755-1811), came to what is now Jackson County from Delaware (?) circa 1802, by way of Hampshire County, VA. (Hardy). Taxed there in 1784 as Abram Stotts and Harrison Co. (Lewis) in 1785 with six in family. His children had increased to nine by 1802 and three were married. ABRAHAM & ELIJAH STAATS

The Staats family emigrated to what is now Jackson County, West Virginia very early, perhaps about 1800. It is not certain which member of the family was first in the county, however, some historians record that the first was Abraham Staats, who was born about 1751 in New Jersey.

The first permanent settlers arrived in the Muses Bottom area about 1807 and among the first contingent of settlers was one Ellis Nesselroade. Later the Nesselroades and the Staats family intermarried. Whether they (the Nesselroades) were descendants of Ellis or not has not been established with certainty.

About 1807 or shortly thereafter, a second contingent of settlers emigrated to Jackson County. They included Abraham Staats (see above) and Isaac Staats. A few years later (about 1810) several other early settlers came to Muses Bottom. They included Elijah Staats, Daniel Staats, and Noah Staats. Others who came at the same time were Adam Alkire and A.W. Alkire. The Alkire family also intermarried with the Staats. Another family which came in the second or third contingent and who later intermarried with the Staats was the Sayres. Possibly the first was David Sayre.

The early settlers first erected log cabins as their dwelling place. Often the arrival of a new settler was such an occasion for celebration that neighbors would turn out en masse and help the new family to cut down the trees, clear the land, build the cabin, and establish the homesite. Sometimes large meals would be prepared by the ladies and a real welcoming party, or celebration, would result. This might have included a dance or husking bee.

The cabins were very simple structures and could be raised quite rapidly. They were functional and provided immediate shelter for the family, and sometimes limited belongings. The door of the cabin would sometimes be built with a latch on the inside. A string attached to the latch could be left outside or inside the door. During the night, or during particularly dangerous periods, the string would be pulled inside, and the door could not be opened from the outside. But when company was expected, the string was left outside and those expected would be told, "the latchstring is out for you."

Some historians have presumed that Abraham Staats, born in 1751, married first Anna King and came to Jackson County in the early 1800s, was the ancestor of the West Virginia branch of the family. However, as indicated earlier, other Staats families, emigrated about the same time, and they must have been the ancestors of many Staats families. For instance, Isaac Staats, who emigrated to Muse's Bottom about 1807, was probably the brother of Abraham. Elijah Staats, who came before 1810, was probably the brother of Abraham, and Daniel, who came at the same time, was probably a contemporary of Abraham. Noah Staats, who also came at the same time, was probably the son of Elijah.

The Staats who emigrated to Jackson County originally came from New Jersey, or were descendants of the New Jersey branch of the family. Peter Staats was the probable ancestor of the New Jersey Branch. His father's name was Abraham, but which Abraham has not been established with certainty.

The first Staats in America was probably Abram Staes (Flemish spelling), who came from Holland and settled in what is now Albany, New York about 1642. Another Abraham Staats immigrated to what is now Brooklyn, New York. He may have been the father of Peter Staats above, who was born about 1670 in Gowanus (Brooklyn), New York. Peter had a son, John, also born in Gowanus.

The Peter Staats family eventually settled in Somerset County, New Jersey. John, son of Peter, married Gertrude Quick and they had seven children, including Abraham and Ryneer. Abraham married Margaret DuBois, and they had seven children. Their three sons were: Issac, Elijah, and Abraham (born about 1751), all of whom came to Jackson County. Abraham became the ancestor of many West Virginia Staats families. Elijah emigrated to Letart Township in what is now Meigs County, Ohio sometime before the end of the 18th century, because he later married Margaret Alkire in Harrison County, Virginia in 1797. Later, before 1810, as indicated above, he moved to Jackson County.

Abraham Staats, son of the elder Abraham above, married first Anna King, born in 1755, died in 1811. They had nine children. The sons were Cornelius; Abraham, Jr., Elijah, Jr., and Jacob, Sr. The daughters were Anna, Catherine, Susannah, Sarah, and Rebecca. Abraham married second Sarah Tilghman, and they had William, John, and one daughter, Hannah. According to Harold Staats, Abraham "... was a leader in the religious and social activities of his community. He was one of the first three men to be converted in Jackson County. For many years he was secretary of the church of which he was a member."

The early pioneers of Jackson County, including the Staats families soon learned that their new life would not last for long, however, without the long arm of the government stretching out to the new settlement. For instance, they were sometimes called to jury duty in Point Pleasant. As Moore related it, they also could be called to help build roads. He wrote: "They could be called to Point Pleasant and sent out to work on a frontier road as many as four days a week. (Surprisingly enough, government in those days seemed to take more from its citizens than it does today.)"

The Elijah Staats family made history of another kind in the year 1813. The first use of a midwife was recorded in Grant District, Jackson County on August 13th of that year. Elijah and Margaret Alkire Staats were proud parents of David Staats, who was delivered by a midwife. It is certainly highly likely that event caused quite a stir, and probably called for some considerable celebration amongst those early settlers in Jackson County.

As this brief history indicates the Staats family became a very important part of the early history of Jackson County. The descendants of those early settlers are scattered all around these United States. Many of them, however, still reside in "Wild, Wonderful" West Virginia, and some considerable numbers of them still make their home in Jackson County. Submitted by John Michael Cunningham and Roger Henry Cunningham

ENOCH STAATS

The first known Staats ancestor was Admiral Jonchin Ghyse who was given the name "Staats", which means loyalty, by the Grand Council of the States of Holland during the 17th century. Admiral Ghyse earned this name for bravery and courage displayed in naval battles between the Dutch and Spanish fleets. Descendants of this Dutch ancestor are patriotic people who have been classed among the most loyal Americans in the United States.

Some of the earliest settlers in Jackson County were of the Staats family. The name "Enoch" was a popular one for male children in the family having been noted prior to its use for members of the Jackson County Staats family.

William Staats and Emily Jane Casto Staats were the parents of eight children. The fifth child was a son named Enoch who was born October 7, 1875 on a farm on Tug Fork where his grandson, Enoch Judson Staats, presently (1989) resides. Enoch was the grandson of Isaac Staats and Anne Eliza Tolley Staats. Isaac was the builder of the first mill at Staats Mill. Enoch's maternal grandparents were Nicholas and Telitha Casto.

This grandfather, Nicholas Casto, was a Captain in the 141st Militia during the Civil War. He was also said to be the sponsor of a Civil War hiding place which is described in a poem, "The Casto Hole".

Enoch's brothers and sisters were: Cordelia (m. Lovell Parsons), Ava Belle (m. Jacob Pfost), Louisa (m. D.C. Shamblyn), Holly (m. Pearl Knopp), Dora (m. Lushion Skidmore), Cora (m. Everett Simmons), and Edra (unmarried).

Enoch received his education in Jackson County Schools and was a teacher prior to entering politics. Enoch served as Jackson County Clerk and Deputy Clerk for a total of 24 years. In 1899 he married Allie Carney, only daughter of William Carney and Rosa Wedge Carney. Rosa's parents were Ira Wedge Jr. son of Ira Wedge, senior and E. Wedge. Ira Jr. married Catherine Crawford. Rosa's brothers and sisters were, Arilla E. (m. — Dunlap), John, and Charles. Allie's paternal grandparents were Enoch Carney and Martha Vandine. Enoch Carney was the son of Jesse and Sarah Greene Carney and Martha Vandine's mother was named Nancy. Enoch and Martha Vandine Carney had the following children: Jemima "Pinch" (m. Henry Click), Dr. James M., Rosalee H. "Zell", William (m. Rosa Wedge), Charlotte, and Jefferson (m. Mary Landfried).

During the Civil War, the Enoch Carney family resided on the present site of Cedar Lakes. According to family legend, William, father of Allie, and his brother, Jefferson, hid in a corner and watched an encampment of Union Soldiers as they rested in the large flat area of the present Camp-ground.

ISAAC STAATS

Isaac Staats was son of Cornelius Staats and Anna Carney, grandson of Abraham Staats. He died April 8, 1890 at age 74. He married (1) Ann Eliza Tolley (1818-1876) August 8, 1833 and (2) Mariah Brickels (age 37) February 25, 1877.

His children were: Anderson 1834-1907 who married Mary Casto 1836-1902. Isabinda born 1836, who died after 1917 — single; Jane 1840-1900 married David Casto 1840-1902 on October 8, 1865; William 1841-1914 married Emily J. Casto 1850-1911; Enoch 1842-1912 married (1) Louisa Casto 1847-1893 (2) Zona Windle 1874-1908; Sarah 1845-1891 married Granville Morris 1839-1911; Anna 1847-1930 married F.A. Casto 1845-1936 on August 31, 1870; Squire 1850-1921 married Nancy Dobson 1847-1907; Granderson 1851-1920 married Telitha Casto 1852-1928; Hannah 1855-1893 married G. Nestor Windle; John Franklin 1858-1942 married Sarah Casto 1859-1935. Riley 1860-1936 married Alice Casto 1860-1931; Mary (Polly) 1863-1929 married Joel Casto 1854-1932. All 13 children were living at his death and in his will he asked that everything be sold and each child be given so much. Then at the end — he'd changed his mind and wanted "Binda" to have more (she was single and over 50). Son John Franklin was to be the executor. Years later J.F. still had a lot of old handmade purses that had belonged to Isaac with old tax tickets (folded), notes paid (name torn out), notes of all sorts — (his filing cabinet). He spelled notes of all sorts — (his filing cabinet). He spelled his last name "Statts" as did his sons at times.

His father died when he and sister were very small children. He grew up with mother, stepfather, Enoch Thomas, who had a mill and half-brothers. He must have learned the business of Miller there. In 1840 with two or three children he paid Virginia Taxes on two horses 16 cents and a county and poor levy 90 cents — total $1.06. In 1846 with six children he paid County and Poor levy $1.21, one horse and one W. Clock 23 cents total $1.44. In 1850 — eight children the County and poor levy was $1.50, 2 horses and 1 W. Clock 33 cents and 140 acres of land was 7 cents total $1.90. In 1857 he bought 1 acre and mill from Jacob Pfost and was taxed for it in 1860 $2.00 plus all other items. He sold the mill to son, Enoch, in 1877. Enoch applied for a post office and one was established in 1879, and is still operating today — the only evidence of the mill and miller, who raised a family near, and is buried in old Siniaville Cemetery as are many of his children. MITCHELL AND GRACIE STAATS

My father, Mitchell Lee Staats, was born August 23, 1901, the son of Adam Luther Staats and Mary Jane Faber Staats and grandson of John Madison Staats and Sarah Elizabeth Pringle. My mother, Gracie Bell White, was born March 23, 1893, the daughter of Wesley "Bud" White and Mary Henretta Garness.

Mitchell and Gracie Staats

Louisa Jane Boggess Faber, "Granny Faber" to us, raised Mitchell Lee and his sisters, Lolia Elsie (3-30-1896) and Hattie May (4-21-1898) after their parents died. Hattie May is still living. Adam Staats died July 9, 1903 at age 30 and is buried at the Oak Hill Cemetery in Jackson County. Mary Jane Faber Staats died October 17, 1905 at age 32 and was buried in the Faber Family Cemetery at Goldtown. When I-77 came through, she was moved to Emma Cemetery on Rt. 34 on August 31, 1959.

We lived in the Goldtown area until I was about six years old. I had a black collie dog called "Coley" that got killed by a car. It was sad, but dad brightened things up when he said we were moving to a big, beautiful farm and I would have plenty of room for a dog. We loaded the wagon. It was snowing as we headed through Jackson County just across the line on Dog Fork Road in Kanawha County. I saw what Dad was talking about. With my brother, Mitchell Jr. born December 23, 1926, my three sisters, Mary Jane born May 1, 1928, Geraldine Maxine born July 28, 1930, Corrine Mae born July 5, 1933 and myself, Luther Adams born March 9, 1936, we made our happy move. We attended Rock Spring School and our teacher was Rosa Hunt. There was a white church by the creek called Rock Spring that had the best spring water. The church is still there and the water is still the best.

Mitchell Jr. married Octava Harrison and they have one daughter, Sandy Lynn.

Mary Jane married Marvin Moore. They had three sons, Roger Lee, David Wayne, Terry Lynn, and four daughters, Karen Grace, Connie Renee, Sharon Kaye and Mary Elizabeth.

Geraldine married Eugene Reed. They have two sons, Michael Eugene, William Earl and one daughter, Hazel Marie.

Corrine married Donald Lewis. They have two sons, Kevan Carlyle, Travis Lee and one daughter, Kimberly Sue.

Luther married Donnie R. Presley. They have three sons, Craston Adams, Jimmie Leon and Glen Allen.

Terry Lynn Moore was drowned at Coonskin Pool on May 18, 1974 and is buried at Emma Cemetery, Rt. 34. Gracie Bell Staats died March 15, 1969 and is buried at Emma Cemetery. Mitchell died while visiting a daughter in Louisville, Ohio on December 8, 1983 and was brought back to Emma Cemetery. Submitted by Luther Staats

ABRAHAM STARCHER

Abraham Starcher (b. May 21, 1800, d. October 16, 1871). son of Jacob and Ann Staats Starcher, lived on a farm at Ripley, which was a part of the land originally owned by his father. On this land he built a two-storied hand hewn log house made from poplar, with a large stone fireplace, where he lived until his death. This house stood until the 1940s.

He was engaged in farming, and was a prosperous farmer of his day and a man of good taste as evidenced by records of some of his purchases and some of his home furnishings still existing in the home of a great granddaughter, Mabel Starcher Chapman.

On November 29, 1821, Abraham Starcher married Margaret Evans (b. March 27, 1798, d. August 20, 1852), sister of Sarah Evans, who later married Abraham's brother, William Starcher, in 1827. Abraham and Margaret were married in Meigs County, Ohio, which was the county in which the Evans family resided. The Abraham Starcher family Bible lists ten children: Sarah Starcher (b. January 25, 1823), Mark Starcher (b. February 19, 1824), Daniel Starcher (b. February 5, 1825), Noah Starcher (b. May 5, 1826), Barbara Starcher (b. June 9, 1828), Joseph Starcher (b. August 2, 1830), Jacob Starcher (b. January 16, 1832), Mary Starcher (b. June 16, 1834), Ruama Starcher (b. December 20, 1835), and Ephraim E. Starcher, (named for Margaret's brother, Ephraim S. Evans) (b. June 14, 1837).

This family experienced extreme sorrow over the divided opinions of personal loyalty to the Union or to the Confederate states. Joseph Starcher fought and died for the Confederacy. Mark, his brother, fought for the Union, was wounded, and never fully recovered. Jacob L., another brother, served in the 141st Militia.

Abraham and Margaret Evans Starcher are buried in the Early Settlers Cemetery at Ripley, as are three of their children, Mark and Daniel Starcher, and Sarah Starcher Park, wife of James Andrew Park. Submitted by Mabel Starcher Chapman

E.E. STARCHER

E.E. Starcher, second son in a family of 11, was born in Ripley on November 9, 1857 to Robert Evans and Emily Prudence Harker Starcher. He was the great grandson of Jacob and Ann Staats Starcher and a great-great grandson of Abraham Staats, early settlers of Jackson County. He was baptized into the Episcopal Church as Everett Evans, but later changed his name to Everett Edward and signed it E.E. Starcher. Most people called him "Epp," a nickname he detested.

Everett studied medicine for a time, but preferred to teach school in the Ripley area. He became part owner of the Starcher Hardware Company in Ripley. Besides hardware, the store carried lovely home accessories brought down the Ohio River to Ripley Landing.

He married Josephine (Josie) Unrue, daughter of John and Becky Price Unrue of Sidneyville in May 1883. They lived on a small farm on Bull Frog Run in the Sidneyville area. There, two sons were born, William Paul on April 2, 1884 and Starling Charles on April 22, 1886. By the time the boys were grown they had moved into town (West Ripley). Everett continued working in the store and Josie "took in" boarders.

seated: Josie Starcher; standing: Starling, Paul, E. E. Starcher, 1910

On September 24, 1914, Josie passed away. By that time they had sold the hardware store. Everett sold his home and spent the rest of his life in boarding homes and long visits on the farm Paul and his family owned near Cottageville. He loved spending time with his grandchildren and walking over the farm with them. He also spent much time on the courthouse lawn in Ripley with his friends, and he never lost interest in civic affairs, education and politics.

On July 1, 1941 he died of "hardening of the arteries" and is buried in the Pine Hill Cemetery beside Josie.

Children:

1. Paul, the elder son was also a school teacher. Prior to settling on the farm in Cottageville, he taught school in Jackson, Marshall, Mingo and Pocahontas Counties. He taught school in Mingo County near the end of the "Hatfield and McCoy" feud. He stayed at the home of "Hog" Floyd Hatfield and was acquainted with "Cap" and "Devil Anse" Hatfield. EDWIN M. STARCHER

Edwin M. Starcher (b. December 25, 1862, d. June 3, 1931), was a son of Jacob L. and Marian Webb Starcher. He had one brother, Floyd L. Starcher, who was born October 22, 1861. His mother died December 2, 1863, during the Civil war period, before he was quite a year old. He lived with relatives for a period of time before being reunited with his father and brother.

Edwin M. Starcher

In 1880 he was employed by Dr. J.W. Maguire and Bro., dealers in drugs, medicines, wall paper and stationery, in Ripley. On July 15, 1880, he wrote his father, who was then in Minnesota, and had been urging him to continue his education, "I am studying medicine now and intend to continue for one more year, and then I want to go to school. I am learning about as much in here as I would if I was going to school." Ripley at that time was known as Jackson Court House. He then did attend schools in Lebanon, Cincinnati, and Ada, Ohio, then studied law and was graduated from Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Virginia, in 1887.

In 1888 Edwin accompanied his father on one of his trips to Wheeler, South Dakota, where his father owned lands. Edwin decided to stay, and opened a law office. He secured a pharmacist's license, and operated a drug store in Wheeler, in addition to his law practice.

He moved to Fairfax, South Dakota in 1898. He was the first County Judge of Gregory County, South Dakota, holding that office for 12 or 13 years. From 1913 to 1921, he was United States Land Office Registrar at Gregory, South Dakota. He was later appointed by Judge Elliott as Referee in Bankruptcy, which office he held from 1921 to 1926. He also built and owned the large Starcher Building on Starcher block, which held the Gregory County Court House. The first office of the Gregory County State Bank was in the northeast side of the building. Judge Davis of Burke, South Dakota, had his first law office there, and later the Fairfax Theater, as well as many other businesses.

Upon being notified that the Gregory County State Bank had consented to sell, J.L. Starcher, Edwin's father, became the principal stockholder. Directors were named and then officers were elected: Edwin M. Starcher, President, Mae (also known as M.B.) Starcher, Vice President, and Carl Porter, Cashier.

Edwin M. Starcher was married to Mae Helenbolt. They had no children. He returned to Jackson County as often as business would permit, and still owned an interest in lands here at the time of his death. He moved to Wood, South Dakota, about a year and a half prior to his death on June 3, 1931. He is buried in the Gregory IOOF Cemetery at Gregory, South Dakota. Submitted by Jennifer Chapman

Floyd L. Starcher (b. October 22, 1861, d. May 19, 1935), son of Jacob L. and Marian E. Webb Starcher, was born while his father was serving as Deputy Sheriff in Calhoun County under Peregrine Hays. His only brother, Edwin M. Starcher, was born on December 25, 1862. His father returned to Ripley, where he was born, and joined the 141st West Virginia Militia on July 20, 1863, in G.S.M. King's company. Soon afterward, on December 2, 1863, his mother died and is buried in the King Cemetery near Jackson General Hospital at Ripley.

Floyd L. Starcher lived with an aunt, Mary Starcher Kerwood, until the Civil War had ended and his father had recovered from the devastating effects of the war. The children rejoined their father, who took them to Minnesota where he had purchased several lots or parcels of real estate, and was engaged in the mercantile business.

Floyd L. Starcher attended schools in Hastings and Brainerd, Minnesota. Later he attended Ohio Northern University at Ada, Ohio, where he studied law and medicine.

In the 1890s, he taught school in Corsicana, Texas. Due to the urging of his father, he returned to Ripley to assist his father with the sale and supervision of his holdings, traveling by railroad and by horseback. While in Texas as well as New Orleans, Louisiana, and at the Evans Fairground in Jackson County, he actively pursued his love of horse racing. Among the horses he owned and raced was his favorite, "Dixie," who was a frequent winner. His knowledge of horses and their individual abilities on the race track made him very popular with his friends and acquaintances on race day, due to an uncanny ability to always pick the winner.

Although he was highly respected in the community, and was often consulted by other attorneys of his time, he did not have a traditional and extensive law practice. Instead he chose his clients sparingly. They had to meet two tests before he represented them. They had to have a cause in which he believed, and they had to be unable to pay for his services.

On October 2, 1917, Floyd Starcher married Ocie Mae Rhodes (b. October 10, 1893, d. March 13, 1973), daughter of Emmett M. and Rebecca

Floyd L. and Ocie Mae Starcher

Hawkins Rhodes. They had one living daughter, Mabel Louise Starcher (now Chapman) born May 6, 1920. One daughter was stillborn in 1918, of which there is no official record in the County Clerk's Office.

He operated farms at Gay, Ripley, Murfreesville, and Smith Creek, the latter being in Kanawha County, where he raised cattle and horses.

He and his wife are buried in the old section of Pine Hill Cemetery. Her marker bears the inscription, "Ocie Starcher Dudgeon 1893-1973." After the death of Floyd L. Starcher on May 19, 1935, his widow continued to operate the farm at Ripley until her death in 1973, having developed an outstanding herd of Hereford cattle. On January 16, 1941, she married Guy Dudgeon, Assessor of Jackson County. He died August 22, 1945, and is buried in the Ravenswood Cemetery. Submitted by Mabel Starcher Chapman

She served on committees of the U.S. Office of Education, the National Science Foundation, and the National Education Association. In 1962 she was elected president of the National Association of Teacher Education and Certification.

As a resident of Charleston for 35 years, she was active in community affairs. She was first president of the Charleston Altrusa Club. She retired in 1968 and returned to the home vacated by her parents, where she began community involvement. She became a board member of the First National Bank, now United National Bank, and later chairman of the board, a position she still holds. Her interest in her community can best be seen in cultural and historical projects. She provided an educational foundation for high school students, contributed financially to the English Department of Ripley High School, donated Heritage House to Cedar Lakes Camp, endowed the public library in Ripley, fenced the Early Settlers Cemetery, and contributed the landscaping of the entrance to Pine Hill Cemetery. She organized and became first president of the Jackson County Historical Society. She is active in the life of St. John's Episcopal Church. The undercroft of St. John's is named in her honor.

JACOB STARCHER

The name Starcher appears to have been spelled many different ways in legal documents and other writings, probably including: Statzer, Startzer, Statser, Stacher, Stearcher, and others.

Due to shortcomings and shortages of early records, there comes a point where, generally, the researcher cannot establish ancestry by proof positive. However, it is believed the first Starcher in America arrived from Germany by way of Rotterdam, the Netherlands, aboard the ship Phoenix at Philadelphia on September 15, 1749. Some of the Starchers continued to live in Pennsylvania, while others eventually migrated into present day West Virginia.

Jacob Starcher acquired a tract of land in Cumberland County, now Bedford County, Pennsylvania, on December 17, 1767, where he lived for several years. After selling his land, he lived and paid taxes in the Wills Town Hundred, Washington County, Maryland. He later migrated through Hampshire County, Virginia, to Harrison County, now Lewis County, West Virginia, where he and his wife, Barbara, settled on 400 acres of land in the Hacker's Creek area. He had several children, including Jacob, John, Phillip, Daniel, Abraham, Jesse, and possibly others.

The younger Jacob (b. 1768, d. January 7, 1838) married Ann (sometimes written Anna) Staats (b. January 3, 1777, d. July 8, 1847), daughter of Abraham Staats, on December 3, 1795. After their marriage, Jacob and Ann Starcher resided in Harrison County on land purchased in 1796, until they came to the area of Ripley, probably around 1800. Records show him paying taxes in Kanawha County in 1803, and in Mason County in 1804. Additionally, the October 1805 Mason County records indicate Jacob Starcher collected bounty on wolf scalps. Since he later sold his land in Harrison County to his brother, John, in 1805, it is probable that this was the time he entered into the purchase agreement for the Ripley area lands, which he gained title to in 1816.

The original town of Ripley was established on land owned by Jacob Starcher. Local legends, perpetuated in many written accounts of the early history of the county, indicate that he acquired such lands from William Parsons. However, a search of the records back to the April 7, 1780 patent from Patrick Henry, Governor of Virginia, to John Swan, issued in consideration of a land military warrant under authority of a 1763 Proclamation of the King of Great Britain, reveals no record that William Parsons at any time owned the lands. While Captain Parsons was an early settler in the area, his lands were likely located near the site of Ripley, on Sycamore, about one mile from the court house.

In 1768 William John and Lewis Rogers (Rodgers) of Monongalia County received a "corn right" grant of 400 acres of land encompassing the area where "Sycamore Creek joins Bill Mill Creek" in what is now Ripley. The grant was not surveyed until 1785, at which time the owners learned that in 1780, John Swan of Baltimore, Maryland, had been given a grant of 2,000 acres as a reward for services in the Revolutionary War. This grant overlapped the 400 acres earlier given to William John and Lewis Rogers. They defended their "corn right" title of 1768 and recovered their title in 1796 through what was called a junior grant. William John gained full title to the land.

Jacob Starcher purchased the 400 acres from William John at two dollars an acre. The sale was by title bond and a certain sum of money. This means he did not receive a deed for and did not pay taxes on the land until he had perfected his title. In February 1816, he received a deed from the heirs of William John, in which they acknowledged that the conveyance was being made in "consideration of certain sums of money paid to the said William John in his life time as well as in consideration of a title bond given by the said William John in his life time to said Starcher."

Jacob Starcher and Francis King purchased from John Swan 560 acres of land for $840, which they divided. Jacob Starcher's share of 275½ acres was added to his earlier acquired 400 acre tract. In 1819 he received a land grant of 40 acres from the Commonwealth of Virginia, which had been surveyed for him in January 1818. On January 16, 1833, he purchased from Robert Swan, executor of the John Swan estate, 613 acres, and an additional 56 acre tract was conveyed to correct a prior deed. This was a part of the original Swan grant of 2,000 acres, and overlapped the 400 acres previously purchased by William John. The deed from Robert Swan included the 400 acres, indicating the difficulty of establishing original boundaries, and settled the title to the 400 acres in Jacob Starcher. Out of this acreage, Jacob and Ann Starcher, on March 28, 1832, donated the eight acres of ground needed to establish the county seat and the Public Square. The original town of Ripley was established on 30 acres of land owned by Jacob Starcher on December 19, 1832, by Act of the General Assembly of Virginia, upon the December 5, 1832, petition of Jacob Starcher.

On December 7, 1823, Jacob Starcher was granted permission by Mason County to establish a dam across Mill Creek for the purpose of erecting a grist mill, which was probably the first industry in what is now Ripley. He also had one of the early sawmills of the Ripley area.

Jacob and Ann Starcher donated land on November 17, 1837, "whereon to erect a good and sufficient size school for the public." They also provided the land for the first public burial ground, now known as Early Settlers Cemetery, where they and other members of their family are buried.

Their children were: William, Abraham, John, Jacob, Phillip, Manly (also spelled Manley), Catherine, and Sarah, whose names figure prominently in the family lines of many residents of this area. Submitted by Ronald L. Chapman, Delcie Ludwig

JACOB L. STARCHER

Jacob L. Starcher (b. January 16, 1832, d. November 7, 1911), son of Abraham and Margaret Evans Starcher, was born on the family farm, now owned by his granddaughter, Mabel Chapman, in present day Ripley. On July 12, 1860, he married Marian E. Webb (b. November 28, 1839, d. December 2, 1863), daughter of John and Elizabeth Hays Webb, and granddaughter of Samuel L. Hays, prominent orator, member of the Virginia Assembly, and U.S. Congressman. At the time of their marriage, he was serving as Deputy Sheriff of Calhoun County under Peregrine Hays. They had two sons, Floyd L. Starcher (b. October 22, 1861, d. May 19, 1935) and Edwin M. Starcher (b. December 25, 1862, d. June 3, 1931).

Jacob L. and Marian E. (Webb) Starcher

After the outbreak of the Civil War, Peregrine Hays being sympathetic to the South, enlisted in a local militia organization formed by Captain George Downs, known at first as the Moccasin Rangers, and later as Company A, Nineteenth Virginia Cavalry. Jacob L. Starcher returned to Ripley and enlisted in the 141st West Virginia Militia on July 20, 1863, in G.S.M. King's company. Soon afterward, on December 2, 1863, his wife died and is buried in the King Cemetery near Jackson General Hospital at Ripley.

After the war had ended, the two young children were left with relatives, and he, probably upon the advice of Samuel L. Hays, went to Minnesota, as a land speculator for lands that were now available. Lands were purchased at Hastings, St. Paul, and Brainerd. Later he traveled to Washington Territory stopping in South Dakota and Nebraska, where other lands were purchased.

On July 26, 1868, Jacob L. Starcher married Mary Bell of Hastings, Minnesota, daughter of John M. Bell, prominent banker and businessman.

A mercantile business was operated by him in Hastings, and later in Brainerd, where he owned more than twenty buildings, including a blacksmith shop.

After his remarriage, the children were reunited and went to Hastings. In a letter written to his wife August 16, 1869, he described his journey from Ripley to Glenville with his son, Floyd, on horseback, after the lapland style, to get the other son, Edwin. He says, "Carriages since the war have played out and horses are scarce. This State is wonderfully behind what it was ten years ago."

Although Jacob L. Starcher, usually known as J.L. Starcher, had agents or attorneys in the various areas where he owned property who collected his rents and checked on crops raised, he spent a great deal of time traveling between Minnesota, West Virginia, and South Dakota to personally supervise his holdings. He operated a saddlery business in Ripley in the name of Starcher and Hayes, and general mercantile businesses in Gay, West Virginia, Hastings and Brainerd, Minnesota, and Tacoma, Washington.

On the letterhead of the Gregory County State Bank of Fairfax, South Dakota, which he purchased April 9, 1903, and which had as its president his youngest son, Edwin, J.L. Starcher was identified as a "Capitalist of Gay, West Virginia." When Jackson County's first bank, the Bank of Ripley, was chartered on June 15, 1891, he was one of the charter stockholders, served on the discount committee, and was one of three on the committee named to secure suitable quarters for the new institution. The other members were John M. Greer and D.K. Hood. The Valley Bank was chartered on April 8, 1893, through his efforts. He was a charter stockholder, and was elected the first president, which position he held from May 1, 1893, to June 20, 1902. The Valley Bank and the Citizens State Bank, the latter chartered September 11, 1909, consolidated as The First National Bank of Ripley on July 1, 1928, now United National Bank. J.L. Starcher was also a stockholder in the First National Bank of Harrisville, West Virginia, and Stark Brothers Nursery.

J.L. Starcher was an advocate of a good education, encouraging his sons to pursue such for a secure future. Since he was a force to be reckoned with, they both studied law and medicine. Floyd studied at Ohio Northern University in Ada, Ohio, under the tutelage of the patriarch of the school, Professor Lehr (whose statue stands guard over the campus today), a personal friend of J.L., and Edwin at Washington and Lee at Lexington, Virginia.

Older citizens of the area described J.L. Starcher as a business-like gentleman of bearing. That he was also a "no nonsense" man with an eye to the future is borne out by a letter to his son, Floyd, preserved in the family papers, in which he comments on his son's interest and involvement with horses, essentially telling him that horses were a thing of the past, and that he should prepare himself for the future by pursuing his education and forgetting the soon to be obsolete horse. The letter was dated at a time when the horse was still one of the main methods of transportation.

Since J.L. Starcher was a businessman who acted mainly in furtherance of business interests, it is likely that his frequent trips to various parts of the county, ranging from Florida to Washington State, and many points between, were related to his many business holdings, some of which may never be fully known.

Robert Evans Starcher (b. September 2, 1829, d. March 6, 1904), son of William and Sarah Evans Starcher, was commonly called "Squire" Starcher because of his 20 year association with the County Court of Jackson County, which he served as president. The court at that time was composed of justices. In the early 1850s, he served as deputy sheriff, and later (1856) as sheriff. Prior to the Civil War he was in the mercantile business with his brother-in-law, W.H. Watson, who was killed fighting for the Confederacy. He always took great interest in educational activities, and was for many years a member and secretary of the Board of Education of Ripley Independent District. SAMUEL GOLDSMITH STARCHER

Samuel Goldsmith Starcher, the son of Robert Evans Starcher (1829-1904) and Emily Prudence Harker Starcher (1836-1908), was born in Ripley, May 23, 1874, where he spent his full life. Once he bought a lot in a beautiful section of Charleston, intending to build a home there, then decided there was no better place to live than in Ripley where he died, February 8, 1947.

In the late 1800s, with his brothers, Charles, Frank and Homer, he established "Starcher Bros.," a general store which carried merchandise from groceries to imported glass and china, requiring 13 people to take care of the business, much of which was done on a barter basis. The business switch in Ripley.

In his later years, he had wide business interests, including banking, merchandising, oil and gas, real estate and cattle farming.

He was a Rotarian, and Democrat, interested in politics, without any desire to hold public office. He was devoted to St. John's Episcopal Church, where he served on the Vestry. During World War II he served on the Jackson County Draft Board.

On January 23, 1898, he married Willia (1876-1954) Keenan, daughter of Andrew Keenan (1854-1898) and Margaret Skidmore Keenan, (1858-1925), whose interest beyond her household was in history and architecture. She designed the family home Starcher Place. They had two children: Richard Camden Starcher, M.D. and Genevieve Starcher. Submitted by Emily Anne Pace

DON STEPHENS

The Don Stephens family began with George Washington Stephens. George Washington Stephens was Don's great-grandfather. George and his brother homesteaded in the OK Hill area of Putnam County and the Elmwood area of Mason County. George ended up with the 400 acres in the OK Hill area.

George's family divided the acreage between the family members. John Lensley Stephens (Don's grandfather) received 120 or so acres. John farmed and cut railroad ties until his death in 1961 at the age of 87. His first marriage was to Martha Atkinson. They had one son, Holly Earl, who was born on Sept. 26, 1903. Martha died in childbirth in 1904. His second marriage was to Georgia Riffle. They had six children: Lester Stephens, Lola Stephens Welling, Ethel Stephens Barnett, Celest Stephens Bowles, Charlie Stephens, and Arthur Stephens. John was a very conservative and business minded farmer. He always kept his farm very neat and orderly. It is said that he used fertilizer for the first time during a dry season. The crop failed. He felt that fertilizer was of little value and had caused the crop failure. He never used the new fangled stuff again.

His son, Charlie, died in France during WW II, and his other son, Arthur, died with a childhood disease when he was three years old. The other children are still living, and Georgia died in the spring of 1988 at the age of 103.

Holly and Odell Stephens

Holly Earl Stephens (Don's father) married Odell LaCretia Barnett on June 16, 1929. Holly and Odell lived on the Barnett home place near Rock Castle on the Jackson-Mason county line most of their lives. They had two children, Georgia Lee Stephens Carney Williams (March 3, 1937) and Donald Gay Stephens (November 11, 1946).

Holly worked many years in Putnam County as a grader operator for the WV Dept. of Highways and completed his career in the same capacity in Jackson County after 30 some years of roadwork. Holly has often told the story about his first job. He left home at the age of 14 with a man named Saris Fisher. They walked to Arbuckle and caught a train to Huntington, WV. The train was late getting to Huntington, and they missed the connection to Sciotoville, OH. A very frightened 14-year-old boy asked an old man how to get to Sciotoville. The old man told them to cross over to Ohio and catch the street car to Sciotoville. They arrived in the railroad camp in the early hours of the morning. The excitement and the uncertainty left a very vivid impression on the young boy, and although he has told the story many times, Holly still remembers those emotions.

Georgia was married to Duane Carney. They had one daughter, Debbie Lee, September 29, 1957. Duane was killed in a truck accident in 1969. Georgia was remarried to James Carl Williams in 1969.

Seth, Shannon, and Don Stephens

Donald was married to Linda Ann Barber on June 13, 1969. Linda was the daughter of John and Kathleen Hunt Barber of Evans, WV. Linda was very active in several organizations in Jackson County, especially the Homemakers Clubs. Don and Linda moved to the Charlie Rector farm in Hemlock and had two sons, Shannon Donald (Sept. 25, 1971) and Seth Justin (November 27, 1974). Linda died on June 21, 1984 following gall bladder surgery.

Donald graduated from Ripley High School in June of 1965. He attended West Virginia University and graduated with a Bachelor of Science (1969) and a Masters of Science (1976) in Agriculture. He has taught Agriscience at Ravenswood High School since 1969. He has served on the Jackson County Commission from 1987 to the present. He also farms on a part-time basis. Submitted by Don Stephens

EVELYN (PARSONS) STEPHENS

Evelyn Catherine Parsons, the only daughter of James and Celia Parsons, was born in Akron, 1917, and attended the public schools in south Akron. She graduated from Garfield High School, and attended the University of Akron part-time. At Garfield, she met her future husband, Philip Henry "Bud" Stephens, whom she married in 1937. At the time, she was working at the Miller Rubber Company in the office, where her fellow employees included her eldest brother, George, and also George's future wife, Margaret Schlemmer. Bud Stephens was employed at the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, only several blocks distant.

Evelyn and Bud Stephens had three sons, all born in Akron. The first is Philip Henry Stephens III, born May 23, 1939. The second and third sons are twins, Melville Lynn, and Michael Allen, born September 16, 1945.

During World War II, as Evelyn's brothers, George, Garland, and Edgar (Bud) went into the Army, Evelyn and Bud Stephens moved from their apartment into the home of her mother, Celia

George, Edgar, Evelyn, and Garland Stephens

Parsons, on Iona Avenue in Kenmore, a section of Akron. The mother, Celia, had progressively lost her sight beginning about 1920, and was living with Garland and Bud Parsons, in the home jointly purchased with George Parsons, shortly after George's marriage to Margaret Schlemmer. Evelyn and her brothers, together with their mother, had the strongest of possible mutual support and affection ties. Their mother, Celia, had become legally blind by about 1923, and a common concern for each other's welfare was always uppermost in their minds.

Celia Parsons died in April, 1946, and Evelyn and her family continued to live in the home. Garland had married in 1943, and had his own home with Dorsalene Darnel Parsons, together with the first of their two children, "Gary" born April 19, 1945. Bud Parsons, Evelyn's younger brother returned from the Army in April, 1946, and had left Akron to attend graduate school at Cornell University in Ithaca.

Bud Stephens' Firestone work was transferred to Paterson, New Jersey, and subsequently to Pottstown, Pennsylvania. He commuted monthly, a demanding schedule in the days preceding air travel. When the Pottstown transfer became permanent, the Kenmore-Akron house was sold, and the Stephens family moved to Pottstown. About 1952, Bud Stephens became employed by the Armstrong Rubber Company, and Bud and his family moved to Hanford, California, where his father was also employed.

Evelyn's first child, Philip, was injured at birth, in 1939, resulting in cerebral palsy with severe movement limitations. The twins, Michael and Melville, are pursuing distinguished careers. Mike, following graduation from Duke University, served in the U.S. Marines (eventually attaining the rank of Lt. Col.), received his M.Sc. in Public Health from the University of North Carolina, and has a senior position on the staff of the Appropriations Committee, U.S. House of Representatives.

Mel was graduated from the University of Southern California, subsequently received his law degree from the University of California at Davis, and after practicing law in California, attended Queen's College in Oxford, England, where he now (1989) lives. His international law practice is based in London. He is unmarried. Prior to his enrollment in Queen's College in the early 1970s, he served as special Assistant to the President of the United States with primary responsibility for veteran's affairs. His qualifications for this appointment derive from an outstanding record in Vietnam, as a Lieutenant in the U.S. Navy, in riverine warfare, for which he was highly decorated. Recognition for this service included appointment to the staff of the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Elmo Zumwalt.

Mike married Sharman Kasdan in 1973, and they have three children: David Kasdan Stephens, b. July 13, 1979; Julia Anne Stephens, b. July 3, 1981, and Sarah Stephens, b. September 18, 1984. They reside in Arlington, Virginia. Sharmon is also a graduate of Duke University, and the School of Public Health, UNC. Sharman's Duke degree is in Nursing, and prior to marriage, she worked in the Duke Hospital Emergency Room. She is employed in the Department of Health and Human Services, Washington, D.C., specializing in medical care analyses. Submitted by Evelyn P. Stephens

GEORGE AND LIZZIE STEWART

One of the most helpful records we had was the Family Bible belonging to our great-grandmother, Mary Coon Battrell. We don't know what her maiden name was but after the death of her first husband, Mr. Coon, she married Columbus Battrell. She had three children by Mr. Coon: Sarah, 1817; Enoch, 1820; and Elizabeth (our grandmother), 1822. In her marriage to Columbus Battrell she had four children: Lucinda, 1828; John, 1830; Columbus, 1833; and Francis, 1837. It is believed that Mary died when a tree limb fell on her while riding horseback at a relative's, near Jersey, Ohio. She and her second husband, Columbus, are buried there.

Our grandfather, John B. Stewart, was born in 1815 in Virginia. He was the son of Charles, called Little Charley, because he was named for his father, Charles Stuart (1719-1794). Our great-grandfather's children were: Elisha, 1809; John B., 1815-1901 (our grandfather); George, 1817; Sarah, 1819-1894; and others.

Our grandfather, John B. Stewart, married our grandmother, Elizabeth Coon, in 1838 in Jackson County by a Rev. Hall. Their first child was Margaret Newell, 1839-1913. She married John Newell and had eight children: Gertrude Garrison, 1882-1941, buried at Otterbein; Minnie Bell Tucker, 1869-1940, buried at Otterbein; John Newell, 1880-1945, who married Rebekah Garrison, buried at Walker Chapel, Putnam County; Florence Hughes, 1865-1927; Elizabeth (Betty) Hill, 1867-1917, married David Hill, buried Smith Cemetery, Mason County; Bertha Hunt, 1874-1942; Luverna Newell, 1871-1946, never married, buried at Walker Chapel; Susan Walker, 1877-1919, buried at Walker Chapel.

John and Elizabeth's second child was Villetta, 1841-1843, buried in Stewart Cemetery.

Their third child was Enoch, 1845-19... He and wife, Emily Little, are both buried in Stewart Cemetery. They had two sons: N.F. (Mire), 1872-1959, who married Ella Hoschar, 1892-1980s, both buried at Otterbein; and J.W. (Wess), 1861-1944, married Iva Sayre, 1875-1968, both buried at Suncrest Cemetery, Pt. Pleasant, Mason County.

John and Elizabeth's fourth child was Martha Jane 1845-1885, not married, buried in Stewart Cemetery.

Their fifth child was Alonzo, 1848-1936. Children by his first wife, Keziah Sayre, 1856-1909, were Lucian, Clarence, Clyde, Kenny, Lonnie, Lizzie Baier, and Myrtle Ankrum. His second wife was Lillie King. He is buried between his two wives at Antioch.

Their sixth child was Mary Ellen who lived only a short time and was buried in Stewart Cemetery.

Their seventh child was Sarah Ann, 1854-1927. Late in life she married Major Andy Clark Hill. They had no children. She is buried at Foster Chapel and he with his first wife at Mt. Moriah.

Their eighth child was Lucinda, 1851-1910. She never married and is buried in Stewart Cemetery.

back: George and Lizzie Stewart; front: Evelyn (Stewart) Durst and Georgia (Stewart) Grady

Their last child was George B. McClellan Stewart (our father), 1863-1948, named for the Civil War general. He married our mother, Lizzie Thornton, 1887-1969. They were married in Ripley, Oct. 12, 1907, by Rev. T.H. Rymer.

Their children are Georgia, born 1917, who married Dorn Grady in 1941. They have two sons: Gary, born 1946, who married Christine Basham in 1968; and Jerry, born 1950, who married Marlene Parsons in 1972 and Katherine Greenough in 1982. George and Lizzie's other child is Evelyn, born 1919, who married Clyde Durst in 1945. They have three daughters, Pamela, born 1953, who married Gary Philyau; Deborah, born 1956, who married Bill Stem; and Marilee, born 1963, who married Patrick Curran.

George and Lizzie lived all their lives in the Foster Chapel community. He was a farmer and a carpenter, having built many of the houses in that area. Earlier in life, he worked in Pittsburgh at his trade. Many times he was asked to make caskets for members of the Foster Chapel community.

We have often heard the story of how they met. When our grandfather could afford a better house, (they had lived in a log house nearby) our father built the new house. It is still a good, well-made two story house on Long Hollow. Both our grandfather and grandmother Thornton died there. Submitted by Georgia Stewart Grady and Evelyn Stewart Durst

J.W. AND IVA (SAYRE) STEWART

My grandparents did not raise their family in Jackson County, but while doing some other research, I found that several of our ancestors had their roots in Jackson County. Our family consists of both Revolutionary and Civil War soldiers, farmers, notaries, surveyors and ministers.

The first John Stewart, I found during my research, was born in 1815. He lived with his wife, Elizabeth Coon, in the Parchment Valley region. To this union was born: George 1863; Lucinda 1859-1911; Sarah 1857; Martha 1846; and Enoch 1842-1912.

Enoch received the West Virginia State Discharge Medal for his service as a private in the Union Army, during the Civil War. In 1871, Enoch married Emily Little (1845-1880), the daughter of Elijah and Mary Little of Rock Castle. Enoch was a farmer. Enoch and Emily's children were: Nehemiah 1872; Cora 1878; and John "Wess" Wesley 1875-1968. In 1912, John Wesley Stewart married Iva Sayre.

John Wesley and Iva (Sayre) Stewart

Iva Sayre as a direct descendant of Revolutionary War General Andrew Lewis, whose great-grandson, William Lewis, married Dianna Flowers of Jackson County in 1837. They spent most of their married life in Jackson County and are buried in the Otterbein Cemetery. Iva Sayre is also a direct descendant of Revolutionary War Private David Sayre.

Iva Sayre's great-grandfather, Daniel Sayre was born in 1783 in Pennsylvania. He came to Jackson County around 1800 and married Sarah Hall, the daughter of Joseph Hall of Mill Creek Flats.

Daniel and Sarah Sayre's son David (1810-1895), was married four times. He is buried beside three of his wives in the Sayre Family Cemetery on Cow Run (Road) off Route 87. One son, David, and his wife, Mary, and two of their children, Grover and Minnie, are also buried in the family cemetery.

We descend from David and his second wife, Marthana Hill, the daughter of Laden and Rebecca Hill. Marthana died in 1872. Their children were: Lucian 1853-1880; Oscar 1856-1942; Minerva 1859-1943; Ira 1867-1882; and David 1864-1944.

This David was married in 1887 to Mary Barnett, the daughter of James Barnett and Eliza (Lewis) Barnett. David and Mary's eight children were all born in Jackson County. Their children were: (1) Grover Cleveland 1887-1913; married Beethse Cossin; had two children, which are now deceased. (2) Minnie 1891- 1914 (3) Adley 1892-1962; never married; WW I veteran. (4) Birdie 1894; married first Esco Johnson, second Jake Sharp; two children Esco and Jewell now live in Pocahontas County. (5) Hobert Garrett 1896; married Corda Pullin, the daughter of Allen and Rachel Smith Pullins; had four children: Harold and Wilda are now deceased; Gaylord lives in Ohio; and Bernadine Sayre Kayser of Point Pleasant, with whom he now makes his home. (6) Nellie 1877; married first ————Trader, second Leonard Tipton; no children. (7) David 1899-1978; married Jessie Sayre, the daughter of Zeke and Susan Sayre; two children: Mary Eileen of Columbus, Ohio, and Clodine, with whom they are buried in the Pleasant View Cemetery; David was an ordained minister. (8) Iva 1889-1964; married 1912 to John Wesley "Wess" Stewart, in Jackson County.

Wess and Iva raised their family in Leon. They later moved to Point Pleasant. Wess was a farmer and worked for the railroad. Iva was a very dedicated Christian woman. They were the parents of two children: Osborn 1913-1975, and Mildred born 1919, living in Mason County. I am one of Iva and Wess' four grandchildren, Sandra Taylor Watterson. Submitted by Sandra Taylor Watterson

A Stuart who was born c1700 in Ireland, although not Irish himself, had at least three sons — William, Charles and Robert. William, born in County Cork in 1727, was orphaned and came to America with an uncle. He went to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania in 1745 and 1750 married Elizabeth "Betsy" Givens; she was born c1731. Daniel; born Christmas Day 1769. Married Ann Kelso in 1794. Died 9 March 1829 and is buried beside his father. Ann died 26 November 1832. They had three children.

GEORGE STONE

George Stone and his wife, Lucinda Miller Stone and their daughters, Minerva, Sally and Elizabeth left Green County, PA in October 1823 and floated down the Ohio River with all their belongings, two cows, two horses, and household goods, on a raft.

George and Lucinda were married June 23, 1818. George was the son of James and Barbara Garrison Stone. George was born April 17, 1791 and Lucinda was born March 14, 1794. George died March 24, 1855, and Lucinda died July 13, 1862.

George and Lucinda settled two miles below Ripley on Mill Creek, later divided into Mason and Jackson Co. VA. Sons Frederick, John, and Elias were born there. The farm later became the property of Elias, the youngest son.

Daughter Elizabeth was born April 16, 1822. She must have been one and a half yrs. old when they started the trip down the river. According to the dates I found, our great grandfather, Frederick, was born the next year 1823. Brother John was born 1829 - 1907. He lived near Stevens, Mason Co. He was Howard Stone, of Belpre's; great grandfather. Elias was born 1832. Their descendants became successful businessmen and lawyers.

Our great grandfather, Frederick, was commonly known as "Uncle Fred". He was a county commissioner of Jackson Co. and a charter member of Mt. Moriah Church. He was of a cheerful disposition, always ready for a joke. He looked on the bright side of life, believing good comes from a smile and a kind word for all.

Frederick was married on March 7, 1850 to Elizabeth Harpold. Of this union were born seven children; four sons and three daughters. Uncle Fred and Aunt Lizzie are buried at Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

Children are P.M., S.W., C.W. (our grandfather), G.L. Stone, the sons, and daughters Mrs. Melinda Hogsett, Mrs. Lucy Bachtel and Mrs. Jonah Slughter.

Our grandfather C.W., Charles Stone, was united in marriage to Bertha Mae Stewart, daughter of Mary Harpold and Nathan Stewart, on Sept. 18, 1888. Of this union were born two sons, Lloyd N. and our father, Fred D. Stone. They lived on the old homestead down on the run. Grandfather C.W. owned a sawmill and sawed the lumber for the new house on Stone Ridge Road. Sons Lloyd and Fred and a neighbor, B.F. Frey, helped him.

Lloyd Stone married Georgia Lewis, daughter of Stoney Lewis. No children survived.

Lloyd and Fred grew up on the Stone Ridge farm near Ripley, as did their father before them. Fred, our father, was a farmer all his life. He was married to Erma Elizabeth Pringle, Nov. 20, 1924, daughter of James "Bub" Pringle and Cordelia Parsons of Fairplains.

Fred D. and Erma (Pringle) Stone and Breck Conley

Five children were born: James Marion Stone 11-28-1925, Isabelle Elizabeth Sargent 7-18-1928, Bonnie M. Cremeans 3-22-1938, Charles F. Stone 11-20-1939, and Ruth Ann Conley Nutter 3-25-1941.

Fred and Erma left Stone Ridge farm and moved to Ohio in June 1948. Fred died Oct. 27, 1984 and Erma died Oct. 17, 1985. They are both buried at the Torch Baptist Cemetery at Toreh, Ohio.

GEORGE AND FRED STONE

George Stone (1792-1855), son of James and Barbara Garrison Stone, was born in Greene County, PA. In 1818, he married Lucinda Miller of Middlesex County, N.J.

In October 1823, George and Lucinda traveled by boat down the Ohio River to the mouth of Millcreek, Millwood, then Virginia, bringing with them their three daughters, Minerva, Sallie and Elizabeth, two horses, two cows and some household possessions. They settled on a farm two miles west of Ripley, now WV.

George Stone obtained a land grant from Governor David Campbell of Virginia in 1838 for the 90-acre tract of land on the banks of Millcreek, Mason County, now Jackson. George was Justice of the Peace and Sheriff. In those days, the term of office for sheriff was one year.

Their house was log; in subsequent years additions were built. The structure stood until 1970s when torn down because of age and wind damages.

George and Lucinda's first born in that log house and in WV was my great grandfather, Fred (1824-1912). Other children born there were James (1826-1912), John (1829-1861), Elias (1832-1907), Samantha (1835-1921). George had two brothers, Steve and Elias, one sister, Sallie who married John McKown. Many area families are descended from George and Lucinda Stone. Lucinda's only known relative in WV was Betsy Bearmore. Lucinda was reputed to have red hair as do many of her descendants. George and Lucinda are buried in the King Cemetery, Ripley.

George and Lucinda's son, Fred, married Elizabeth Harpold (1833-1906), daughter of Solomon Harpold (1796-1888) and Malinda Shinn Harpold (1801-1869). They had seven children, viz: Malinda (1851-1928) married John Wilson Hogsett; Melissa (1853-1902) married Rey. Jonah Slaughter; Perry Miller (1855-1934) married Ida Dutton; Solomon Wallace (1857-1940) married Hannah Elizabeth Sayre; Lucinda (1860-1944) married first Dr. John M. Dachtel, second John M. Spicer; George (1862-1946) married Prudence Virginia Rhodes; Charles Warner (1866-1926) married Bertha Mae Stewart. Fred and Elizabeth lived on Stone Ridge, Grass Run, 63 years. Stone Ridge Road, southwest of Ripley was so-named because many members of their family had homes there.

House of Fred D. and Erma Stone

Fred Stone was a charter and faithful member of the Mt. Moriah church. Their home was always a home for ministers from all churches. He served in many county offices. He was well known in the county, both religiously and financially. It was said he had a cheerful disposition, always looked on the bright side of life believing in the good that comes from a smile and a kind word to all with whom he came in contact.

Elizabeth died at their Stone Ridge home and six years later, Fred died at his daughter, Lucinda's Fairplain home. Both funerals were conducted in the Mt. Moriah church. They are buried in the church cemetery. Submitted by Bonnie Stone Cremeans

HOWARD AND OLIVE STONE

When Howard Stone, son of Cora Robinson and John Cashus Stone of Belpre and Olive Smith married in 1941, it united families whose ancestors had been together since the early 1700s, when their paternal ancestors, Frederick Garrison and William Miner had adjoining grants in Pennsylvania.

Frederick Garrison's daughter, Barbara, had married James Stone, whose children, Sarah McKown and George Stone settled below Ripley with their families in 1821-23, and are ancestors of many area families. Their son, John, the great-grandfather of Howard, had eighteen children. The last one, Belle Stone Morrison Sayre died in 1886 age 103.

William Miner's granddaughter, Caroline, married Jacob Zearley in 1845 and came to Jackson Co. after living in Iowa. Their children married into the families of Cadles, Hussells, Woodalls and James Smith, the father of Isaac. When his father died, his mother Jane Zearley Smith, married Albert Hussell of Mt. Alto, who had been her dead sister Alice's husband. The cousins became step-brothers and sisters.

Pricy was the daughter of Alely Smith, a descendant of Jenny Wiley of Kentucky history and had been a neighbor of Anse Hatfield before settling in Jackson Co., where she met "Ike." They lived on Long Hollow where Alely, Olive's grandfather and Jim Stone, Howards' grandfather were deacons in the Long Hollow Baptist Church.

Howard and Olive Stone

Howards maternal grandmother, Alice, daughter of James and Rachael Clark Williams was born in Vincennes, Indiana, a descendant of the George Rogers Clark family. The Miner family had built the boats on the Monongahela River for the Clark expedition. "Allie's" father and husband were Civil War veterans. They are buried at Forest Chapel as is her sisters Bertha and Blanche Williams. Blanche had been "Ike's" teacher.

"Allie" Robinson's husband, Allen, had been severely wounded during the war and soon left her with a family to raise. She was the community nurse, herbs; ingenuity and hard work being her aids. Her younger neighbor, Pricy, followed in her footsteps, going at all times anyone was in need. After Allie moved to Belpre with Cash and Cora Stone, they came back to visit. Howard and Olive met on one of these visits when they were twelve and ten years old. Later, when there was no bus and Olive lived with relatives in Parkersburg to attend school, she went to cheer Belpre's star basketball player.

They married in 1941, worked in Philadelphia a while and came back to the "wild and wonderful" to have their first child, Lynn Carson, of Cottageville. Lynn lives near the place her great grandmother Hussell lived. Howard served in the Navy in the South Pacific. After the war, their son Ronald, a barber in Missoula, Montana and Sharon, a teacher at Huntington High, were born. Later a son, Dana, was born. After Howard retired from Union Carbide after thirty years, he and Dana farm quite extensively. Lynn taught school before she married a riverboat Captain, Ralph Carson.

Olive has written for various magazines and newspapers and until her retirement in 1980 was the Recorder of Washington County, Ohio. One of her interests now is family history. Submitted by Olive Stone

In later years by others he was known as "Will". On December 12, 1902, he was married to Minnie M. Hamilton, eldest daughter of Addison and Elizabeth Morrison Hamilton of Flatwoods. In addition to working on his own farm he also helped neighboring farmers and when Ravenswood and Millwood Docks were built he worked on them also.

HANSFORD "HANK" SUMMERS

I was named Hansford Iven Summers shortly after birth, but this soon became Hank and has remained so all my life. I was born 1 June 1932 at Witcher Creek, Kanawha County, West Virginia, a son of Leftridge Romeo "Leff. or L.R." Summers and Ida Virginia Jordan, a grandson of Robert St. Clair Summers and Aletha "Letha" Haynes, a great-grandson of Andrew Jackson Summers and Marietta L. Tilford, and John Wesley Haynes and Sarah Jones on my paternal side, a grandson of William Wilson Jordan and Cynthia Jane Parsons, a great-grandson of William Jordan and Julianne Gilliam and James Ervin "Erv" Parsons and Sarah M. Harper on my maternal side. One of my third great-grandfathers, Martin Hammack, owned one of the first lots located in the town of Ripley, Jackson County, West Virginia.

My father, Leftridge Romeo Summers, was born 11 March, 1889 at Cicerone, Roane County, West Virginia and died 25 October, 1936; married Ida Virginia Jordan 29 August, 1909 at Advent, Jackson County, West Virginia. Ida Virginia Jordan was born 24 October, 1893 at Advent, Jackson County, West Virginia and died 12 October, 1938. Both died at Witcher Creek, Kanawha County, West Virginia and are buried in the Jordan Cemetery at Advent, Jackson County, West Virginia, along with one of their daughters, Audra Summers, who died young, and one of their sons, Eugene Odare Summers, who died while home from the U.S. Air Force on furlough in an auto accident at Kenna, West Virginia, in May 1951. Also buried in the Jordan Cemetery at Advent is William Wilson, "Uncle Billy" Jordan and Cynthia Jane "Aunt Cynt" (Parsons) Jordan, William and Julianne (Gilliam) Jordan, James Ervin "Erv" and Sarah M. (Harper) Parsons as well as numerous relatives and close acquaintances.

I was the youngest of the nine children of Leff. and Ida Virginia (Jordan) Summers of which only three boys and one girl are still living at this time (1989): 1 — Faris Ray Summers lives on Staten Island, New York, N.Y. 2 — Camden Stafford Summers lives at Claycomo, Missouri, 3 — and myself, Hank Summers, who lives at Bonney Lake, Pierce County, Washington. The only living daughter is Junie Geraldine (Summers) Elliott, who lives in Spokane, Spokane County, Washington.

While I was born in Kanawha County, West Virginia, after the death of my parents, I was raised by my grandparents who lived first at Advent, then at Sidneyville, and later, on Klondyke Road, Ripley, Jackson County, West Virginia. I attended White Oak School, Roosevelt School on First Creek, Sidneyville School at Sidneyville, Ripley Grade School and Ripley High School all in Jackson County, Chelyan Junior High School in Kanawha County, West Virginia, and McKee Vocational and Technical School in St. George, Staten Island, New York, N.Y. At the end of my sophomore year at Ripley High School, I enlisted in the U.S. Air Force and during the Korean "Police Action," I transhipped to Japan along with the 92nd Bomb Group of which I was a member. At the end of the Korean conflict I was transferred to Forbes Air Force Base in Topeka, Kansas, where I served out my enlist-

After my discharge from the U.S. Air Force, I married Joyce Marie Davis in the West Side Christian Church, Topeka, Shawnee County, Kansas. ROGER SWAIN

Samuel Swain I was born in 1773 in Leicestershire County, England. He and Jane Hardy (b. 1777) were married April 9, 1798. They had five children, James (b. 1800), Sarah (b. 1802), Jane (b. 1804), Samuel II (b. 1807), Michael (b. 1811).

Samuel II is believed to have married Sarah Ann Riggs. There were three children from this marriage, William (b. October 3, 1829) married Deborah Smith January 15, 1853 and lived on Lee Creek, Wood County, Virginia. Thomas (b. September 17, 1832) married Charlotte Smith in Mason County, Virginia. They later moved to Paris, Illinois. James (b. 1883) at sea (Jackson County records) married Martha Eliz Mills on March 2, 1857. They lived on Jesse's Run, Jackson County. Samuel II came to the United States as a young man, presumably in 1833 since James was born at sea in that year. Sarah died before 1838, but no record has been found of her death.

The year of 1838 was very eventful for Samuel:

Samuel and Mary Newman Swain

on April 17, 1838 he married Mary Newman and on May 5, 1838 he became a citizen of the United States in Cuyahoga County, Ohio. Family tradition that has been passed down through generations say that Samuel II and his brothers were sailors and they owned and operated ships on the Atlantic Ocean. Between 1838-1843 Samuel and Mary moved to Jackson County, Virginia and settled on Milhoan Ridge and Jesse's Run. They had six children, Newman S. (b. 1843) married Indinia Dernberger February 22, 1864. Indinia died December 10, 1864. Newman married LeAnna Petty (b. March 6, 1847) on July 5, 1866; after LeAnna's death in 1893, he married Amanda Pickering July 4, 1894. They all lived at Lone Cedar, Jackson County. Julia Ann (b. 1845) married George Dernberger May 8, 1865. Emmaline (b. 1847) married Alonzo Smith January 3, 1868. Samuel II (b. 1852) married Agnes Parks March 30, 1873. Later he married Deborah Mills on February 10, 1895. They lived at Lone Cedar, Jackson County. John (b. 1855) married Talitha Cumi Milhoan on August 5, 1876. John and Talitha lived on Jesse's Run on his father's farm. Charles W. was born July 15, 1858. Samuel II died May 11, 1886 and is buried in the Milhoan Ridge Cemetery. We think Mary is buried there also. Charles W. is also buried in this cemetery next to his dad.

Newman S. Swain is my great-great-grandfather. He was born in 1843. By family legend he was quite a character. He fought in the Civil War along with his three older brothers, William, Thomas, and James for the 13th West Virginia Regiment. He was married three times — to Indinia Dernberger, LeAnna Petty and Amanda Pickering. He had one son, Newman M. Swain (b. April 30, 1862) whose mother is unknown. Newman S. married LeAnna Petty in Pomeroy, Ohio. They had six children, Marvin (b. June 15, 1867) married Mary Jane Mills September 15, 1889. Charles (b. 1870), he died October 26, 1888. He was killed by a train at Lone Cedar, West Virginia. Mary Drusilla (b. May 15, 1872) married Cassibianca Kimes. Francis N. (b. 1875) married Charles Boso. Sarah Eliz (b. April 27, 1877) married Alfred Logston. Josie May (b. May 13, 1881) married Ed Anthony. LeAnna Swain died October 27, 1893 and is buried in the Milhoan Ridge Cemetery. Newman married Amanda Pickering July 4, 1894. They had one son, William (b. May 30, 1895), who married Tressa Coleman. Newman and Amanda moved to Long Bottom, Ohio and lived the rest of their lives there. Newman died in 1926 and Amanda died in 1938. They are both buried in the Sand Hill Cemetery, Reedsville, Ohio.

Marvin Presley Swain and Mary Jane Mills Swain had five children: Jennie Belle (b. March 28, 1891) married Caleb Alonzo Smith April 3, 1910. Grace Thistle (b. May 24, 1893) married William Hall. Later she married Charles Burdine. They lived in Denver, Colorado. James Monroe (b. February 7, 1897) married Ruby Stankey. He worked on the locks on the Ohio River at Belleville, WV. Charles Everett (b. December 26, 1898), died in a drowning accident June 27, 1906.

Walter Eldon (b. December 21, 1906) married Mary Leota Moore August 16, 1932. Marvin died November 1, 1916 and is buried in the Swain family cemetery, Milhoan Ridge, Jackson County. Mary Jane later married Frank Watkins. She died August 31, 1954 and is buried in the Swain Cemetery.

Walter Eldon Swain was born prematurely. His older brother was killed in a drowning accident earlier in that year and the stress was very hard for his mother. When he was born they put jars of warm water around him to keep him warm enough. Walter married Mary Leota Moore (b. October 23, 1912) and they had five children: Regina Ernstine (b. November 24, 1932) married Donald Ahart April 24, 1951 and lives in Belpre, Ohio. Lulah Belle (b. February 26, 1935) married Hod Milhoan Jr. August 14, 1952. They were later divorced. Belle lives in Ravenswood. Roy Glen (b. April 24, 1938) married Joyce Fields. Later they divorced. Roy lives in Murraysville, WV. Barbara Lee (b. December 21, 1943) married Clarence Easter April 28, 1962. Barbara and her family live near Belpre, Ohio. Roger Dean (b. May 28, 1950) married Arma Mae Morrison. Walter worked most of his life for the West Virginia Department of Highways. He died August 22, 1984 and is buried in the Howell Cemetery on Milhoan Ridge, Jackson County.

Roger Dean Swain and Arma Mae Morrison (b. September 6, 1952) were married in the old Milhoan Ridge Church on May 11, 1973. We lived on New England Ridge in Wood County for eleven and one-half years. We moved to Jackson County on Milhoan Ridge in September 1984. Roger and Arma have three children: Wesley S. (b. December 10, 1973), Darcy R. (b. May 21, 1976), Holly D. (b. July 22 1981). Our family lives on a small farm Roger purchased in 1969. This farm is not far from the original Swain farm. Roger works for Kardex Systems in Marietta, Ohio and Arma is a full-time wife and mother. We are members of the Church of Christ and attend services at the Hopewell Church of Christ at New England, WV. Our family has many interests. Some of these are, baseball, horses, running, 4-H, homemakers club, reading and refurbishing furniture. Submitted by Roger Dean Swain and Lulah Belle Milhoan

TACKETT (TACQUETT)

In the 1500s many thousands of French Huguenots fled from France to England.

The name of "Tacquett" is listed among the members of the Church of England in 1589. The exact date the Tacquets arrived in the United States is unknown. The first record of a Tacquett was Lewis Tacquett in Virginia in 1711. Shortly thereafter in the records, the name is spelled Tackett. The name of John Tackett appears often with Lewis and was probably a brother. Many traces of their presence are still in existence. For example, "Tacquett's Ford" and "Tackett's Mill" in Stafford County, Virginia.

Lewis Tackett (born 1730) with brother Christopher, came to the area of present day St. Albans in the 1780s. Lewis and Christopher are believed to be grandsons of Lewis or John Tacquett. Since both Lewis (1730) and Christopher (appears as Christian in some records) named their first-born sons John, it is believed their father's name was John.

Lewis and Christopher Tackett built a fort at the mouth of Coal River that they named "Tackett's Fort." The fort was a double log cabin enclosed by a strong stockade. In March 1790, Mrs. Lewis Tackett (Mary) and grown son Lewis Jr. (1765-1865) were captured by Indians while some distance from the fort. Their release was obtained in August. On the 26th day of August, Lewis Tackett Sr. and Charles Young left the fort and traveled down the Kanawha to bring Mary Tackett and son, Lewis Jr., home.

Several families had built cabins at a distance from the fort since it had been some time since Indians had been sighted. However, on August 27, 1790, in Lewis Tackett Sr.'s absence, Fort Tackett was attacked by Indians and burned. Christopher Tackett and several children were tomahawked before they could reach the inside of the fort. Others inside of the fort surrendered. John McElhany, his mother and wife, Hannah Tackett (wife of Christopher), Betsy Tackett, Samuel Tackett, Samuel McElhany and Mary Townsend were all taken as captives. At a distance from the fort in their cabins on the Coal River, were Robert McElhany and son, Robert, Thomas Allsbury, John Young and wife, Keziah Tackett Young (daughter of Lewis Tackett Sr.), and one-day old baby, Jacob Young. Fearing the Indians would return before dark, John Young carried his wife and day-old son to a canoe and set off upstream for Clendenin's Station (Fort Lee — later Charleston), a distance of some twelve miles. Soon after dark a thunderstorm came up and it was a long wet night for the Youngs in a canoe on the swollen river.

Jacob Young, the first white child born in the Kanawha Valley, lived into his nineties and left many descendants. Lewis Sr. and Mary Tackett both lived to be over 100 years old, living out their days with daughter, Keziah Tackett Young and family in Kanawha County. Lewis and Mary Tackett were buried in the Young graveyard overlooking Young's Bottom on the west side of the Elk River. Their children were: John; Lewis Jr.; Keziah; Elizabeth; Samuel; Mary (Polly); and Fannie. Lewis Jr. lived to 99 years 10 months.

John Tackett, eldest son of Lewis Sr. married Joanna Coalton (Castale) (August 1796). Their children were: John Jr., Francis and Sarah. John Jr. (also listed as James) married Martha Holly. Children were: Perry, Charles Lewis (born 1854), Sarah Ann, Joseph Francis. His second marriage was to Cynthia Alford. Children were: Toliver and a daughter (name unknown).

Charles Lewis and Susan (Paul) Tackett

Opie Clarence married Ada Mitchell in May 1919. Their children are: Harold Guy and Rondle Lewis Tackett.

Rondle Lewis married Wandell Sadie Tiller (1925-1982). Their children are: Ronnie Lea (1947 -), Opie Lewis (1948 -), Stanley Richard (1950 -), and John Kennedy (1963 -). Second marriage: Rondle Lewis to Betty Redifer. No children.

Ronnie Lea married Richard Newman. Children: Terri Lea (1969 -). Second marriage: Ronnie (Tackett) Newman to Floyd Rollins. Step-children: Dell, Alan. Children: Bradley (1982 -).

Opie Lewis married Deborah Hartley. Their children: Ryan Lewis (1974 -) and Tanya Nicole (1977 -). Second marriage: Opie Lewis to Connie Webb. Children: Ashley Louise (1982 -).

Stanley Richard married Bernice —. Children: Christopher Lewis (1972 -).

John Kennedy married Angie Carr. Step-child:

Joshua (1977 -). Children: Nicole (1984 -).

In every generation of Tacketts there has always been a son to carry the name of Lewis as either a first or middle name. We are the great-great-great-great-great-grandchildren of Lewis Tackett Sr.

BERNARD AND JUDY (DYE) TAYLOR

Bernard Roy Taylor, b. 1939, is the son of Hubert and Tressie (Moore) Taylor who came from Roane County and settled in Kanawha County. Hubert (1916-1965), and Tressie (1921-1986), were both descendants of the Moore, Taylor, Hively, Patrick, Hunt, Harper, and Shaffer families that settled in the wilderness of Roane.

Upon graduating from West Virginia State College in 1962, Bernard became employed by Kaiser Aluminum Corporation at Ravenswood. Later he married Judy Lynn Dye, b. 1947, on August 27, 1965 in Jackson County. To their union was given: Matthew Christopher, b. 1971; and Tiffany Suzan, b. 1976. The family moved from Sissonville to Fisher Ridge at Kenna in 1973.

Judy is the daughter of Cluster Otmer Dye and Charlotte Florence (Hennen) Dye of Kanawha County. Other children of the Dye family are: Deanna Sue, b. 1950, m. Bruce Fisher, b. 1949; and Ricky Dean, b. 1959, m. Patti Ranson, b. 1958.

Bernard and Judy Taylor

Cluster, b. 1921, and Charlotte, b. 1924, were both originally from Wirt County. They settled in Kanawha County due to relatives and work. Later they owned and operated a hardware store in Sissonville for 35 years. Charlotte is the daughter of Charles Hennen (1879-1961) and Phoebe Jane (Corbitt) Hennen (1880-1956).

Cluster Dye is the descendant of several early Jackson County pioneer families. His father is Charles Otmer Dye (1894-1971), son of Henry Washington Dye (1864-1944), and Mary Ida (Lee) Dye (1869-1935). Several maternal ancestors of his family lived on the county border of Jackson and Wirt counties. Their names include: Board, Boggs, Cain, Lee, Petty, McKinley, Seaman, Ott, and Baker.

Cluster's mother, Clara Grace (Wood) Dye, (1897-1969), was the daughter of Pearl Andrew Wood (1871-1959) and Clara Ann (Hughes) Wood (1879-1905). Pearl Wood was a boatman on the Ohio River as was his father, William H. Wood (1839-1909). Pearl's grandfather, Moses Wood (1789-1873), operated one of the earliest ferry boats on the Ohio River at the present Ravenswood Aluminum Works site.

Pearl's mother was Virginia Adelaid Flesher (1845-1884), daughter of Andrew J. Flesher (1806-1872) and Anna (Hughes) Flesher (1808-1878), who owned the lovely Pleasant View Estate just south of Ravenswood. Andrew Flesher was one of the Senators that signed West Virginia into statehood. Andrew was the grandson of Henry Flesher (1744-1802) who was a friend and neighbor to the famed Indian fighter, Jesse Hughes (1750-1829). Anna (Hughes) Flesher was Jesse Hughes' granddaughter. Both Pearl Wood and his wife Clara (Hughes) Wood were descendants of this same Jesse Hughes and his ancestors. The maternal line of these large families ties us with more well-known Jackson County names: Stanley, Staats, King, Sayre, Tanner, Butcher, Richards, and Williams.

It is an honor to be a part of this ancestral "tree" of industrious pioneers who were loyal to their country, faithful to their God, and provided future generations a land of opportunity and liberty for all. Submitted by Judy Taylor

SAMUEL R. THOMAS

August 26, 1900, was the date of the marriage of Samuel Robert Thomas and Cordelia Jane Duffield, descendants of some of Jackson County's largest and earliest pioneer families. Among their ancestors were Carnceys, Staats, Castos, and Parsons. They had a rich history with family members as French Huguenots, Indian scouts, Revolutionary and Civil War soldiers.

Cordelia (or Corda, as she preferred), was the daughter of schoolteacher/storekeeper B. Newton Duffield and Rosetta (Staats) Duffield. Rosetta was the daughter of Anderson Staats and Mary Casto. Newton's parents, Robert M. Duffield and Nancy Ann Moore, had moved to Jackson County in the 1850s. Robert had served in the Civil War for the Union. Corda was born March 30, 1879 and died September 7, 1964 at Evans, Jackson County.

Samuel Robert Thomas was born January 9, 1874, the fifth of seven children. They were: a stillborn; John E., a Magistrate of Spencer, Roane County; Perry, a farmer; George C., a teacher; Ula Ann, a homemaker; and Ellsworth D. (Dink), a teacher and farmer. His father was Justice of the Peace and Civil War veteran Elias Alexander Thomas. His mother was Harriet Ellen Shiverdecker, daughter of a prosperous timberman/landowner. Samuel made his livelihood by farming and sawmilling.

Together Samuel and Cordelia had eight children: Goldie Ellen, born May 5, 1901; Hazel Stella, born April 7, 1903; Blonda George, born November 22, 1910; Ersel Geneve, born Nov. 27, 1913; William Ervil, born July 18, 1917; and Olive Virginia, born May 17, 1919.

Sam's untimely death at the age of forty-nine left Corda with six children still at home to raise. In a time when women were little regarded (they had just received the right to vote in 1920), in an area where earning a living made for rigorous and at times a harsh existence, Corda singlehandedly raised these children to be honest, industrious, and productive members of society. Lacking a teaching certificate by only one credit, she contributed to the family income by keeping a store and being a seamstress.

Her daughter, Goldie, married Willie Rhodes. Hazel married Lanty Russel Southall. Blonda George married Virginia Anderson. Bessie married Ova Roscoe Good. Ruby married Marion Monroe Parsons. Ersel married Woodrow W. Hammonds. William Ervil married Crystal Price. Olive married Harold Robinson. All their spouses were from Jackson County except for Olive's husband who was an Ohioan.

Three of the eight children have been lost to death — Ersel on April 5, 1976, Blonda on June 7, 1983, and Goldie on August 23, 1988.

Samuel and Corda are buried at the Thomas Cemetery on the hill overlooking his boyhood home near Laurel Run, not far from Aplin Ridge, Washington District, Jackson County.

In tribute to the strong family relationship influenced by Corda, the family continues a 40-year tradition of reunions. Submitted by Marlena Hammonds-Ehlers

TOLLEY

The name Tolley is English and derives from the Old English given name Toll. The name Toll in turn derived from a short form of a Norse compound name referring to Thor, the god of thunder.

Sometime between 1830 and 1840 several Tolley families migrated from Rockbridge County, Virginia, to Jackson County. Among them were John and Rebecca Tolley. Their second son was Granville Tolley (1835-1903) who was born in Rockbridge County. On April 28, 1859, Granville married Elizabeth Catherine Southall (1839-1907), daughter of William Southall, Sr. and Perlina Catherine Hix Southall. She was born in Franklin County, Virginia.

Granville was a farmer around Elk Fork. During the Civil War he served as a private in Captain Nicholas Casto's Company of Jackson County Home Guards which was mustered in at Ripley on July 20, 1863.

HOWARD AND BERNICE TOLLEY

My parents, Howard Tolley and Bernice (Lupardus) Casto, were married at Cottageville, West Virginia on July 3, 1946. This was my mother's second marriage, her first being to Whitmer Casto. They had two children: Imojean, who died in infancy, and Orma June Casto, who married Eddie Parsons, son of Joda and Opal Parsons of Gay. June and Eddie reside near Akron, Ohio, as do their children, Steve and Kevin and their families.

1. Brenda (Tolley) Witt, was born on June 21, 1950 in Parkersburg. We lived at Longview, Jackson County, until 1956. Then we moved to Cross Lanes, West Virginia because my dad worked at Carbide and he was tired of boarding in Cross Lanes and only coming home on the weekends. I married James S. Witt of Kanawha County and we have two children: Marlin (17) and Mary Ann (15).

Marlin, James, Brenda and Mary Ann Witt

The Tolleys were originally from Rockbridge County, Virginia. Granville Tolley was born there in 1835. He married Catherine Southall, daughter of William James Southall, Sr. They had a large family, of which Wm. Howard Tolley was born on November 18, 1864, at Gay. He married Agnes Thomas, daughter of William H. Thomas, who in turn was the son of the Reverend Archibald Thomas, a circuit-riding Methodist minister who preached to both sides during the Civil War. William and Agnes had 14 children. One of their sons, Roy Lawrence, married Christyanna Hinzman, daughter of David Baxter and Mary Elizabeth (Hudson) Hinzman. Christyanna (Anne) was a descendant of Henry and Charity (Coon) Hinzman of Lewis County. Roy and Annie's children are: Howard, married Bernice Lupardus Casto; Willard (Fuzz), married Mozelle Agee Riley of Georgia; Wilbert (Ty), married Merle Boothe; and Mary Elizabeth (Tib), 1) married Gilbert Westfall, 2) Lester Barnette.

The Luparduses, my mother's people, were originally from France. Richard Lupardus settled first at what is known as Flatiron Square, New York. He was a carpenter, as was his son Peter. Son Peter and wife, Mary A. Demie, moved to Ohio. Their son, Richard, was born in Morgan County, Ohio, in 1833. This Richard married Ann Paxton on July 24, 1851. Richard served in the 196th Ohio Infantry during the Civil War. He contracted a severe cold during the war which resulted in eventual deafness. He was denied a pension, which is widow later obtained. They moved to West Virginia during the 1870s, where their son, Peter Elsworth Lupardus, married Virginia Jane Kiser. Sometime after 1883, Richard, Ann, and son, Will, moved to Iowa where Will married and raised a family. Richard is buried there. (I visited with descendant Estill Lupardus and saw Richard's grave in 1987). Ann later went back to Marietta, where she is buried.

Peter E.'s son, Ezra Lupardus, was my grandfather. He worked in the oil fields and was a farmer. He married Amma Pearl Raines, daughter of Stephen and Sarah E. (Thomas) Raines. Amma was also a granddaughter of the Rev. Archibald Thomas and a great-granddaughter of Charity (Coon) Hinzman who lived to be well over 100 years old, after being scalped by Indians. Ezra and Amma's children are: Opan Parsons Lowther, Bernice Casto Tolley, Ruby Tolley Skeen, Earl Lupardus, and Marie Kroeger.

My husband, James, works at Monsanto Chemical Company in Nitro, and I am a former Head Start teacher. At this time I am a homemaker and a 4-H volunteer leader. Submitted by Brenda Tolley Witt

TUCKER/BLACKBURN

"Millwood received its greatest surprise Wednesday, September 28, 1921, when Nora Blackburn became the bride of Leo Roy Tucker, Millwood's worthy postmaster." Thus begins a newspaper account of the wedding. The account goes on to record that they went to Grand Chapter of Eastern Star on their honeymoon. At the time they were Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron of Cottageville Chapter OES.

From this marriage three children were born: Clara Belle, born June 14, 1923; Paul Blackburn, born September 2, 1925; and John Lee, born October 28, 1930.

Leo and Nora Tucker, 1922

All three children attended West Virginia Wesleyan College. Clara Belle became a teacher at Ravenswood High. Paul graduated from the University of Pittsburgh Dental School and practiced in Erie, Pa., until his death September 3, 1981. John has worked in management positions for several dental manufacturing companies and is currently president of Esschem in Philadelphia.

Clara Belle married Carlton Denning who died October 9, 1983. Children are Dr. David Denning, Dr. Michael Denning and Mrs. Mona Pruett. Paul married Helen Louise Hilliard, and they are the parents of Mrs. Barbara McCormick and Dr. John H. Tucker. John married Miriam McGrath, and they are the parents of Mrs. Lynn Dickerson and Mrs. Joyce Beil.

Our parents were quite active in the Methodist Episcopal Church as singers and musicians. Leo was Sunday school superintendent for 25 years as well as a lay preacher. Nora was a Sunday school teacher and active in the women's organizations.

Leo taught school for a few years, was postmaster at Millwood, worked as a postal employee in Ravenswood, and was bookkeeper at Ravenswood Wholesale Grocery at the time of his death, June 2, 1950. He was a World War I veteran. He had been town recorder, president of Lions Club, patron of OES, and held offices in three Masonic bodies.

Nora was a homemaker but had been a piano teacher, stenographer, and assistant postmaster during WW I. She was a past matron of OES and a member of the Woman's Club.

Leo was born April 13, 1892. Nora was born April 5, 1888, and died January 28, 1973. Both are buried in Ravenswood Cemetery.

Our paternal grandparents are Ira Elijah Tucker, born June 19, 1867, died November 27, 1927, and Minnie Belle Newell, born March 24, 1869, died July 23, 1940. Both are buried at Otterbein Cemetery.

Our maternal grandparents are Joseph Madison Blackburn, born October 29, 1856, died May 16, 1892, and Clara Anthus Custer, born November 16, 1856 (in Jackson County, Virginia), died June 16, 1912. Madison owned a saw mill in Millwood. His death was caused by an accident at the mill when a board fell on him. From this accident he got tetanus. Both are buried in Cottageville cemetery. They were active church members and gave the land for the Methodist Church in Millwood. Their home stood next to the present church. (The house is still there but only about half the original size.)

Ira Tucker's parents were Columbus Burs Tucker and Nancy Ann Tricky (born 1854). Minnie's parents were Jacob Newell, Jr., born October 2, 1837, died March 8, 1903, and Margaret Etta Stewart, born May 5, 1839, died April 13, 1913.

Jacob, Jr.'s father was Jacob Newell, Sr. The story told to us about this Jacob is that he came to America from Ireland. When the War of 1812 broke out, he was working for a man who was supposed to go to war, but this man sent Jacob in his place. Jacob, whose real name was Rogers, was stubborn and did not want to fight on the American side. He joined the British side. When he discovered what the Americans were fighting for, he changed his name to Newell, which was his mother's maiden name.

Margaret Stewart's parents were John Stewart, born 1815, died December 19, 1902, and Elizabeth

Coon, born January 10, 1822, died March 21, 1904.

Our maternal grandmother's parents were George McCrady Custar, born January 15, 1827, died February 27, 1888, and Sarah Jane Graham, born February 27, 1834, died December 25, 1912. Sarah was born in Ross Township, Jefferson County, Ohio. George came to Jackson County in 1851 from Jefferson County, Ohio. He was a farmer, blacksmith, and wagon maker.

Sarah's parents were John S. Graham, born 1801, died 1875, and Nancy Kerr, born 1819, died August 22, 1853.

George's parents were John Oliver Custard, born January 25, 1792, died May 6, 1864, and Rebecca McCrady, born April 17, 1791, died June 12, 1855. John was of Dutch origin and fought in the War of 1812. He came to Jackson County in 1847.

Old records show the name Custer spelled Custard but the d was dropped as far back as 1862 and e was used instead of a by some in the spelling as far back as 1849. George McCrady Custard dropped the d in 1883 and continued to use the a in the spelling of his name.

Since our parents lived very near the Ohio River at Millwood, they told us many stories about the river. One was about the 1913 flood and how our mother had to help take furniture (including a big piano) out the second-story window and load it into a john boat. This same piano was the one we both played in our youth. Neighbors remember our mother playing and singing. Later she gave the piano to the rest home on Sand Street. Boats would stop to sell their wares. One kind was known as the "dish" boat. People would board the boats and buy all kinds of dishes. Other boats would have different products including food staples.

Both of our parents truly contributed to the Millwood and Ravenswood communities. Submitted by Clara Belle Denning and John L. Tucker

JOHN F. TURLEY (PART I)

Turley, John Frazier, born 18 February 1900, died 3 August 1981. As I, Artist Turley Taylor, remember my dad.

Life was always good, challenging and humorous to him. This attitude betrayed the experiences he had as a child. At the age of four, he had already lost two brothers when his father died.

Although they owned their own farm, his mother was not allowed the money from the sale. As the custom was, it went to her father, Elijah J. McClure, who assumed the responsibility for the young family. Grandma Effie McClure Turley, pregnant with her fourth child, took her young son, John, and returned to her father's home in Sod. Here they joined 11 cousins that had already returned. A sister, Garnette L., was soon born on 5 December 1904.

Elijah J. and Susan loved them all and cared for them. They lived there seven years. Effie married M.O. "Son" Dunlap and moved to Tango. Elijah kept the money and provided John's and Garnette's needs.

The school at Tango just went to the eighth grade. Great-grandfather, Elijah, had to decide which child would go to high school and college, because he could just send one. John was not chosen, but part of his money was used to send the winner.

At the age of 16, Dad left home to support himself. He worked in the oil and gas fields, telephone company construction, coal operator for the power company, truck driver and home bread delivery salesman.

At night, Dad completed the American Correspondence Courses in electric and mathematics which, along with his experience, made him well-qualified for employment. He was never out of work during the depression, and at every job, he worked hard and to the best of his ability.

In addition to his day work, he always had a product that he was selling on the side and "someone's" car in the garage to repair for extra money. Today, we call that "moonlighting." I remember, he bought a company car from the power company for $25.00 and they deducted that from his check over a 12-month repayment plan.

As busy as he was, he saw to it that his young family was in church regularly. At night, he read the Bible to us and we all knelt while he prayed. He taught us that faith, honesty and hard work would bring us happiness and success.

Dad's attitude of work, for the betterment of mankind, was probably the reason he was always trying to invent something. He hooked a telephone to our old Atwater-Kent radio and would surprise us with messages of conduct in the middle of a radio program. He, also, invented a stove lighter. He would light the kitchen oven before getting out of bed and let the house warm up. We never left the gas on at night because of the cost and the fear of fire.

What I'm saying is, "Dad was a great man." He retired from Union Carbide at 62 and traveled back and forth across the United States, seeing all the sights that he could and visiting many national forests. He was especially impressed with New Mexico. He spent a couple of years in Truth-or-Consequences, New Mexico.

John Frazier Turley, age 62

His last trip was at the age of 80. He drove from Tampa, Florida to a national forest south of El Paso, Texas, and on to California to make a final visit with an old friend, whom he called "Uncle John." He helped him celebrate his 100th birthday.

Dad believed he was born at just the right time. He could remember seeing his first automobile, use his first telephone, see his first airplane, watch his first television, and he saw a man step on the moon.

When Dad died, we had a good friend, Paul McComas, to conduct his funeral. In his eulogy, Paul recalled that Dad was the best storyteller he had ever heard. As he would relate an experience, you would feel like you were there.

These are the things that his two daughters, Edna Julene and Artist Evilee, and his grandchildren, Sandra Harris Davis, Charles Lawrence Harris II and Barbara Taylor LaCava can remember.

Although Mom's and Dad's marriage ended in divorce, they had great respect for each other and were compatible at family gatherings. For further reference, see Genealogies: Turley, McClure and Chaney. Submitted by Larry Harris

JOHN F. TURLEY (PART II)

Recorded in the "Turley Family Records" copy-right of 1981, taken from the early Virginia and Fairfax County Records, the first Turleys on record in the colony of Virginia appeared in the lower James River area in 1669. In an index of Virginia land patents 1666-1695, the names of five Turley men are listed as "headrights" for claiming land.

The Crown gave fifty acres of land to any person transported into the colony. Persons of all social classes were listed as headrights, including nobility, gentry, yeomanry, indentured servants, or blacks.

Two of the five headrights recorded in the land patents had my father's name, John Frazier Turley. John Turley was transported from England 30 October 1669 and Fra. (Frazier) Turley was transported 30 May 1678.

The "Turley Family Records" lists over 150 John Turleys without middle names nor initials. It also listed an equal number of John Turleys with various initials. Until 1850, the census listed only the head of the house, so tracing lineage was impossible without a family Bible in each family.

I have drawn from the 1850 census to list:

First Generation of Record

John Turley (no record of his brothers and sisters) was born in 1805. There was no record of his death. He married Susan Smith, who was born in 1806 and there is no record of her death. John and Susan had seven children: Columbus, Mary J., Emmozeth, Serena, Jackson D., Joannah and John H. who was shown four years old.

John Henry Turley was born 25 June 1845 and died 21 February 1913. On 3 November 1867, he married Louisa E. Lacy, the daughter of Adam Lacy. John Henry and Louisa were married by Rev. G.W. Griffith at the Forks of Coal Rivers. John Henry served in the Civil War, WC760-785, Co. C. 7 Reg., West Virginia Cavalry. John Henry and Louisa had eight children: Marquis L., born 6 June 1869; William, born 9 November 1871; Dempsey, born 7 June 1874; John B., born 29 June 1876; Hattie M., born 5 June 1878; Emery O., born 4 June 1880; George H., born 26 March 1883 and Virgil A., born 2 April 1885.

Dempsey Turley was born 7 June 1874 and died in 1904. He married Effie McClure (she signed her name Effa), daughter of Elijah J. and Susan (Clark) McClure, who was born 14 June 1882 in Sod, Lincoln County. She died in Tango, West Virginia 20 October 1925. Dempsey and Effie had four children: Arthur, who died an infant;

Barbara Taylor LaCava, Sandy Davis,
Edith Turley and Larry Harris

Larry and Barbara (Byrnside) Harris

Sandra and Don David, Scott and Christy

John Frazier Turley was born 18 February 1900 and died 3 August 1981. On 20 May 1920, he married Maggie (Madgie) Edith Chaney, born 11 May 1898. They had two children: (1) Edna Julene Turley, born 3 June 1921. On 17 July 1942, she married Charles Lawrence Harris, born 6 October 1922 and died 19 August 1989. They had a daughter and a son; Sandra Evilee, born 20 June 1944. On 10 July 1963, she married Donald Eugene Davis, born 2 June 1938. Their two children were Donald Scott Davis, born 22 October 1968 and Christina Dawn, born 13 January 1973. Their son, Charles Lawrence II, was born 19 August 1946. On 5 July 1968, he married Barbara Gay Burnside, born 6 May 1947. (2) Artist Evilee Turley, born 17 March 1923. On 23 August 1946, she married Howard Porter Taylor, born 6 February 1922. Howard and Artist had one child, Barbara Sue Taylor, born 28 December 1956. Submitted by Julene Harris and Wanda Nelson

TURLEY — MCCLURE

According to the recordings in the book, "Who, When and Where of Lincoln County, West Virginia," the McClure families made their first migration from Ireland in 1608 and others followed. The name was McCleoud and changed to McClure. These records substantiate the claim my father, John Frazier Turley, son of Effie McClure Turley, made that we were Scottish-Irish and English. The McClures became known as Scottish-Irish and the Turleys had migrated from England.

The first recorded birth was Richard Renshaw McClure on 15 July 1760 in Harford County, Maryland. Harford County is north and northeast of the city of Baltimore, reaching to the Pennsylvania state line.

Genealogy

Richard Renshaw McClure, born 15 July 1760, married Mary Crawford, who was the daughter of William Crawford. They had 11 children: William, born 12 October 1789, who married Lucretia Chapman, 14 February 1816; Elizabeth, born 21 March 1791 and married Peter Holstein, born 1 August 1795; Cassandra, born 10 February 1795, died before 1824; Elijah, "The Patriarch of Lincoln County," born 7 April 1799; Alazana, born 12 September 1801; John, born 16 March 1803. John remained in Virginia when the family moved to Kentucky. Strother, born 4 January 1806; Mary, born 4 April 1808; Martha, born 19 September 1810; and Nelson, born 14 July 1813, became a doctor. Infant daughter died in infancy.

Richard and his children moved to Kentucky in 1824, his wife having died by this time. The slow and tedious trip was made by wagons and ox teams. They stopped regularly to rest the livestock, rest and to wash clothes. They traveled the old Kanawha-James River Turnpike to the mouth of Coal River, then up the river to Fuquay Creek. They followed Fuquay Creek to the mouth of Beech Fork where they camped.

Joseph Pauley lived nearby in a log cabin. Elijah met his daughter, Rhoda, and it must have been love at first sight. After Richard's family was settled in Lawrence County, Kentucky, young Elijah headed back to the hills of West Virginia to claim Rhoda as his wife on 27 August 1827.

Elijah McClure, born 7 April 1799, married Rhoda Pauley 27 August 1827. They had 17 children: Nelson, William, Louisa, Reece, Lucretia, Allen, Leanza, Joseph, Harrison, Asbury, George W., Martha, Elijah J., James, Peter, Thomas and a daughter who died in infancy.

Elijah J. McClure, born 12 July 1848, married Susan E. Clark. VAIL

Isaiah Vail (born January 19, 1825, died November 19, 1895) came to Ripley, then a part of Virginia, in the early 1840s. He was a direct descendant of Jeremiah Vail who was born in the west of England in 1618, according to papers collected by Alfred Vail, who with S.F.B. Morse, developed the Electric Magnetic Telegraph; the papers are now the property of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society. Jeremiah Vail emigrated to America in 1639 and lived for a while in Salem, Massachusetts, from which he moved to Southold at the east end of Long Island. Thomas Vail of the sixth generation of the Vail family moved from New York to Ohio where he died in 1823. Isaiah, the grandson of Thomas, was married to Louisa C. Graham in Wood County, (VA) West Virginia and they lived in Ripley until their deaths. Isaiah was a skillful cabinet maker and began the operation of a funeral home in 1844 which was a natural outgrowth of cabinet making in those days. He taught his skills and passed on the Vail Funeral Home to his son, Joseph R. Vail, who was married to Anna B. Robinson, of Middleport, Ohio, in 1883. The other children of Isaiah Vail and Louisa Graham were: Viola Virginia, John J. (m. Mary A. Carnahan), Sarah E., Margaret E. (m. Dr. W.W. Kidd), Isaiah Frank (m. Nora Lyon), George D., and Mary E. (m. Curtis Bounds).

Upon the death of Isaiah in 1891, the furniture and cabinet making, as well as the Vail Furniture Home, passed to Joseph R. Vail, who served as Mayor of Ripley and was otherwise a progressive and influential citizen.

Ann "Mam" and J. R. "Bob" Vail

Joseph R. Vail and Anna Robinson Vail had three children, namely: Marie, Cornelius and Joseph Bream. Upon the death of Joseph R. on December 24, 1922, the furniture business and Vail Funeral Home passed to Joseph Bream, Cornelius having died in 1916 without children. Marie Vail was married to Rev. Claude E. Goodwin of the Methodist Conference June 18, 1908, to which union were born two sons, Robert Booth and Claude Elbert, both of whom subsequently graduated in law and began the law firm of Goodwin and Goodwin in Ripley. Marie died on March 3, 1911 and her two sons were raised by their grandmother, Anna Vail, who lived to be 103 years old. Marie's sons made their homes in Ripley, where Robert, as did his grandfather before him, served as mayor; he also served in the West Virginia House of Delegates. Robert died in 1955 survived by three sons, Joseph R., Thomas R. and Stephen P., all of whom are prominent and successful senior lawyers with other partners and associates occupying the firm's offices in Charleston, Ripley and Parkersburg, West Virginia and in Lexington, Kentucky. Claude Elbert now serves as Vice-President, General Counsel and member of the Boards of Directors of the Charleston Group Companies of the Columbia Gas System; his daughter, Judith (Ph.D. University of Oklahoma) is a consultant and author in the field of national public health. The furniture business, as well as the Vail Funeral Home, are in 1989 still being operated by the family after 145 years, the Funeral Home now being the oldest such establishment in West Virginia. *Submitted by C.E. VANNOY

The Vannoy name first appeared in Jackson County in the 1850 Census, with the family of Cornelius Vannoy and his wife, Catherine. John Vannoy (son of Cornelius) and his wife, Susanna, Alexander Vannoy, age 16 living with an Adams family (also a son of Cornelius), and Anderson Vannoy, and his wife Elizabeth, assumed to be a brother of Cornelius. Later in 1850, records can be found of several Vannoy marriages.

Cornelius Vannoy and his wife Catherine were living on Sarvis Fork, about one and half miles above Sandyville. Children still living at home in 1850 were Sarah E., Alexander, Anderson, Malinda, George W., and Mary. In the 1860 Jackson County census it lists Cornelius with Adaline a woman 30 years younger than he. The death record of Catherine Vannoy has not been found, nor the second marriage record for Cornelius Vannoy. In the 1860 Census records it lists a complete new family for Cornelius and Adaline: Lynn A. age 11, and Lougenia age 8 (perhaps children by her previous marriage) and Emphraim, age 5, Phoebe, age 3, and Susan M. age 5 months. Since none of the children from Cornelius and Catherine were living in the home of Cornelius when the 1860 census was taken, it is assumed that they were married and living on their own by this time. In the 1870 census it shows that Cornelius and Adaline had two more children: Catherine and Eliza, making five children for this marriage.

Descendants of Cornelius Vannoy measure in the hundreds and can be found today not only in Jackson County but in many of the surrounding counties and perhaps states.

John Vannoy, son of Cornelius and Catherine Vannoy, married October 6, 1849 in Jackson County to Susannah Sheppard, daughter of Henry Sr. and Diana (Smith) Sheppard. John was born June 27, 1825 and died May 5, 1902, according to cemetery records, and buried in the McGee Chapel Cemetery, Independence. He was residing in Leroy, Jackson County in 1860. He was a private in Co. E 36 Virginia Infantry (Western Rifleman), was wounded in action at Winchester, Virginia on April 19, 1864, lost a leg. The children of John and Susannah Vannoy are as follows: Lucy Vannoy, married Nov. 28, 1869 to Wilson Curry; Letitia Vannoy, married Dec. 1, 1871 to John W. Waggoner; Samuel Vannoy; Henry Vannoy, married Feb. 3, 1876 to Laura Coc. Henry lived on the point above the mouth of Warfield Run. He was Justice of the Peace at the time of his death. It is said he weighed 425 pounds; Cornelius Vannoy, married June 30, 1883 to Viola Johnson; Elizabeth Vannoy, married April 20, 1877 to F.A. Boreman; George H. Vannoy; John W.; Charles B.

Alexander Vannoy, son of Cornelius and Catherine Vannoy, married May 6, 1858 to Margaret Rice, daughter of David and Elizabeth (Williams) Rice. Their children were: John M. Vannoy; Arthur Vannoy, married April 27, 1883 to Lucy Anderson; Nancy Ann Vannoy; Daniel; Charles E. Vannoy, married Jan. 19, 1889 to Victoria Wright; Emily; Dazzle; and Della. Alexander Vannoy was a Private in the Home Guards of Jackson County, mustered in at Ravenswood, August 10, 1863. Born in Gilmer County.

Eleanor Vannoy, daughter of Cornelius and

Catherine Vannoy, married June 7, 1853 to William Stanley. Sarah Vannoy, daughter of Cornelius and Catherine Vannoy, married March 31, 1853 to Levi Hanshaw. Both marriages were in Jackson County.

Anthony Vannoy, married in Jackson County, January 2, 1851 (states in marriage records that he is a son of Cornelius Vannoy) to Abigail Stanley. Records show they lived in Mason County and reared a large family there.

Cornelius Vannoy was mustered in the Jackson County Home Guards in Ravenswood, August 18, 1864 and mustered out May 30, 1865. His residence was given as Sarvis Fork, Sandy.

Emphraim Vannoy, a son of Cornelius and Adaline Vannoy, married Jenny Moore, daughter of Rev. Charles and Mary Southall Moore. He was married again, August 6, 1904, at age 48 to Clara Tolley, age 28. Jesse Jennings Vannoy, born April 17, 1888 and died November 16, 1964, son of Emphraim and Jenny Moore Vannoy, married on December 23, 1909 to Mary Lou Vernie Parsons, daughter of Albert Newton and Lisa Fields Parsons. His second marriage was to Estella Sullivan. Their children are as follows: 1. Claude Ova Vannoy, born March 12, 1911, married Gladys Huffman. 2. Ersel Virginia Vannoy, born and died in 1912. 3. PAULINE BENNETT VICKERS

I, Pauline Bennett Vickers, was born in the same log house as was my father, on 6/16/20, in Jackson County at Silverton. My father was Holley Henry Bennett. My mother was Ellen Elizabeth Cline Bennett. I was the youngest of four girls. When I was six months old, we moved to #6 Wilson Street, Ravenswood. I have many fond memories of growing up in that little town. I believe the population was around 1,200 at that time. It was great knowing everyone.

My first grade teacher was Ruth Keller; second: Faye Wagner; third: Marguerite Gerhan; fourth: Nellie Mason; fifth: Edith Cox and sixth: Mr. Jarrett. Grades seven through twelve were in the high school. I graduated in 1938.

Our family belonged to the Walton Memorial Methodist Church. Mother belonged to the Ladies Aide Society. I can remember when they cooked and served the Lion's Club dinners. We four girls were asked many times to help serve the dinners and wash dishes. All the food was donated, as was the ladies' time. I'm sure this was a great help in paying off the church debt.

There were many folks that influenced my Christian life. Four I especially remember: Elizabeth Flemming, Bess McIntosh, Edna McGooghin and Mr. Howard Camp. Mother would call us on Sunday mornings. She would say, "If you can go out on Saturday night, there is no reason for you not to get up and go to Sunday school and church on Sunday morning!"

We had one movie theater in our town. In the beginning it showed only silent movies, accompanied by Mrs. Anderson playing the piano for special effects. The Corner Drugstore was our place to meet for a fountain coke, or Hupps Restaurant for a ten cent hamburger. We swam in the Ohio River. In later years the Community Building and NYA Hall were built along with a swimming pool. Our Junior Women's Club meetings were held in the Community Building. Our 50th High School Class Reunion was held there following the Ravenswood High School Alumni Banquet in 1988.

Following graduation from St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing in 1942, I did Private Duty nursing. I speacialed Dr. Bachtel, the physician who had delivered me. Also, Mr. Charles Karr.

During World War II, I worked as a supervisor of a surgical/medical floor in Detroit, Michigan. Then, I came back home and worked in the Ravenswood Hospital for one year. It was such a great year living back home with my wonderful mother and dad. About this time, Herbert J. Thomas Hospital was opening in South Charleston. I applied and was hired as a supervisor.

Ann, Susan, Ray and Nancy Dooley, John H. Jr. and Pauline, John H. III and Yolanda Vickers

In 1947 I was introduced to John H. Vickers Jr., of Charleston, who swept me off my feet. We were married 6/4/48, in the Methodist Church in Ravenswood. To this union, four children were born: Ann Elizabeth, 9/7/49; Susan Jean, 12/20/51; John Henry III, 12/15/56 and Nancy Bennett, 9/11/59.

To me, Ravenswood is still the garden spot of the world! Submitted by Mrs. Pauline Bennett Vickers

BLONDENA STAATS VINEYARD

I was born on November 20, 1900 in Reedy, Roane County. My father, Theodore Staats, son of Enoch and Louisa Staats of Staats Mills, my mother Vertia Alva Casto, daughter of Charley and Margaret Rose Casto. They lived near Ripley. I have many blood relatives in Jackson County. I had only one sister and she died at birth (before I was born). She is buried in the Sinaville Cemetery in Jackson County.

My parents lived a few months at "Staats Mills" after their marriage and then moved to Reedy, Roane County, as my Uncle Dr. T.J. Casto was living there.

Soon after coming to Reedy my father opened a General Store there and lived in Reedy until his death, at 68 years of age. In the year 1920 he had the misfortune to lose his store and home to fire, with no fire insurance. He rebuilt both buildings, a concrete block building which still stands. At one time Dad was President of the "Reedy Bank" and another year he was a member of the town council. Both my parents were faithful members of the Methodist Church. One of my childhood memories is catching a fish on a Sunday morning, and because it was caught on Sunday, over night on my set pole, mother made me throw it back in the creek. "No work on Sunday". Mother and Dad always entertained the preachers when they moved to Reedy. One preacher, Rev. Beresford lived with us for over a month before moving to Reedy.

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Vineyard

I was attending the "Reedy Normal School", taught by Prof. D.M. McKown when I first met my husband, Carl W. Vineyard. He had come to Reedy to attend the Normal School. His home was near Walton, Roane County. He was the son of Mack and Lonie Bonnet Vineyard. Carl had two sisters, Gail Shafer and Bonnie Bartom. Carl taught school in the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd grades. We were married during this time and he decided to go the Dental College, "Ohio College of Dental Surgery" O.C.D.S.

We lived in Cincinnati, Ohio, during this time (3 years). He graduated with honors and was a member of the W. Va. State Dental Society and the Rotary Club in Ripley. He practiced dentistry in Reedy and Ripley, where we lived.

Two daughters were born to us, Juanita Vineyard, married L. S. Swain and their children are Carl and Ruth Swain. Carl married Martha Nace and they have three children. Ruth Marie married Sam Bowen and they have Nancy and Brian.

My daughter Juanita was the first woman in Jackson County to join the U. S. Marine Corps. Her husband served several years in the U. S. Army.

Our other daughter Lois Ann Vineyard, married Oscar Wallace Jr. They operate a large cattle farm on Sycamore Road near Ripley. They had four children. Wally worked for several years for Kaiser Aluminum Corp. and is now retired. Lois graduated from Beauty College at Huntington and at one time operated a Beauty Shop in Ripley. Their children are: 1. Ada Gayle Wallace, married to Dr. William F. Casto. They live on Fisher Ridge. She teaches at Ripley Elementary and they have two children, Mark and Katie. 2. Ted Wallace married Cheryl Wyers and they live in Los Angeles, California. They have two sons, Mike and Scott Wallace. 3. Douglas Wallace lives in Marietta, Ohio. He operates an Ambulance Service. 4. Jodie Wallace, married Rod Neely. They have two daughters, Carolyn and Sarah Neely. Jodie is an Engineer and works every day.

My husband and I had a happy marriage, until his death on October 19, 1987. Submitted by Blondena Staats Vineyard

JOHN WAGGONER

The Waggoner family is descended from Germany. Our first ancestor to come to America was Wilhelm Waggoner. He settled in White Marsh, Pennsylvania in the late 1740s.

In 1752, our ancestor Johannes (John) Waggoner was born. Later Wilhelm moved his family into Virginia. There in the 1770s Wilhelm and one of his daughters were killed and scalped by Indians along the south branch of the Potomac River.

John, with his wife and family, moved to Jesse Run along Hackers Creek in what is now Lewis County, West Virginia. He enlisted in 1778 and served as a ranger under Captain Owens Davey. Later he was drafted and served under Captain John Harness and Colonel Riddle in General McIntosh's campaign. He was present at the siege and surrender of General Cornwallis. He also served as an Indian spy under Edward Freeman.

In May 1792 a war party led by the great Shawnee warrior, Tecumseh, who would later be commissioned a general by the British, came upon Hackers Creek. There he found John Waggoner seated on a log in a small clearing where he had been working. Tecumseh sent his warriors on to the Waggoner cabin. After a short period of time he took careful aim and fired at John. The bullet passed through John's shirt sleeve. Surprised, John jumped up and ran for the cabin to get his gun and protect his family. When he came into view of the cabin, he saw Indians chasing his children around the yard. Being unarmed he knew the best way to help his family would be to run to the fort for help.

He started for the fort, but hearing the screams of his family was unbearable. He turned and started back to help his family, but saw that he was being pursued by Tecumseh, therefore he again proceeded for the fort. He succeeded in outrunning Tecumseh and escaped to the fort where a rescue party headed by Jesse Hughes set out at once.

When they came to the cabin, they found a small boy killed and scalped in the front yard and about two miles from the cabin they found Mrs. Waggoner and three more young children in the same condition. The Indians escaped with the remaining as prisoners, two girls and one boy.

The boy, Peter, remained with the Indians for twenty years before returning to life among the whites. The eldest girl escaped to Detroit shortly after being captured and the other girl was recovered at the Greenville Treaty of 1795.

This story is documented in many books and it is also documented that Tecumseh visited the white settlements around Hackers Creek later after peace had been established and told of his connection with the Waggoner massacre.

Later John married Mary Richards and started another family. At the age of 68 he fathered my ancestor, Sam Waggoner, who he was living with at the time of his death in 1840.

Sam married Nancy, whose maiden name I have not yet found. Their son John married Caroline Thorn. They lived in Jackson County and are buried at the Independence Cemetery in Sandyville. Their son Samuel married Bessie Franklin and their daughter Minnie married Ernest Angus. Ernest and Minnie were my parents. Submitted by Billy Angus

HOMER AND MYRTLE (PARSONS) WANDLING

Homer Fredrick Wandling the tenth child of Adam Wandling and Sarah Jane Bailey was born March 8, 1882. He was born in the log house his father first built when he came to Jackson Co., W. Va., from Ohio 1879. It was located one mile from the Edgar Post Office. The location was near the forks of the road that goes around Jim Ridge. The other road comes out past his birth place and down on Eighteen Mile Creek.

As he grew to manhood, he had a great love for horses. He was known to be the best teamster in the neighborhood. He trained colts to work for neighbors; and friends many years.

Homer and Myrtle Wandling

On November 24, 1907 he married Ivy Myrtle Parsons, the daughter of John B. Parsons and Nancy Little. She was born July 31, 1882, died August 13, 1971. Soon after their marriage they bought the farm from his mother. He lived eighty years of his life on this farm. Homer was a good judge of animals. He bought stock cattle for Lovel M. Parsons several years. He was a successful farmer, owned a grist mill, would grind corn for meal each Saturday. The number of customers would vary each week from ten to twenty-five. Each person would have a bushel or more to have ground for their week's bread. He filled silos with his machinery, and cut wood for a one room school. He would saw wood for the neighbors with a circle saw.

He and the family took an active part in the church and community affairs. A trustee of the Oak Grove School. A trustee of the Walnut Grove United Brethren Church. A superintendent of the Sunday School for many years. Member of Ripley Lodge 30 IOOF.

It was a great joy to him to know he was a part of a community where every one helped each other. One of the communications the neighbors had was the dinner bell. When it rang, morning, noon, or evenings, it meant their wives had their meals ready to eat. When a bell rang any other time between those hours, morning, noon, or evening, it was an emergency, help was needed. Every neighbor would stop their work and go to help. Could it be the firemen got the idea to put a bell on the fire engine from the early settlers? The other communication was the Lum and Abner telephone. I should say the citizen telephone line. That line each family could talk and listen at one time.

WATTS-BARTLEY

The family of John T. Watts and William G. Watts originally settled in Greenbrier County, Va. in the vicinity of White Sulphur Springs, in the post Revolutionary War period. In approximately 1857, the family moved by covered wagon to land purchased on Reedy Creek, near the village of Reedy. With the outbreak of the Civil War, William G. Watts (oldest brother) enlisted in the Union Army, was wounded at the battle of Cedar Creek. John T. Watts remained at home with his widowed mother and assumed the role of man of the family. This was a frontier farm and there were many hardships during the Civil War period, including harassment by outlaw and guerrilla bands infesting the Little Kanawha Valley.

William G. Watts, the elder brother came to Ravenswood shortly after the war and opened a store on Sand Street employing his younger brother, John T. Watts, to assist in the venture. The store flourished and in a few years W.G. Watts built a fine brick building (still standing) further up Sand Street and employed his brother, John T. to assist him. For many years this was one of the leading stores in Ravenswood. William G. Watts died in his early forties, partially due to wounds and hardships incurred in the Civil War. John T. Watts purchased an interest from the family and managed the store for them for several years. He then sold his interest to the family and opened his own store in a new building erected by the Masonic Order at the corner of Walnut and Washington Streets. The business on Sand Street became known as W.G. Watts and Son and was operated until the late 1930s by sons, Charles, Taylor and Granville and daughters, Ruby and Pearl. John T. Watts' store was known as the "Boston Cash Store" and J.T. Watts', and flourished until 1930.

First W. G. Watts Store, Ravenswood

John T. Watts married Florence Bell Harwood of Washington's Bottom and to this union was born the following: Beatrice Elizabeth, John Phillip, and Catherine. Beatrice married Adam Bartley, engineer on the B & O Railroad (youngest ever promoted to Engr. at the time — age 22), John Phillip married Rhoda McCall of Albany, N.Y. Catherine married Beecher Springston of Ravenswood.

The Watts family, pioneer merchants in the flourishing river, railroad and farming community of Ravenswood, were active in all phases of community life. The W.G. Watts family were members of the Baptist Church and John T. and Florence were members of the M.E. North and M.E. South Churches respectively. John T. Watts served on the City Council of Ravenswood and was widely respected for his integrity and warmth, both in his commercial and social contacts.

Additional family relationships: Florence B. Watts, niece of Nelson Chancellor, built both Chancellor and Blennerhasset Hotels. Niece of Capt. Edmund P. Chancellor, pioneer riverboat Capt. and builder. Sister of Mrs. George K. Park, founder of Farmers Building and Loan. John Watts, first Baptist minister in America. Submitted by John E. Bartley

WATTS-NETHERCUTT

Reverend Henry Thomas Watts, born in Greenbrier County, Virginia, came to Ripley, West Virginia, in 1904 from Grayson, Kentucky, where he had served four years as minister of the Methodist Church. He was married to Anna Eliza Evans from Virginia, and they were parents of seven children, two of whom died in infancy. The surviving children were Thomas Edward, Anna Gertrude, James Franklin, Eva Mae and John Wilson, who was killed in World War I.

Reverend Watts served four years at Epworth Methodist Episcopal Church South, during which time he was joined in Ripley by his daughter, Anna Gertrude, her husband, Moses Grant Nethercutt, and their three daughters who moved from Grayson, Kentucky, in 1908. Their fourth daughter, Brenda Virginia, was born shortly after their move to Ripley.

Reverend Watts was Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church Charleston District, and during his time in that capacity was instrumental in the building of Watts Chapel Methodist Church in Jackson County. The church was named in his honor.

Reverend Watts served several other pastorates after leaving Ripley, and upon his retirement moved to Milton, West Virginia, where he died at the age of 85.

The Nethercutt family remained in Ripley. Mrs. Nethercutt was organist and choir director of Epworth Methodist Church for many years. She died in 1965 at the age of eighty-one. Mr. Nethercutt had preceded her in death in 1956 at the age of eighty-nine.

The eldest Nethercutt daughter, Maude Watts, married Rudolph Starcher upon his return from service in World War I. Two sons died in infancy and their daughter, Jo Anna, has been a life-long resident of Ripley. Mrs. Starcher died in 1985.

The second daughter, Eva Lillian, married Paul W. Straley. Their son, Eugene Paul, is a resident with his family of Ripley. Mrs. Straley has lived in Ripley all her life.

WAYBRIGHTS

When I first began my search for our family roots, I had a vague notion that we were "Scotch-Irish" and that my grandfather, who died before I was born, came from Jackson County. Three years later I had traced our line to a time and place far removed from the hills of West Virginia.

The earliest provable mention of the Waybright/Weybright family found to date is in Church records of the village of Schonbrunn in the country of Brandenburg-Onolzbach, an area located in what is now known as West Germany. Hans George Weybrecht, son of Georg, married Sabina Fuchs on 5/21/1678. They had a son Martin, born in 1689. On April 28, 1732, Martin, his wife, Margaretha, and their five children began a journey that would lead them to America, and their descendants to Jackson County.

The family arrived in Philadelphia on the ship "Loyal Judith" on 9/25/1732. They immediately acquired land in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, where Martin was a farmer and blacksmith. In 1741 he built a new stone house on his 275 acre farm which is still occupied today. It is recorded that Martin made gifts to his church, one of which was a two-quart pewter flagon, still in possession of the Trinity Lutheran Church in Lancaster. Martin prospered and provided well for his children. He had three sons: Martin, who settled in Ohio, Jacob who stayed in Pennsylvania, and my ancestor, Michael, who traveled a bit. First to Maryland and then to Virginia where both he and his son, Martin, were members of the 162nd Infantry during the Revolutionary War. Michael and his wife, Anna, are buried in the Evergreen Cemetery in Gettysburg.

Michael's son Martin remained in Virginia, married Elizabeth and had nine children, one of whom was born in 1785 and named Michael. To this Michael and wife, Susanna, was born son John on 2/16/1810. All of the Jackson County Waybrights are descendants of John, who along with his parents, purchased property there in 1853.

John married Nancy McCray on 2/21/1828, and they had nine children, five of whom are buried in the Waybright Cemetery, along with John and Nancy, and Michael and Susanna, in Gay, Jackson County.

There are many records available documenting the growth of the Waybright family in Highland, Pendleton, Lewis, Braxton, and Jackson Counties. We were traders, farmers, road builders and surveyors, loggers, and bankers. One of John's sons, Michael S., was a director of the Ripley Bank. Born in 1836, he married twice but had no children. He was, however, a strong influence on the Waybright clan, and Jackson County, until he died in 1919 and is buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery.

Son, Robert J., was a Confederate soldier who delivered horses to the southern battlefields. He was captured and held prisoner of war until his father was able to obtain his release. John brought him back to Jackson County but he never recovered from an illness contracted in prison. He died in August 1866, and tragically, his father died only one month later at age 53. Another of John's sons was John M., father of nine children (including William A., John L., James B., and Elza) while son William contributed five children, and Edward L. added four more to the Waybright family. My great-grandfather was John's son Benjamin Park Waybright, who was in the logging business and can be seen in the above picture in driver's seat taken circa 1880. He married Sarah Shafer and had eight children including my grandfather, Jesse James Waybright.

Jesse married Inez Witherow and moved to Kanawha County where my father, Freddie F. Waybright was born and raised. My father and mother, Helen Plantz Waybright still live in the Charleston area, as do my five brothers and sisters. I live in New Jersey but my roots, and my heart, will always be in West Virginia. Charley and Cornia lived in Gay on the homeplace until 1957 or 1958 when they rented a house on Straight St. During this time they were having a house built on Rt. 21. In February 1960 they moved into this home.

E. JOHN WAYBRIGHT

E. John had the honor of being the first male grandchild born to John Waybright, and his parents Fleet and Eva Waybright were given a $100.00 reward. His twin sister, Elsa, was born a few minutes before him.

E. John Waybright and Elsa Jane Petty

E. John was from a family of 13 children that were raised on Zion Ridge and all are living to this day. His father, Fleet, is one of the few surviving WWI veterans, who served in France.

E. John married his cousin Millie Marie Waybright, daughter of W. H. and Millie Waybright, on 4/17/1943 and then left to serve in Europe during WW II.

After he returned they had six daughters, Diane, Dawn, Denese, Millic Dec, April and Faye Anna. They bought an interest in his father-in-law's farm on Elk Fork after Willie's death. There he maintained a home for his family and mother-in-law, Millie Margaret Waybright, widow of W. H. Waybright, until her death in 1972.

He was always kind and generous to relatives and the less fortunate and allowed several of them and/or their children to live in his and Marie's home for varying periods of time during personal, financial or medical crises. He was always honest and hard-working and would never steal from or take advantage of his position on job in which he worked and through his example taught his children to be honest and hardworking also.

John lives in the old Waybright home on Horseshoe Bend of Elk Fork on Gay Road.

ELZA WAYBRIGHT (PART I)

Elza Hoyt Waybright (E.H.) (Aug. 18, 1882-July 23, 1962) was one of eleven children. His brothers and sisters were: Ben, Johnny, Fred Sr., Gordy, Fleet, Ethel, Mary Waybright Lyons, Ida Waybright Cox, whose son, Lloyd, was my pediatrician in Charleston; another sister who married A.P. Fisher, and one unknown.

Elza married Canna Grace Sheets (1883-1927), one of eight children of L.M. Sheets, died 1932, and Dedosha (unknown), died 1926-27. Her brothers and sisters were: C.G. Sheets, H.B. Sheets, Golda S. Morris, Laura S. Parsons, Alice S. Edwards, Gladys S. Leggett, and Mabel S. Litton.

The children from this union were: Dessie (Jan. 4, 1908-May 4, 1964), Ray (Feb. 25, 1911-Jan. 16, 1986), Ralph (Aug. 18, 1913-July 4, 1956), Dolly (Oct. 4, 1915-May 4, 1983), Maxine (Aug. 28, 1918-July 1, 1926), and Lloyd (March 6, 1924).

Ray, Ralph, Dolly, Lloyd, and Elza Waybright

Dessie married Willie Leggett, one son, Harold; Ray married Crystal Griffith, no children; Ralph, 24, married Ina Pearl Brooks, 16, of Charleston, one daughter, Carolyn, Oct. 24, 1942; Dolly married Bob Hunt of Charleston, one daughter, Betty Jo, deceased, sons, Bobby Kay, and Benny Ray; second marriage, Bob Fauber, died Sept. 1989, no children; Lloyd married Inez Martin, died 1964, daughter, Susan Bowery, Van Wert, Ohio; Barry, married, six children, Alvy, WV; Jerry, married, Columbus, Ohio.

In 1942, Elza, 60, married Janet Curry, 23, a divorcee from Silverton. Janet (Net) had one son, Earl, 5 (1937-1975) and one daughter, Patty, 3, when they married. They had twin girls, Lula and Lucille (May 23, 1943). Several years later they divorced; Elza never remarried. Janet died April, 1988, in Charleston.

For approximately 50 years, Elza, a well-known farmer in the county, lived on a 118 acre farm in a section called Lick Run, between Patterson Run, off Rt. 2 and Sugar Run on Rt. 33 at Cottageville. Two favorite things to do at Grandpa's were piling up leaves from the beautiful maple tree in the front yard and jumping in them with my half-aunts, Lula and Lucille, who were seven months younger than I, and chasing chickens. It was exciting to come over the hill to his farm and see his red truck, with the tall cattle racks, sitting in front of the house.

In 1937, my father, Ralph, left Jackson County, went to Charleston, and worked for Frank Vandell in his jukebox, pinball, and record business. In 1940, he bought Frank's business and was a successful businessman until his death.

In the early '50s I went to the old Evans Fairgrounds behind Otterbein Church and watched stock car races. This property belonged to Margarine Cunningham and now belongs to her daughter, Chardean and Carl Hutchinson. Unknowingly, as I was enjoying the races, my husband-to-be, Dennis Wayne, a county resident, was too. Years later, when we met through a mutual friend and married, 1963, we settled in the Cottageville area for 14 years, then moved to Mt. Alto for 14 years. Our children, Ripley graduates, are Mark, 25, a WVU graduate, a social studies teacher and head athletic trainer at Chantilly High School, Chantilly, Va.; Shannon, 21, a senior speech communications major at Marshall University; and Chris, 19, a history major at WVU. I grew up in Charleston and So. Charleston graduating from SCHS, 1960, and attended Marshall.

Elza is buried in Pleasant View Cemetery beside Grace, Maxine, Ray, and Crystal; Dessie, Mt. Pleasant, WV; Dolly, Gassaway, WV; and Ralph, St. Albans, WV. Lloyd, a retired city bus driver, resides in Wheeling with wife, Joann. Submitted by Carolyn Ann Waybright Wayne

MILLIE M. (STANLEY) WAYBRIGHT

Millie was widowed in 1949 and lived at her home in Horseshoe Bend of Elk Fork. Millie enjoyed farm life and entertaining family and friends in her home. She was a business woman and earned money raising poultry, cattle, etc. She traveled visiting her daughters who lived in Ohio and Florida until her declining health limited her activities to her home where she was visited by family and friends.

She died quietly in her sleep on December 22, 1971 at 79+ years at her home. She was greatly beloved and admired for her kindness and generosity to her family and friends.

She rests in Mt. Olive Cemetery beside her husband, W.H. Waybright, who preceded her in death by 21 years. Submitted by Krista Littleton

MILLIE MARIE WAYBRIGHT

Marie Waybright was born to W.H. and Millie Waybright at home on Horseshoe Bend of Elk Fork on 4/30/1926. She was the youngest daughter and the youngest child but for Thomas who died as a baby.

She grew up in a household that placed a high value on education and reading and on enterprise and hard work. Her father, Willie, kept a library and allowed friends and neighbors to borrow from it.

As a young girl, she fell in love with Elda John Waybright, son of Fleet and Eva Waybright, a distant cousin from Zion Ridge. They were married at Gay on 4/17/1943.

Shortly after they were married John left to serve in Europe during WW II. He was gone for two years.

After he returned from the service, Marie and John bought a farm from George Waybright on Zion Ridge. While living there their oldest daughter, Diane, was born.

Millie Marie Waybright and daughter, Diane

Tragically, Marie's father, Willie, died. Marie and John, along with Marie's brother, Wayne and his wife, Virginia, bought the other children's interest in the large home farm and the home where Marie was born. Millie, her mother, lived there with them until her death in 1972. And there they were blessed with their five other daughters, Dawn, Dcnese, Millie Dce, April and Faye Anna.

Marie was a devoted wife and mother and as

John worked away from home, had all the responsibility of home, farm and children. She was a wonderful mother and was always encouraging and positive. She saw that we children were involved with school, church, church activities and sports, 4-H, band, etc. along with working in the garden and hay fields, chasing cows and horses, swimming in the creek, picking berries and picking up apples, etc. We had a wonderful, carefree childhood.

We used to sit on the porch in the swing at night and enjoy the warm summer evenings, looking at the stars and watching the lightning bugs and listening to the whip-o-wills. And during the daylight hours take walks, looking under logs for strange worms and animals, check the cattle or go seining, wading or swimming in the creek that bends around the house and gives the farm its name, Horseshoe Bend.

We always had pets to play with, dogs and cats, and sometimes a crow or little groundhog. It was a constant source of amazement to me that she could run faster than I as a child, and probably still could.

Marie valued education and expected us to do well in school. She taught us to enjoy books and reading from a very early age and could tell fantastic stories when she took us to bed at night.

She went to work at the Jackson County Health Department in December of 1978. She enjoyed working with people, but retired after 10 years of service to help with her grandchildren, manage her rental property and to visit relatives and friends.

He died of typhoid fever. I am in a hard place and want some of you to come out if you can. I will come back home if I can get money to pay my way. I can't stay here, my heart is breaking. ABSALOM WELLS

Absalom Wells, known also as Ab, and in later life as A.B., was born and is buried in Jackson County. His last resting place overlooks the spot where he was born. Except for a brief period in Kentucky, and serving the public in his last years from Washington, D.C., his heart, mind and body were wholly West Virginian.

Absalom B. Wells

He was a West Virginia farmer, a graduate of Bethany College which was founded by a friend and religious counselor of his father, Ephraim, later a lawyer and a member of the State Legislature. Even while assigned to the Land Office in Washington, he served as an officer of the West Virginia Society.

A.B.'s father, Ephraim, was the archetypical pioneer, clearing virgin land, building his house from the materials at hand and establishing a community, a church, and serving as Justice of the Peace in a governing capacity. Ephraim made certain Absalom was trained as a farmer which was prudent as he maintained the family farm while Ephraim was away during the War-Between-the-States.

At the end of that war, many changes were taking place. Ab became a new kind of pioneer. He was the first of his lineage in America to decide to pursue a formal education and a professional career. After graduating from Bethany College he briefly taught school. However brief, this activity gave Ab the opportunity to meet the girl who was to become his wife. Julia McMath was one of his pupils in Bracken County, Kentucky.

In 1872 he finally realized his ambition to study law and become a lawyer. He became a member of the firm of Brown, Wells, & Miller, at Spencer, Roane County, West Virginia. As soon as his career was launched he married Julia McMath and they made their home in Spencer.

The divergence from the predominantly farming history of his forebears continued. As is true to this day, a career in law began a stint in politics, and Ab was no exception. He was Prosecuting Attorney from 1878-80 and in 1882 was elected to the West Virginia House of Delegates. He also served on the Board of Directors for the State Hospital for the Insane. In 1886 he formed a law partnership with Judge Walter Pendleton which continued until 1894 when President Grover Cleveland appointed Absalom B. Wells as Principal Examiner of Land Claims and Contests in the General Land Office in Washington, D.C. With the beginning of railroads to the West in those times and the increase in homesteading and Westward expansion this was a demanding and important assignment.

A.B. and Julia, who changed her name to Leona J. Wells had 4 children, two of whom died in childhood. One son, Charles Shelley Wells and other grandchildren, William, Richard, and Donald followed grandfather's path to Bethany College.

Edna Wells Keller, a daughter, lived most of her life in Fort Hill, near Charleston, West Virginia.

Five grandchildren followed careers in law, as though A.B.'s unseen hand pointed the way. Submitted by Charles Shelley Wells II

OBITUARY OF EPHRAIM WELLS

Departed this life, Oct. 13, 1874 at the residence of his son-in-law, David McCoy, Esq. at West View, Putnam Co., W. Va. Ephraim Wells, Esq. in the 73rd year of his age.

Ephraim Wells

Such is the usual brief announcement of the death of a fellow creature; yet when society is bereft of an exemplar and ornament more might be said. But to write of one whose good name and memory are cherished beyond the common lot of earthly friends, and choose from among the incidents of a long life of virtue and usefulness, such facts only as the ordinary limit allowed by newspaper usage permits, and to group together such facts so as to portray even to a small extent the life and character of such a person is no easy task.

The deceased was the son of Absalom and Helen Wells late of Brooke County, Va. where he was born and raised. He chose the occupation of his father and as a plain farmer adorned by his example that ancient and honorable occupation, embellished in all ages by pure and good men, and for such his native county has been and still is noted. He married Margaret McIntire, a lady of good sense and pure heart who was universally beloved wherever she was known and with whom he lived happily even down to old age.

Mr. Wells moved to Jackson County in 1835 having bought of Dr. Peter, one of the devisees in the will of George Washington, the land on the Ohio River next above the present town of Ravenswood, then in unbroken forest, covered with heavy timber; reared a small cabin in the woods, and began the heavy work of clearing out a farm, founding schools and churches and opening roads through the wilderness around him, which by long weary years of toil and care was accomplished, and thus provided for himself and family a comfortable home. To have done all this and paid for his land through the dull times of 1837 - 49 evidenced a rare steadfastness and perseverance of mind and purpose.

In 1838 he accepted from David Campbell, Gov. of Va. a commission as Justice of the Peace which office he held until the adoption of the Constitution of 1852 when he was elected to the same office by the people and in 1856 was made presiding Justice of the County Court of Jackson County, and filled that important position with entire satisfaction to the Bar, and the people, for several years.

Every age brings its own trials and responsibilities, but the years from 1861 to '65 were overcast with such clouds as darkened no other period in the past history of this nation; and in common with his fellow-citizens the deceased was forced to decide the terrible issue, whether it was better to brook the grave charge of treason against the state or treason against the Federal Government. He had a large family, was a man of large means and much influence and lived on the dividing line between the hostile sections. He felt that his example, if wrong, might mislead others — and each political power claimed his support and threatened confiscation and conscription. Under our complex system no such issue had ever before been presented, and no precedent in the experience of this country existed, to light up the pathway to duty.

Mr. Wells was, in politics, a Democrat and in this as in all other matters of opinion his convictions were deep and earnest; in matters of principal, with him there was no neutral ground. He had been taught to believe the State of Virginia as a political power was older than the Federal Government, and while acknowledging a divided allegiance he decided that his highest fealty was due to his native state, and in this opinion he was supported by many of the ablest lawyers of his time, including the entire Bar then residing in his county — gentlemen of learning in their profession and of high character as men. And in that hour of painful anxiety he was constrained by honest conviction of his duty to cast his lot with the people who agreed with him; but by this step many of his dearest ties of kindred and friendship were sundered, because others, equally honest, saw the right from a different point of view.

Altho bowed down with these cares and conflicts, and an old man he rushed into the lists of armed men and battled for the cause he had espoused until failing health admonished him that the day of military service with him had gone by. But he carried with him into the field the same high views of virtue and honor with which he was always actuated in private life, and thus retained the regard and esteem of all good men of all parties wherever he went.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells were among the first of those who, agreeing with Alexander Campbell their neighbor and friend in Brooke Co., united with him in the Christian Church at Wellsburg; and they adorned, thru all the trials and conflicts of life the doctrines of their Lord and Master.

Mrs. Wells died in great peace and in hope of a glorious resurrection at West View in August of 1867; and her husband is buried by the side of her with whom he had so long buffeted the wild waves of life's uneven seas.

Since the death of Mr. Wells his dear aged cousin, Bazell Wells of Brooke Co., also is no more; from childhood they were friends and between them no shadow of unkindness ever entered until the war cast its dark pall of prejudice over their spirits and parted for a time their pathways to the tomb, but just before they reached that goal, they met again as friends and restored peace on earth as they are now at peace in heaven. Submitted by William Anderson Wells and Donald Carle Wells

WESTFALL

The name Westfall is derived from the German word "Westphalen" which means Western Plains. The Westphals were a tribe of related families who, in ancient times, settled in the extreme western border of Germania (as Germany was then known) and their geographical location was eventually adopted as their surname. Thus Westphal literally means "People of the Western Plains". Today, the Province of Westphalia in the northwest Germany derives its name from the ancient tribe of Westphals. The English rendering of this name is, of course Westfall.

Our first recorded ancestor in America left Texal, Holland June 6, 1642; aboard The Den Houttuyn, and arrived August 4, 1642, in the part of New Amsterdam, New York, and it is not known whether his parents died in Holland or enroute, or whether he came with relatives. He was only 13 and he was placed in the home of Michael Jansz or Jansen and his wife, who had come to America in 1638 and had settled in Rensselaerwick. Aboard the "Houttuyn" were Klaas Jensen and Paulus Jensen who may possibly have been related to Michael. In Dutch records "Jurian Van Vestvael or Westvael," was later spelled a George Westfall by the English.

Jurian — born 1629 in Prussia, died 1667 N.Y. He was married to Marretje (Maria) Jansen, the descendants of Jurian and Maria who were among the earliest of the settlers of that part of Ulster Co., N.Y. known as Esopus, now Kingston, are found in almost every state of the Union. Three of his sons, Johannes, Symen, Niclaes, in their early manhood removed to Orange Co. N.Y. and their names, with those of Jacques Caudbee and others, are found as grantees in the Conveyance of land within the bounds of "Menissing" and "Waggackemeek" now Deerpark, made by the Indian owners in 1696. In the early settlement of the territory covered by the ancient Church organizations of Menissinck and Machackemeek, there were no families more numerous than those bearing the name of Westfall which was variously spelled Westvaal, Westphaal, Westphael, Van Westphalen and others. After his removal to Esopus, Jurian Westphael followed his vocation as a farmer, at first holding lands either upon a rental, or as Governor Stuyvesant's manager. In a report upon the condition of affairs at Esopus, dated September 28, 1658 Sergeant Andries Louwrenszen says: as to Jurian Westphalen, he thinks he will come down by the first opportunity and see whether he can agree with your Excy. about the rent on the farm here, but that the oxen would be of no service to him at present. In another communication, dated May 24, 1659, the sergeant reports that "George Westphal" does his best to plough the land and fence it. Jurian Westphal and Marretje had the following ch: Rymerick, Johannes, Niclaes, Abel-1661, Symen-1663, Elsjen-1666.

John Westfall — Veteran of Revolutionary war — (a) 1758 Harrison Co. son of Cornelius Westfall and Elizabeth Westfall (cousins) married Margaret Woolf, dau. of Nicholas and Christena Woolf, and sister of Hanna Woolf, who married Zachariah, brother of John. John and Margaret's ch. are: Stephen-1792, Jacob-1797, Elizabeth, we don't know if there were more children of this family.

Stephen son of John and Margaret (Woolf), John son of Cornelius and Elizabeth Westfall (cousins), Cornelius, son of Abel and Antjen (Bogaert), Abel, son of Johannes and Marrietje (Kool), Johannes, son of Jurian and Marrietje (Hansen) — The Immigrant — 1629-1669.

Stephen married Elizabeth Morrison from Botetourt Co., Virginia on July 18, 1818. They moved to Elk Fork, Jackson Co. Their ch. are: John D. 1819, James Lawson 1821, Margarite 1824, Levi 1825, Parmelia 1829, Eleanor 1830, Jacob 1832, Jemima 1836, Marinda 1838, Isaac 1840.

James Lawson married Lucinda Jones and they lived at the Big Locust Spring on Billy's Run, near Red Knob, Roane Co. Most of all the pioneer settlers here were squatters on the Bruen Survey, among them being James Westfall. He built a horse mill for grinding corn, and also had a blacksmith shop and later his son Henry (Tink) built an overshot mill on Billy's Run. James and his family moved quite a bit. Family records tell us he died at Staats Mills, Jackson County, June 15, 1885 and is buried in the old Sinaville cemetery at Staats Mills. James and Lucinda's ch. are: Henry (Tink) 1847-1926, John 1849, Lenora 1850, Malinda 1856, James Lawson Jr., 1858, Charles C. 1860, Isaac 1863, Leavernia 1865, Margaret Etta 1867.

Henry (Tink) married Nancy Margaret Eakin, 1852-1932, the daughter of Thomas Miller Eakin, and Elizabeth Francis (Walker) Eakin. They lived most of their lives on Aplin Ridge, Jackson County, where his occupation consisted of farming and carpentry work including furniture. He was also a stone mason. They are buried in the Aplin Church cemetery. Their family consisted of six boys and two girls: Viola 1871, Baily 1872, John 1875, William 1878, Kenna 1879, Lewis 1883, Mina

He was also a World War One Veteran. At age 69-1958 taught school as substitute from 1958-61. MINNIE WESTFALL

The Westfall family of Minnie Tolley goes back many generations to Germany and to the Protestant-Catholic tribulations. The family migrated to Prussia and then to Holland about 1600. The ancestor Jurian van Vestrael was born in Holland in 1629, presumably while his parents were awaiting passage to America. He left Texal, Holland June 6, 1642 and arrived in the port of New Amsterdam (NY) in August of the same year. He later married Marietze Hansen, in Rensselaerwick, NY. The name Jurian Van Vestrael in Dutch records was translated to George Westfall by the English. We trace from this beginning.

The son of Jurian was Johannes (our direct line) of whose children Abel (1696) and Jacob (1693) both are direct ancestors. Abel's son, Cornelius (1721) married Jacob's daughter Elizabeth. Their son John was born in 1756, other children listed as Jacob, Cornelius, Jr., Zachariah. John married Sarah (probably Woolf) and had children Stephen, Elizabeth, Jacob and Susanna.

John, Jacob, Zachariah and Cornelius served in the Revolutionary War. Lt. Jacob Westfall was the builder of Westfall Fort in Randolph County and was active in the border wars. James Westfall gave the land on which the present town of Beverly is situated, near Fairmont. All of the Westfalls were prominent in the founding of Randolph County. Our ancestors came to Jackson County about 1827.

John Westfall enlisted in the Revolutionary War in 1780 in Hampshire Co., under the command of Cpt. Wallace, for the duration of the war. He was attached to the 7th Va. Reg.

John's son Stephen married Elizabeth Morrison and their family had several children. Stephen settled first on Tug Fork and then moved to Elk Fork, coming to this area from Hacker's Creek. His son James, b. 1821, married Lucinda Jones. One of the sons of this union, John D., married Sara Jane Whiting, d. Joseph M. Whiting (of Bear Fork) and Martha.

C. W. and Minnie (Westfall) Tolley

John D. and Sara Jane's children were: Minnie, Francis, Wilson, Nora Belle, Mary and Julie.

Minnie Westfall Tolley was a remarkable woman, known throughout the area for her ability to heal burns, for helping any in need, and taking care of others in any situation. She was the epitome of the pioneer spirit, afraid of nothing and capable in all situations. She was called on for births, and if it was during the night, she would fix breakfast for the family the next morning. No matter what the weather, she would get on her horse, holding a lantern if it was night, and off she would go. She was a friend to all, a really special woman. When her daughter, Lora Rhodes, had her first child, Minnie rode horseback to Charleston to stay and take care of the premature baby, probably saving the life of Kathleen.

In addition to Lora, other children were Vesta (McCrary), Gertrude (Lyttton), Mabel (Walker), Gladys (Rhodes), Russell, and Charles. Submitted by Lynn Richards

He charged 10 cents a shoe.

I remember Grandma Staats. She stayed with us a lot as her husband, David, died real young. She would play dominoes with us and make apple dumplings for us. I remember she was scared of a land turtle and we would bring her a lap full of apples with a turtle in it. She didn't like that very good. We also put one in her bed and as she pulled the covers back she screamed. We used to swing on the grapevines and play hide and seek. No toys much to play with but raised a very happy family.

Naomi Wilkes Talbott was the daughter of Amanda Coleman and Henry Wilkes. Amanda is a relative of the Colemans that are buried in the graveyard at Coleman Chapel Church. I remember going to visit Grandma Talbott when they lived at Portland, Ohio. She always made us wash the silverware separate. I'm glad she did. I learned a lot from her. My mother, Nellie Staats, worked very hard. She loved to raise her garden and didn't want us kids helping. Now I understand because I like doing my own garden too. When all us children were born we never had a doctor or went to a hospital. I was 12 years old before I ever went to a doctor. I had the shingles and Mom sent me to Doctor Starkey. He gave me the medicine and charged $2.00. They were well in two or three days. Times have really changed. A doctor now charges $30.00 just to look at you and send you to the drug store for $30.00 more. I had teeth filled and cleaned when I was in high school. The dentist charged $5.00 for all. Think what it would cost now.

Gerald and I both go to church at Milhoan Ridge Baptist Church. All the children used to go, too, but some don't go now. Maybe some day they will. Submitted by Gertie White

WHITE

The history of the White family descendants in this area are of the Pilgrims who came to America in 1620 on the Mayflower for religious freedom. They descended from Peregrine White, son of William and Susanna (Fuller) White. He was born on the Mayflower after it had landed at Plymouth Rock.

James White, son of Alexander White II. Alexander White owned and financed a wagon train himself in the Revolutionary War where he became a Captain. His wife was Mary Clifford. (5) Sarah White (Sept. 10, 1823-1895) died at Hazeal, Ohio, buried at DeWitt Cemetery. She married John Marshall Smith, a brother to her sister Mary's husband. They were our ancestors, my mother Audrey Smith Brewer's grandparents and my great-grandparents. (6) Charlotte White (July 5, 1825-Aug. 7, 1856) married Ichabod Adkens. They had two daughters who died young. (7) Rawey White (Sept. 20, 1837-Nov. 28, 1852). (8) Thomas White (Sept. 20, 1829-). (9) Nelson Cook White (May 21, 1832-) married Emily Davidson. (10) Amanda White (Aug. 23, 1834-Aug. 19, 1838). (11) Isabelle White (Sept. 20, 1837-June 29, 1859).

When he was six years old, his parents sold their land and moved to Harrison County, now Lewis County, in the vicinity of Jackson's Mill. He enlisted in the War of 1812. After the war he went to Pond Creek with a brother where he met and married Mary Coleman Dec. 13, 1813. She was born Oct. 2, 1796 and died Dec. 29, 1853. RAYMOND AND MAYSEL WILKINSON

Raymond Wilkinson was born May 23, 1909, the son of John (b. July 26, 1813-d. Dec. 11, 1973) and Lizzie Kittle (b. April 3, 1886-d. May 13, 1954) Wilkinson.

Maysel Pursley Wilkinson, April 28, 1908, the daughter of Maywood (b. Dec. 9, 1877-d. Dec. 9, 1959) and Minerva Shouldis (b. Oct. 18, 1877-d. March 30, 1953) Pursley.

Raymond and Maysel were married March 1, 1929 by Rev. J.F. Cunningham at Maywood Pursley's home. Their first son, Lloyd, was born Jan. 2, 1930, and now resides in Canton, Ohio. This was the year of the depression and times were very hard and there was no money. The couple set up housekeeping on the Steve Balis farm. He said he shipped a cow to Pittsburgh and got $11. Eggs sold for eight to nine cents a dozen. In the summer of 1939 they purchased 40 acres from Raymond's father and built a three-room house. In December they moved in and kept adding rooms as the family grew. The house they built sits in Wirt and Jackson counties. You eat in Wirt County and sleep in Jackson County.

On Sept. 22, 1932, their second son, Russell, was born and now resides at Ravenswood. On July 20, 1934 their third son, Carl, was born and now resides at Washington, WV. On Jan. 31, 1936 their first daughter, Ellen, was born and now resides at St. Cloud, Fla. On Oct. 25, 1937 their fourth son, Louie, was born. He passed away March 26, 1988. On April 3, 1946, a second daughter, Sue, was born and now resides at Winter Springs, Fla. On Jan. 21, 1948 a third daughter, Ruth, was born and resides at Leroy, WV.

Raymond and Maysel Wilkinson

The family was always good at playing tricks on each other. One year at Christmas, one of the older boys dressed up as Santa to play a trick on their youngest brother, Louie. They wrapped him up some Hickory switches and two ears of popcorn, to give him. Now you can imagine how disappointed a young boy could be with such a present.

When the children would get into arguments, their dad would make them recite the Bible verse "And be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving one another." Eph. 4-32.

All their married life they have been active in Fairview Methodist church and always took their children to church. On March 5, 1989 they celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with a dinner at the Point of View restaurant in Parkersburg. All children, several grandchildren, brothers, sisters and friends were present. The couple has 17 living grandchildren, one deceased, and six great-grandchildren. They have lived their entire life in the Leroy area in Jackson County.

Enclosed is an example of the teaching he gave us in his Christian home:

Remember
Remember, child, remember that God is in the sky;
that He looks down on all we do,
with an ever-wakeful eye.
Remember, oh remember that all the day and night

 He sees our thoughts and actions with an ever-watchful sight.
 Remember, child, remember that God is good and true, that He wishes us to always be like Him in all we do.
 Remember that He ever hates
 A falsehood or a lie;
 Remember He will punish, too,
 the wicked by and by.
 Remember, oh remember that He is like a friend
 And wishes us to Holy be,
 and happy in the end.
 Remember, child, remember to pray to Him in heaven;
 And if you have been doing wrong,
 Oh, ask to be forgiven.
 Be sorry, in your little prayer,
 And whisper in His ear;
 Ask His forgiveness and his love
 And He will surely hear.
 Remember, child, remember, that you love with all your might
 The God who watches o'er us
 And gives us each delight;
 Who guards us ever through the day
 And saves us in the night.

WALTER C. "GEORGE" AND HELEN (GUTHRIE) WILLIAMS

Walter Clinton Williams, known by most as "George," was born March 26, 1907 in Marshall (Buffalo), Jackson County, WV. His parents were Samuel W. and Cora Cline Williams. He was one of six children: Okla, Una, George, Ralph (Ted), Betty, and Ruth.

His grandparents were Henderson and Dorcas Rhodes Williams and William O. (Will) and Martha Merrill Cline of Roane and Jackson counties. Henderson Williams was a Confederate soldier with the Virginia Cavalry. He is buried at the Frozen Camp Cemetery in Jackson County, WV.

Helen N. Guthrie Williams was born in Reedy, Roane County, WV October 27, 1920 and was the daughter of Ezra Earl and Amy Phillips Guthrie. Helen's grandparents were Everett Carpenter and Malinda Litton Phillips who lived on the left fork of Reedy Creek, known as Peniel Road. B.F. WINTER

Bradford Winter, born March 18, 1899, was raised on Joe's Run, Jackson County. He lived up the hollow from the old Victory School house. He taught school there and also met his wife, Ocie Hartley, as she attended two years of school taught by him. Ocie Hartley, the daughter of Forrest and Amy Hartley of Board Run, married Bradford Winter and they had seven children, all deceased now except two, Marie Easter and James Winter. Their children are as follows: Marie Winter, married to Ralph Easter of Sandyville. Ralph Edward Winter, deceased. Evelyn Winter, married Charles Hall of Evans, both deceased. Everet Leonadis Winter, deceased. Robert "Tank" Winter, married Lois Jean Siders of Kenna, only Lois is still living. Dottie Lou Winter, deceased. James F. Winter, living and a truck driver.

front: Bradford, Marie, Evelyn, Ocie; back: Robert and James

Bradford built a little home on his dad's farm on Joe's Run, that is the Leonadis D. "Berry" Winter farm, and lived there until his mother, Sarah Simmons Winter, died. He then bought a farm at Frozen Camp, now known as the Mill Creek Watershed. His dad, Berry Winter, was so lonesome after his wife died, he urged Bradford to let him move to Frozen Camp in exchange for the homeplace. So they exchanged farms. Bradford's sister, Iva Miller, lost her husband two weeks after her mother died, so she and her four children moved to Frozen Camp with her dad to take care of him. Bradford would stay at the Frozen Camp farm through the week mostly in summer to raise big fields of corn and put up hay, while his wife and two girls stayed on Joe's Run. They raised cattle, sheep, and chickens and sold eggs and butter to buy groceries and clothes. Bradford sheared sheep for extra money, also did veterinary work after he quit teaching. We also raised geese, one year we had 32 head and picked them for the feathers. My sister and I would come home from school and go to Ross Hinzman's orchard to get the geese and they would raise and fly to the other hill, so we were glad when they were sold. I did janitor work at Victory for $4.00 a week and went through the eighth grade twice because I didn't want to lose my friends and it was too far to walk and catch a bus at Herford. My grandfather got a chance to buy the old Jim Conley farm next to Bradford's at Frozen Camp on Big Run, so the Joe's Run farm was sold and we moved there. We would help thin big fields of corn, and put up hay. Saturday the chicken house was to be cleaned, the house to be cleaned, also cows to be milked. We went to high school at Ripley, W. Va. We raised turkeys at Frozen Camp and sold enough to buy a living room set and extra furniture. Mother bought print material and had our dresses made for school. As I look back it was hard work, but I wouldn't trade the experiences of growing up and learning, as today's children miss a lot by not growing up on a farm.

Bradford F. Winter is still living, but his wife, Ocie, died January 15, 1989, at age 84. They had 65 years together. Submitted by Marie Easter

JAMES L. AND HENRY H. WINTER

James L. Winter and his father, Matthias Winter, came to Jackson County about 1854. James L. was the oldest of three sons of Matthias and Martha Johnson Winter. Martha was a sister of Joseph Johnson, only Governor of Virginia from west of the Allegheny Mountains.

James L. bought the Wilson Koontz farm on Grasslick and moved his family to Jackson County. They journeyed from Harrison County in two wagons, each with four horses, the oldest daughter, Celia, rode horseback. A neighbor, Mr. Morrison, helped. They came by the way of Parkersburg, and then by way of New California (now Spencer), and then by way of Bumgardner's Mill (later Chase's) and then to Grasslick. Matthias didn't return with them.

James L. and Sarah Bennet Winter raised 14 children. Thirteen had been born in Harrison County. They were: 1. William Winter, never married; 2. Celia B. Winter, married Jacob Casto; 3. Sarah Winter, married Charles F. Winter; 4. Evaline Winter, married Elisha Walton; 5. John B. Winter, married Harriet Price; 6. Matthias Winter, married Isabella Tinch; 7. Martha Winter, married William M. Adams; 8. Mary Winter, married Jeremiah Harrison; 9. Elizabeth Winter, never married; 10. Rigoletta Winter, married Smith Greene; 11. Benjamin F. Winter, married Nancy Elizabeth Hyre; 12. David W. Winter, married Mary Waybright; 13. Emily Winter, married John W. Chancey; 14. Henry H. Winter (only child born in Jackson County), married Lenora Casto, daughter of James H. Casto.

Henry and Lenora Winter with granddaughter, Anita

Henry and Lenora had four children. Hereford A. Winter, married Myrtle Stewart; Claudia Winter, married Armstrong Chancey; Lillian Winter, married Carter W. Staats; Arthur L. Winter, married Tennie Reynolds.

Descendants of James and Sarah Winter can be found in Jackson County yet and in many occupations unheard of when they came to Jackson County.

About 1950 one grandson wrote this: "As I pass down the old Grasslick road, in my mind's eye I can see the old log house built by James L. Winter and now torn down. My mind goes back to the early days when the family first moved here, and I see the beautiful forests of poplars and great oaks. They have long been gone. The once plentiful wild animals such as the bear and wild turkey return no more. The bright many-colored leaves have been lost in the winds of long ago." Submitted by Lena Winter Rawlings

REV. VAIRL CLAUDUS WINTER

Rev. Vairl Claudus Winter was the oldest of 11 sons born to Herford Allen and Minnie Myrtle Stewart Winter. He was born November 24, 1901 in Jackson County at Grass Lick, Fairplain, WV.

On August 22, 1926, he married his high school sweetheart, Vera Jane Walters, daughter of Amos and Emma Jane Walters. They had two children, Allen Nathaniel (Jack), born August 27 1927 and Joyce Evelyn, born August 2, 1934. His wife, Vera, died on June 7, 1962 and he married Edna Pickett on September 6, 1965.

His son, Jack, married Ida Catherine Matheny, daughter of Mirrel Clement and Leola Waybright Matheny on April 25, 1953. To this union were born Debra Joyce, Stephen Paul, James Michael and John Scott. Debra married Timothy Allen Holley, son of the late Millard Nile Holley and Mrs. Rosemary Jane Wheeler. Their children are Steven Allen, Richard Nile and Beth Ann. James married Cheri Bernice Lane, daughter of Arthur and Wanda Lane. They have one son, Curtis Michael.

His daughter, Joyce, married G. Clark Mills, Jr., son of G. Clark and Oma Hendricks Mills on June 16, 1957. They have three children, Lea Ann, Jane Elizabeth and G. Clark Mills III.

Vairl was licensed to preach in 1926 and ordained in 1932. For the next 50 years he served with love and compassion in Baptist churches in Wirt, Roane and Jackson counties. He served small, rural churches while teaching school and later working at DuPont in Belle, WV. In 1945, he entered the ministry full time and accepted a call to the Wirt County Baptist Parish which consisted of seven churches.

Rev. Vairl C. Winter

He had a keen interest in soil and water conservation. Since most of the people he served were farmers, he had the idea of developing the Lord's Acre which often consisted of an acre of potatoes. He utilized the services of the County Agent, Soil and Water Agencies, and this led to excellent crops which provided funds to remodel churches, have summer camps and various projects in the churches.

He served this Parish for 15 years. During this time he taught an elective Bible class at Wirt County High School and later at Ripley High School. One of his great loves was working with young people. Therefore, he was much involved with Boy Scouts, Hi-Y and camping.

Many honors and awards were given to him down through the years of his ministry. In 1950, he was named the Rural Minister of the year by Progressive Farmers Magazine. This same year he was selected to receive the Rosa O. Hall Award for Outstanding Services to Churches in Town and Country Work by the American Baptist Convention.

In 1963, he had the distinction of giving the invocation for the House of Representatives on WV Day in the nation's capital. He was a 50-year Mason, a 50-year plus I.O.O.F. and a life-time member of the Agriculture Hall of Fame. Alderson-Broadus College honored him twice for outstanding Christian Leader in WV.

A project dear to his heart was helping to develop the WV Baptist Conference Center at Parchment Valley, Ripley, WV.

He officially retired December 31, 1970 but continued to fill pulpits in Jackson County until he suffered a stroke on May 2, 1976.

He and his wife, Edna, died a few hours apart on December 26, 1984. Joint funeral services were conducted at the Grass Lick Baptist Church, Kenna, WV where he had served as pastor for 23 years. He was buried in Fairplain Cemetery and Edna was buried in Arlington Cemetery, Parkersburg, WV. Submitted by Allen N (Jack) Winter and Mrs. Clark (Joyce) Mills

WOLFE — MOORE

"Uncle Ed" was Edward Wolfe. He lived on Parchment Creek on the 350-acre farm that once belonged to his father, Nehemiah S. Wolfe. Uncle Ed was my mother's brother, so it was my good fortune to accompany Mother each summer from Georgia, where we lived, to Given where Uncle Ed lived. There Mother would cook and can enough for Uncle Ed, a bachelor, to survive the winter ahead. A couple of times, Mother persuaded Uncle Ed to visit us in Georgia, but all he would do was to sit in the living room and say over-and-over, "Wup! Wup!" He needed to be back on his beloved Parchment.

If you've ever visited or lived on Parchment, you'll know what I'm talking about and what Uncle Ed felt. There's a little plot of Heaven there. I live in Greenville, South Carolina, but my heart is on Parchment. May I share some of my childhood memories with you?

I was born January 19, 1931 to Mary Augusta (Wolfe) Moore and Alva Earl Moore, both of Jackson County. Mother was the youngest child of Nehemiah S. Wolfe and Victoria Smith Wolfe. My father was the oldest child of Joseph Anthony Moore and Alice Hopkins Moore. Grandpa Moore, known as "Joe," owned a saw mill that made railroad ties. As business dwindled, he realized that he would have to go elsewhere for work; so he moved his family to Columbus, Ohio and became a master plumber.

Mother's family stayed in Parchment, and it is with them that this sketch is concerned.

In 1933, Mother and I began our yearly trips to Given, arriving by train in Charleston and traveling on to Given by car. What a treat this was for me! We bumped along over rutted, dirt roads, forded creeks that had no bridges, avoided occasional snakes lying across the road, and dodged our neighbors who traveled on horseback. There was one family who owned an ox-cart pulled by oxen. That was especially fun to avoid.

I would roll down the car windows — the easier to smell that country-fresh air and wave at all beside the road. The Wolfe house never changed — two stories high, white, sometimes with a board propping the second-floor porch. A few cows grazed near the creek, and pigs, chickens, and horses stood near the barn. The cellar, outhouse, and well always beckoned. The garden was always planted in the same place.

At one time, my great-grandfather, Abraham Wolfe, owned 950 acres of good Parchment land, but by the time Grandpa Wolfe and then Uncle Ed owned the farm, it was down to 350 acres. I would watch as the men brought the livestock to the barn for feeding. Mother sent me to the hen house for eggs and the garden for vegetables. The Civilian Conservation Corps men ate on the road in front of the house. In exchange for their pork-and-beans we furnished them with fresh food. They were cutting timber on Parchment.

In the afternoons, I hopped in the back of Howard Hopkin's truck and rode with his kids to Given's one store and post office. Howard was Dad's cousin. While he picked up the mail and talked to Tilden and Clayton Parsons, we children stocked up on cookies and candy sticks — true culinary delights!

Every night, after supper, Mother, Uncle Ed, and I would sit at the kitchen table and read by lantern-light. The Wolfes were known for their home library and interest in reading. Uncle Clinton was a lawyer. Uncle Fred and Mother were teachers. Local residents remember Uncle Fred. He was the teacher at the Given school and later editor of The Mountaineer. Mother graduated from Ripley Normal School and taught in Logan County. The Wolfes' favorite books were the classics, but I liked to peruse such goodies as the McGuffey readers and Practical Lessons.

In the 1950s, after Uncle Ed and Mother passed away, the homeplace was sold. The present owners are nice, gracious people. Last year my family and I were invited in for a cool drink and good conversation.

[I have been asked for the age of the Wolfe house. I can only guess that it is well over 100 years old, because Mother was born there in 1886.]

JACOB WOLFE

Jacob Wolfe was born in 1755 in Cornwall of Dutch descent according to the 1898 letter which was written by a son or daughter of Abraham Wolfe that is in the files of Robert Moore of Athens, Georgia. He was married to Anna Straley whose parentage is unknown. Jacob died in Lewis County in 1823 and Anna died 1822-1826; both are buried in the Wolfe Cemetery on Hacker's Creek. The cemetery is located on the high point of the John Hersman farm about three miles up Hacker's Creek; with tall cedars around it, the cemetery contains about 60 graves. Also buried in the cemetery are these Wolfes: Jane S. Starcher (d. Feb. 7 1865 — aged 53 years, nine months,

Abraham Wolfe, buried in Wolfe Cemetery on Parchment

18 days), wife of Jacob Starcher and daughter of Jacob and Anna Wolfe; Thomas Wolfe (d. June 12, 1853 — 68 years old), son of Jacob and Anna; Phebe (Taylor) Wolf (d. July 8, 1845, in her 57th year), first wife of Thomas; A.M. Wolf (b. Nov. 2, 1831, d. Oct. 10, 1903).

My fourth great-grandfather was born April 12, 1788, a son of Jacob and Anna (Straley) Wolf. His name was James Robert Wolfe and he was born and raised near the fort on Hacker's Creek not far from the present village of Jane Lew.

Here is a curious incident related in Wither's Chronicles of Border Warfare, pg. 67: "Jacob Wolfe, in digging a well on Hacker's Creek, found a piece of timber which had evidently been cut off at one end, twelve or thirteen feet in the ground, marks of the ax or hatchet were plainly visible on it."

The first Wolfe homestead was at the base of Wolfe Mountain east of Buckhannon. Children of Jacob Woolf (Wolfe) and Anna Straley:

1. Mary (Mollie) was born 10 July 1782, married George Bush Jr. 17 June 1799 in a marriage recorded in Harrison County as performed by Jacob Cozad, and died 9 Jan. 1831.

2. Jacob Jr. was born 1778. His first marriage was to Mary McCally; George Towers was the celebrant and it is recorded in Harrison County, W. Va. Jacob Cozad performed Jacob's second marriage to Mary Waggoner, daughter of John Waggoner, on 15 April 1800. This marriage also is recorded in Harrison County.

3. James Robert Wolfe was born 12 April 1788 and died 18 April 1872. He married Frances Beath in 1807. He was married a second time to Christina Straley, a daughter of George Straley by his first wife, Elizabeth Bonnett; they were married 20 August 1841 by Rev. Henry R. Bonnett in Lewis County.

4. Abraham, born 1794, also was married twice. He and Rachel McGlochan were married 21 Feb. 1814. 19 April 1858 he married Ruth (Chapman) Straley, daughter of Valentine and Ruth (Stevens) Chapman and formerly married to George Straley Jr.

5. Jonathan H. was born 1789 and his death date is unknown. He married Bridget Runyan 13 Oct. 1812 with George Towers officiating in a marriage recorded in Harrison County. In 1813 this Wolfe branch became the first settler of Spencer, Roane County, W. Va.; they took up their abode under a shelving rock where Spencer now stands.

6. David, no information.

7. Thomas (1786-12 June 1853) married Phebe Taylor on 23 Feb. 1806. Phebe was a daughter of John Taylor. The marriage is recorded in Harrison County, W. Va.

8. Jane (Elizabeth) married Jacob Starcher.

9. Andrew Franklin, born in 1809, married Lydia Smith.

10. Nancy, born 1808 (?), married a Miller.

11. John, on whom we have no dates, married Barbara Wolfe.

1898 Wolfe Letter

Transcript of a letter written by a son or daughter (letter unsigned) of Abraham Wolfe. This letter is in the files of Robert Moore of Athens, Ga., and was given to Charles Harper by Helen Harp, sister of Robert Moore.

March 15, 1898

My grandfather Wolfe's (Abraham Sr. and wife Emily Boswell) Grandfather Wolfe (Jacob Wolfe) was born in Cornwall of Dutch descent, and married a woman of Irish descent, and his grandfather and grandmother, on his mother's side, were both of Irish descent and from Ireland.

His grandfather Wolfe's name was Jacob. His Grandfather Wolfe raised a family of 11 children, eight boys and three girls. Boys' names were David, John, Jacob, Andrew, Jonathan, Abraham, Thomas, and the girls' names were Mollie, Elizabeth and Nancy. Elizabeth married a Riggen. Mollie, the oldest, married a Bush, and Nancy, the youngest, married a Miller. Jacob married but raised no children. The woman whom he married was (Wagoner) captured by the Indians when a girl.

Jonathan married a woman by the name of Runion and raised two children, David married a Cutright, Thomas married a Dutch woman. Jacob's woman's name was Wagner. All raised large families with the exceptions of the two I have mentioned. His Grandfather Wolfe came to Lewis County, in what is now W. Va., and was among the first settlers of that county. Abraham was the youngest, Jacob the older and Jonathan next to Abraham. James was also one of his grandfather's children.

Abraham Wolfe, son of James Robert Wolfe

His father's name was James and he married a Beathe. Her name was Fanny. He was married in Lewis Co. His wife was of Irish descent. They raised 11 children, Rebecca, George, Peggy, Abraham, Nancy, Catherine, Thomas, Joseph, Mary, Jacob, and James. All born in Lewis County with the exception of the three younger which were born in Jackson Co.

James, his wife and eight children, came to this county* in 1821 in October, a very dry fall. His uncles Jacob and Thomas came through with him and then went back. His father settled on the waters of Mill Creek near Mt. Olive Church and purchased land in a year after his settlement. He traded farms afterward and moved to Elk Fork of Big Mill Creek. When he came here this country was almost a wilderness, with deer, bear, wild cats and wolves were plentiful. As his father did in the fall he would spend about a month in hunting, by which he procured his meat and got plenty to sell which he would carry to Charleston on a horse and wagon only a path to travel by.

When his father and his family came here, they came through by horse back and carried all they brought with them and also carried their provisions with them to last them through the winter.

My Grandfather (Abraham Sr.) had to go to Point Pleasant and to (Letart?)*, one time, to each place to muster each year. The first courts held in this county were held close to where John Greer now lives. My grandfather used to have to attend court at Point Pleasant.

What few citizens that lived here at the time Grandfather came here put in their principal time in hunting and sports of different kinds — horse racing and dancing and drinking on Sunday. His mother died about 1843 and is buried close to Mt. Olive Church on the waters of Mill Creek and his father married a Straley by the name of Tena and raised one child by his last wife by the name of Lewis Wolfe. His father died between 1850-1860 and is buried on Elk Fork waters of Big Mill Creek. Grandfather Wolfe was married to Emily Boswell in 1833, Nov. 26 on Parchment below the forks of the creek, a small distance. Lived on Mill Creek a year and then came back to his father-in-law's and, he bought land about a mile and a half above the forks of the creek and moved there in the fall of .

Their children's names were Willy, Nehemiah, Virginia, Mason, Margaret, Mary Jane, Birdie, Abraham, John and America. The oldest one died about four weeks after he was born in 1837. Grandmother died in April 1868. Grandfather was married again to Jemema Kessel.

Boswells were of English descent. Grandmother Wolfe's parents' names were Gilbert and Elizabeth Boswell from Virginia. They raised 11 children of which five are living at this time.

My Grandfather Wolfe's grandfather Wolfe lived on Hacker's Creek in Lewis County and has to go frequently five miles to a fort to escape the scalping knife of the Indians.

Uncle George Wolfe married a woman by the name of Crites. Uncle Jacob married Sallie Boswell. Aunt Peggy married Isaac Crites, Aunt Nancy married Elija Baker, Aunt Katie married a Wallander, Aunt Mary married an Armstrong and a brother to Jacob Armstrong. Uncle Jacob married first time a Seares and the second time a Straley. Uncle Thurman married a Garner. Uncle Joseph married Elizabeth Alkire. Uncle Lewis Wolfe, Grandfather's half brother, married Janie Welsh. All the children are dead at this time except three boys and one girl, and Lewis Wolfe, a half brother.

CLARK WOOFER

The Clark Woofter family did not come on the Jackson County scene until April 1908 when he sold his farm in Gilmer County at the head of Woofter's Run of Horn Creek (near Auburn) and headed westward to Turkey Run (near Ravenswood), in order to give the children a better education. He had heard that Ravenswood had a good high school. Clark and his family, through honesty, industry and perseverance, had carved a niche for themselves in the development of the community. In addition to farming, Clark taught school in Gilmer and surrounding counties. Every year he rode a horse to Harrisville to take the teacher's exam, his basic training having been at Fairmont Normal School. His teaching career began at age 16 and covered a period of more than 50 years. During the years of 1916-18, he was District Supervisor of Quinnimont District, Fayette County. Transportation was by foot from one school to another. By choosing the teaching profession, Clark followed in the footsteps of his father, Andrew (1823-1902), who was a pioneer teacher, farmer and county assessor in Ritchie County. Clark's mother was Mary Jane Simpson Woofter (1824-1902).

Sept. 2, 1883, at Tollgate, WV, Clark (1857-1938) married Viola Hickman (1863-1933), daughter of Barton Hudkins Hickman and Nancy (Taylor) Hickman. To this union ten children were born: Dana, Dallas, Mary, Lena, Corwin, Spurgeon, Andrew, Elsie, Lowell and Cleon.

The move from Gilmer County to Ravenswood was an exciting venture for the family. The farm and household goods were sold. Two work horses didn't sell, so Clark rode one and led the other all the way to Ravenswood, a five-day journey. Other members of the family rode a road wagon to Pennsboro to catch the train. Two of the boys didn't want to ride the wagon, so they walked the entire 20 miles. The family stayed at the Ravenswood House until they could get the house ready on Turkey Run. Clark purchased 72 acres and he later bought the Peterman farm and the Latchoff place which brought his holdings to 200 acres.

Clark and Viola, by their patience and kindness, constantly encouraged their children to do their best. Seven of them became teachers: Dana, Dallas, Mary, Lena, Corwin, Andrew and Cleon. This inspiration filtered down to the present generation. Seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren are teachers. Eleanor, daughter of Dana, taught 26 years, 17 of which were in Jackson County.

Dana and Spurgeon were the only two who remained at Ravenswood their entire lives. Dana taught 37 years, nearly all in Jackson County. He served on the local school board for a number of years. Spurgeon was a farmer. Corwin taught in Fayette County but spent most of his life as a railway mail clerk. Dallas taught in the Charleston area until his death at age 56. Andrew was valedictorian of his class at Ravenswood High School and went on to earn master and doctorate degrees, while making a distinguished record working at the university level in education. Cleon lived at Ashford 53 years and was a school principal most of that time. He came out of retirement to be principal at Frozen Camp School in Jackson County for two years.

Clark and Viola moved their membership from Auburn Baptist Church to Ravenswood Baptist Church soon after they moved to Turkey Run. Clark taught the men's Bible class for some time, was elected deacon in 1909 and served until 1937 when he was made a Deacon of Merit.

After Viola's death, Spurgeon's daughter, Velma, age 13, left school at Greenwood to keep house for her grandfather. She is the only grandchild of Clark now living in the Ravenswood area.

YOUNG

Matthias Young (Jung), was born in 1711 in Disselshiem, Pilatinate, Germany. He and his brother, Marcus, sailed to America on the ship Loyal Judith. They landed September 25, 1732 and settled in Lancaster, Pa. Matthias, a shopkeeper and cordwainer, married Margaretta Feyin in 1735 and owned property on Prince St. In 1738 he was naturalized and served as Assistant Burger in Lancaster from 1742-43. Matthias and Margeretta had five children: Conrad, Jacob, Katharine Marey and Mariah Christina. Matthias died in Lancaster on July 19, 1749.

Conrad Young, eldest son of Matthias, was baptized June 20, 1736 in the First Reformed Church of Lancaster. On October 28, 1755, Conrad married Margaretta Franciscus. They were innkeepers and had two children. The first, a son, died in infancy. The second, John Young, was born August 1760. Margaretta was struck and killed by lightning on July 24, 1762.

In 1764, Conrad and his son John, went to Rockingham County, Virginia. Conrad married Elizabeth Hayes in that same year. They had four children: Elizabeth, born 1770; Matthias, born 1772; Charles F., born 1774; and Henry, born 1778. Sometime after Henry was born, Conrad's second wife, Elizabeth, was drowned trying to cross the Shenandoah River on horseback.

Conrad's third marriage was to Elizabeth Woods and they had two children: William, born in 1785; and George E., born in 1788. In 1785, Conrad sold his land in Rockingham County, Virginia, to Peter Rungle. In 1786, Conrad and his son, Charles F., built the first cabin below the Coal River. Conrad was on Peter's Creek in Nicholas County in 1792 with Henry Morris when two of Henry's daughters were scalped by Indians. Records show that Conrad was in Kanawha County in 1798 and was exempted from taxes because of his age. Conrad's oldest son, John, and his father-in-law, Lewis Tackett, had deeds to the first and second lots in Charleston, deeded October 7, 1792.

Conrad's son, William, born May 1785, married Mary Lilly on June 4, 1806. Together they had six children: John H. Young, born September 26, 1808; Charles Conrad (Knob), born February 7, 1807 or 09; Rebecca, born 1810; Fanny; Catherine (Katy); and Rhoda, birthdates unknown. Mary died, date unknown, and William remarried to Sarah Blake on July 12 1849, William died August 15, 1857.

John H. Young, son of William and Mary (Lilly) Young, married Catherine Slack on March 1, 1830. He was born September 6, 1808, and she was born on January 19, 1813 in Kanawha County.

They were early settlers of Jackson County and farmed at the mouth of Elk Fork. They had eight children: Squire, Henry Franklin, William, Hiram, Eli Brigham, James M., John H., Jr. and Lewis.

Henry Franklin Young

During the Civil War, Eli, John H., Jr. and Lewis fought for the Confederacy. On October 1, 1862, they enlisted with Company G of the 17th Virginia Cavalry at Grasslick in Jackson County.

Catherine lived until February 8, 1874 and John died September 16, 1879. They are buried in Mt. Olive Cemetery east of Ripley.

Henry Franklin Young was the second son of John H. and Catharine Young. He married Sarah Elizabeth Waybright on January 28, 1858. Henry was born September 20, 1832 and Sarah on July 4, 1838. To them were born 11 children: John E.S., 12/6/1858; William H., 5/25/1860; Benjamin H., 12/12/1861; Mary Alice, 10/1/1863; Leona Dove, 1/28/1866; Emily Jane, 3/9/1869; Lewis Edward, 5/17/1871; Michael Lee, 6/2/1873; Lucy M., 8/20/1874; Jermina F., 8/26/1876; and Grover Franklin, 4/18/1880.

Henry's family farmed land on Zion Ridge between Elk and Tug Forks, some of which was purchased from Sarah's father's estate in 1867. Their youngest son, Grover Franklin, married Elpha Vannest in 1903, and their son, Homer F. Young, who upon his death, donated his entire estate to the Jackson County Public Library. The main structure of the log cabin they lived in is still standing and is used for hay storage on the family farm now owned by Denver Young, a great-grandson of Henry. Henry and Sarah are buried in a private cemetery on a point where the cabin still stands. Henry died in 1888 and Sarah in 1925.

House on the Young farm

Lewis Edward Young, son of Henry and Sarah Young, married Edith Vertie Morris on August 27, 1896 by the Rev. Nick Casto. Bell Morris and Cora Parsons were witnesses. Lewis was born May 17, 1871 and Vertie on May 18, 1880. To them were born 11 children: Quella, b. 7/02/1897; Thomas Fola, b. 5/09/1899; Roma Hershel, b. 11/22/1902; Otmer Marshall, b. 12/04/1904; Asa Otis and Ada Opal, twins, b. 8/03/1907; Jessie Lawrence, b. 8/24/1910; Walter Lee, b. 6/22/1914; Edith Francis, b. 12/28/1916; Beulah Bernice and Eula Emrice, twins, b. 10/02/1919. Most of these children attended Rocky Knob and Buffalo Lick schools. With the exception of Thomas Fola, who stayed on the family farm most of them moved to Kanawha Co. and became successful business men and women.

Lewis Edward and Edith Vertie retired from the farm to Ripley where they lived out the rest of their lives. Lewis died May 7, 1940 and Vertie on June 15, 1959. Both are buried in Pine Hill Cemetery in Ripley.

Thomas Fola (Bus) Young was a son of Lewis Edward and Vertie (Morris) Young. He married Phoebe Luree Harmon, a daughter of Joseph and Mattie Harmon on November 9, 1925. Bus was born May 9, 1899 and Luree April 27, 1908. They made their home on the farm and raised five children: Dorothy Elizabeth, b. 7/05/1926; Delmer Edward, b. 3/13/1928; Denver Albert, b. 3/21/1930; Denzil Robert, b. 3/15/1932; and Thomas Joseph, b. 5/17/1934.

Continuing to raise hay, sheep and beef cattle on the farm they bought land from his father's estate on the north side of Ripley where Rt. 21 crosses Sycamore Creek, they moved here in 1939. Around 1942, Bus and Luree started a dairy, milking as many as 16 cows twice a day by hand. They continued farming on Zion Ridge until September 9, 1968 when he was killed in a tractor accident on the farm. Luree lived until August 21, 1980, and both are buried in Pine Hill cemetery, Ripley. EVERETT C. YOUNG Everett Crittendan Young and Annie Elizabeth Stanley, began their seventy-two years of married life on Feb. 12, 1890 in Jackson Co.

They spent most of their lives either in Elk Fork or the Flatwoods areas, where he was a farmer most of the time. Sometimes he would walk to Richwood, WV to engage in the timbering work, and at times he would drive cattle to Parkersburg to be sold.

Everett was born Feb. 20, 1866 and died Nov. 17, 1962 in Jackson Co. Son of James Marion Young and Mary Jane Waybright, who were married May 16, 1862 in Jackson Co. They were from Elk Fork also.

Annie was born March 7, 1871 in Jackson Co., died July 7, 1963. She was the daughter of Rev. Andrew Jackson Stanley and Catherine Lynch, married Aug. 8, 1867 in Jackson Co.

They were both very gentle people, always ready to help any one in need of help. Annie was always there to help any of her neighbors even though they were few and far between. Having her license to be a mid-wife led to her bringing her share of Jackson County's new citizens into the world, besides raising ten of her own. Two of which were lost in infancy.

Most of their remaining children attended school and church at Buffalo Lick, on Tug Fork. Social activities centered around these. They also attended the Rader Church at times.

Their children were: Emmett m. Matilda Merical, having four children: Edith, m. Albert Roby, Edna m. Otis Hesson, Clyde m. Barbara, Leola m. first William Suiter, second Curtis McGuire; Julia m. Harry Golden, had five sons: Wilbert m. Margaret Hamrick, Harry m. Noreen, Edgar m. Ann Chipha, Raymond m. Helen Bryant; Arthur m. first Louise Haines, second Joan Bever; Mary m. George Braden, having five children: Ardell m. Mattie Randolph, Ruby m. George Bowman, Edward m. Betty McCauley, George m. Nancy McDonald, Charles m. Lola Skeens; Ernest dec.; Zona m. Holly DeLancey, two children: Bettyann m. B.L. Corbitt, and Ronald m. first Julia Lyons, second Maxine Weaver; Georgia m. Carl Namack, had four sons: Carl m. LaDonna Okel, Donald m. Ann, Lester m. Helen, Eugene m. Lois McCroskey; Hugh m. Millie Stephens, one daughter: Winona m. Jim Hall, Earl dec.; Opal m. Walton Farnsworth, having three children: Glenn m. Beverly King, Paul m. first Artie Jo Blanchard, second Linda (Stehr) Ulhich, Carol m. Kenneth McCracken; Phoebe m. Wilmer Custer, having three children: Greta m. Dana Lockary, Kathleen m. Leonard Dennison, Paul m. Edra Knox.

Everett and Annie (Stanley) Young

Their name "Young" rings true because Everett lived to be 96 and Annie 92. The remaining children range from 76 to 92 years young. All keep busy caring for their homes, gardens, church and civic work, woodcarving, needlework, and traveling.

I think their long lives are due to their love of life and people. Submitted by Bettyann Corbitt

JACOB A. ZEARLEY

On a peaceful Sunday morning, 8 April 1821, twin boys blessed John Zearley and his wife, Anna Hixon Zearley on picturesque George's Creek, Fayette County, Pennsylvania. There were four older children to enjoy the excitement of that day, David, Senethe, Mary and Louise. The twins were named Isaac Conn and Jacob Abner, to honor their first two visitors, Isaac and Jacob Conn, a cousin and uncle.

My grandmother, Elzena Zearley Cadle told an unforgettable story that must be told again as it gives us insight into the lives of those who lived in rural Appalachia in the early 1800s.

When the boys were very young their mother sent them upcreek to a near neighbor's house to fetch some live coals for the fireplace for the fire had gone out. Like any young boys, they mixed work with play. Returning, they had a fine time wading the creek and upturning rocks looking for crayfish, taking turns, of course, in carrying the live coals in its special container.

Several days later, the neighbor who had provided the coals came to visit Mrs. Zearley. She asked Mrs. Zearley if she had seen anything of her gander, the one she prized so highly, for her brother had brought it to her. Mrs. Zearley hadn't seen the gander but assured her if she did, she would catch it for her; she would keep an eye on the mill race. The boys who had heard this conversation never blinked an eye but took in every word.

But soon the gander was found floating dead on the mill pond. Mother Anna called the twins to her and asked what had happened to the gander. "Well," said Jake. "You see, I was carrying the coals and just as we came around the bend, that old gander stood in the path before us, an' he just spread his wings and catching Jake by the hair, he begun floppin' him," said Ike. "Yes," said their mother, who knew her boys. "An Jake yelled. I took the club I had been fighting Indians with and hit the gander. I had to hit him hard before he would let go. We then dragged him to the creek and held his head under the water until he didn't fight no more. I was so mad at him. Then, I told Jake we'd get a licking for it so we kept quiet. How did you know we'd done anything?" The mother smiled and refused to punish the twins because she thought boys as young as they, had been brave, indeed, under the circumstances. She paid the neighbor for the gander and all was well.

Young Jacob made frequent trips to the nearby fulling mill which was built by his grandfather, Jacob Zearley, Sr. and was said to be the first to be built west of the Allegheny mountains. Jacob finally learned the trade. He attended Woodburn Academy (now West Virginia University) where his older brother, David, had attended for a year or two before wandering away to Iowa. Jacob, eventually left Woodburn Academy too and found work as a fuller in a fulling mill in not far away Pentress, Virginia. While there, he met 16 old Caroline Minor, a daughter of Samuel Minor and Permella Lancaster Minor. They were married in nearby Blacksville 6/6/1845. Jacob continued to work in the fulling mill; served as a 1st. Lt. in the Virginia Militia and was deacon of the Minorville Baptist Church. Their first four children were born in Monongalia County: Emiline Virginia 6/14/1846, married Job Hunt, Elzena Ann 1/27/1848, Rev. William A. Cadle; Minerva Louise 7/3/1850, Scott Smith; Adoniran Judson 1/15/1853, (1) Susan Woodall, (2) Ida Geho.

In 1854 Jacob and Caroline with their four children "pulled stakes" and journeyed by river boat to then far away Iowa. Their destination is not definitely known but it is believed that they likely went to Clayton County where an older brother and a sister had settled. While living in Iowa, their fifth child, Permella Caroline was born 7/22/1855. (She was a school teacher, never married). For unknown reasons, they left Iowa within three years and came to either Mason or Jackson County, Virginia. It is known that they lived in two locations in Mason County and one in Jackson, all in the Long Hollow, Spruce and Rockcastle area.

While living in these various locations, their next six children were born: Frances Jane (1858-1931) (1) James Smith, (2) Frederick Albert Hussell, her deceased sister's husband; Melissa Alice (1860-1906) Frederick Albert Hussell; Sara Elizabeth (1863-1933), Addis Zearley; John David (1865-1902); Inez Hazeltine (1867-1894); Jacob Minor (1870-1871).

Jacob helped with the organization of Wolf Valley Baptist Church in Mason County and Long Hollow Baptist Church in Jackson County and was a deacon. He died before he was 60 from tuberculosis. He, Caroline and several family members rest in the Stephens Cemetery in Mason County. Submitted by Ray K. Cadle

DORSIE AND HAZEL ZIRKLE

Dorsie F. Zirkle (Zirk) and Hazel C. Zirkle settled in Ripley during the early years of World War II, opening a furniture store on Main Street. Dorsie was the son of A.D. and Anna Mary Goss Zirkle and was born near Phillippi, WV. He came to Parkersburg, WV in the late 20s as a barber. There he met Hazel Catharine Gant, daughter of Samuel Clinton and Kathryn Cline Gant, and they were married in 1932. During the many years in Ripley they were active in the Epworth United Methodist Church and many civic organizations. After his retirement due to a heart attack, Zirk began flower gardening, specializing in iris and daylillies. He hybridized the daylilly line and created many new varieties in the years he devoted most of his time to this avocation. At his death in 1969, Hazel contributed his entire garden to the West Virginia Wesleyan College Campus and the daylilly garden is still a beautiful portion of the lovely campus grounds.

Hazel passed away in 1987 and was living in Parkersburg, WV at the time of her death.

They were parents of Jack David Zirkle who now resides in Neptune Beach, Florida. Jack was the father of Mark and Michael Zirkle, twins, now deceased and Matthew Zirkle who resides also in Neptune Beach, Florida. He also has three step children, Michelle Zirkle, Paul and Tom Johnson.

Their daughter, Linda, resides in Parkersburg, WV. She is the mother of Stephen Smith, Catherine Rhodes, and Susan Mercer, all of whom live in Parkersburg. She has one grandchild (great-grandchild of D.F. and Hazel Zirkle), Katherine Marie Rhodes. Katherine Marie's paternal grandparents, Jack and Arlene Rhodes, are of Ripley, WV also, being the child of their son, Timothy.

Although no longer residents of Jackson County, the Zirkle descendants will always consider Ripley as home. Submitted by Linda Lee Smith

VAIL FUNERAL HOME

Isaiah Vail, 1825-1895

Joseph B. Vail, 1894-1960

The horse-drawn hearse gave way to the motor driven vehicle in the early 1920s

Vail Funeral Home was established in 1844 by Isaiah Vail, a man of English descent, who at the young age of 19 years came to Ripley, then in the State of Virginia as a skilled cabinet maker, a trade taught him by his uncle Cornelius Vail of Madison, Indiana. When he came to Ripley (then Jackson Court House), there were only 26 states in the Union; John Quincy Adams and Andrew Jackson, the sixth and seventh Presidents were still alive; John C. Calhoun, Henry Clay and Daniel Webster were the leaders in the National Congress; and, the Civil War was still 17 years in the future. (See history of Vail family)

The first account book of Isaiah Vail is still preserved by the Vail family, a copy of which is in the Jackson County Library. As was customary at that time, a cabinet maker, because of his trade, became a "coffin" maker and hence an undertaker. That early account book shows the first coffin was made in 1844 for a Mrs. Devenish. The names of most of the pioneer families of Jackson County appear therein as purchasers of desks, beds, chairs and other household furniture, made mainly of black walnut. Many pieces of the crafts of Isaiah and his son Joseph R. Vail, can be found in homes in Jackson County to this day.

Upon the death of Isaiah in 1895, the business passed to his son, Joseph R. Vail, who continued the trade until his death in 1922; and thence to the grandson of Isaiah, Joseph Bream Vail. From 1922 until he died in 1960, Joseph Bream Vail pursued not only the business of Vail Funeral Home but the cabinet making business as well, in the modern form of a furniture store. He replaced the horse-drawn hearse with a motor driven vehicle and built a more modern funeral home on Church Street. In 1929 he employed Ralph M. Mills, who served until his retirement in 1982, except for a time during World War II when he served overseas with the United States Army. Upon the death of Joseph Bream Vail in January, 1960, the ownership of both the funeral home and furniture store passed to a son of Marie Vail Goodwin (a sister of Joseph Bream) who caused the incorporation of both businesses, with stock being held by the son and grandchildren of Marie Vail Goodwin, Ralph M. Mills, William H. Morgan and Paul L. Criss. Upon the retirement of Ralph M. Mills, William H. Morgan, a veteran of the Korean War and a licensed mortician and Funeral Director became President of the Corporation who in 1979 employed Paul L. Criss from Wellsburg, West Virginia, a veteran of the Vietnam War, as a licensed staff associate. Both businesses are still being operated after 146 years and the funeral home has become the oldest continuously family operated funeral home in West Virginia.

HISTORY OF MERLE NORMAN COSMETICS

For as long as she could remember, Alva Mae Kidder had a dream of owning her own business. Working on main street in Ravenswood, WV for various employers she gradually learned the ins and outs of retail business.

On December 15, 1976, her dream finally came true, when the local Merle Norman Cosmetic store became available for ownership. Excited and apprehensive, Alva Mae decided to say goodbye to her fellow friends and employers of 22 years, and follow her dream. She bought the Merle Norman Cosmetic store and operated it happily for the next twelve years. Then in October of 1988, Alva Mae decided to part with her business and retire with her husband Alvie. (Alvie owned the Kidder's Union Barber Shop located next to Merle Norman Cosmetics for 38 years.) She then sold the business to her daughter-in-law, Sharee' Friend-Kidder. Sharee' took over ownership on October 15, 1988 and is operating the business to the present date.

In earlier years Merle Norman Cosmetics was just a small shop carrying only the cosmetic line and a few gift items. Today, it has underwent major renovation and has greatly expanded in merchandise. Merle Norman Cosmetics now has a line of ladies ready to wear, accessories, lingerie and bath products, along with the complete original line of cosmetics. Presently Sharee' strives to continue to serve her customers as graciously as the former owners had done in the past.

The previous owners and the dates of proprietorship are as follows: 1964-1976, Mrs. Genevive Sutton, 1976-1976, Mrs. Phyllis Mullenhower, 1976-1988, Mrs. Alva Mae Kidder, 1988-, Mrs. Sharee' Kidder.

In 1964, Mrs. Genevive Sutton, along with her family moved to Ravenswood, WV from Fairview, WV. She and her husband had formerly owned a small department store in their hometown of Fairview, that dated back to 1945. When Sutton's relocated to Ravenswood, Genevive decided to open the first cosmetic store of it's kind for the area—being Merle Norman Cosmetics. When Mrs. Sutton originally opened Merle Norman Cosmetics, it was located on 206 Washington Street in Ravenswood, WV. On October 4, 1972, she moved the business to it's current location on 226 Washington Street. In 1976, the Sutton's decided to move back to their hometown of Fairview, WV, and the store was then sold to Mrs. Phyllis Mullenhower. Mrs. Mullenhower was in California taking her cosmetic training when her husband found out that they would be transferred immediately to California. She then, with the help of Mrs. Sutton, put the business up for sale and on the 15th of December of that same year Alva Mae Kidder became the new owner. She stepped in just in time to make her first Christmas sales.

Alva Mae Kidder owned Merle Norman Cosmetics for the next twelve years until her retirement in October of 1988. It was then that her daughter-in-law, Sharee', acquired the business and is now the current new owner.

Alva Mae and her husband Alvie are currently living in Ravenswood, WV and her son Mark and daughter-in-law Sharee' reside in Murraysville, WV.

In May, 1948, a number of people formed a wholesale grocery company doing business in Ripley. This company was chartered under the name of T. W. Boyd Wholesale Grocery Company. At that time it was located on the corner of what is now the home of Genevieve Starcher. It was in this location a short time and moved to the Fred Sayre property where the Ripley Fire Department is now located. The name was changed to Ripley Wholesale Grocery Company.

In the early 1950s, the lot on which the Big R Super Market is located was bought from King and Madeline Parsons for a new wholesale building. At that time the days of the small grocery wholesaler were numbered and it was decided to go in the super market business.

In 1957, the Big R Super Market was built, a 60 by 120 foot building — later adding an 1800 square foot wareroom. The goal at that time was to sell $500,000.00 in groceries a year. In 1957, South Church Street was country with one house, a small motel and what is now known as the M and R Truck Stop.

In the early seventies, a new front was put on the building with a new side entrance and 3800 square feet was added. A bakery and deli was later added and in 1981 an additional 4300 square feet was added.

At this time the original sales goal has been met many times over. The company is still chartered as Ripley Wholesale Grocery Company DBA Big R Super Market. The company is a corporation owned solely by Kathryn, Norman and Greg Slaughter. A new addition of 6000 square feet is planned for this year, 1990.

M. Eugene Casto, Owner and Operator

The Ripley Barber Shop was acquired from Stanley S. Shinn, of Cow Run Road, Evans, August 1965. It was closed for remodeling until the grand opening, September 7, 1965. I (being a native of Jackson County and a graduate of Ripley High School), enrolled in West Virginia State Barber College in March 1962 and graduated in April 1963. Worked a two year apprenticeship in Casto's Barber Shop on 12th Street, Dunbar, WV. I reside near where I was reared in the Fairplain area. I married Sandra Allen, of Dunbar, in 1964, and we have one son, Allen E., born in 1966. I am a proud resident of Jackson County, and love to see it grow and prosper.

STRAIGHT-TUCKER FUNERAL HOME, INC.

The funeral home service has been in continuous existence in Ravenswood since 1860 when John J. Rudman first provided basic care for the dead. Rudman served as director of the Rudman Funeral Home from 1860 to 1907 when the directorship was transferred to Fred Rudman who continued to provide funeral services in the area until 1913. At that time, Clinton Twiggs became the director of the Twiggs Funeral Home which operated for a period of eight years until the directorship was transferred to Lawrence Thorn who provided funeral services under the firm name of Thorn Funeral Home until 1928.

In 1928, Elza Palmer who erected a continued to provide services until by B.M. Chambers and a part-tinued the operation as Cham-until 1947 when Chambers firm was purchased in 1973 assumed the director-James Tucker.

From 1937 to 1975 funeral services were conducted from the same building on Race Street, and except for one time, the business has had no competition in Ravenswood.

Funeral Director Russell Straight completed a course in premortuary study at West Liberty State College in 1957 and served a year's apprenticeship at the B. M. Chambers Funeral Home after which he graduated from the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science, Pittsburgh, Pa. Straight was then employed from 1959 to 1961 by the Klingel-Carpenter Mortuary in Huntington. Straight returned to Ravenswood in 1961 and was employed by the B. M. Chambers Funeral Home until 1973 when he and Mr. Tucker assumed ownership.

Tucker, a former Kaiser Aluminum employee, for several years operated the Tucker Insurance Company in Ravenswood, prior to the purchase of Chambers Funeral Home. He has been employed by B. C. Hooper Funeral Home in Fayette County and the Combs Funeral Home.

HARTLEY OIL COMPANY INC.

Hartley Oil Company Inc. was founded in 1945 by Glen Hartley. Mr. Hartley started with a service station. In time he added home heating oil serving Jackson County and beyond.

As industry grew so did the company. In 1957 the service station, home heating was sold to concentrate on industrial sales in the Jackson County area. To deliver products promptly it was necessary to purchase a truck. This one truck became a fleet which soon became Hartley Trucking Company.

Warehousing was a natural outgrowth of the industrial sales and trucking.

In 1984 Hartley Manufacturing Company Inc. was added and in 1987 R. E. L. Construction Inc. became a member of our family of companies.

By 1990 we have about 300 employees; our trucking company has 48 state authority; our industrial supplies are sold in WV, Ohio, KY, and VA.

Why don't we change our name because of our diversification? Simply put Hartley Oil Company Inc. = Service

HISTORY OF

The Jackson Star News

The second venture in the newspaper field in Jackson County was that of a Mr. Wells (first name not recorded), of Athens, Ohio, who in 1866 began the publication of a paper which he called "The Ravenswood Press."

Nearly 124 years later that newspaper is believed to have been the roots of the county's number one newspaper today, "The Jackson Star News." The "Star News" serves the county with its main office and production plant in Ravenswood and its county seat office in Ripley.

However, in August 1868 there appeared another newspaper in Ravenswood which was believed to be called the "West Virginia News," however, some local history buffs believe the name was "The Jackson County News."

"The News" was edited and published by Andrew Flesher and Henry Gregory. It continued to appear regularly until 1869, when they sold it to R. C. Brown and W. G. Heaton.

At the same time, "The Ravenswood Press" was sold to S. R. Klotts, who soon after sold it to a Mr. Higgins (again first name unknown).

When all the mergers, buy-outs and trading ceased a year later, one newspaper survived with the name, "The Jackson County News."

In October of the same year Brown sold his interest to Charles McGlothlin, of Pomeroy, Ohio, and he and Heaton continued its publication until 1875, when McGlothlin sold his interest to the Rev. A. J. McMillin.

The paper continued under that name until April of 1878, when McMillin, who was by that time the sole proprietor, died.

In June of that year the newspaper was sold by McMillin's widow to C. E. McGlothlin and J. E. McGlothlin, who changed the name of the newspaper to "The Ravenswood News."

The newspaper retained that name, as near as written history can tell us, until 1954. That year it was re-titled "The Jackson County News."

However, the following year the paper again changed hands and was merged with Star Printing by its new owners, who then changed the name back to "The Ravenswood News."

The newspaper was purchased at the time by Charles Hodel, who named Phil Fourney as his general manager.

This arrangement continued until 1957 when Mark Ethridge Jr. purchased controlling interest in the newspaper from Hodel. Fourney continued as manager.

In January 1970, Fourney purchased controlling interest in the business. Fourney continued to operate the newspaper until late 1987 when it was sold to Wayne County (WV) Publications which was owned by Tom George, of Huntington, West Virginia.

Less than a year later, Wayne County Publications sold 100% of the ownership of the newspaper to its present owners Tom and Linda Schmitt.

In the spring of 1989, Fourney, who had continued as publisher under Wayne County Publication's ownership and the first several months of the Schmitts ownership, retired. At that time Tom Schmitt decided to replace Fourney himself and currently serves as the editor and publisher of the newspaper.

In late September of 1989, Schmitt, sighting a shift in the business climate and the expansion of readers interest, announced that the newspaper would become a full service, county-wide newspaper with a free distribution weekly circulation on Saturdays of more than 14,000.

Today, "The Jackson Star News" has a circulation of nearly 5,000 and is published each Wednesday in conjunction with the free weekly, "The Jackson Star News — Weekender."

Associate members: Hallie Carney, Bernice Crow, Grace Graham, Mildred Kessel, Avelena Parsons, Madeline Parsons, Marion Parsons and Freda Southall. The GFWC Woman's Club of Ripley was organized in 1921 and Federated in 1922. We belong to Western District. District Presidents have been Mrs. T. E. Rymer, Mrs. Mabel Norris Casto, and Mrs. Carlton Childers. District Secretaries were Mrs. H. S. Armstrong and Mrs. C. V. Kessel. Two of our members, Mrs. James Scarbro and Mrs. Donald Harvey, have served as State Presidents.

Our Club sponsored the organization of Ripley Junior Woman's Club in 1939. A close-working relationship exists between the two clubs as co-sponsorship of annual projects continue.

Community outreach has steadily grown. The Club has packed Christmas baskets; helped with local TB, Heart, Cancer, March of Dimes and Red Cross drives; bloodmobiles; transported indigent children to out-of-county clinics; promoted Mental Health; assisted with Cancer Salad Luncheons, Health Fairs, Dental programs, etc.

The first Community Christmas Tree was provided and decorated on Courthouse lawn in 1922; sponsored the town's first Halloween Block Party in 1923, continuing until 1939 when Ripley Juniors took over; assisted with improving appearance of town by planting shrubbery in Courthouse yard (1930), instigating removal of dilapidated brick walks and replacing them with cement walks on two sides of courtyard; grading and seeding lawn, and purchasing twelve benches.

In 1949, sponsored a Village Beautiful Contest for the town and gave prizes. In 1950, the club won the prize for clubs under 100 in a Better Community Contest sponsored by Kroger. Eight Christmas Home Lighting contests were sponsored and prizes given in the 1950s. Flowering trees were later planted along Route 21 South.

In 1943, the Junior Woman's Club started a small library in a local drug store, but in 1949, the Library Committee of the Senior Club obtained a charter and established a library in a room of the J. F. Rymer home on North Street. The Club paid rent and furnished volunteer librarians. About 850 volumes were accumulated and books loaned from WV Library Commission. Services of a Bookmobile were obtained and the County Court appointed the first librarian. In 1952, the Court abandoned the project, but Club delegates went before the Court and the Library was reopened in the Kittle Building on Main Street with 14 hours per week allowed. Later, the Library was moved to the Rader Building on North Street, and then to the Crites Building on Court Street. Club members did a lot of transporting books! Club members contributed funds for many needs and supported a Bond Levy for a lot on which a modern Library was built for Ripley. It was dedicated in 1974 with the Club serving the dedication reception.

During WW II, many customary activities were curtailed. We helped to sell bonds and gave to fund drives collectively and individually. A monthly meeting was used to make surgical dressings. In 1945, the Club received a citation for selling bonds.

The Club donated $100 in 1952 toward purchasing land for Cedar Lakes State FFA-FHA Camp. A rose garden, tulip bulbs and shrubs were donated and members helped to maintain upkeep for several years.

The Club has had an abiding interest in the youth of Ripley, such as assisting with Youth Canteen (1943); sponsoring girls to Girl's State 4-H Camp; furnishing shoes for needy school children since 1970; donating $75 annually for Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Scholarship; giving $50 yearly to County Sheltered Workshop and honoring Literacy State Conference workers and County volunteers.

In 1960-62, the Club pledged $1000 to build Jackson General Hospital. Members contributed 82 hours of time in the Fund Drive. In 1964, $877 was donated to furnish a 2-bed hospital room, and in 1968-69, $1275 for another 2-bed room. In 1970, pledged $20,000 for a Teaching Unit at the Hospital, and in 1972, won first place in the GFWC State Community Improvement Program (CIP) for this project.

In 1961-62, the Club contracted with the County Board of Education to lease ground adjacent to the Ripley Elementary School for a City Park. Payment is $1.00 per year for 60 years or until the Club is 100 years old. The Ripley Swimming Pool is located on this property.

Christmas gifts have been given by members to Lakin State Hospital from 1966-86 (one year given to Spencer State Hospital). We assisted in restoration of Pearl Buck Home, and donated to State GFWC projects Camp Galahad, Pan-American Scholarship Fund, Penny Art Fund, and annually to the WVFWC Scholarship Loan Fund. In 1970s, gave $500 to County Group Home, continuing support until discontinued.

The Club celebrated its 50th Anniversary with a dinner at Pioneer Hearth in 1971. Guests included WVFWC officers, representatives of other Ripley organizations, businesses, and husbands of members. This was a gala occasion with two charter members — Mrs. Jessie Cleek and Mrs. Gaye Hinzman McCoy — being honored.

Fund raisers have included rummage sales (first one held in Ripley in 1933), bake sales, hat bazaars and fairy baskets. In 1950s, served annual dinners for First National Bank, did a County Consumer's Survey, sponsored Midget League Football games, sold Bright of America place mats and other products, West Virginia Books, WVFWC recipe books, and other Federation items. We started the Barbecue Sandwich Food Stand at Cedar Lakes Arts and Crafts Fair in 1968; later, we were joined by the Jackson County Federated Clubs. After 19 years of participation, withdrew from this money-maker. A Historical Tour of several Ripley homes was held in the early 1980s. We enjoy our annual "white elephant" sales of crafts and homemade foods. Our latest fund raiser is an annual Salad Luncheon started in 1988.

In 1962, a Club member volunteered to teach Art at Ripley High School. In 1968, the Club requested an Art Supervisor be hired by the Board of Education for the public schools of Jackson County. Beginning in 1970, the Jackson County Art Show on the Courthouse lawn has been sponsored each year. This has proven to be a cultural event for the County. The establishment of an Art Scholarship of $150 is awarded annually to a skilled High School student to further his/her art studies.

The Education Department makes a book contribution to the Ripley High School and to the Ripley Library in recognition of the Honor students. There is a budget-funded annual scholarship of $150 awarded to a Ripley High School Senior going into the field of Education.

The Conservation Department formed a core group — P.R.I.D.E. (People Requesting Illegal Dumping Eliminated) — which consists of members from several civic organizations in the County. P.R.I.D.E. was successful in securing $15,000 in state grants which enabled them to implement the State's first curbside recycling project in Ripley and Ravenswood. As a result both towns later applied for and obtained larger grants and are now recycling on a weekly basis.

This project, along with our Youth Education, Community Action, and Legislative Action programs, was entered in the FREE Enterprise and CIP scrapbook competition. The CIP Scrapbook was awarded 1st place in Western District and 3rd place in the 1988-90 State Contest, and was eligible for the National Contest.

In the beginning, the Club was entertained in member's homes, with public meetings in the churches. In 1951, a small building on North Street was purchased for $1500. The Club rented it until 1955, when it was sold and the money put in savings. From May 1957 to the present time, meetings have been held at the Episcopal Parish House (until it was torn down), Epworth UMC Fellowship Hall, the First National Bank, the Ripley Library and the Senior Citizens Center.

HISTORY OF THE JACKSON HERALD

The Jackson Herald newspaper is the oldest newspaper in the county with the same continuous name since the first issue was printed March 1, 1876.

The building which houses the newspaper today at 117 N. Court St., Ripley, is on the same lot where during its early history it was published in the upstairs of a building in which a grocery store was operated on the first floor. During its history, it also was published on Bridge Street and at one time was housed in a tent.

The present building was built in 1930.

Only five men have guided the destiny of Jackson County's leading newspaper for 108 of its 114 years.

Henry W. Deem was the publisher from 1882 to 1915, a period of 33 years. P. H. Rardin was the publisher for a six-year period from 1916 to 1922. He resigned in 1922 to run for public office.

Since that time, three generations of the Simmons family have controlled the paper.

Sattis Simmons became publisher in 1922, followed by his son, V. Keith Simmons, in 1966 and his grandson Richard Keith Simmons, in 1979.

Pictured here is the home of The Jackson Herald from 1889 or 1890 to the autumn of 1911. This building stood at the corner of Maple Street and Bridge Street, facing Bridge Street. The plank road led to the covered wooden bridge, which was the only crossing of Mill Creek. The Ripley post office was in the north end of the building.

Back in 1922, The Jackson Herald was a four-page, six-column hand-set newspaper with little equipment and the staff consisted of two to three and sometimes four persons in rush periods. Equipment has been updated periodically, and this newspaper was the first one in the state to be modernized with laser printing.

In addition to the Wednesday publication, a Saturday shopper-newspaper was initiated six years ago, and is distributed free to every home in Jackson County, as well as areas in Ohio.

The Jackson Herald has the distinction of being the largest circulated weekly in West Virginia.

The newspaper over the years has won numerous awards both on the state and national levels.

The full and part-time staff today includes publisher Rick Simmons, editor Dorris D. (Dot) Nichols, Harold Eugene Gibson, Jr., news editor; Mary Kelbaugh, Bill DeLong, Roberta Gore, Diane Ford Grandon, Rhonda Casto, Phyllis Howery, Steve Nuckles, Mike Boggess and Kathryn Turner.

Wildwood of Statts Mills, Inc., is the continuation of a family business with a long history in Jackson County. Except for a brief period in the 1940s, the general store has been owned or operated by the Morris family since the 1920s. Foster F. and Delpha Morris operated the store at Statts Mills, then at Ripley, and then again at Statts Mills. In the 1950s, the store became known as F. F. Morris and Sons. During that period, it was in a two-story frame structure dating from the 1800s. The old corn and flour mill originally operated by Isaac Staats stood beside the store. The mill collapsed in 1957, and the original store building was destroyed by fire in 1971. At that time, Bernard and Ellen Morris were the owners of the store, and they rebuilt on the same site in 1972. Other family members continued the store operation in the 1970s and 80s. The building was moved several hundred yards in the late 1980s, after the construction on the Watershed created the O'Brien Lake. Tom and JoAnn Morris were the owners of the store at that time. In 1988, all the surviving children of F. F. and Delpha Morris joined together to form a corporation dedicated to preserving the existing store, and expanding the services and recreational opportunities available at Statts Mills. We now offer a modern campground, with all hook-ups, picnic shelter, bathhouse, playground, boat rentals, and a general store with a complete line of supplies for picnics, campers, and sportsmen. We look forward to serving you.

JCo Lumber, Inc.

JCo Lumber was started in Ravenswood in 1947. When the business first opened it was called the Ravenswood Lumber Company. At that time, Robert Cole and Homer Gandee operated the business as a partnership. In 1950, Robert Cole became the sole owner.

In 1957, property in Ripley was purchased from Pinnell and Pfof. This business was known as the Jackson County Lumber Company. In 1961, the two businesses were incorporated and given their present name of JCo Lumber, Inc.

Through the years expansion and remodeling has been done at both locations. This has helped JCo Lumber better serve the needs of the contractor and home owner alike. Currently the company employs about 20 people at both locations, with William Cole serving as its president.

FAIRPLAIN TRACTOR SALES, INC.

October 1, 1973

Owners: Gene and Helen Fisher

Fairplain Tractor Sales began business in 1973 in a block building on our farm on Angel Ridge Road near Fairplain, West Virginia. We had one partsman and one mechanic at that time. In 1975 we moved to Rt. 21 in Fairplain and added another partsman and another mechanic. As business increased, we needed a larger building. This prompted our move in March 1977 to our present location on Rt. 33 West of I-77 in Ripley. When we began our business in 1973 we carried the Massey Ferguson line. The 1990s see us handling Ford Lawn and Garden, Simplicity, Massey Ferguson, Ford-New Holland, Hesston, IMT, Ford Industrial and a large variety of small implements for the farm. We also sell parts for and service everything we sell. Currently we are the largest Ford Tractor dealer in West Virginia and in 1988 we had the largest sales of Massey Ferguson tractors in North America.

During our seventeen years of business, we have grown from two employees to thirteen. Our son, David, has grown up in this business. He has had experience in mechanics, parts, and now he is a full-time salesman. This year our inventory of new and used equipment is approximately two million dollars. Also during our seventeen years, the price of a new 38 HP tractor has gone from $3500 to $10,500.

CARL E. SMITH

FOUNDER OF CARL E. SMITH INC.

Carl E. Smith founded his pipeline company in 1954 after starting a wrecker service in 1947 with a used 1940 Ford truck on which he mounted a power winch. Other equipment he borrowed or rented. He worked as long as light allowed, then repaired and serviced his equipment late into the night.

Profits from each job, however small, were used to acquire better more efficient equipment so each succeeding job could be handled more efficiently. Bit by bit, piece by piece, the company grew.

Carl hired people who learned as the company grew, then step by step his men grew into skilled, efficient pipeliners. Carl's three sons joined their family's business working in the ranks, learning every facet of pipeline construction the hard way — by doing it.

Under family management, the company prospered at an accelerated rate. Successful job completion one after another brought bigger and better construction contracts. Larger and more efficient equipment was bought, repair shops were enlarged and maintenance was the watchword. Quality workmanship, timely completions and know-how has earned the company a reputation for performance and efficiency that is their hallmark.

This is in remembrance of Carl E. Smith, who loved Jackson County. He was always proud of being a hard-working, self-made man, but never forgetting how much he owed to his parents and family.

He gave much to his community never seeking any special notice. He gave money to support several small churches. He always furnished a Christmas candy treat to the churches. He wanted to be sure everyone young or old had a sack of candy.

He loved politics and always had a keen interest in elections, especially school and county offices. He wanted his children and grandchildren to be honest, hard-working people. He never thought of himself as better than anyone else in his employment and cared about his employees and their families.

He thought education should be foremost in the minds of the community. He bought many things for schools such as books and supplies. Gilmore High School basketball and cheerleaders uniforms were purchased by Carl. Community softball and baseball teams were sponsored by Carl.

The company is but a small part of the influence Carl E. Smith had on Jackson County.

B and K Music, Inc.

111 Miller Drive
Ripley, WV 25271

Phone: 372-8182

B and K Music was originated in 1971 by Bill Ohse. He borrowed $200 from the First National Bank to buy a small cabinet of 8-track tapes. This was a one time venture to earn a little extra money. Since there wasn't a store in town that handled a good selection of 8-track tapes, these tapes sold very fast. Soon he had people coming to him on a regular basis. This prompted him to start selling 8-track tape players and carrying cases from a garage on North Church Street in Ripley.

In 1972 he opened B and K Music in the Grant Donohew Building which is now RKE Credit Union. During this time his son Kevin, at the age of 13, started working in the business on weekends.

In 1975 he moved to the corner of North and Court Street in the Winters Building which is now Tetrick's Jewelry Store. Our business grew by leaps and bounds.

In 1980 we moved into the Rexall Building. We expanded our inventory to cover Musical Instruments and a large variety of accessories.

In 1981 his daughter Renee began to work in the business. She soon was manager of the store and worked there until she became married.

In 1983 Bill Thompson became a partner in the business. With a new idea about Video Rental we moved to our present location in the West Ripley Shopping Center. After pioneering the Video Rental Business, we then began to sell Electronics, such as: Radios, Televisions and VCRs.

In 1988 we started selling Appliances and enlarged our store to 3,600 square feet. In this same year Mr. Thompson decided to retire. He then sold his interest in the business to Kevin Ohse. Since that time Bill and Kevin have operated the business and now have expanded the store to 6,000 square feet with the addition of furniture.

Bill's original thought was to have a successful business run by him and his son Kevin and so B and K Music was started. We would like to say a special thanks to all of our customers and friends that make our business a success.

We've Been Serving You Since 1988, 1904 and 1867.

One Valley Bank's history in Jackson County dates all the way back to the fall of 1888, when the Ravenswood and Ripley offices of the former Farmers Federal Savings and Loan Association put up One Valley Bank signs.

Farmers Federal originally was chartered December 27, 1904, as the Farmers Building and Loan and the association was organized January 1, 1905. Farmers Building and Loan Association was founded and organized by George W. Park, a Jackson County farmer who recognized the need for a strong financial institution in this area. Personally acquainted with the plight of the farmer, George Park founded and organized the institution to provide loans to the struggling pioneers of the soil.

Assets grew from $550 then to $1 million by 1932, $9.5 million in 1954 and more than $40 million during its 70th year of operation.

Assets of One Valley Bank N.A., headquartered in Charleston and including the two Jackson offices, had reached more than $1 billion at year-end 1989.

The former Kanawha Valley Bank, now the One Valley Bank, N.A., headquarters in Charleston, was organized in 1867.

So no matter which name or date you want to use, we've been serving Jackson County for a long time, and we'll continue to serve Jackson County, Jackson Countians, West Virginia, and West Virginians as the one bank for all of West Virginia for many years to come.

THE BARNETTE TREE FARM

We specialize in Christmas trees

This story really begins to unfold with the long ago birth of Andrew Jackson Stephens. Andrew was born October 6, 1813, in Kirby, Green County, Pennsylvania, his parents were Barzilla and Margaret Lantz Stephens. While still a very young man Andrew left his native state and in 1856 purchased a large tract of land then in the state of Virginia, and now in Union District in Mason County, West Virginia. He cleared the land, raised horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and he planted apple orchards and vineyards. On a knoll overlooking the shallow waters of Thirteen Mile Creek, he built a beautiful homestead, erected a general store building, built sturdy barns, a blacksmith shop, and after the civil war he established the Stephens Post Office.

On October 12, 1854, Andrew married Manerva Minor and they were the parents of six children: Margaret, Eliza Adeline, Barzilla Minor, Annie Laurie, Albert Andrew, and Mary Caroline. Adeline Stephens was born December 7, 1857 and she married Philip Pickens, a young school teacher. Philip was the son of Spencer and Margaret Pickens and when Philip was only a young lad of seven years, his father enlisted in the union army and was gone for almost three years.

Philip and Adeline Stephens Pickens lived up Harrison Holler and four children became a part of this household; Homer, Erve, Theodosia and Birty. Philip died in his early manhood years leaving Adeline with four young children and she married Laban Cain. Laban Cain and Adeline Pickens Cain had three sons, Roy, Hoyt and Harvey. Andrew Jackson Stephens died in 1906 and left a large estate to be settled and Adeline Stephens Pickens Cain inherited 175 acres of land across the road from the Stephens homestead. Adeline Stephens Pickens Cain died in 1929 and she willed the 175 acres to Harvey, Roy and Hoyt Cain. This 175 acres was sold before the Mason County Courthouse in 1939 for the collection of unpaid taxes; Cam and Alfred Barnette purchased the 175 acres for a total bill of $1,230.

Birty Viola Pickens was a pretty and fashionably dressed young lady of nineteen, when she became the bride of the young and affable Cam Barnette of Rockcastle. The ceremony took place on a certain, cold and rainy, winter day in February, 1900, in Mason County. Now Birty had strict ideas of what constituted proper and modest behavior for a young woman and her dress had a long trailing skirt; and she also held to the theory that her legs must not be seen. Cam and Birty came into Rockcastle riding horseback and they had traveled the miry roadways in knee deep mud. Nine children were born into this household and one of their sons, Alfred Raymond Barnette married Sarah Francis Sayre. These two people were often referred to as Jack and Sade; Jack and Sade had three sons and one of their sons, Raymond now owns the 175 acre tract of land which was settled by his great great grandfather, Andrew Jackson Stephens. Cam Barnette died in 1948 leaving one half interest of this land to his widow, Birty Barnett; Alfred Barnett died in 1972 leaving one half interest to his widow, Sarah Barnette. Raymond and Lorraine Barnette purchased Sarah Barnette's interest in 1973, and purchased Birty Barnett's interest in 1975, with more than thirty six people signing the deed.

The Christmas tree plantation was started in the spring of 1980 when Ray Barnette planted one thousand pine seedlings on a hillside. Some twenty thousand seedlings have been planted since that time covering some twenty acres. Christmas tree farming is very labor intensive and many people plant trees but few continue. Selling Christmas trees is a very interesting and cultural experience and we like to hear of the various traditions our clients observe. People have very definite ideas about the preferred shape and size of their trees, so we have found it necessary to vary angle and fullness.

We like to walk through our tree fields at night and we are reminded about the story of Martin Luther, who was so overcome one Christmas Eve by the beauty of the evergreens in the forest and the myriads of stars in the winter sky, that he could not speak. He tried to explain the scene's glory to his wife and children. When words failed him, he went out and cut down a small fir tree and placed lighted candles on it to represent the starry sky. One of Luther's chief desires was to help ordinary people understand and appreciate Yuletide joys. He is said to have started the custom of lighted Christmas trees.

About two thirds of the homes in the U. S. center their holiday gaiety around lighted trees. We are pleased that we can be part of bringing the symbol of yuletide and the delightful forest aroma into homes. When the clean, fresh smell of the evergreen resin circulates throughout the home, we are reminded that Christmas is a season of peace and goodwill and there is hope for the future.

Ravenswood Foodland

Ravenswood Shopping Plaza

Ravenswood, West Virginia

The Ravenswood Foodland is owned and operated through Jerry's Super Market Inc., and owned by Jerry and Carolyn Carpenter.

The Carpenters came to Jackson County in 1976 and bought the IGA Market which they operated as a proprietorship from 1976 till 1981, at which time they formed the corporation of Jerry's Super Market Inc. They continued to operate the market under the trade name of Jerry's IGA until June 29, 1989, at which time they closed the doors on the IGA and switched their operation to the Ravenswood Foodland. The Ravenswood Foodland had been closed for inventory on June 28, 1989 and sold to the Carpenters the following day.

The Ravenswood Foodland presently employs 47 people and buys all of its goods through its West Virginia Distribution Center, the Wetteran Food Distribution Warehouse, located at Milton, West Virginia. The Wetteran Warehouse employs in the excess of 400 people in West Virginia and services more than 180 supermarkets in West Virginia, Kentucky, and Ohio.

Jerry Carpenter grew up in Culloden, West Virginia. After his father committed suicide, his mother remarried and moved the family to Nitro, West Virginia. There Jerry met his wife-to-be, Carolyn June Norvell.

The Carpenters were wed on June 29, 1960. Jerry worked for Carolyn's uncle at the Nitro Supermarket as an assistant manager. Jerry has worked directly with the public for most of thirty years and does not consider himself as a business man; but, rather as a servant to his fellow man. His greatest ambition is to be of help to others.

Jerry and Carolyn started their first business venture in the St. Albans Food Market, at St. Albans, West Virginia, in 1974. They had three other people involved in the corporation. Jerry was named as president of this corporation. Carolyn did not become active in the business at that time because of the two children, Jerry Allen and Kristin Dawn. Jerry and Kristin are both graduates of Ravenswood High School. Jerry presently is working at the Ravenswood Foodland and Kristin is in her second year at Marshall University.

The Carpenters operated the market in St. Albans from 1974 until August 15, 1976 at which time they sold out and came to Jackson County. In 1978 Carolyn started getting involved in the business and presently serves as Vice President in the corporation and is very active in helping to make business decisions.

The Carpenters are Christians and they can tell you that they have seen God's protecting hand on their lives continuously.

The descendants of Jackson County residents have reason to take pride in both past and present achievements. Past generations reclaimed a wilderness in spite of privation, toil, hardships and danger. They established a government where none existed and from the first settlements to the present citizenry, Jackson County residents have been diligent and hard working, patriotic citizens. Only by learning about the Jackson County people and by cataloging their efforts can future generations be inspired to emulate and to uphold the traditions, values, and accomplishments which meld together a people.

Today, as a state, West Virginia records Jackson County on its maps by name as only one among its fifty-five counties. Geographically, Jackson County may be limited, but genealogically its out-reach is never-ending. An examination of families represented within the pages of this book will reveal that its influence is world wide.

From 1800 to the early 1900's almost every farm in Jackson was a self-sufficient unit, providing all necessities for the owner and his family. Each farmer raised his own wheat and corn, taking it to be ground at the nearest gristmill. A farmer usually raised pigs, horses, mules, cattle, sheep, chickens, ducks and geese. They saved seed from year to year for next spring's crops and gardens. Chickens, ducks and geese served not only as staple food, but also furnished feathers for pillows and featherbeds; moreover, local merchants bought the surplus feathers.

The 1900's have seen sweeping changes in family life. Industrialization has resulted in the dependence of families upon factory-made products of all kinds. Orchards are less common, blacksmith shops are a curiosity and quilts and coverlets are heirlooms. Tractors have replaced horses and mules; weaving is a hobby instead of a necessity. Flax is relatively unknown and featherbeds have been superseded by waterbeds; goose-down pillows have become a luxury item because of their scarcity. Because families are no longer isolated, they have the opportunity to enjoy the wealth of pleasure and recreational sites available to them over a network of improved county and state roads and excellently paved national highways. Progress and industry have made twentieth century Jackson County an attractive and inviting place to live.
